G.O.P. FIGHTS TO SAVE SENATE

Dever Demands Immediate Subway

RGES COUNCIL TO START LOOP BORE AT ONCE

Special Taxes His Payment Plan.

Big downtown subways, get started on the job immediately, and pay for it with property assessments and the traction fund—that, in substance, is the demand Mayor Dever will make in a special message to the city council at its meeting next Wednesday.

For the first time since the defeat of his ordinance in April, 1925, it was learned yesterday, the mayor intends to break his silence on the transit problem and make a final effort to put through a subway plan before the end of his term next spring.

Coming, as it will, in the midst of the council's negotiations with the Busby-Blair and Harlan-Lisman groups, both of whom hinge subways upon surface line ordinances, the message is aimed to segregate the subway question and bring it to an immediate showdown.

Summary of Program.

The mayor's plan, summarized, calls for the following steps:

1. Selection at once of the type, routes, and engineering plans for subways, using the recent citizens' committee report as a basis.

2. Submission of the plan in a referendum at a general or special election, possibly the election in April, 1927.

3. Judicial confirmation of special assessment proceedings, again using the citizens' committee report as a basis for negotiations.

4. Operation of cars, either by the city through an arrangement with the surface and "L" lines, with a transfer arrangement; or direct rental of the tubes to the companies.

Wants Action Immediately.

Throughout the message, which comprises 32 pages, the mayor stresses the necessity of immediate action. Although a solution of the subway problem as a part of the general transit settlement would be ideal, he points out, it now demands separate attention.

The mayor makes it clear that he is not asking for an interruption of negotiations with the Chicago companies for a unification, terminable permit ordinance or with the New York group for a 20 year surface line franchise.

"On the contrary, they should be prosecuted with the utmost diligence," the message says. "These phases of the problem are equally important and must be solved before anything like adequate transportation can be given all portions of the city."

Praises Council's Efforts.

"I am sure, however, that I share with the council disappointment that more definite progress has not been made, but in saying this it is not my intention to criticise. I know your committee is earnestly striving to bring about a solution.

"Neither is it my purpose to fix the blame, if there be any, for failure so far to obtain a solution. I want to deal here specifically with the one phase of the problem, namely, the urgency of subway construction."

Mr. Dever states concisely that "the city should own and control all subways." There is "no reasonable possibility," he asserts, "that either the surface or 'L' lines could finance subways without increasing their fares.

Property Owners Should Pay.

Furthermore, he argues, experience in other cities has shown, that subways are highly profitable to nearby property owners, and they should bear a heavy part of the cost. Their assessments, plus the city's $45,000,000 traction fund, he states, would and should pay the construction expense.

The message calls attention, with special commendation, to the citizens' committee's report, which was drafted by Ald. A. F. Albert's subcommittee of eight loop business men headed by Gordon Strong and Russell Tyson. Its physical and financial plans, in the mayor's opinion, are practical.

This plan calls for a low, four track tube for "L" cars in State street from North avenue to Roosevelt road and a high level, two track horseshoe tube for surface line cars east of the river in Washington and Jackson boulevards, connecting at Michigan avenue.

Raise Half by Assessment.

At $5,600,000 a mile, this system would cost approximately $32,500,000, about one-half of which, under the

BROTHER SLAYS BROTHER IN GUN BATTLE IN HOME

William Sullivan was shot and killed early today on the front porch of his home at 625 West 61st street by his brother, John. At the time he was striving to kill his assailant with a shotgun. From the survivor, who was taken into custody by the Englewood police, it was learned that the pair had quarreled over a trivial matter. They separated, William going to the basement for the shotgun and John seeking his revolver upstairs.

After they had secured the weapons, both stepped to the porch. There the superior mobility of the revolver gave John the advantage and he killed his brother before the latter could draw an accurate aim on him. The killer was unable to give a clear account of what led to the shooting.

WORK YOUR WAY BACK, DAD TELLS RUNAWAY SON

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Work your own way back; nobody told you to go—Dad.

This telegram was the answer received by Walter Tesmer, 19 years old, who ran away from his home in Chicago last week, because his parents objected to his attachment for Marion Fleischman, 5830 S. Well street, to his appeal to his father Walter Tesmer, for aid.

Walter arrived here Friday with 75 cents. He was held by the police and spent 60 cents for a telegram home.

Walter read his father's telegram stoically, saying:

"That's just like dad, I expected that, but if I ever get back now I'll stay there."

As Robin Hood Charles Is a Gun Comedian

The police intimated yesterday that it was a possibility that the New York mail order house which sold Charles Mosher, 23 years old, 3230 Grenshaw street, his two new .38 caliber revolvers and his classy cartridge belt loaded with thirty-eight shiny new bullets had inspired Mosher to banditry.

Mosher landed in the cooler at the Racine avenue station after he had fought with several employés of the Morris & Co. meat plant at 1218 North Halsted street. He indicated that he preferred the company cooler with its pork chops, but the employés didn't like the idea. They relieved him of his guns and turned him over to the police.

He Starts Robin Hooding.

Mosher had started out to grab a pay roll. He wanted to be a "big shot" in this banditry business, he told Capt. Palczynski. He said he didn't need the money (the police learned that he had $900 in a nearby bank), and that he was just a sort of Robin Hood, robbing to help the poor.

First he blacked his face. Then he stopped in front of the National Waste company, 935 North Halsted street. The place looked easy. A good bandit never entered the front way, Mosher figured, so he stole through the back entrance. He hid for several hours.

George Lang, manager of the company, entered. He saw Mosher. Mosher saw him.

Waving his two mail order guns, Mosher commanded in approved nickel thriller style:

"Git 'em up thar and git 'em up quick!"

The Bandit Bubble Bursts.

Lang started reaching for the ceiling.

"Where's that thar pay roll?" thundered the desperado.

"Why—why——" stammered Lang, "it isn't here yet and I—I usually go after it—you can meet me and I'll——"

"Never mind," snapped Mosher. "I'll just give you the names and addresses of several poor families I know and I want you to send them some money."

Lang looked at him more closely. Then the manager ran toward his office, and grabbed his gun. Mosher knocked down two partitions getting out of the place. Lang fired one shot. Mosher fired two. They pierced the air as the would be bandit darted for safety into the Morris plant.

At the station, after he had succeeded in wiping his disguise away, Mosher told Capt. Palczynski that he had purchased his guns from the Federal Mail Order company at New York, but had learned his own tricks about banditry.

Northwest Side Druggists Give Up Cash to Bandits

Lazar and Walter Felsher, proprietors of a drug store at 2701 Lawrence avenue, were held up last night by two armed men, who escaped with $270 and stamps valued at $50. The bandits fired as they were leaving to intimidate the druggists. A short time earlier two men, believed to have been the same, obtained $260 in a holdup of the drug store of Charles Macken, 3901 Irving Park boulevard.

Street Car Jumps Track; Crashes Into Storeroom

Thirty passengers were shaken up and thrown into panic last night when a west bound surface car left the rails in front of 3250 Lawrence avenue and crashed into a plate glass window of the A. B. Mattes company, dealers in women's wear. Leo Goldberger, 63 years old, 4851 North Lawndale avenue, was cut on the left shoulder by a glass fragment.

MAGILL ENIGMA MAKES SENATE RACE A TOSSUP

Experts at Sea Over 3 Cornered Race.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Two days before the election the senatorship in Illinois looks like a tossup. Tuesday's outcome in the triangular battle between George E. Brennan, Democrat, whose candidacy is a "referendum on Volsteadism"; Frank L. Smith, Republican, dry downstate but webfotted in Cook county, where he is running in company of a dripping wet local ticket, and Hugh S. Magill, independent Republican, a dry who is crusading as a moral protest against the Smith campaign slush funds, is generally conceded to depend upon the vote rolled up by Magill.

The rival managers gave out their claims and estimates yesterday.

Edward J. Kelly, the Brennan manager, figures Brennan will register a plurality of 150,000 in Cook county and that downstate he may break about even with his strongest opponent.

Report Anti-Volstead Revolt.

The campaign for support from Republicans and Democrats on modification of the Volstead act as an issue that transcends party, the Democrats report, has brought results little short of astonishing not only in industrial regions but in some rural sections that were Anti-Saloon league strongholds.

Brennan is expected to roll up a great vote in Chicago and in industrial communities like Joliet, East St. Louis, Springfield, Danville, Freeport, Waukegan, Decatur, and Rock Island. In the coal mining areas in the Peoria and Danville and southern Illinois fields, the Democratic nominee, who started his career in a coal mine, is reported to be receiving remarkable support in old Republican strongholds.

The Magill managers declare their man will win, that Smith will land in third place and that for the last ten days the fight has been between Magill and Brennan instead of Brennan and Smith. In this view they are supported by some Democratic leaders who have been feeling the pulse downstate. Reports at Magill headquarters state that a tremendous response is being registered on the ethical issue raised by the acceptance of some $200,000 of public utility contributions from Samuell Insull and others for the campaign of Smith while he was serving as head of the state commerce commission which regulates the utilities.

Report G. O. P. Desertions.

President Coolidge's attitude upon this disclosure of the Reed committee has set the prairies afire in the last two days, the Magill managers say, according to the stacks of messages that poured in yesterday. All through the corn belt and in Egypt, where the state machine is strong, they said a wholesale desertion of Smith has set in, while in Chicago the impression that Smith in his speeches is engaging in controversy with the president is carving down the Smith strength.

The argument that, if elected, Smith would be ejected by the senate has given new propulsion to the anti-Smith wave, it is said.

The revolt among the drys, in which leading churchmen of various denominations have taken the lead against the leaders of the Anti-Saloon league for their indorsement of Smith, is expected to take on greater proportions today when pastors enter their pulpits.

Smith Manager Confident.

The Smith managers, through Gus J. Johnson, state chairman, issued a forecast that Smith would have more than 300,000 pluraliay down state and might carry Cook county by from 25,000 to 50,000.

All these rival conflicting reports are declared to be based on bona fide reports from men who have intimate knowledge of conditions in their home aseas. Detached observers who are able to discern the trend of approaching elections this time are all at sea—there are so many intangible factors which are unusually difficult to gauge, such as how large will be the response of the church vote to the Magill "civic conscience" crusade actually registered in the ballot boxes, and how many downstate voters Magill may take from Brennan as well as from Smith. Nobody is going to be surprised at whatever happens.

Political Factors Enumerated.

Politicians who have been trying to fathom the outcome point out:

1. Brennan has the greatest stage setting a Democratic candidate for senator has ever had in an Illinois election, with a wet issue that makes

Eight States Vote on Dry Law Tuesday

New York, Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Eight states—California, Colorado, Illinois, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, New York, and Wisconsin—will vote on prohibition in referenda at Tuesday's election. Upon the results of these expressions of opinion, for they can amount to little more with the Volstead act still on the federal statute books, will depend in large part the progress of the movement for modification of the Volstead act during the next two years, the term of the new house of representatives to be elected.

The form of question to be voted on differs in the several states, but in effect each is a vehicle for an expression of satisfaction or dissatisfaction with the existing prohibition laws.

Question to Be Submitted.

The question to be submitted in each of the eight states has been summarized as follows:

CALIFORNIA—To abolish the state prohibition law.

COLORADO—To authorize the legislature to amend the state prohibition law so as to permit the manufacture, importation, and sale of intoxicating liquor, provided such proposed changes shall not conflict with federal law.

ILLINOIS—To memorialize congress to modify the Volstead law by permitting the states to make their own definition as to what constitutes intoxicating liquor.

MISSOURI—To repeal all prohibition enforcement laws of the state.

MONTANA—To repeal the state prohibition law.

Would Call Convention.

NEVADA—To memorialize congress to call a convention for the submission of a proposal to alter the 18th amendment; to declare constitutional prohibition a failure.

NEW YORK—To memorialize congress to modify the Volstead act by permitting states to make their own definitions of intoxicating liquor.

WISCONSIN — Whether congress should amend the Volstead law so as to authorize the manufacture and sale of beer for beverage purposes of 2.75 alcoholic content by weight under government supervision, with the provision that beer shall not be drunk on the premises where obtained.

BROKER SWINGS AT A GOLF BALL AND DROPS DEAD

Robert W. Gibson, 65 years old, 11029 South Hoyne avenue, president of the R. W. Gibson insurance brokerage firm at 140 North Dearborn street, dropped dead yesterday after he drove a ball from the 16th hole of the Oak Hill golf course. Heart disease is believed to have caused his death. W. A. Carline, 7421 South Park, Gibson's son-in-law, saw him stagger and fall just after his drive. He was dead when a physician arrived from the club house.

J. Patlen, 45 years old, 1932 Humboldt boulevard, a theatrical booking agent, dropped dead supposedly from heart disease last night as he was eating in a restaurant at 56 West Madison street.

DEMOCRATS TO GAIN; 13 SENATE SEATS IN DOUBT

House Seen Safe for Republicans.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Republican victory, though possibly by an exceedingly narrow margin, is the prospective result of the congressional elections next Tuesday.

While losing a few congressional districts the Republicans appear certain to retain control of the house by a majority of 25 or 30.

With the Democrats assured of gaining not less than four senate seats now held by Republicans there is danger of the G. O. P. losing the senate. There are nine other seats which the Democrats have more or less chance of winning. They need to gain nine seats in all in order to wrest control of the senate from the Republicans. They may succeed in gaining that many but it seems unlikely, in the light of the latest advices.

Fierce Fight in 12 States.

As the canvass draws to a close the battle over control of the senate rages most fiercely in a dozen states where thirteen Republican seats are at stake. These states and the candidates for the senate in each follow:

ILLINOIS—Frank L. Smith, Republican; George E. Brennan, Democrat; Hugh Magill, Independent; Parley P. Cristensen, Progressive.

INDIANA—For full term: Senator James E. Watson, Republican; Albert Stump, Democrat.

For short term: Senator Arthur R. Robinson, Republican; Evans Woollen, Democrat.

OHIO—Senator Frank B. Willis, Republican; Atlee Pomerene, Democrat.

MISSOURI—Senator George H. Williams, Republican; Harry B. Hawes, Democrat.

NEW YORK—Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., Republican; Robert F. Wagner, Democrat; Franklin W. Cristman, Independent Republican.

MARYLAND—Senator Ovington E. Weller, Republican; Millard E. Tydings, Democrat.

Ernst Faces Opposition.

KENTUCKY—Senator Richard P. Ernst, Republican; Alben W. Barkley, Democrat.

OKLAHOMA — Senator John W. Harreld, Republican; Elmer Thomas, Democrat; six minor candidates.

COLORADO—Charles W. Waterman, Republican; William E. Sweet, Democrat.

NEVADA—Senator Tasker L. Oddie, Repubican; Raymond T. Baker, Democrat.

OREGON—Frederick Steiwer, Republican; Bert E. Haney, Democrat; Senator Robert N. Stanfield, Independent.

ARIZONA—Senator Ralph H. Cameron, Republican; Carl Hayden, Democrat.

Four to Go Democratic.

The four seats which the Democrats seem almost certain to win from the Republicans are those in Maryland, Missouri, Oklahoma and Arizona. They have a fair chance of winning in Kentucky, Colorado and Nevada. They have a fighting chance in Illinois, Indiana, New York, Ohio and Oregon, but in each of these states the Republicans are judged to have "the edge" of advantage over their opponents.

The campaign is winding up with a multitude of issues and rallying cries varying from state to state. Prosperity, the tariff, prohibition, the Ku Klux Klan, farm relief, government economy, immigration, war debts, the world court, campaign expenditures and slush funds and any number of local issues are agitating the electorate.

In some states Republican senators are bidding for reëlection on the ground that they have supported the President, in others because they have opposed Coolidge policies. Aside from booming prosperity which has redounded generally to the benefit of Republican candidates the President has kept out of the campaign.

Coolidge Sponsored Butler.

The only senator whose election he has advocated is William M. Butler of Massachusetts, chairman of the Republican national committee. This exception the President made incidental to an announcement that he and Mrs. Coolidge will make the journey to their home at Northampton, Mass., to vote.

In the election of the new senate the Democrats have had everything to gain and nothing to lose. Of the 35 senate seats to be filled 28 are now held by Republicans and 7 by Democrats. But the seven Democratic seats are all in the solid south where Democratic victory is assured. The Republicans also suffered from the further disadvantage that of their 28 seats no less than five are in normally Democratic states which were swept into the Republican column six years ago by the Harding landslide. It now looks as if the Democrats would be able to regain nearly all of these.

In Maryland Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, who is looming up as a Democratic presidential possibility, is virtually assured of reëlection to a third term and his popularity is expected to carry the Democratic candidate for senator, Mr. Tydings, to victory over Senator Weller. Prohibition figures prominently as an issue, Weller being wet but Tydings wetter.

Senator Williams, Republican, has been waging an uphill fight in Missouri, where all reports agree that the contest is a close one. Representative Harry Hawes, Williams' Democratic opponent, is as wet as the Atlantic and is going to receive a good deal of wet Republican support. The prospect is that the vote of St. Louis will determine the result and although that city is normally Republican Hawes is judged to have the advantage there because of his wet platform.

Senator Harreld seems doomed in Oklahoma, another normally Democratic state. The Republicans are troubled with factional rows and patronage squabbles, while the Democrats are united in support of Thomas.

Arizona is another normally Democratic state which the Democrats are virtually certain of reclaiming. There are few Republican leaders who still retain any hope of saving Senator Cameron.

Nation Watches Illinois.

Illinois will be one of the doubtful states which the whole country will be watching on election night. In this state, which is normally Republican by an overwhelming majority, the election of Smith, the Republican candidate, would be considered a foregone conclusion were it not for the enormous wet Republican vote that will be cast for George Brennan, the Democratic candidate, and for the slush fund scandal that has besmirched the Republican nominee.

There is no doubt that there is a rapidly spreading revulsion among Republicans of high moral standards to the improper conduct of Smith in taking $200,000 from the big public utility corporations subject to regulation by the Illinois commerce commission, of which he was chairman at the time. This reaction is redounding to the benefit of Magill, the independent Republican candidate.

The outcome in Illinois is pretty clearly up to the church members whom the Anti-Saloon league is endeavoring to deliver to Smith despite the moral issue raised by the slush fund scandal of his primary campaign.

Are Churches Shocked?

It all comes down to whether the church people of the state were shocked by Smith's conduct, as was President Coolidge. If they were shocked and register that reaction at the polls Smith will be beaten. If, however, the church members do not see anything wrong in his conduct in public office Smith will win by virtue of the normal Republican margin in this state. Inasmuch as the Methodists, Baptists, and members of other denominations who constitute the Anti-Saloon league are evincing a disregard of the moral issue in the case of Smith the managers of his campaign are entertaining no fears of his defeat.

Even if Smith should be elected, he would go to the senate with the certainty of being excluded or expelled on account of the slush fund scandal. Vare of Pennsylvania, who is assured of election, is in much the same fix, because of the expenditure of nearly $800,000 in the Republican primary. He is likely to be excluded or expelled.

Indiana has gone into the doubtful column as a result of the Ku Klux Klan scandal. It has been shown that the klan and the Republican party worked hand in glove for several years in that state and that until his downfall, D. C. Stephenson, now serving a life sentence in the penitentiary for murder of a girl, was a power in Republican councils.

Denials by Senators.

Senators Watson and Robinson have emphatically denied the truth of various charges of close connection with the klan, but it is evident that their candidacies have suffered seriously. The Democrats are united, have strong candidates against both Watson and Robinson, and are capitalizing the klan scandal. Watson has a powerful machine which is being relied upon to pull him and his colleague through despite the adverse effects of the klan disclosures, but the result is likely to be close and it would not be surprising if one or both of the Democratic candidate should edge in.

New York is the scene of another spectacular three cornered fight for the senatorship. Senator Wadsworth is battling desperately to retain his seat despite a bolt of dry Republicans who are supporting Franklin W. Cristman, put up by the Anti-Saloon league as an independent candidate. Tammany is making a strenuous effort to put over the Democratic candidate, former Judge Wagner, who is as wet as Wadsworth. It now looks as if Gov. Smith, seeking reëlection to a fourth term at Albany, would defeat his Republican opponent, Congressman Mills, and Smith is not unlikely to sweep Wagner to victory with him as he pulled Copeland through in 1922.

In the last week the Republicans have been concentrating on the argument of returning Wadsworth to Washington to uphold the president and safeguard the protective tariff as the foundation of prosperity.

Reaction Aids G. O. P.

The pronouncement of the international bankers in favoring the removal of tariff walls in Europe, if not in America, has reacted to the benefit of the Republicans. It was an indorsement of the tariff views of the Democrats and the mere possibility that it was meant to apply to the United States produced considerable alarm in business and industrial quarters. To such an extent was this true that Democratic candidates in industrial states have been forced upon the defensive in connection with the matter and compelled to disclaim any tariff lowering convictions.

The whole question of the outcome in New York, however, simmers down to the extent of the upstate dry bolt. If it reaches the proportions anticipated by the Anti-Saloon League Wadsworth will come down to the Bronx with too slender a plurality to overcome Wagner's lead in the greater city. If the dry bolt fizzles Wadsworth will pull through.

Coolidge Aids Butler.

Massachusetts was considered a doubtful state for some time, but within the last week the reëlection of Senator Butler, Republican, has become practically certain. The turn to the tariff question given by the manifesto of the international bankers has advantaged Butler in that industrial state. Then the letter written in behalf of Butler by the president and the announcement that Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge will vote in person in Massachusetts have profited the senator prodigiously.

While Ohio is classed as doubtful it is generally conceded that Senator Willis, Republican, is the probable winner. Ohio is unmistakably dry politically and Willis is relying for reëlection on the dry vote to a considerable extent. His Democratic opponent, Atlee Pomerene, has been gaining steadily, however, according to the reports of TRIBUNE correspondents.

Kentucky is a neck and neck race between Senator Ernst and his Democratic opponent, Representative Barkley. It is a normally Democratic state which has been showing Republican leanings of late years. It now has two Republican senators for the first time in its history. Senator Ernst is judged to have a trifle the better of the argument up to date.

Colorado is another close state where the Republican candidate is believed to have the edge on his Democratic opponent, as is the case in Nevada also. Oregon with its three cornered contest likewise is called doubtful but the latest reports indicate that Steiwer, the regular Republican candidate, should win.

Senator Shortridge [Rep.] will have a walkaway in California and Senator Jones [Rep.] will win in Washington, it now appears, despite the headway made by his opponent, A. S. Bullitt [Dem.].

Gooding-Blaine Safe.

Senator Gooding [Rep.] has had a hard fight in Idaho, but is now believed to be safe. Iowa is going to elect Smith W. Brookhart and Wisconsin John J. Blaine.

In the contest over the house of representatives there are about fifty districts out of the 435 which are doubtful. The Democrats will gain some of these now held by Republicans and the Republicans will gain a few now held by Democrats. It looks as if the Democrats will gain a few more than the Republicans gain, so that the net result will be a slight reduction of the present Republican majority in the house.

Already Cheering—Both Sides

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Prospects are favorable for the Democrats at next Tuesday's election, according to Clem Shaver, Democratic national committeeman.

"There will be marked Democratic gains throughout the country next Tuesday of far-reaching effect," Mr. Shaver said. "A thorough overturn is within the probabilities. The harmony team work and morale of the Democrats have been good to see and are bound to bring results and point the way for the next national campaign.

"The vitality and permanence of Democratic principles are manifest. The fighting spirit of our workers springs from the very foundation of Democracy—that government shall express the popular will and shall not violate the moral sense of the nation.

"It is good for America that the popular will be spoken in a heavy vote next Tuesday; it is vital to America that that vote be clean, and expressive of the highest national ideals."

A Democratic landslide was predicted by Senator Gerry, chairman of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee.

"Reports from every contested state," he said, "have convinced me that the results of Tuesday's poll will give our party a very substantial majority in the senate."

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Any claims of Democratic victory in next Tuesday's general senate election are "preposterous," Senator Phipps, chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, said here tonight in his preëlection forecast.

It is impossible, he said, for Democrats to gain enough seats to win control of the senate.

"In Massachusetts," he said, "Senator Butler will be elected and Senator Wadsworth now is certain of victory in New York. Senators Willis in Ohio, Watson and Robinson in Indiana, Gooding in Idaho, Oddie in Nevada, are in no danger. The same may be said for Mr. Steiwer in Oregon, Mr. Waterman in Colorado, Mr. Vare in Pennsylvania, Mr. Smith in Illinois, and Senators Moses in New Hampshire; Bingham in Connecticut, Norbeck, South Dakota; Smoot in Utah, Jones in Washington, and Shortridge in California.

"The Democrats concentrated their strength in Kentucky and Missouri, but they found the electorate firmly entrenched behind the record of the Republican party."

Senator Ernst is not likely to be defeated in Kentucky, Senator Phipps said, and Maryland, Oklahoma and Arizona show every indication of remaining in the Republican column.

SENATE BATTLE A TOSSUP; MAGILL VOTE WILL DECIDE

Three Cornered Race Is Enigma to Experts.

an appeal among Republicans as well as Democrats, and with the Republican party torn asunder by the "insulation" of the Smith campaign with utility contributions, which brought out Magill as a moral protest

2. The theory of the Republicans seems largely based on the natural overwhelming complexion of Illinois and on the activities of the state machine in getting out its vote. As one political light puts it: "They figure the vote is so predominantly Republican that the nominee can slip a million miles and still hang on by his feet."

3. The Magill campaign from its start has had a momentum which would have been incredible in other campaigns. Without any organization, it has burst out all over the state, if the headquarters reports are any guide. People have been holding their own meetings and have been putting advertisements in newspapers at their own expense. The revolt within the anti-saloon league against the action of the league leaders in indorsing Smith is something that has never happened before in Illinois.

Twelve Candidates in Race.

All told there are twelve candidates for senator. Chief among the minor ones is Parley Parker Christensen, put up by the remnants of the old La Follette third party movement. The also rans, in every election manage to roll up some votes. Almost anybody can pick up 15,000 votes and more simply by getting on the ballot, so elections have demonstrated. Christensen, by most politicians, is expected to run up some 40,000 votes or more.

As to the size of the total vote cast, the general impression around all headquarters is that it is likely to be lighter than might be expected from the importance of the issues involved, Volsteadism and public utility campaign contributions to an arbiter of utility rates.

The Brennan campaign on modification and the small ballot referendum, however, may bring out a larger vote than looked for. Politics in the last few years has seen many an election in which the voters were quiet and apathetic right up to election day, when they turned out with a large vote, and Tuesday's poll may exceed the general estimates of the politicians.

Final Appeals Made.

The candidates last night made their Sunday appeals and handed each other the closing wallops of the campaign. Brennan, who has been confined to St. Joseph's hospital with his injured knee, was recovered yesterday enough to leave for his home. He beamed over the situation and radiated confidence.

A retort to Frank L. Smith's speech declaring Insull had as much right to contribute to his campaign fund as the railroads and steel companies have to contribute to a campaign fund for president, came from the Magill head quarters.

"Frank L. Smith is now beating against the impregnable wall of the national administration," it said. "In his desperation he is daring to charge that in accepting $200,000 from the public utility magnates who were litigants in his court, he was no worse than the President of the United States.

"The President needs no defense from such shocking and unwarranted accusations. They are merely the desperate cries of a drowning man.

Defense Called Absurd.

"Mr. Smith repeats the absurd defense that Mr. Insull contributed $150,000 to his campaign fund because Mr. Insull didn't like Senator McKinley and was against the world court.

"How does Mr. Smith explain the gift of $25,000 from Ira C. Copley of Aurora, another utility magnate? There is nothing to show that Copley did not like Senator McKinley and so far as the world court is concerned, Copley through the two newspapers owned by him, supported the world court.

"Neither has Mr. Smith explained away the generosity of Mr. Studebaker who contributed $20,000 to his campaign fund. There isn't anything to show that Mr. Studebaker ever had anything but the friendliest feelings for Senator McKinley."

Smith Renews Defense.

Smith, in his night speech, said he is being attacked by "hypocrites" and "mavericks" and "holier-than-thous."

"There is a small band of this brand of citizens who are now wailing," he said. "They say they have been wounded in their tender ethics because money was spent in the Illinois Republican primary of last April.

"Money was spent in that primary. The managers of my campaign frankly testified that they spent $253,000. It was admitted by the managers of my opponent that $350,000 was spent in his behalf.

"We gave an itemized account of our expenditures. No one has questioned its veracity, nor the propriety of each and every item. Neither has any one ever charged—at any time, or anywhere—that a dollar was spent for the purpose of corrupting a single voter or for any immoral or corrupt purpose, for all the loose language that has been used about campaign expenditures.

"In the first speech I made I frankly admitted the sum total spent in my behalf by the Frank L. Smith campaign committee and the source of the money spent. Also I said that I stood on my record as chairman of the Illinois commerce commission and stood by the record of that commission."

Magill at Galesburg.

Magill went to Galesburg to close his campaign, speaking in the court house.

"Voters," he said, "are determined to break the strangling grip of a political tyranny. They will no longer remain slaves to a political domination that disregards the sacred obligations of public office.

"The chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, false to the sacred obligations of a public trust, accepted in flagrant violation of law nearly $200,000 in campaign contributions from public utilities under his supervision and control.

"If the attorney general had done his duty and enforced the statutes of Illinois, Frank L. Smith would have been removed from office and punished for misdemeanor.

"It is conceded even by his supporters that his confessed public acts have been so shameless that he will be expelled from the United States senate, if elected."

WHITE HOUSE SILENT ON FRANK L. SMITH'S CAMPAIGN GIFTS DEFI

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—No comment was forthcoming at the White House today in connection with the outburst of Frank L. Smith, Republican senatorial nominee in Illinois, relative to contributions by "protected interests" to Republican campaign funds.

While Mr. Smith's comparison of his own acceptance of contributions from public utility magnates with donations in presidential campaigns by persons favored by high tariffs was regarded as a slap at President Coolidge, who has refused to indorse the Republican senatorial nominee in Illinois, it was stated definitely at the White House that no reply would be made by the President.

Indications were that the President would allow his letter indorsing Senator Butler [Rep., Mass.] and his brief statement of yesterday expressing his intention to take no hand in the Illinois senatorial contest to be his only contributions to the campaign. Information reaching the President during the day was to the effect that Senator Butler's prospects have steadily improved.

2 MEN BURNED IN MYSTERIOUS FIRE; ONE NEAR DEATH

Paul Dallow, 32, of 206 Kensington avenue, and Anthony Dasile, 22, of 1436 South Park avenue, were burned, the former perhaps fatally in a fire of mysterious origin in a two story frame building at 151st and Leavitt streets, Harvey, last night.

The two men were found lying on the highway outside the building. It appeared they might have been injured in an explosion, staggered there and collapsed. Firemen who fought the flames said there was a strong smell of alcohol about the premises and believed a still might have exploded. The injured men were taken to the Ingalls Memorial hospital.

Hot New York Campaign Ends in Blare of Gotham Oratory

New York, Oct. 30.—[Special.]—New York's turbulent campaign, in which bootleg milk vied with bootleg booze as the chief issue between Gov. Al Smith and his Republican opponent, Ogden L. Mills, and Coolidge economy and Tammany spending had their place in the competitive orations of Senator James W. Wadsworth and Judge Robert F. Wagner, seeking the senatorial toga, ended tonight in blaze of spell-binding at great massmeetings.

Political observers predict Gov. Smith's reëlection by 160,000 votes and believe Mr. Wadsworth will be returned to the United States senate by a much narrower margin.

Control of the state legislature is expected to continue in the hands of the Republicans.

An overwhelming majority against the Volstead act as voiced in the state liquor referendum is considered certain.

The city's two largest auditoriums were engaged for the final rallies tonight. The Republican candidates addressed their followers from a rostrum in the new Madison Square garden while Gov. Smith and Judge Wagner spoke their final pieces from the stage of the Metropolitan opera house.

Each side was busy today pushing out figures to show that it could not possibly lose. George K. Morris, chairman of the Republican state committee, predicted that Mills would be elected by a plurality of 110,000 and Senator Wadsworth by an even larger vote. Against these claims George W. Olvany, Tammany leader, said that the governor would roll up 450,000 plurality.

Most of the betting today was on the question of pluralities. G. B. De Chadenedes & Co. announced that they had $50 000 to bet at 4 to 1 that Smith would be reëlected, but that no bet had been placed. They placed one bet of $1,000 against $5,000 that Smith would carry greater New York by 550,000; $2,000 against $5,000 that he would carry the city by 500,000, and $4,000 even that he would carry the city by at least 450,000. W. L. Darnell & Co. said they had placed a bet of $7,000 to $2,000, or at the odds of 3½ to 1 that Smith would be reëlected, and one of $4,000 to $2,000 that Wadsworth would be reëlected.

RIMLESS GLASSES

THOSE men and women who place high value upon personal appearance no longer appear with heavy, conspicuous shell rimmed glasses upon the street, or on any social occasion. They are wearing rimless glasses, in the Puritan, Colonial, Leaf and Oval shapes—in fact, these have been the preference with many discriminating Almer Coe patrons for some years. The Puritan Rimless is most highly favored, while shell rimmed glasses are reserved for work and reading.

The rimless glasses here shown have mountings of solid gold... For gold-filled mountings the prices are lower.

The Colonial is a shape of eyeglass, less adaptable to features than the Puritan, but nevertheless suitable to some. It is but one of more than twenty Almer Coe styles. With solid gold mountings: $10.50 to $27.50

EACH CANDIDATE CLAIMS VICTORY IN SENATE RACE

Margin of 100,000 Is Brennan Estimate.

On the close of the active senatorial campaign yesterday last minute claims of victory were issued from all camps. George Brennan, Hugh S. Magill, and Frank L. Smith each was forecast as victor.

"George E. Brennan will be elected by a plurality that will run well above 100,000," Edward J. Kelly, his campaign manager, said. "The tide in favor of Mr. Brennan, already strong, has run so heavily in the last few days of the campaign that it is impossible to say exactly what will be his plurality, but it will be well over the 100,000 mark.

"In Cook county he is sure to get at least 150,000 more than his strongest opponent. Down the state his strength is growing daily, and whether he will have to overcome an adverse downstate plurality in Cook county or not depends entirely upon how the votes not given him are divided among his eleven opponents.

"There are strong indications that Mr. Brennan may run even with the strongest of his opponents in the downstate territory. He will carry six and perhaps seven of the fifteen downstate congressional districts and more than fifty of the 102 counties in the state."

Forecast Magill Landslide.

"Magill will win next Tuesday," said Harold L. Ickes, his campaign manager. "It is not often that the people rise up in their might and smite the political machines but that is what they are getting ready to do. A groundswell is running in favor of Magill that will be a landslide on Tuesday. Magill will lead, with Brennan second, and Smith a poor third. The people are tired of political corruption financed by men who represent interests adverse to the public. They realize that in the end they themselves always pay, and pay with interest, for slush funds contributed by public utility magnates."

Mr. Magill issued the following personal statement:

"Smith, deserted by all the national leaders of his party, and condemned for his confessed betrayal of a public trust, is falling behind in the race. Brennan is finding that his single wet plank is too narrow for this political crisis. The supreme issue is the restoration of honest government and a higher standard of public service.

"The race down the home stretch is between Brennan and myself. I will win by a substantial plurality on next Tuesday."

The Republican Estimate.

"Revised estimates from chairmen of county committees, members of such committees, Republican leaders, county candidates, and local editors indicate that the Republican state ticket will come to Cook county with a majority of about 295,000 votes," said Gus J. Johnson, Republican state chairman.

"The estimated plurality of Frank L. Smith, Republican candidate for United States senator, runs slightly higher. The sum of the county pluralities given him by the most conservative leaders in each county is 311,250.

"These estimates were all very carefully made. We discounted the reports of enthusiasts and took the lower figures from each county.

"The reports show that while Mr. Brennan will get some nondescript votes which might be Republican in a presidential year, Mr. Smith will get a very large Democratic vote in every county, from old line members of the party who have been anti-Brennan from time immemorial.

HEAVY GUARD IS MUSTERED TO NIP ELECTION FRAUDS

Chicago will take on the appearance of a military camp next Tuesday when the polls are opened for the general election, according to plans made by the board of election commissioners, Chief of Police Collins and County Judge Jarecki yesterday. The following preparations were made in an effort to prevent gangster interference or any other forms of intimidation to influence the vote:

1. Forty-two squads of detectives in automobiles loaded with shotguns, rifles and tear bombs will tour the city, concentrating in the wards where violence has occurred on other election days. All known gangsters will be arrested immediately. All police will put in a twelve hour day.

2. Assistant United States District Attorneys Hope Thompson and La Verne Norris will be assigned to the election commissioners' office to handle reports of violence or fraud from scores of fraud investigators. Federal law will be invoked to punish offenders, who are liable to $5,000 fines or ten year prison sentences.

3. Three hundred members of the Chicago Bar association will assist in policing the polls in addition to the [illegible] policemen assigned to voting places, one to each place.

Delivery of ballots and other supplies to the judges and clerks of election will be started tomorrow morning by John S. Rusch, chief clerk of the election board. Fifty trucks under guard will carry the ballots and supplies.

WOMEN'S BAR GROUP NEUTRAL ON WET VS. DRY

Grace H. Harte, member of the Illinois Woman's Bar association, yesterday denied a published report that the association at a meeting had urged its members to vote "no" on the wet referendum in Tuesday's election. She pointed out that instead the association, almost evenly divided on the question, had urged its dry members to vote dry and its wet members to vote wet.

"A motion to have the members vote dry was made at the last meeting by a dry member," Attorney Harte said. "I offered an amendment that the association urge wet members to vote 'yes' as well as the dry members vote 'no.'

"The motion was carried unanimously. I offered the amendment because the woman lawyers are pretty evenly divided as drys and wets."

THE TRIBUNE'S RECOMMENDATIONS FOR TUESDAY'S ELECTION

An abbreviated facsimile of the general Cook county ballot for Tuesday, giving only the Democratic and Republican tickets and the Independent Republican for U. S. senator. The ticket eliminates congressional and legislative nominees, which vary in the various districts.

Municipal court ticket is on a separate ballot, as are Propositions and Bond Issues.

The ballot here reproduced is not marked on U. S. senatorship. The Tribune's recommendation is to mark the ballot for either Brennan OR Magill.

BETTER POLICED COUNTRY ROADS, CARR'S PROMISE

"Keep the highways safe for the people."

This is the demand of County Treasurer P. J. Carr, Democratic candidate for sheriff of Cook county.

PATRICK J. CARR.

"The safety of motorists and others who journey over our vast system of highways will be the first consideration with me, if I am elected sheriff," Mr. Carr says.

"I propose to organize well disciplined patrols, which will gridiron the county day and night, and I will stop at nothing to drive marauders from the roads

"I shall amplify the signal system, also, in order to expedite the espionage of the patrols.

"Security will be our watchword."

HOTTEST COUNTY BATTLE IN YEARS ROARS TO FINISH

Leaders of Both Parties Say They're Confident.

Cook county's political campaign goes into its final stages with the rival Republican and Democratic organizations tuned up as never before in many a year. Both sides are claiming overwhelming victory at Tuesday's polls. The Democrats say their county ticket will win by 150,000 because of the vote they expect to be rolled up for George E. Brennan for senator, while the Republicans say they will have a plurality of around 100,000 in the county.

The outlook, according to the political observers, is for the election of a mixed ticket. Each party has some outstanding nominees of great prowess as vote getters and their popularity is deemed by the politicians sufficient to put them across by comfortable margins even against a general landslide.

Barrett a Big Vote Getter.

In each camp there is conjecture on who will lead the tickets. On the Republican side, Charles V. Barrett for the board of review is generally expected to be top man. The leaders regard him as a certain winner over Harry Kohl, his Democratic opponent. Adam Wolf and Gene G. Oliver, candidates for board of assessors, and John H. Passmore, for clerk of the Criminal court, also are rated as heavy vote getters.

On the Democratic side, Pat J. Carr for sheriff, and Anton J. Cermak, president of the county board, are rated among the leaders. But perhaps the greatest vote getter of all is Probate Judge Henry Horner, and observers venture to guess that he may set the pace in the vote getting.

Two Hard Fought Battles.

The two hardest fights are between Capt. Joseph P. Savage and Judge Edmund K. Jarecki for County judge, and between Martin J. O'Brien and George F. Harding for county treasurer. Mr. Savage received yesterday another avalanche of indorsements from labor organizations and from business men. County Chairman Homer K. Galpin declared Savage a certain winner. This candidate, who has set a hot pace in campaign speaking, will keep up his platform endeavors right to the final gun on the slogan, "Honest Elections and Protection of the Ballot Box."

The Democrats, realizing Mr. O'Brien is in a hot battle, have been rallying to his support and yesterday the managers declared he is out of danger.

"I will be elected by a good majority," said Mr. O'Brien. "When I become treasurer they will have no cause to complain of the manner in which I shall conduct that office."

Rival Camps Make Claims.

Rival managers of the two county campaigns issued their election claims yesterday.

"Both parties are pledged to a modification of the Volstead act," said Homer K. Galpin, Republican county chairman. "Therefore, that question is not at issue in this campaign."

"The people, with full confidence and reliance in the old tenets of the Republican party, have decided to leave well enough alone and not swap parties in the middle of the present stream of prosperity. The maintenance of the protective tariff, the bulwark of American prosperity, is the uppermost wish of the voters of Chicago, and will be expressed by votes for the Republican ticket on election day.

"I predict the election of the entire Republican county ticket by majorities in some cases exceeding 100,000.

"The Democratic ticket in its entirety will be successful at the polls," said Clayton F. Smith, chairman of the Democratic managing committee, "I believe, at this moment, that we will carry Cook county by a majority of more than 150,000.

"The people of Cook county, dismayed by the ascendancy of gang rule, under auspices which ought to owe allegiance to the cause of the people, are going to vote the Democratic party into power in the county, as the best way to restore law enforcement.

"Mr. Brennan, Democratic candidate for senator, will sweep the county by a majority so large that it would seem inadvisable at this time to undertake to estimate it.

"The Democratic candidates, without exception, have served the people of Cook county and Chicago in public capacities with credit to themselves and profit to the people. They will all be elected."

5 LISTED AS MAYOR'S PROBABLE CHOICE FOR THE SCHOOL BOARD

Mayor Dever indicated yesterday that the vacancies on the school board would probably be filled by the following whose names have been submitted and approved:

DR. OTTO L. SCHMIDT, surgeon and president of the Chicago Historical society.

MRS. BESSIE C. TIEKEN, prominent club woman and a graduate nurse.

JOHN J. SONSTEBY, lawyer and twice before a member of the board.

COL. WM. H. WADE, president of the Wade-Twitchell piano company.

DR. JOSEPH C. ROSS, surgeon.

The presidency, made vacant by the death of Col. Edward E. Ellicott, will be the first to be filled, the mayor intimated. It has been understood that Dr. Schmidt would receive this appointment.

Two of the suggested names, Mrs. Tieken and Col. Wade are Republicans, indicating that the mayor will continue to follow a non-partisan policy in the appointments.

Mrs. Tieken is the wife of Dr. Theodore Tieken. She is a graduate of the Illinois Training school for nurses and is now a member of the school's board of managers. She has the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from the University of Chicago and is a member of the Chicago Woman's club, the Chicago Women's City club and the Chicago College club.

Mr. Sonsteby served as board member from 1906-09 and again from 1912-15. Colonel Wade enlisted in the National Guard in 1895 and served until 1919. The appointment of Dr. Ross is sought by residents of Albany Park. His name was suggested by Ald. Chris Jensen.

Besides the vacancy caused by the death of President Ellicott, Dr. Victor R. Schiller died in office, and the terms of Julius F. Smietanka, Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, and J. Lewis Coath have expired.

GENTZEL URGES HONEST JUDGES FOR CITY COURT

"The Municipal court is closer to the people of Chicago than any other court in the county or state," Judge Robert E. Gentzel, Republican nominee for reëlection, declared yesterday.

"The Municipal court disposes of 400,000 cases annually, of which 100,000 are civil," he said. "Less than 1,000 are appealed to a higher tribunal because the litigants are unable to pay the necessary cost of appeal and so far as they are concerned the Municipal court is a court of last resort. Nevertheless, to this class of litigant, who may have but one case in a lifetime, his case is as important as one involving thousands of dollars is to a more wealthy litigant. Thus the statement frequently made that the Municipal court is the poor man's court is well founded.

"In view of this situation and the vast number of cases daily tried in this court, it is necessary that they be decided by judges whose honesty is above reproach and who possess the necessary ability and experience."

Here's Illinois Election Dope on Which to Base Guesses

So far as the "making" of votes for this candidate or that is concerned, the campaign is ended. Now the most interesting question is: How many votes will be cast in Illinois next Tuesday?

Men experienced in politics say that on the answer to that question will depend the results. It is generally conceded that a large vote will enhance the chances of the Republicans, because the state largely is of that political leaning. It follows, necessarily, that with a relatively small vote, the chances of the Democrats are increased.

Test of Public Interest.

The total vote polled in the last seven statewide elections is as follows for each year: 2,470,067 in 1924, 1,718,396 in 1922, 2,094,714 in 1920, 950,496 in 1918, 2,192,734 in 1916, 1,015,744 in 1914, and 1,146,173 in 1912. Those bare figures supply little of value for the dopester. All that can be said about them is that they probably indicate the degree of public interest, considering suffrage laws and increases in population.

Certain local politicians have been predicting that as many votes will be cast Tuesday in Cook county as in the remainder of the state. But that will not happen. The federal government's estimate of the population of Cook county on July 1 last was 3,486,000 and for the remainder of the state 3,717,000. These figures do not even indicate the relative voting strength of the two sections of the state. If for no other reason Chicago probably has a larger unnaturalized population than the remainder of the state. Besides it has never happened. Cook county has never cast as many votes as the remainder of the state in any election.

Most Votes Downstate.

In 1924 downstate cast 21.8 per cent more votes than Cook county; in 1922 the percentage was 10.8; in 1920, 34.5 per cent; in 1918, 46.8 per cent; in 1916, 57.7 per cent; in 1914, 69 per cent, and in 1912, 67 per cent.

Those who desire to make their own estimates probably will find a starting point in the actual number of votes cast in Cook county as compared with the remainder of the state. Those figures for each of the last seven statewide elections follow:

Year.	Downstate.	Cook county.
1924	1,356,415	1,113,652
1922	950,067	768,329
1920	1,201,577	893,137
1918	565,541	384,955
1916	1,341,772	850,962
1914	640,076	375,732
1912	716,861	429,312

Can't Reach 1924 Figure.

Practically speaking, it is impossible for Cook county to poll 1,113,652 votes next Tuesday, as it did in the Presidential election of 1924. If every voter registered in Chicago were to cast a ballot and every one who ever voted in the country towns cast a ballot on Tuesday there still would not be 1,113,652 votes cast in the whole of Cook county.

There are approximately 866,000 voters registered in Chicago and the limit for the remainder of the county is less than 155,000 votes.

The percentage of registered voters who usually go to the polls in off year elections in Chicago gives a basis of estimating the total vote in Chicago. Applying the same percentage to the country towns gives an estimate for the county.

Accordingly the vote in Cook county on that basis will be between 713,000 and 740,000. If there is the same degree of interest downstate, then its vote will be between 814,000 and 890,000. Those figures give a total estimated vote for the state between 1,527,000 and 1,630,000. Several TRIBUNE correspondents downstate, of whom inquiries have been made, have replied that there is more interest in Tuesday's election than in the 1922 contest for state treasurer.

If their guesses prove true, then there will be more than 1,718,000 votes cast Tuesday, but that was an unusually large vote. It was more than 80 per cent of the presidential vote at the preceding election. Eighty per cent of the last preceding presidential vote in Illinois would give 2,076,000 votes next Tuesday, which even the most hopeful forecasters have not predicted.

ROAD BONDS WILL IMPROVE 532 MI. OF COUNTY ROADS

$32,000,000 Program Up to Voters Tuesday.

BY J. L. JENKINS.

Approval of the most comprehensive traffic improvement scheme ever worked out by a single county in the history of the United States road building will come to a test at the polls Tuesday. Voters of Cook county will be given an opportunity of spreading $32,000,000 worth of pavement widening and improvement work over 532 miles of main highways and streets entering Chicago when they cast their ballots on the proposition for issuing $15,000,000 in bonds on which the entire program is based.

Success of the bond issue, it is pointed out by President Anton J. Cermak and members of the county board and by the business and civic leaders who worked out the specific program, will mean that by spending $15,000,000 on the great terminal highway system, Cook county actually will receive more than twice that amount in roads. This will be possible through the consequent release of state highway funds and current county and municipal financing of the widening project.

State Would Make Refund.

The state highway department, already having appropriated $3,700,000 for building of new 40 foot pavements and widening a small mileage of its old two-lane roads entering Chicago, will be able to refund half the $15,000,000 county bond issue money paid out on the state system when the work is done, it was explained yesterday.

This will add about $7,000,000 of highway money for improvements in Cook county that could not be paid by the state if the issue fails. The bonds also will provide the financial aid needed to release city and village funds to complete the widening.

County Board Pledged to Task.

This $32,000,000 coöperative program, with the county bond issue as its chief feature, was worked out by twenty-eight representative men of Chicago, Cook county and Illinois. They make up the wider highways advisory committee appointed by President Cermak.

The committee's recommendations have been tied up directly with the bond issue money through signed pledges given to Charles M. Hayes of the Chicago Motor club by every member of the county board and all candidates for county board membership at Tuesday's election. With approval of the issue by the voters, widening and paving will be carried through to the letter of the program, commissioners and candidates say in their pledges.

The following leaders are members of the highway advisory committee and will continue to aid the county board in carrying out the program: D. H. Burnham, chairman; Frank J. Wilson, commissioner; William Busse, commissioner; George A. Quinlan, county superintendent of highways; William G. Edens, president of the Illinois Highway Improvement association; Charles M. Hayes, chairman of the advisory subcommittee on finance and president of the Chicago Motor club; Dr. John Dill Robertson, president of West Parks board; E. J. Kelly, president of the South Park board; David H. Jackson, president of the Lincoln Park board; John J. Sloan, president of the board of local improvements; Col. C. R. Miller, director of Illinois department of public works; Frank T. Sheets, superintendent of the Illinois highway department; Elmer T. Stevens, Chicago Association of Commerce; Eugene S. Taylor, Chicago Plan commission; Si Mayer, president of the North Shore Motor club; Frank R. Reid, congressman; Charles Vetter, Lawndale Motor club; B. F. Lindheimer, realty dealer; Joseph L. Tupy, builder; Hugo Meyer, Motorist Association of Illinois; Robert Kingery, Chicago Region Planning association.

FIVE BUSINESS CHIEFS BACK HARRY NEWBY FOR COUNTY BOARD

Five prominent Chicagoans yesterday joined in a letter indorsing Harry A. Newby, one of the Republican candidates for county commissioner. They are George M. Reynolds, chairman of the board of directors of the Continental and Commercial National bank; James E. Gorman, president of the Rock Island railroad; Charles W. Folds, financial and civic leader; George E. Gore, president of the Chicago crime commission, and John F. Smulski, banker and former state treasurer.

HARRY A. NEWBY.
[Matzene Photo.]

"Harry A. Newby is eminently well qualified for such office by his business and legal experience," they said. "We urge his election."

Mr. Newby is a member of the law firm of Newby & Murphy. He is a master in chancery of the Superior court, member of the American, Illinois, and Chicago Bar associations and former advocate of the American Legion, playing a major part in obtaining the state bonus for Illinois soldiers. He was formerly an assistant attorney general of Illinois.

WHEELER CALLS ILLINOIS DRY ACT TEST COWARDLY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Proposals involved in the Illinois and New York prohibition referendum votes are denounced as a "cowardly method of nullifying the organic law" in a statement issued today by Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon league.

Mr. Wheeler says that the drys are not participating in the Illinois and New York tests, both of which propose that congress should modify the Volstead act to permit the sale of liquors which are not intoxicating in fact, as determined in accordance with the laws of the different states. The drys also, he says, are ignoring the Wisconsin referendum, which asks for 2.75 per cent beer.

They are fighting referenda proposals in Missouri, Montana, Colorado, and California for the repeal of state enforcement codes. The drys are taking no hand in a referendum in Nevada on a resolution adopted by its state legislature petitioning congress to call a federal constitutional convention.

TAX AMENDMENT CHIEF ISSUE ON LITTLE BALLOT

Nine Other Propositions Put Up to Voters.

Of the ten propositions on the little ballot, probably more is involved in the tax amendment to the state constitution than in any of the others. Its purpose is to obtain a more equitable tax system, but opinions differ sharply on what will be the result.

The amendment, if adopted by a majority of the votes cast Tuesday, will remove certain limitations on the legislature in enacting tax laws. The issue between the proponents and opponents of the amendment is a forecast of what the legislature will do if given the added taxing power. Both sides assert that the present taxing system is inequitable and unjust. That is not the point of difference.

How Issue Is Joined.

The issue is simply this: The Chicago City club, Civic federation, Illinois Agricultural association, Illinois Federation of Labor, Illinois Bankers' association, Chicago Real Estate board and several other influential organizations assert that through the adoption of this amendment the legislature will provide a fairer tax system. The Illinois Manufacturers' association, the Illinois chamber of commerce, the Cook County Real Estate board, and a few other organizations assert that the real purpose of the politicians is to increase taxes by means of this amendment and that the legislature, as now dominated, cannot be trusted to act in the public interest.

Specifically the amendment will permit the legislature to make, for taxing purposes, three classes of real estate, an unlimited number of classes of personal property, and to enact a workable income tax system. All of which were explained in last Sunday's TRIBUNE.

Another important proposal for residents of this end of the state is a proposed Cook county bond issue of $15,000,000 to widen existing and build new county roads within the county. More details on this subject are presented in another column.

$3,000,000 for Jail Building.

A third proposal is a bond issue of $3,000,000 to insure the construction of a modern jail and Criminal court building on the Bridewell grounds. For this purpose $4,500,000 already has been voted. Because of this location it has been deemed wise to construct quarters for 12 juries—a building of 168 rooms. This is in addition to a Criminal court building for 14 courts and for four cell tiers to accommodate more than 1,300 prisoners. The revision of the plans to obtain an up-to-date design and the use of toolproof steel has added materially to the amount of the original estimate, which is approved and advocated by the citizens' jail committee.

Another bond issue is for a new boulevard link between the Lincoln park and the south park systems. This link is to be east of Michigan avenue in the vicinity of the mouth of the Chicago river. The Lincoln park system's share of this cost is $3,000,000. The long approach over the tracks of the Illinois Central railroad boosts the south park commissioners' share of the expense to $5,000,000. No opposition has developed to this proposal and the Chicago plan commission urges its approval because it will be the equivalent of several streets in relieving congestion.

Ask Money for Lake Fill.

The Lincoln park commissioners also ask for $1,000,000 with which to fill in more submerged land along the north shore. The board has already acquired by this process about 600 acres of land at an average cost of $20,000 an acre, and the filled in park area is now in the neighborhood of Montrose avenue. This $1,000,000 will be sufficient to keep the board busy at this task for another two years.

The south park commission requests $500,000 to improve sundry parks in its system. These are permanent improvements and are deemed proper subjects for a bond issue.

The voters will also express their opinion of the law passed in 1923 to permit the state to sell and lease land in the right of way of the old Illinois and Michigan canal between Chicago and Lockport. The use of this canal for navigation was discontinued about 20 years ago. Parts of the channel have been filled in, with the result that stagnant water, a menace to health, is found at many spots. The plan is to lease certain lands for industrial sites and reserve others as terminals for the $20,000,000 Illinois waterway. This old right of way is adjacent to the ship and drainage canal, which will be a link in the inland waterway system.

Daylight Saving on Ballot.

Daylight saving was inaugurated in Chicago as a war measure and has been continued ever since. Last January several protests were made against its continuance. The proposition on the little ballot is to advise the city council whether they should continue to shove the clock back an hour between the last Sunday in April and September next summer.

The last question calls for an expression on the wet and dry issue. Its text reads as follows:

"Should the congress of the United States modify the federal act to enforce the 18th amendment to the constitution of the United States so that the same shall not prohibit the manufacture, sale, transportation, importation, and exportation of beverages which are not in fact intoxicating, as determined in accordance with the laws of the respective states?"

SMALL INDORSES TAX AMENDMENT AT ROADS RALLY

Quincy, Ill., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Gov. Len Small in speaking at the good road celebration here today, which was attended by 20,000 persons, endorsed the proposed tax amendment to be voted on Tuesday.

"When you go into the polling place next Tuesday," the governor said, "there will be handed to you, in addition to the ballot containing the names of the candidates, several little ballots. One, I understand, will be headed 'Constitutional Amendment Ballot,' adding section 14 to Article IX of the constitution of Illinois.

"There is no limit now to the amount of appropriations the legislature may pass, and there is no limit to the tax levy bill they can pass to pay the appropriations, except the veto power of the governor. The passage of this revenue amendment would give the legislature power to make a more fair tax law, and any tax law passed under this amendment must receive a two-thirds vote in both houses before it becomes a law.

"I am told that in the city of Chicago there are many millionaires who keep their bonds and stocks concealed and never pay one cent of taxes, and yet the farms and the homes of people of moderate means are always in plain view and are never overlooked by the tax assessor."

SWANSON URGES ILLINOIS VOTERS TO REBUKE SMITH

Says Nation Waits for Verdict on Slush Funds.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—In a bitter attack on Frank L. Smith, candidate for senator from Illinois, for accepting campaign funds from utilities, Senator Swanson [Dem., Va.] tonight asserted that conditions existing in Illinois and Pennsylvania must be rebuked by the electorate or soon only rich men or their subservient tools can hold office.

Voicing over the radio his warning to the nation, Mr. Swanson said of the Illinois slush fund exposure:

"We witness a member of a utilities commission, a judicial officer empowered to fix the rates of street cars and railroads under his jurisdiction, receiving a campaign contribution of more than $200,000 from parties whose rights had been passed upon by him.

Hurls Shame at Smith.

"Has the time come in America when judges can receive donations for decisions and through these be promoted to higher office of responsibility and power? If it is no shame to receive a campaign contribution like this it would be no shame for a senator to receive like gifts and contributions from the various interests that clamor before congress for favors.

"In Pennsylvania and Illinois the conscience, the idealism, the integrity of Americans are on trial, and the verdict is hopefully awaited by all patriotic Americans.

G. O. P. Silent, Silent.

"The conditions existing in those states must be rebuked by the electorate or else the time will come when only rich men can hold office or those who are willing to accept campaign funds from the rich and in return be subservient tools of this selfish interest, either condition would be most lamentable.

"No Republican speaker, no Republican cabinet officer and no Republican President has denounced, openly and publicly, these flagrant abuses and corruption in the Republican primaries. On this subject they are silent, silent, silent. Silence means either acquiescence or confession."

PLAN TO QUIZ AIMEE'S FRIENDS ON LOVE LETTERS

Two More Missives to Ormiston Made Known.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Mrs. Elizabeth Frame, a member of Mrs. Aimee McPherson's church, and Miss Emma Schaeffer, the evangelist's private secretary, today were summoned for questioning on recent sensational developments in the McPherson case. Each will be interrogated on the identity of the mysterious "E" of the "Dear Darling Man" code letter, which a woman sent from Los Angeles last Sept. 27 to Kenneth Ormiston in New York.

While Mrs. McPherson's woman confidantes are to be interrogated here, there is the chance that Ormiston himself may be picked up in a middle western city and held for questioning by Keyes' agents, according to reports at the district attorney's office late tonight.

Believed Near Chicago.

The information available on Ormiston consists mainly of hints from Ben Cohn, Keyes' chief investigator, that a man suspected of being Ormiston either is under surveillance or is being awaited at some meeting place near Chicago.

District Attorney Keyes explained here that he gave his instructions to bring in Mrs. Frame and Miss Schaeffer because "I have no doubt that Mrs. McPherson wrote the 'Darling Man' letter and it and some other documents will enable us to put our hands on the 'E' of whom Mrs. McPherson wrote to Ormiston: 'I only hope "E" does not break'

"When 'E' does talk it will wind up the McPherson case," Keyes said.

Have Two More Letters.

Keyes assistants let it be known that they have access to photographs of two more letters, similar to the "Darling Man" missive made public today.

The "darling man" letter was found in a trunk said to have been abandoned by Ormiston in a New York hotel. It was written partly in code and in printed characters similar to notes which Mrs. McPherson is alleged to have passed out to newspaper men during the progress of her preliminary hearing.

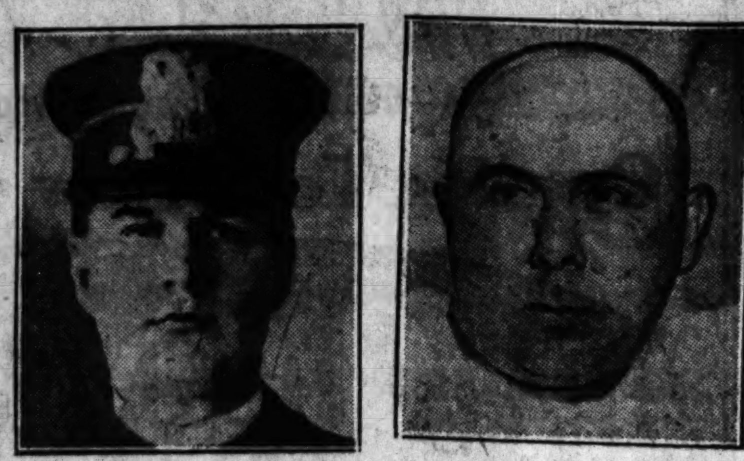
Aimee Calls It Frameup.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Aimee Semple McPherson in a sermon at Angelus temple tonight characterized as a "gigantic frameup" efforts to connect her with a trunk found in New York belonging to Kenneth G. Ormiston, her former radio operator, and endearing notes written to Ormiston.

"I would receive the geratest shock of my life if something of mine was not planted in that trunk," she declared. "This is a newspaper war, feeding on the rivalry of great syndicates. Newspaper men have been allowed the freedom of my house throughout with access to everything therein. And nothing is stopped to make a 'big scandal story.'"

Commenting on letters which District Attorney Asa Keyes alleges were written to Ormiston by the evangelist, Mrs. McPherson said, "anybody could forge my printing."

SHOT BY AUTOMOBILE THIEF



Sergt. Floyd Beardsley (left) and Sergt. James O'Brien of the Kensington police station, who were wounded by lone bandit yesterday. Sergt. Beardsley is not expected to recover.

200 IN IOWA POSSE HUNTING NEGRO SLAYER; DOGS AID

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 30.—[(AP)]—A posse of 200 from Mitchellville tonight was pressing a search of the country east of Des Moines for William Boyd, Negro, who slew Dewey Marshall, a Polk county deputy sheriff, and seriously wounded Sheriff Grover Brent of Sedalia, Mo.

Marshall was killed when he went to Boyd's farm to arrest the Negro on a charge of stealing hogs.

After the shooting, Brent said, Boyd took Marshall's gun and fled on the interurban line between Des Moines and Mitchellville.

Bloodhouds were reported early tonight to have picked up the trail.

Due to a statement of one of Boyd's children, a nine year old girl, that she killed Marshall, the nine Boyd children were taken into custody.

Physicians say Brent may recover.

OWNER RECOVERS $50,000 IN GEMS LOST FOR A WEEK

New York, Oct. 30.—[Special].—A suit case containing jewels, said to be worth $50,000, missing for a week, has been restored to Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Harris Knopf, it was learned today. The jewels had been to Bermuda and back and were returned without a piece missing. Mr. Knopf returned from an extended honeymoon in Europe on Oct 30, disembarking from the Lloyd Sahaudo liner Conte Rosso, on the same pier from which Bermuda boats sail. The bag was sent aboard the Bermuda boat by mistake.

Tavern Parrot Who Always Called for Scotch Is Dead

LONDON, Oct. 30.—(AP)—"Polly," the famous talking parrot of the equally famous Cheshire Cheese tavern in Fleet street, London, no longer will reply "Scotch" to that oft repeated question of visitors: "What will you have?" Afer three months' illness Polly died tonight, having been in the tavern for forty years. All visiting Americans were introduced to Polly, as well as most of the visiting ambassadors and England's prime ministers.

HUNT BURGLAR BELIEVED SHOT.

Police began a search yesterday for a burglar believed wounded by Frank Mack when Mack found him attempting to rob the premises of the American Motorcycle company, 2043 West Chicago avenue.

HUSBANDS SEEK MISSING WIVES; ASK COPS' HELP

Two husbands, one a Chicago man and the other living in Elgin, Ill., yesterday asked the police to aid them in a search for their wives who mysteriously have disappeared from home.

MRS. MABEL ANDERSON.

MRS. ADA EVANS.

The Chicago man is the husband of Mrs. Mabel Anderson, 33 years old, the mother of two small children, who has been gone from her home at 1028 South Fairfield avenue since Oct. 15. Mrs. Anderson when she disappeared had just recovered from two major operations, and the belief was expressed that she might be suffering from amnesia. She had little money.

Walter J. L. Evans of 15 South Channing street, Elgin, told the police that all efforts have failed to locate his wife, Ada, since she disappeared on July 24. He said she left home ostensibly to go and visit in Rockford. Mrs. Evans is a native of England. She is 5 feet 4 inches tall, weighs 105 pounds, was slender, with brown hair and gray eyes, and wore a tan coat.

ROBBER SHOOTS TWO POLICEMEN; ONE NEAR DEATH

Escapes After Gun Fight on South Side.

One policeman was perhaps fatally wounded and a second was shot through the hand in an encounter yesterday with an auto thief whom they had a few moments before arrested.

Sergt. Floyd Beardsley, in charge of detectives at Kensington station, was the more seriously injured. Detective Sergt. James O'Brien also was wounded.

Last night squads of detectives scoured the south side in an endeavor to find a trace of the assailant, known to police only as Timothy Hennessy. A pal of Hennessy, believed to be Stanley Mika, also is sought.

Prisoner Shoots Captor.

Sergt. Beardsley, with Sergt. Andrew Harrah, discovered Hennessy and Mika in a garage at 312 East 116th street, where, it was said, a stolen automobile was stored. Hennessy and Mika took to their heels, but the sergeants succeeded in capturing Hennessy.

Beardsley instructed Harrah to investigate the prisoner's rooming house, remaining himself with the prisoner. Watching his chance, Hennessy suddenly whipped a gun from his pocket and began to shoot. Beardsley fell to the sidewalk, shot through the side.

Sergts. O'Brien and Frank Nietupsky happened suddenly on the scene as Hennessy leaped into a nearby automobile to escape. In the exchange of shots which followed O'Brien was wounded. Hennessy fled south in Indiana avenue and is believed to have jumped aboard a passing Chicago and Eastern Illinois freight train at a crossing Fear for Beardsley's Life.

Physicians at Pullman hospital last night held little hope for the recovery of Beardsley. The sergeant is 47 years old and has been on the force for 20 years. He is married and lives at 11731 Normal avenue. O'Brien also is married and has five children. He lives at 8009 Harvard avenue.

Antony Panozza, 312 East 116th street, told police he had rented the garage two months ago to a stranger. The man identified as Hennessy is believed by police to be a member of a well organized band of auto thieves who recently began operations on the south side.

HIS HOOTCH INSPIRED GUNNING GETS EX-PUG A CELL; 3 WOUNDED

Evan Eichelberger, 45 year old ex-pugilist, became intoxicated yesterday in his home at 157 East 153d street, Harvey. His first impulse was to kick his wife down the front steps and he obeyed it. Then he tossed his three children after her.

While Mrs. Eichelberger was on the way to the Harvey police station the former prize fighter loaded a shotgun and took his stand at the front door.

The first to cross his line of fire were Mrs. W. M. Schultz, 15314 Loomis street, and her 9 year old son. A shot in the first volley bored Mrs. Schultz's ear and two more ripped the boy's skin. As they fled, Charles Greenberg, 156 East 153d street, stepped into range and Eichelberger shot him in the leg.

Then Chief of Police George Swanson and Policemen Bauman and Vincent arrived. Eichelberger said Swanson could come in if he didn't have a gun. The chief assured him he had none. The door opened and the real battle began.

Chief Swanson wrested the shotgun from the ex-pugilist and they wrestled down the steps into the street. The chief's trousers were torn, but Eichelberger went to jail.

FINED ON WOMAN'S CHARGE.

John Palas, 23, 954 West Van Buren street, was fined $200 yesterday by Judge Henry Walker on a charge of disorderly conduct. He was also fined $100 for assault when Mrs. Emily Zoros, 4867 Magnolia avenue, told the court that he had attempted to drag her into an alley last Thursday night.

WRITES ON "HOW TO TRAIN GIRLS"; HERS IS BANDIT

Now Expert Will Study Own Daughter.

Rock Island, Ill., Oct. 30.—[Special.] Mrs. Charles Nichols, who writes magazine articles advising parents how to raise their children under the pen name of Vashti Dale, has decided that it is better to take more time with her own child and spend less on literary theory.

This conclusion was reached after her 16 year old daughter, Beulah, disdained her mother's theory, went on a gin party with a newly made man friend, and ended up as a flapper bandit.

Robbed Old Man of Clothes.

The girl held up and robbed W. H. Mahoney, 75, at his home and at the point of a gun made Maloney turn over a suit of his clothes, compelled him to cut her bobbed hair shorter, and fit her out with a cap.

Then she stripped before the astonished septuagenarian, left him a suit of silken lingerie as a souvenir and set out to see the world garbed as a man.

She caught the first freight train out of town and after a day spent in Galva, Ill., returned on another freight train to her home and was welcomed by her parents.

Now, Mrs. Nichols, while not defending the actions of her daughter, places much of the blame upon her own shoulders. She declares that she owes it to the world to tell other mothers of the experience she has been through and is preparing a series of articles with this in view.

Mrs. Nichols' New Viewpoint.

In her articles, Mrs. Nichols says: "My daughter adores dancing. What normal, healthy girl does not? And we should have made it possible for her to satisfy this normal desire in a normal, healthy way. We should have given parties for her at home.

"Thus we would have assured ourselves that her associates were all that we desired them to be and we would have known that Bacchanalian orgies and joy riding were neither thought of nor desired. In short we should have realized that our standards were too old fashioned to fit her and we should have modified them accordingly.

"Unless we understand fully the real nature of human progress as it applies to our children and, understanding it, become broad enough to interpret and live it, then we as parents are failures."

Sentence Woman of 65 to Guillotine; Slew Son's Wife

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DOUAI, France, Oct. 30.—Mme. Marie Lefebvre, 65, tonight was sentenced to the guillotine for killing Antoinette Mullem Lefebvre, wife of her son, whom she shot in cold blood while they sat together in the back seat of the automobile her son, Andre, was driving. The jury was composed of men.

13 ALDERMEN O. K. PAY BOOSTS FOR FIREMEN, POLICE

Thirteen members of the city council yesterday promised City Controller Martin J. O'Brien that they will vote for the salary increases for firemen and policemen as recommended in his 1927 budget estimates.

"The members of the council for years have deplored their inability to vote a decent wage scale to loyal servants of the city," said Ald. John Tuohy, spokesman for the group.

"Now that Controller O'Brien has found a way to do it we feel that he is entitled to credit for relieving a situation that has been tense and embarrassing, and we assure him the council will vote the increases."

The group included Ald. Tuohy [27th], Jacob Arvey [24th], George Seif [35th], Leo M. Breiske [45th], Thomas F. Byrne [15th], Joseph B. McDonough [13th], Max Adamowski [38th], Joseph Mendel [26th], Terrence Moran [16th], Dorsey Crowe [42d], S. W. Govier [9th], A. J. Horan [29th], and D. J. Horan [21st].

Lawyer Deserted Her for New Love, Wife Charges

Charging that her husband has admitted his love for a woman in New Rochelle, N. Y., Mrs. Grace G. Aaron yesterday filed suit in the Superior court for a divorce from Michael B. Aaron, former Chicago attorney, now living in New Rochelle. She was happily married for 16 years, Mrs. Aaron said, but in 1919 her husband began to make trips east, finally failing to return.

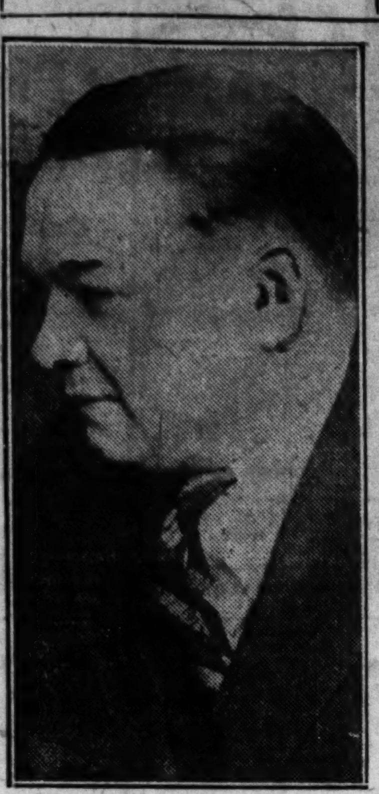
ACQUITS TAGNEY OF MARKOWITZ MURDER CHARGES

Jury Heeds Alibi, Story of Anti-Union Plot.

NOT GUILTY



Roy Tagney, who was acquitted on a charge of murdering Morris Markowitz, a contractor.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Roy Tagney, business agent of the Machinery and Scrap Iron Teamsters' union, was found not guilty last night in Judge John J. Sullivan's court, where he had been on trial for two weeks, accused of the murder of Morris Markowitz, a trucking contractor operating under the Landis award.

The only eye-witness to the murder who could be found pointed to Tagney in court as the killer. His veracity was challenged, however, and he admitted he had been paid by the Citizens' Committee to Enforce the Landis Award, and that he was patted on the back by a relative of Markowitz prior to his first identification of Tagney and told, "Stand up now; we have lots of money behind us."

Tagney Lawyers Charge Plot.

Tagney's defense was an alibi and his attorneys, Charles E. Erbstein and Harry N. Pritzker, charged that the Landis committee had engaged in a conspiracy to procure Tagney's conviction.

This trial was Attorney Erbstein's first appearance in seven years at the criminal court building — where years ago he was known as one of the city's leading defense lawyers in criminal cases—and he said it would be his last.

Four witnesses testified that on the afternoon of Aug. 3, at 2 o'clock, Tagney was in the loop. It was at that hour that Markowitz was shot while at a building at 37th street and Princeton avenue.

Tagney was a witness in his own behalf. Under Attorney Erbstein's questioning he denied the murder, denied being at or near the scene of the crime. On cross-examination by Assistant State's Attorneys Emmet F. Byrne and Harold Levy, Tagney denied he ever had any trouble with Markowitz.

Sons Deny Tagney's Story.

To rebutt that statement, two sons of the murdered man—Louis, 21 years old, and Meyer, 19 years old—were called. They each told of an incident where Tagney, as a business agent, made trouble for their father, who employed nonunion help.

While Attorney Pritzker was making his closing argument he called attention to the fact Markowitz knew Tagney, but that he didn't name Tagney as the man who shot him.

"If Tagney had shot him, Markowitz would not have called 'Get him! Get him! He shot me.' He would have called out, 'Tagney shot me.'"

"Yes, in the back!" shouted Meyer Markowitz, who was in the courtroom.

Judge Cautions Young Markowitz.

Judge Sullivan cautioned young Markowitz against a further outbreak, and to guard against any demonstration he had two squads from the detective bureau present when the verdict was read.

After Meyer Markowitz' exclamation, Attorney Erbstein recalled the testimony of the coroner's physician to the effect that Markowitz had been shot in the legs and that death followed soon afterward because of severed arteries.

In the trial of Joe Saltis and Frank Koncil, gangsters accused of killing another gangster, Mitters Foley, no jurors were obtained yesterday, but it is expected the four needed to complete the jury will be accepted tomorrow.

GUARDED PEACE AT HERRIN POLLS, MAYOR'S PROMISE

Herrin, Ill., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Herrin polls will be guarded by policemen next Tuesday and Mayor Marshall McCormack assured the people that the election will be quiet and peaceful and invited all to come to the polls and vote their sentiments.

Chief interest in the election here is centered upon the candidates for sheriff. Oren Coleman is the Republican, and Mann Bullimer the Democratic aspirant for this office.

McCormack's statement pointed out that there were no gang headquarters in Herrin, neither were there any gangsters here, and their presence would not be tolerated either on election day or at any other time.

"Herrin has divorced itself from all gang factions," the mayor said "and it intends to stay that way."

Wrong Man Is Arrested on Plane Theft Charge

Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—J. M. McBoyle, Galena, Ill., who was arrested in Monmouth and taken to Ottawa by Special Deputy John Livingston to face charges there of stealing a plane, was exonerated of the charges and freed today. Officers are seeking Steve Lacy, Galena, formerly employed by McBoyle. The plane which Lacy is alleged to have stolen was recovered by W. D. Bridgeman at Guyman, Okla.

LETS DOMINIONS LOOK OVER TEETH OF BRITISH LION

50 Warships Stage War Game for Premiers.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 30.—The British admiralty gave a naval warfare party to the dominion premiers and their wives in the English channel this afternoon.

In order to demonstrate to the colonial rulers the value of the British fleet in protecting them against enemies, a mimic six hour battle was staged, which was viewed by the imperial conference delegates from King George's battleship Revenge, which is the flagship of Admiral Henry Oliver, commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet.

The delegates saw seaplanes "shot" from the deck of the aircraft carrier Furious, and saw submarines dive and come to the surface again. They further saw a whole battle cruiser squadron, steaming at twenty knots an hour, thunder a broadside of fifteen inch guns at a canvas screen target.

A demonstration was then made how airplanes attack ships, submarine offensives, and smoke screens. The Revenge then gave a demonstration how to pass through a mine field, using mine sweeping gear.

Fifty ships took part in the maneuvers.

Today's program was part of the British plan to show the dominions how it is advantageous to be part of the empire.

High Priest and Political Leader of Persia Is Shot

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TEHERAN, Persia, Oct. 30.—A revival of political terrorism is seen in the shooting of Modaress, a popular high priest, member of the Mejliss and leader of a strong party. He was shot early this morning while going to lecture at the Divinity college, of which he is warden and principal. He fought the proposed change from monarchism to a republican régime. It is believed the terrorist was a Socialist policeman. A shopkeeper also was shot. Modaress still is alive.

AMATEUR ROBBER

NORVAL DOUGLAS SEIZED IN COURT ON OLD WARRANT

Norval C. Douglas, 861 Glengyle avenue, who had figured in numerous court appearances growing out of his divorce from his wife, Nadine, and his marriage to Mrs. Mary Cutler Robbins, former chorus girl and ex-wife of Cutler H. Robbins, was served with a year old warrant when arraigned in the Chicago avenue court yesterday as the result of an auto crash.

E. J. Huestix, 1247 West 63d street, demanded $5 for a fender Douglas had smashed. Douglas said he had no money and Huestix had him arrested. Judge Frank T. Sullivan ordered Douglas to pay $7 to Huestix. He paid and started from the court room.

Probation Officer J. T. Sweeney recognized Douglas as the man who had violated terms of probation by failing to make restitution in a $400 confidence game and placed him under arrest.

DEVER DEMANDS SUBWAY NOW IN NOTE TO COUNCIL

Mayor Makes Final Effort to Secure Tubes.

citizens' committee plan, would be raised by special assessments. These assessments might be voluntary, it is pointed out, thereby avoiding long litigation.

Explaining his desire for a loop system, instead of the proposed 16 mile system reaching into other parts of the city, the mayor declares that "it is perfectly apparent that a so called comprehensive subway is financially impossible."

"The only subway construction possible, therefore, under present financial limitations," he declares, "would be a subway of limited extent, so located as to render a maximum service to the greatest number of our citizens.

"Construction of subways in the central business district, by relieving traffic congestion, will inure to the benefit of all who use the transportation system, whether they actually travel through the subways or not."

Cites Statute in Referendum.

In support of his argument for a referendum, Mr. Dever cites the Illinois statutes requiring a vote of the electors of a city on a major public utility project.

"Furthermore," he explains, "it seems to be highly desirable that there should be definite popular approval for such an important project."

The disclosure of the mayor's forthcoming message came as a complete surprise to members of the council. Although it was known he has been conferring with Corporation Counsel Busch on the transit problem, his proposed line of action was kept a secret.

In view of the mayor's following in the council and the urgency of his plea it is predicted that action will follow immediately. Any opposition that may develop, it is believed, will be overcome.

Factor in Next Election.

Speculation was rife at the city hall, following the report of the mayor's plan, as to its bearing on the mayoralty election, in which, it is said, the transit problem is almost certain to be an issue.

In case the present negotiations produce an ordinance that is defeated or fails to reach a settlement before the election, it is pointed out that Mr. Dever, if he runs again, would have a strong traction plank in his subway stand.

On the other hand, such a plank would afford a clear cut target for his opponents, especially those who oppose municipal ownership and the expenditure of the traction fund in the loop to the exclusion of outlying districts.

Hope was expressed, however, that in either event the message may go far toward clearing up the present maze of discussion around the transportation situation and tend to pull at least one phase of it—subways—out into the spotlight for quick and specific disposition.

SEIZED AS CHICAGO CON MAN.

F. M. Falkman, alias Dr. Moritz Falkman, paroled yesterday from the Western state penitentiary at Pittsburgh, was rearrested as he left the jail on a year old warrant charging him with operating a confidence game in Chicago. The police say he will be extradited immediately.

WACKER URGES O. K. FOR BONDS ASKED BY PARKS

Chairman Charles H. Wacker of the Chicago Plan commission, in a statement yesterday, urges voters in the Lincoln and South Park districts to vote "yes" on the park bond issues.

"Although no official plan for the outer boulevard link has yet been adopted," Chairman Wacker said, "the special committee, consisting of James Simpson, John V. Farwell and Harry A. Wheeler, has made considerable progress, so much so, in fact, that the plan commission feels justified in urging that every voter mark an unqualified 'yes' on the proposition.

"Our committee has taken up the various plans suggested for making a connection between Grant park and Lake Shore drive with each party interested as well as with the park boards. They are confident that there will be no trouble in bringing about an agreement that will satisfy everybody. It is therefore vitally necessary that public approval be given the bond issues so that construction work may be started without a delay."

HOPE FOR HOUDINI NOT ABANDONED BY PHYSICIANS

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Harry Houdini, the magician, still hovers between life and death, according to latest word from the Grace hospital, where he is in a coma.

A second operation was performed yesterday afternoon to which, according to his physicians, he reacted better than to the first.

The attending physicians, in a bulletin this afternoon, said: "His condition is very grave but hopes for his recovery have not been entirely abandoned. His temperature is 103.4, pulse 130, respiration 40."

Houdini collapsed last Sunday night after the opening performance of his engagement at a theater. He was operated upon for appendicitis. Streptococcus peritonitis, a virulent form of poisoning, developed.

KANKAKEE MAN KILLS SELF.

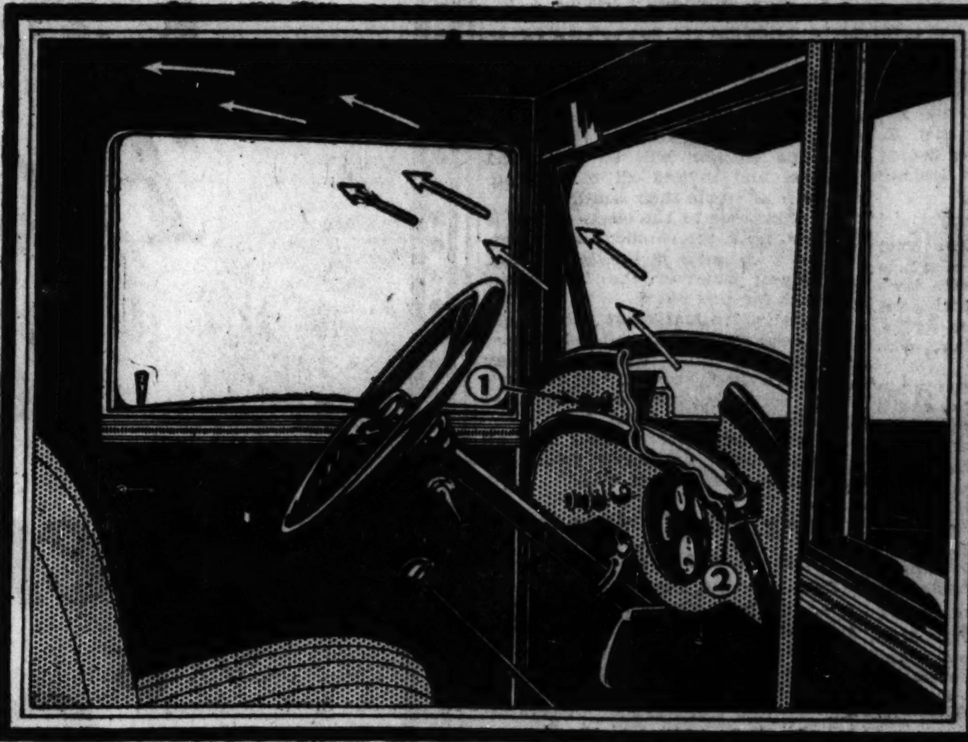
Only the New Studebaker Custom Cars Have This

Draftless, Stormproof Windshield



This cut-away diagram shows how the Studebaker no-draft ventilating windshield, when opened outward, directs the air up over the occupants' heads. Figure 1 indicates the convenient handle on the dash for adjusting the windshield to any desired position. Figure 2 points to the hidden trough under the cowl which carries off rain when the windshield is set for storm-proof ventilation.

Admits fresh air without drafts—excludes rain

WITH characteristic initiative, Studebaker engineers have solved the long-neglected problem of closed car ventilation.

In the new Studebaker Custom Cars, a unique, patented windshield eliminates all possibility of stuffiness from smoky or vitiated air, of acrid engine odors, of chilling drafts, or of discomforting rain sprays showering driver or passengers.

Waterproof Ventilation at Last Perfected

Set for stormproof ventilation, this Studebaker windshield admits outside air in a controlled current, but carries off the rain through cleverly designed troughs beneath the cowl. Even the concentrated stream of a hose, turned against the windshield, does not force water past this ingenious barrier.

Nearly every motorist has suffered the discomfort due to imperfect ventilation of a closed car in rainy weather, when it became necessary to close the windshield, cowl ventilator, and windows to prevent rain from entering. Shortly the atmosphere becomes close and muggy. The windshield and windows become steamed, obscuring vision to such an extent it is ofttimes dangerous. Quite in contrast is the rush of clean, sweet air which abounds in the Studebaker Custom Cars at all seasons and under all weather conditions, by reason of the patented Studebaker no-draft windshield.

Elderly people, mothers of young children, and women who are often lightly dressed for social engagements will particularly appreciate this no-draft windshield. Men can now enjoy smoking without annoyance to other occupants, because the air is constantly renewed.

When the Studebaker ventilating windshield is set in this position, a constant stream of fresh air is admitted but no water can get inside—not even in the hardest rainstorm or when—as an extreme test—a stream of water is turned full against the windshield.

Easily Adjusted by the Turn of a Handle

You can adjust this exclusive Studebaker windshield without taking your eyes from the road. There are no troublesome sidescrews to loosen and tighten again—no stopping to reach up to the top of the car. A convenient handle, right on the dash, sets the windshield at any position desired.

Custom Completeness at No Extra Cost

This no-draft ventilating windshield is typical of the completeness of the new Studebaker Custom Cars. The external beauty of their low-swung bodies, resplendent in lustrous duotone lacquers, is matched by interior luxury and more than $100 worth of extra equipment without extra cost.

Studebaker One-Profit facilities have mastered custom costs and produced masterpieces of custom design at less than customary prices—come in and see them today.

All Studebaker Custom Cars have the following equipment: No-draft ventilating windshield, exclusively Studebaker; front and rear bumpers; engine thermometer and hydrostatic gasoline gauge on the dash; coincidental lock; oil filter and air purifier; automatic windshield cleaner; rear-vision mirror; traffic signal light; 4-wheel brakes; full-size balloon tires; and two-beam acorn headlights, controlled from steering wheel.

Science Endorses Studebaker Hygienic Closed Car Ventilation

"I have analyzed carefully the system of ventilation which you have adopted for your Custom Cars and find it thoroughly efficient. At ordinary speeds the air will change completely every five minutes. I know of no other windshield which equals this for scientific ventilation."

Prof. J. D. Hoffman of Purdue University, Past President of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers.

"Your no-draft ventilating windshield not only adds considerably to the comfort of driving, but gives a definite protection against the ills caused by riding in a draft. Fresh air is one of the greatest benefits of motoring. This device insures a constant change of air yet eliminates the exposure to direct drafts in cold or blustery weather. I believe it to be a decided reform from cowl or open windshield ventilation."

Dr. Chas. J. Whalen, Past Pres., Illinois Medical Association. Editor, Illinois Medical Journal.

"The new windshield ventilating system is ideal. Its 'overhead or underfoot' selective feature is excellent for the avoidance of the disagreeable drafts to which one is subjected in most cars; and its rainstorm ventilation is a triumph. No more hot, stuffy cars during showers!"

Dr. B. Stewart Ralston,
303 Neville Street, Pittsburgh, Pa.

"The ventilating system in your new Custom Sedans, through the use of a no-draft windshield, was such a revelation to me that I felt duty-bound as a physician to endorse it. To the best of my knowledge it is the finest windshield and best ventilator ever put on a motor car."

Dr. Max Loewinthan, 319 W. 98th St., New York, N. Y.

"I have never examined a windshield that equals yours from the standpoint of scientific ventilation."

C. M. Rosser, M. D., Dallas, Texas
Pres., State Medical Association of Texas.

"I am glad to write you what I think about the new Studebaker windshield. I have been over the matter thoroughly and think it looks so good I'm sure my next car will have it. It looks like a physical impossibility that any amount of draft can bother the occupants."

J. M. Blackford, M. D., Seattle, Wash.

"One of the reasons why I purchased the new President was on account of the new ventilating windshield, which is the best ventilating arrangement I have ever seen. I am very much pleased with it."

Dr. Edward L. Stevens, 810 West End Avenue, New York, N. Y.

THE SENATORIAL ELECTION.

There are three questions which stand out in the election of the United States senator from Illinois. One is whether he shall be a Republican or a Democrat. Another is whether he shall be a wet or a dry. The third is whether he shall be a man of honest public record. Probably there is a fourth, whether he shall be a Protestant or a Roman Catholic. To the extent that question intrudes it is against good public policy. In THE TRIBUNE'S consideration of the election it does not exist.

Frank L. Smith is the candidate nominated in the Republican primaries in which he defeated Senator William B. McKinley. George Brennan is the candidate nominated virtually without opposition in the Democratic primaries. Hugh Magill is the independent Republican placed on the ticket by petition by Republicans who could not stand for Smith after they found out where he got his primary campaign funds There are other candidates, but we'll not confuse the ticket by discussing them even if they think that is unjust to them.

The three questions are contained in the candidacies of Smith, Magill, and Brennan. Smith was chairman of the Illinois commerce commission when he was a candidate in the Republican primaries and when he defeated Senator McKinley. In this state position he had power to fix public utility rates, control competition and financing and he received $170 000 as campaign contributions from three public utility men.

Samuel Insull gave $125,000, Ira D. Copley gave $25,000, and Clement Studebaker gave $20,000. Insull is the greatest utility man in the state, one of the great ones of the nation. Copley was selling his way out of utilities. Studebaker was buying his way in. They all came across for the campaign fund of the man who controlled their rates, their competition, and their financing. Studebaker was taking over active control of Senator McKinley's properties and money from these interests went into the campaign pot of his rival who defeated him. All this was brought out after Smith's nomination by Senator Reed's committee.

Large amounts of money can be spent honestly in a campaign. In a contested election, particularly in a primary election, in a large state it is difficult to win without a large amount of money. A large campaign fund in itself is not an indictment of the candidate for whom it is spent. Some people think or pretend to think it is. It is not the size but the source of Smith's fund which proves him unfit for the votes of people who have any regard for public rectitude.

It is notorious in this state that Mr. Insull never has had any trouble with the state rate making body. He charged ten cents on the elevated railroad when the surface lines were ordered by the commission to charge six. The federal courts protected the latter. Mr. Insull did not need any court protection, not for his transit companies, his electric company or his gas company. Other utilities had to protest and fight, but Mr. Insull never had to. That fact looks up with the contributions.

These investments in political campaigns are called "insurance" and there are people who say that if a corporation can protect itself from politics only by insurance they must do so if the people continue to produce such politics. This realistic apology falls to the ground when the people are given a chance at one of the politicians who is selling such insurance. Mr. Insull is not asking for their votes, but Mr. Smith is.

Smith, as chairman of the commerce commission and a candidate for the senate, was given $170,000 by the corporations he could favor or punish. His part in these transactions proved him unfit for any office of public trust, unfit to be chairman of the state commission and unfit to be United States senator. THE TRIBUNE has said before and now reiterates that the payments to his campaign fund and the acceptance on his part constitute bribery and corruption.

Mr. Insull also gave George Brennan $15,000 for his primary campaign for the Democratic nomination. Brennan had no contest and did not need to spend any money He says he told Mr. Insull that, but was urged to take it and did, giving it to the Democratic committee for general political uses. Mr. Insull was putting insurance in both directions.

Brennan was not in public office. He probably can control some men in public office or influence them. He is the head of his party in Illinois, but he did not have a trust imposed in him in public office. If the propriety of such contributions may be questioned or if it is conceded that they are against public policy there is still a world of difference between the gift to Smith and the gift to Brennan.

Hugh Magill was brought into the field as an independent Republican candidate by Republicans who could not vote for Smith upon the record disclosed after his nomination. His character has not been questioned. He had four years in the state senate and is a man of ability and worth, qualified to be a United States senator. He is also a dry.

The Anti-Saloon league supports Smith regardless of his record. Smith is dry and the Anti-Saloon league accepted him as such, condoning the corruption of his campaign funds. The league leadership under its state superintendent, Mr. Safford, not only rejected Magill, honest and dry, but endeavored to force him off the ticket and thus leave dry Republicans no chance to do other than vote for Smith. The league thoroughly discredited itself by this disregard of public morality and many of its conscientious members have broken with it on this performance.

Republicans who are opposed to prohibition as they see it in operation or who are opposed to it in principle have nothing offered them in their own party, but if they nevertheless remain in their party they have the choice between a candidate of unchallenged character and one whose record is found in the public utility bank accounts.

Republicans who are not primarily influenced by the wet or dry question but who believe it important to sustain the party in the United States senate also have this choice. Magill, running as an independent, is a better Republican than Smith because he is a clean Republican and his revolt against the candidate is not a revolt against the party. It is a protest not against the principles of the Republican party but against a candidate who got the nomination by the use of money from corporations he controlled politically.

Since the death of Roger Sullivan Brennan has been the head of his party in the state and as such he has been instrumental in breaking down the rule in Chicago of William Hale Thompson, who with Fred Lundin was the creator of the Small state administration, out of which the candidacy of Smith for the senate grew.

Brennan joined in the bipartisan movement of 1921 which defeated the effort of Thompson to control the county judiciary. If that effort had been successful Chicago might have been helpless under Thompson for many more years. Brennan helped put through the arrangement by which a bipartisan ticket of good judges and judicial candidates was offered. It could not have been done without his help and it was successful.

He also, as head of his party, saw that Mayor Dever was nominated and with his election Chicago got an honest mayor whose efforts have been for decent municipal government. These are two substantial achievements for Chicago and it is entirely true that Brennan was in a high degree responsible for both.

Brennan is wet. If elected to the senate he will vote for the modification of the Volstead act, if it can be modified. The Anti-Saloon league will lose a vote and the liberals will gain one. To any voter to whom this is the outstanding issue of the time Brennan is the only candidate through whom a chance of political action is offered.

Smith is out on all counts. He is not a candidate in whom a Republican could have confidence or repose trust. He is not a man an intelligent dry would tolerate.

A dry Republican cannot without stultification vote for him, but can vote for Magill. Wet Republicans who want the prohibition rule ended if it can be ended will vote for Brennan.

To THE TRIBUNE it seems that the whole issue is between Brennan and Magill on the wet and dry question and we see no reason why a wet Republican should not in this election vote for his convictions for the Democrat who expresses them or how a dry can vote for Smith who dishonors them.

THE WET AND DRY REFERENDUM.

The question of public policy on the proposition ballot is Volstead. Should congress modify the federal enforcement act so that it shall not prevent the manufacture, sale, transportation, etc. of beverages which are not in fact intoxicating as determined in accordance with the laws of the respective states?

The drys say this is a futile, fraudulent, or anarchistic proposal. They have advised their followers not to vote because it is these and other things. Anarchistic is an overworked word in dry rhetoric. There is another hurdle for a law to take after it has gone through congress. That is the Supreme court. If such a law is not constitutional in the opinion of the court it will be inoperative. If it is, the votes which made it a law are not anarchistic.

It is not fraudulent because it is a fair question. The Volstead definition of intoxicating liquor is one which can be questioned fairly on a number of counts. It is true in only one respect. An alcoholic content of one-half of 1 per cent is not intoxicating, but that does not determine intoxication in fact, in usage, in social or state purpose or in anything else. The state may say, whether its courts uphold it or not, that the purposes of the state are not concerned with laboratory tests but with social consequences. That is exactly what an intelligent state would say if it had the right to use its intelligence, and if it found that beer and wine did not produce an intoxicated society it would not call them intoxicating.

The referendum is not futile, because, apart from the possibility of its immediate consequences in legislation, it is a testing of public sentiment. Even the eighteenth amendment, hedged as it is by the difficulties in the way of repeal, has no justification beyond public sentiment. It is not the provision of the constitution which cannot be taken out or changed. There is one, but it is not the eighteenth amendment. It is the provision which gives two senators to each state. The whole constitution must be thrown away to change that.

The testing of public sentiment is a proper process in the effort to get rid of sumptuary law if the people of the United States are tired of it. Unfortunately it is no longer in a position where a majority can decide, but the legal way of attempting to dispose of it is by voting. In this Illinois referendum the voters of the state who are opposed to Volsteadism will vote "yes" on the proposition and the count will show how the state stands.

READY TO LEAP.

A motorist meeting a Negro trudging along the dusty road generously offered him a lift.

"No, sah, thank you, sah!" said the old man. "Ah reckon mah ol' laigs will take me 'long fast enough."

"Aren't afraid, are you, uncle? Have you ever been in an automobile?"

"Nevah but once, sah," was the reply, "and den Ah didn't let all mah weight down."—Everybody's Magazine.

MAYBE YOUR HEAD.

"Pardon me," said an absent minded motorist who was passing through the Straddle Ridge region. "I think I must have lost off something, but I can't for the life of me imagine what it is. Can you enlighten me?"

"Well — p'tu! — no," replied Gabe Gosnel, a prominent resident, "that is, less'n it mought be yore left hind wheel."—Kansas City Star.

THE DRAMA IN THE CHURCH

BY THE REV. PERRY J. STACKHOUSE, D. D.
[Pastor First Baptist Church, Chicago.]

A strange and remarkable thing has happened in our churches during the last twenty years. The drama, stigmatized by the Puritans as an offspring of the devil and driven from her ancestral home, has come back to her father's house. The return of the prodigal after an absence of 300 years was so unobtrusive that it has attracted little attention. She just slipped in through the back door quietly, sat down with the family, and resumed the knitting which had been broken off in the days of Cromwell. It is, of course, possible that the rather heated argument now going on among certain members of the household over dogma and internal management has diverted their attention from the presence of the newcomer in their midst. The fact remains that the prodigal daughter is back home again.

Religion and drama are bound together in wedlock. The material of religion is shot through with the dramatic. The Bible is a book of dramas. The story of the creation as related in the first book of the Bible is a powerful drama, with scenes laid in heaven and on earth, with characters divine, human, and diabolical, with plot and counterplot, and with tremendous and eternal issues depending on the outcome.

The dramatic possibilities of the story of the giving of the Ten Commandments on Mount Sinai, as related in the book of Exodus, has been utilized by a motion picture corporation in one of the greatest film successes of recent years, "The Ten Commandments." Some one has said concerning that film: "God wrote the first half of that picture and another wrote the second, and it isn't hard to tell where God left off and the other person began." The book of Esther, which tells the story of a queen who saved a nation from death, is a drama of rare beauty and pathos. That scene in which Mordecai pleads with Esther to go to the king, even though death may be her portion, rises to a high pitch of dramatic intensity as he tells her, "Who knoweth but what thou hast come to the kingdom for such a time as this?" And Esther answers in words that are as simple as they are sublime, "So will I go unto the king, which is not according to the law; and if I perish, I perish." The dramatic elements in such books as Daniel, Hosea, Isaiah, and Jeremiah are apparent to every student. The book of Job is pure drama. It has been arranged in the form of a Greek play and is said to have been successfully produced in a New York theater.

The New Testament scriptures are filled with drama. The parables of Jesus are drama. Charles Dickens said of the parable of the prodigal son, "It is the most pathetic story to be found in any literature." That parable, like the parable of the Good Samaritan, has been the source material for many dramas that have been put on the stage.

The life of Jesus is drama. It opens with a strange quest of the magi following a star that led them to the stable at Bethlehem. It tells of the shepherds watching their flocks by night and hearing the song of angels who announced the coming of one who is to be a Prince of Peace and Savior of the world. Swiftly the drama moves on, telling of the public appearance of Jesus at the River Jordan, the baptism, the temptation, the selection of twelve men to be his disciples, his growing popularity among the masses, the envy, hatred, and opposition of the religious leaders, the conspiracy to put him to death, the betrayal by one of his own disciples, the trial before the Roman procurator, the crucifixion and death upon the hill called Calvary, and the apparent triumph of the forces of evil, and then the empty tomb and the manifestations to the disciples of the Man who had conquered death and the grave, and the great commission to the apostles to go everywhere preaching the good news. It is a drama that has for nineteen centuries captivated the imagination, thrilled the heart and inspired multitudes to a life of goodness, sacrifice, and high adventure.

The church from the beginning stressed the dramatic. The two great sacraments of the church—baptism and the Lord's supper—are drama, and still evoke the adoration of millions of people. The dramatized church masses, mystery plays, miracle plays, and morality plays of the medieval age are well known. These plays were first acted in the churches, but such great crowds flocked to the services that they were taken out into the church yard. It is an interesting historical fact that the earliest English stage was a chancel and that the plays were mainly performed by priests, choristers, monks and nuns, and sometimes by children under their care. The modern drama, which found its greatest exponent in Shakespeare, is a child of the church. It is true that this stage child became so wayward, mixed with so many bad characters and in general led such a dissolute life that the Puritans erased the name from the list of children in the old family Bible and served notice that she must never again enter the church doors.

The drama has, however, returned to the church. At the annual conventions of such evangelical religious bodies as Baptists and Methodists thousands of delegates view missionary pageants without objection. The only criticism heard concerns the poor technique of the drama and the clumsy acting of the participants. As a matter of fact, dramatic tools are new and strange to church people, who have not as yet learned to use them effectively.

The Federal Council of Churches has appointed a committee on religious drama, and two volumes of religious dramas have been published under the auspices of that forward looking council. There is a growing recognition of the value of the drama in the field of religious education. More and more the drama is coming into use in our Bible and weekday schools of religion. Drama clubs are being organized in many churches. The chancel once more is being used as a stage, and ministers who possess what has been called a dramatic imagination are writing and delivering drama sermons.

There is no doubt that the drama makes a stirring appeal to all sorts and conditions of people. "The play's the thing whereby to catch a child as well as the conscience of a king." Dean Inge has said the people of our modern world are sorely in need of a prophet. "When the new prophet comes," he wrote, "I am disposed to think he will choose to speak to his generation neither from the pulpit nor the platform, nor from the printed page, but from the stage. A great dramatist might help us find our souls."

Bible dramas in the pulpit is a subject on which I have written and spoken on various occasions. It is my custom to present in the place of or as a sermon the drama of the Bible. I do not use costume or scenery, but simply present the various characters with appropriate intonations of the voice and let the characters themselves tell the story and make the impression.

Perhaps one caution ought to be expressed. To some persons the word drama stands for fiction, make believe, or even myth. The drama of the Prodigal Son may not refer to any certain young man, but nevertheless it speaks the truth. It not only reveals God's attitude towards the sinner but it portrays human life as it has been experienced in every generation and age of the world. It is dramatic in form because it presents characters who talk and act in a picturesque way and are the centers in an event which reaches an impressive climax. Life itself is a drama; let us visualize it.

The question arises, can the church make use of the drama without sacrificing certain spiritual values? It all depends upon the end the church has in mind. If the drama is introduced into our churches solely for entertainment, to add to the box receipts, or to fill the empty pews, it will prove itself to be a disruptive and destructive agency. If, on the other hand, it is employed to teach the beauty of holiness, the glory of self-sacrifice for the common good, that life is something more than the things we see and touch, and to dramatize Bible stories so that they will make a new and vivid appeal to the hearts and consciences of people, then it may be welcomed as a handmaiden to the cause of religion and of the church.

DAMP ROOMS AND RHEUMATISM.

LIVING in damp rooms is a principal cause of rheumatism in children, according to an elaborate report made by a British commission. The notion that damp floors and damp walls are harmful prevails very generally, but there has been almost no scientific support for it. Some reports have shown that laundry workers and bakers are prone to rheumatism because they work in moist surroundings. There is some proof that people who live in damp walled houses are prone to develop blastomycosis, but beyond a few isolated facts such as these, the damp walled house has been free from indictments for a few years.

The British commission found rheumatism was especially prevalent among children who live in basements and cellars, or who lived on the first floor of houses that had no basements or cellars, or houses that had damp walls for other reasons.

They did not find evidence that going to school on rainy days was an important cause of rheumatism in children. Nevertheless, they advised having a drying room in every school. Children who arrive at school with wet shoes would go to this room until their shoes and garments had dried. Wet cloaks, overcoats, and hats would be taken off and left hanging in this drying room on wet days.

Rural children had no special tendency to rheumatism, even though they were likely to get soaked on the way to and from school. Rheumatism was more prevalent in town. It did not attack rich children, nor the very poor with the frequency that it did children of the upper artisan class.

The report also discussed the advantage of removing the tonsils of rheumatic children as a routine procedure. Taking all things into consideration, they did not advise it. The principal cause of chorea, or St. Vitus dance, is rheumatic infection. Removal of tonsils did not benefit chorea. Removal of the tonsils of a child subject to periodic attacks of rheumatism did not seem to lessen the number of such attacks. But the operation did seem to protect the heart against rheumatic infection.

In some cases of recurring rheumatism in children the tonsils should be removed, but not in all.

GUARDING AGAINST T. B.

Mrs. S. A. T. writes: 1. Recently I had a relative visit me who has tuberculosis. He coughs and expectorates a great deal. We tried to keep a cuspidor convenient, but he frequently spat around the porches among the shrubs. They are exposed to bright sunlight all day. Since he left I have had the bed linen out of doors continuously (which will not be brought in until it comes from the wash). The mattress has been out and the room thoroughly aired. Is there still danger? The bedstead is a nice mahogany one, or I would scald it.

2. My single daughter, 28 years old, while perfectly healthy, has never weighed over 90 pounds until a year or so ago she began to eat breakfast food. She eats it dry several times a day, but drinks a glass of milk after eating it for breakfast. Now she weighs 102 and is so much stronger. Do you think the cereal and milk could have caused the extra weight?

REPLY.

1. I think you have done all you need do. The infective material that was spread around has been made safe by sunlight, air, and laundering.

2. Yes. At least her diet has been a large factor in the gain.

CURE FOR SEED WARTS.

Miss B. V. D. writes: 1. Will you please tell me the cause of seed warts?

2. What is the cure?

REPLY.

1. They are frequently, if not always, due to infection.

2. Keep the area clean and dry. They are cured by dusting with calomel in many cases. Many are cured by applying camphor; some by greasing with castor oil.

LETTUCE GOOD FOR YOU.

S. H. writes: Will you kindly inform me if eating raw lettuce is injurious? My wife eats almost a head a day without any other food added. She just took a sudden liking to it.

REPLY.

It is a good food. Be careful about washing it well in clean water.

READ YOUR LEASE.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Would a fire make a tenant's lease void? A fire in our building has made the premises almost uninhabitable. Must I stay until all repairs are effected? A. L.

Depends on the extent of the damage and upon the wording of the lease. The printed forms commonly contain express wording affecting such questions.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NO NATURALIZATION PETITIONS BEFORE ELECTIONS.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—[Friend of the People.]—Over three months ago I passed the examination for my final citizenship papers, but so far I have not had any notice to appear for a hearing. When do you suppose I may expect such notice? B. N. P.

The naturalization law prohibits the naturalization of aliens, except honorably discharged soldiers or sailors, during the 30 days next preceding any general election, so that no petitions for naturalization will be heard until after the election on Nov. 2, 1926.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT.
District Director of Naturalization.

PAVING BENEFIT.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—[Friend of the People.]—An elderly relative of mine living on Sayre avenue near Grand avenue has been notified of a special assessment for the paving of Newland and Medill avenues. Does she receive any public benefit for which she should be assessed? The bill calls for $137 for a thirty-one foot frontage. A.

All property which is within one-half of block north and one-half of block south of Newland avenue on Sayre avenue is assessed indirectly for the paving of Newland avenue, for street and alley benefits.

Chief Clerk Board of Local Improvements.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 31, 1861.

NEW YORK.—The World's correspondent sums up the loss to the Union forces at Ball's Bluff as follows: The total number of federal troops that crossed the Potomac was about 1,853 officers and men. Of these, 663 belonged to the Massachusetts 15th, 340 to the Massachusetts 20th, about 360 to the Tammany regiment, and 570 to the first battalion of the 1st California. The Massachusetts 15th lost in killed, wounded and missing 322, including a lieutenant colonel (wounded) and 14 out of 28 line officers who crossed. The 20th lost in all 159, including a colonel, major, surgeon and adjutant (prisoners) and 8 out of 17 line officers who crossed. The Tammany companies lost 163, including a colonel, and 7 out of 12 line officers who crossed. The Californians lost 309, including their colonel (the general commanding), lieutenant colonel (wounded), adjutant and 15 line officers out of 17 who crossed. Total losses, 953.

EDITORIAL.—The reckoning for the Ball's Bluff sacrifice (for defeat it was not) will one day come.

CHICAGO.—It was announced yesterday on the Board of Trade that the Hon. J. D. Caton, president of the Illinois and Mississippi Telegraph company, had secured for Chicago the honor of being the eastern terminus of the Pacific telegraph. Rightly appreciating the importance of this achievement, the board unanimously tendered Judge Caton a vote of thanks for his services. All messages for California from the eastern and southeastern states will be sent to the Western Union telegraph office in this city, and messages for the Pacific coast must be sent here for transmission westward. The tariff of rates for transmitting messages from Chicago to San Francisco is $4.95 for the first ten words and 43 cents for each additional word.

EDITORIAL.—The naval expedition has gone to sea, having set sail from Hampton Roads yesterday morning. The public apprehension seems to be relieved by the denial that Commodore Dupont's private secretary had absconded with the charts and secrets of the expedition. He has not absconded, and if he had, it is stated, he is possessed of no hints that would be valuable to the rebels. We shall next hear of the expedition through the southern papers.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 31, 1901.

WASHINGTON.—The evidence given at the Schley court of inquiry during the last fortnight, and particularly during the last week, has given an entirely new view of the battle of Santiago. If it is accepted as true it will utterly change the account which history would otherwise have given and would prove that for three years the public has remained in ignorance of how the battle was won. Heretofore it has been believed that the battle was fought and won by the North Atlantic squadron and the flying squadron. If the testimony of the last fortnight is true it was practically fought and won by the Brooklyn and the Oregon alone except for such slight assistance as the Texas was able to offer.

SPRINGFIELD.—Charles Rayfield Mertens of Syracuse, N. Y., and Miss Agnes York Hamlin were married at the home of the bride's parents, Attorney General and Mrs. H. J. Hamlin.

NEW YORK.—The judges of the appellate term of the Supreme court handed down a decision of interest to all wives living in Illinois. They ruled that under a statute of that state the wife is liable for all bills contracted by the husband.

QUINCY, Ill.—Charles G. Dawes, former controller of the currency, was the principal speaker at the convention of the Illinois State Bankers' association. L. Y. Sherman of Macomb, ex-speaker of the Illinois house, also delivered an address.

CHICAGO.—The Rev. Dr. J. W. Richards, for the last two years pastor of the First Methodist church of Berwyn, died after a long illness at his residence in that suburb. Dr. Richards was 50 years old. He was secretary of the Rock River conference.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 31, 1916.

LONG BRANCH, N. J.—President Wilson characterized as "untrue" the statement made by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge to the effect that the President had seriously considered adding a weakening postscript to his Lusitania note to Germany. In a telegram to Walter Lippman of New York, editor of the New Republic, after calling the statement "untrue," the President continues: "No postscript or amendment to the Lusitania note was ever written or contemplated by me except such changes that I myself inserted which strengthened and emphasized the protest."

CHICAGO.—Lee Harrison, for years a favorite in vaudeville and one of the most widely known players to members of his profession, died suddenly of paralysis in Stamford, Conn., at the age of 50. He was a native of Chicago and his body will be brought here for burial.

LONDON.—The British steamer Marina, outward bound, has been torpedoed and sunk. There were forty-nine Americans on board, three of them from Chicago. The American embassy received a report from Wesley Frost, American consul at Queenstown, that the ship had been destroyed without warning. No information is available as to whether any American was drowned.

WASHINGTON.—Administration officials admitted they are watching with great concern the revival of the German submarine warfare, shown by the attacks on the steamers Marina and Rowanmore.

But at the same time, says Kladderadatsch, France opens the back door to Poland, Roumania, and Czecho-Slovakia.

EXPLAINING EMPTY PEWS.

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 20.—If preachers would carefully investigate themselves they could answer the question they propound so often—"Why don't people go to church?" It is the fault of the ministers themselves.

Who wants to waste an hour and a half listening to emotional acting? The churches would be filled if red blooded he-men with worldly experience were to occupy the pulpits—men who had real messages and who could tell them without crying. And let them dress like business men during the week and mix with the males of their flocks and do the things that they do. Let the minister play a game of pool once in a while with the young men in his congregation, and learn that all pool parlors are not hell holes and that all of those who go in there are not going to the devil. Let him take a red blooded interest in football and baseball and play golf and learn first hand what is so interesting about the nineteenth hole. Maybe he might smoke a cigaret or a cigar once in a while!

I recently went to a church supper with a neighbor. When the minister talked he whined and gave the impression that a good laugh would be sacrilegious. Sitting next to me during the supper was a man whose name I did not catch—dressed in conservative business clothes—a man with a healthy, ruddy complexion. Two or three fat cigars were sticking out of his pocket, and he discussed with me the merits of Dempsey and Tunney. When the guest of the evening was introduced this man arose, and I learned then that he was pastor of the largest and wealthiest church in the city. The pews in his church are filled!

BARRY BARTELL.

HE MEANT UNGRAMMATICAL.

Riverside, Ill., Oct. 19.—In last Saturday's TRIBUNE I noticed a reader's correction of the word "bad" in regard to weather. He closed his remarks with the statement that such use as was made was "incorrect grammar." If he were to consult his dictionary he would find that grammar "is the art of speaking or writing a language correctly; the science that treats of the principles that govern the correct use of language." Therefore "incorrect grammar" is an impossibility.

DOROTHY LOCKIE.

TOO MUCH PRIDE.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—A young southern woman, in her reply to the Inquiring Photographer some time ago, said that the southerners had too much pride to permit their daughters to work, regardless of poverty.

I spent seven months in Georgia and while there saw plenty of little girls not even in their 'teens as yet and stunted in their growth working 9 to 10 hour daily in cotton or knitting mills, where conditions are anything but sanitary. In the face of this, even the poorest in Georgia, having only the meagerest rickety furniture, had to pay personal property taxes annually.

THE MUSICIANS' UNION AND THE MARINE BAND.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—Since the Chicago engagement of the United States Marine band there has been considerable discussion regarding the attitude taken on the matter by the Chicago Federation of Musicians.

Neither the American Federation of Musicians nor the Chicago Federation of Musicians have done anything to hamper the Chicago engagement of the Marine band. Neither of the two organizations had anything to do with curtailing any arrangement made to welcome the United States Marine band upon its arrival in Chicago. During the Roosevelt administration a dispute arose in New York state between a branch of the American Federation of Musicians and an employer. This employer, at the time, said he would circumvent employment of union musicians by engaging the United States Marine band. On appeal of the International Union of Musicians, President Roosevelt prohibited the Marine band from filling the engagement. This was later followed by a congressional act which makes it compulsory for marine bands and other bands of soldiers and sailors to live up to certain restrictions when their engagements are in conflict with the employment of civilian musicians. In fulfilling the Chicago engagement, the leader of the Marine band was only living up to restrictions placed upon their organization by congress.

JAMES C. PETRILLO,
President, Chicago Federation of Musicians.

SOLVING THE FARM PROBLEM.

Wilmette, Ill., Oct. 21.—Obviously there is no possibility of denying the power of the old law of supply and demand. That power is exemplified right now in the plight of the cotton growers and of the producers of all foodstuffs now selling below logical levels.

The plight of the farmer must be relied upon more than any other factor to remedy the plight of the farmer. Continuation of the "farm to city" movement, with consequent decrease in cultivated acreage, will eventually bring about the balance that has not existed for some years.

This movement alone, however, cannot provide the remedy. There must also be increased efficiency to cut production costs and to neutralize the effect of weather conditions; the reduction of uncultivated land that now constitutes approximately one-third of the total farm area of the country, thus to assure a more liberal return on the farmers' land investment; coöperative planting to insure proper diversification and to prevent overproduction of any one staple; organized marketing for the elimination of waste and unnecessary middleman's profits; ready and available credit for financing crop moving and for protection of the farmer during temporary price deflations.

All of the proposed visionary and impossible nostrums of the politico-farm doctors—made with an eye to political rather than practical results—are pure blah!

W. J. BRUNS.

WE HAVE OFTEN SAID SO, TOO.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—I wish to call your attention to the seven day a week people that have no Sunday off and are not organized so as to be able to demand a day off after working 12 hours a day. I think a big newspaper like THE TRIBUNE should take this up and advocate a change for the better.

J. A. SAMUELS.

AN IDEA FOR A CARTOON.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—Knowing the splendid fight you are waging against prohibition and the very effective cartoons which picture the situation better than words can express, I take the liberty to suggest a cartoon which would also be quite effective. I suggested it while campaigning for the governorship in Minnesota, and since the situation here is so similar I believe it would prove effective here.

The title of the cartoon should be "Painting the Pump to Purify the Well," and Col. Smith should be shown with a large brush smearing prohibition whitewash over the old pump.

A. O. EBERHART.

WHILE WAR VETS SUFFER.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—All railroads leading to California, which have refused to give Queen Marie a rate for herself and party, are to be congratulated on the stand they have taken. Would an American citizen [including our President] going to Europe be given the same ovation, including suites of rooms, food, and railway transportation, gratis, that some royalty-mad Americans are extending to her?

While doing war work, the writers saw case after case of boys who needed and will need help for the rest of their stay on earth. Instead of putting $400,000 suites of rooms at the disposal of her majesty and party, why not use the money instead for a just cause, for the betterment of the ones who were willing to fight for their country. The hotels willing to furnish suites with such a lavish hand for royalty should think twice, or is it just the publicity they want?

The Table

THIS genuine Walnut Spanish table, though massive, gives in its proportions a pleasing symmetrical effect. It is all Solid Walnut with a five-ply Walnut Veneer Top, laminated. It is the consensus of opinion of Furniture Manufacturers that a five-ply Walnut top is better than a solid Walnut top We particularly call your attention to the channel apron—that is the part immediately below the top—also the stretchers with their serpentine effect and legs set at an angle which is so typical of Spanish Furniture,—this the Artist accurately shows in the illustration.

The Chairs

THESE roomy comfortable sturdy Solid Walnut Chairs are in excellent proportions for their design. Befitting a Chair of this character and excellent construction it is proper that it should be covered in a long-wearing fabric so we have chosen Mohair for the seat covering. It is in a rich brown color with rose background, harmonizing perfectly with the high-lighted Antique finish and thus the entire ensemble demonstrates to a high degree the beauty obtainable in furniture.

ROYAL WEDDING REVIVES POMP OF ANCIENT SWEDEN

Military Display Marks Marriage of Astrid.

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Scenes reminiscent of seventeenth century days, when Sweden was a military power of the first magnitude and was twice its present size, will be enacted during next week's ceremonies surrounding the marriage of Prince Leopold, crown prince of Belgium, and Princess Astrid, niece of King Gustav of Sweden.

There will be the clatter of cavalry, rattling sabers, the roar of field guns, the tread of infantry and the glitter of steel helmets as well as other pomp and splendor.

No other European country in years has made such elaborate preparations for a brilliant wedding pageant, despite the fact that socialism in one form or another is playing an important rôle in joining the golden threads of romance of two royal families.

Stockholm Gaily Decorated.

The royal court has encouraged the idea of making a display of magnificence, without ostentation, of the ceremonies leading up to the celebration of the civil marriage of the royal pair on Thursday. In this the public has joined heartily, chiefly because it loves Princess Astrid and regards the match as one of love, pure and simple, which they admit has not always been the case in the betrothals of royal personages.

The Belgian king and queen will find Stockholm awaiting them with open arms when they arrive on Tuesday morning. The city will be decorated throughout and the royal visitors will be greeted at the railroad station by King Gustav, Queen Victoria, and many of the highest dignitaries of the city and country.

King Christian of Denmark and King Haakon of Norway probably will arrive on the same day. Then will follow a mile drive to the royal castle, each king in an open state carriage, through thoroughfares lined with troops and thousands of citizens from all parts of the country in their gayest finery.

Two Days of Feasting.

Two days of feasting, state receptions, and grand performances of opera will follow. Sightseeing trips have been arranged for the royal guests which will carry them to places sacred in Sweden for their ancient traditions.

Carl Lindhagen, the veteran Socialist bourgomaster of Stockholm, who will perform the civil ceremony, is carrying out his part with pleasure and even enthusiasm. The bourgomaster at several periods has represented his party in parliament and more than once has moved that the Swedish constitution should be altered so as to provide for a republic instead of a kingdom.

However, he has entered into the arrangements in a festive spirit and with all the joyous exuberance to fit the occasion. Furthermore, he has announced that he does not mind in the least riding up to the royal castle in state to do his part in making the wedding an occasion for splendid display worthy of the traditions of one of the oldest existing states in Europe.

Belgian Monarch Goes to Sweden.

LAEKEN, Belgium, Oct. 30.—(AP)—King Albert of Belgium and Queen Elizabeth tonight left the Royal station here, not far from their castle, aboard a special train on their way to Stockholm, where they will attend the civil wedding ceremony of their son, Prince Leopold, and Princess Astrid of Sweden. The train carried them to Ostend, where they will embark on the steamer Marie Jose. The royal party included the king, queen, Princess Marie Jose, Prince Charles, Premier Jaspar, Foreign Minister Vandervelde, and a considerable suite.

Two Killed, One Injured as Train Strikes Auto

Springfield, O., Oct. 30.—Two persons were killed and one was badly injured tonight when the Peoria and Eastern Big Four passenger train westbound for Indianapolis, struck an automobile at the Dayton pike crossing. Two men were almost cremated. One body had a card on it reading Harry Carr, 1216 Wayne avenue, Dayton. The license number was issued to Fred Yoder, Urbana, O., who is believed to be the other man killed. Bessie Thomas, 240 Maple street, city unknown, is at the city hospital here badly hurt.

DUKE OF LEEDS' HEIR TO MARRY NEW YORK GIRL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 30.—The marquess of Carmarthen, son and heir to the vast fortune of the duke of Leeds, and who was mentioned as a suitor of Mary Landon Baker of Chicago, early this year, today in Paris announced his engagement to Miss Virginia Martin, daughter of S. J. Weir, a wealthy retired New Yorker. Miss Martin is a charming 18 year old graduate of a Paris finishing school. At present she is staying with her sister, Mrs. Paul Brewster.

The marquess, whose private name is John Francis Godolphin Osborne, one day will inherit more than 24,000 acres of property in England, including Hornby castle, near Bedale, Yorkshire, the present residence of his father and the famous yacht Corisinde.

The marquess proved extremely reserved about his engagement to Miss Martin. He said the wedding date has not been fixed.

VETERANS PRAISE GEN. BELL; RITES TO BE TOMORROW

Resolutions commending the outstanding services of Maj. Gen. George Bell Jr. during the world war and expressing sympathy to the bereaved family of the soldier, who died on Thursday were adopted yesterday at a meeting of Voiture 220 of the Society of Forty-and-Eight.

Maj. Gen. Bell was in command of the 33d division during the war, and the veterans' resolutions attribute much of the success of the organization to his inspiring leadership. It was by his order that the 132d infantry took Forges Wood in four hours, a position that for years had been regarded as impregnable.

Funeral services for Gen. Bell will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in St. James Episcopal church, Cass and Huron streets. The body will lie in state at the late residence, the Belden-Stratford hotel, from noon today until tomorrow. Burial will be at Rosehill cemetery.

James T. Healy, Former School Board Member, Dies

Funeral services for James T. Healy, member of the board of education from 1867 to 1884, who died yesterday at his home at 747 Bittersweet place, will be held Tuesday at 10 a. m. at St. Mary's of the Lake church. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery. Mr. Healy, who was 80 years old, was first appointed a member of the board of education when he was 21. He was subtreasurer in Chicago during President Cleveland's administration and several years ago retired from a packing business which bore his name.

BYRNE TO ADDRESS CREDIT MEN.

J. Elliott Byrne, counsel for the central division of the National Association of Credit Men, will be principal speaker at a conference of the Chicago Credit Men's Forum to be held on Wednesday evening at the Hotel La Salle.

JUDGE SETTLES JOURNEYS' FIGHT OVER CHILDREN

The dispute between Prof. R. Cresap Journey, economics instructor in a Michigan college, and his divorced wife, Mrs. Helen Journey Harmon 524 Sheridan road, Evanston, for custody of their two children was settled yesterday by Superior Judge Joseph Sabath, who indicated he would give the children to the mother for nine months and to the father for three months of the year.

The Journey divorce suit had many sensational angles. The professor accused Attorney Oscar Harmon, who was once a student in his classes, of breaking up his home. Harmon was taken into the Journey home several years ago when the professor pitied the youth's ill health and penniless condition, Journey told the court. In return, the professor charged, Harmon became intimate with the wife. After the divorce, he married Mrs. Journey.

The children, Helen, 10 years old, and Stephen, 5, were made the legal children of Harmon by an adoption decree entered in the County court without their father's consent or knowledge. This decree probably will be set aside, it was indicated.

FIELD MUSEUM TALK DESCRIBES SIERRAS' BEAUTY

An appeal for public coöperation in the preservation of American forests and natural beauty generally was made yesterday in an illustrated lecture by Frederick Monsen of Pasadena, Cal., at the James Simpson theater, Field museum. The lecture was one of a series being given on science and travel under the auspices of the museum.

Mr. Monsen's lecture dealt with the California Sierras, which he described as one of the most beautiful mountain ranges in the world, in which are located the giant redwood forests.

Mr. Monsen for 40 years was a coworker with the naturalist, John Muir, in exploration of the Sierras. Next Saturday Dr. G. Clyde Fisher of the American Museum of Natural History, New York, will give an address on "The Evening Sky."

WALES DELIVERS TALK IN FRENCH; JUST A SENTENCE

PARIS, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The Prince of Wales made a one sentence speech today in French at the opening ceremonies of the Canadian students' home at the University of Paris, which he helped to inaugurate with President Doumergue.

"Mr. President, I have great pleasure in declaring the Canadian house open," the heir to the British throne said.

Not an English word was spoken at the ceremonies, which were attended by many of the best known figures in the social, intellectual and diplomatic sets of France. Among the speakers were Dr. Paul Lapie, rector of the University of Paris, former Minister of Education Honnorat, and Minister of Education Herriot.

The French students of royalist sympathies attending the ceremonies seized on the occasion to cheer the British prince lustily and simultaneously to give the republican statesmen of their own country a good natured joshing.

NEW BUILDING OF CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL OPENED

Formal opening of the Marth Wilson Memorial pavilion, the seventh building of the Children's Memorial hospital, was celebrated yesterday. More than 200 officers and sponsors of the hospital were present. There will be another reception today from 11 to 5, given by the board of directors and the auxiliary board under the management of Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, president of the auxiliary board; Mrs. John P. Wilson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. George Halleck Taylor, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, Mrs. Augustus K. Maxwell, Mrs. Eliphalet W. Cramer, and Mrs. John J. Borland.

The new building has 150 rooms of which 134 are for charity patients. It was given by John P. Wilson as a memorial to his daughter.

RUSSIAN PRINCE GIVES RECITAL; WINS A NICHE

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Prince Alexis Obolensky, once of the Russian nobility and army, and now an enlisted member in the service of song, made his first Chicago appearance yesterday morning in a recital at the Playhouse. Perhaps it was wrong to have apprehensions over the fact of his title, at any rate he sang more like an educated musician than a prince.

His voice is a sturdy bass of the typical Russian variety, having something the same quality that one hears proceeding from the throats of Georges Baklanoff and Feodor Chaliapin. Also, he knows music, as he demonstrated with songs from Russia, an aria from Mozart's "Magic Flute," a bit of old Italian and French, and some songs in English, the last, by the way, perfectly clear and understandable, though with a faint suspicion of a lisp.

In fact he was so much better than a good many other singers that one began to wonder why he should not compete with them on their own times instead of appearing at such an out of the normal hour and day as 11 o'clock Saturday morning. He was assisted by the Chicago violinist, Fritz Renk.

In Case of Funerals
the first thought is
"Hursen"

There is no place in this country where funerals are conducted with such generosity of service, such elegance of materials and such superb funeral automobiles as are those seen only at "Hursen" funerals. Yet, Hursen never imposes any extra charge for this super-elegance. It is at the disposal of all, whether the funeral be small or large.

The low charge and unexcelled elegance are two of the extraordinary features which have made the name of "Hursen" famous in America, and foremost in Chicago, whenever people speak about funerals, funeral charges, funeral service, funeral elegance, or funeral equipment.

Anyone can easily distinguish whether a funeral is being conducted by Hursen or not, by these very "hall-marks" of superiority. Hursen's funeral automobiles—a fleet of Lincolns, and the finest in America—have eliminated the question of distance. Chicago has shown that it prefers the finer things at funerals. It prefers the Hursen cars, the Hursen elegance, the Hursen service, the Hursen chapels.

The elegance of "Hursen" funerals to the last detail is unsurpassed. Yet the charge is from one-third to one-half those usually made elsewhere. It is this policy that has made "Hursen's" the greatest undertaking establishment in America. So, call Hursen, of course!

We take pride in announcing

The LYON & HEALY DUO-ART Reproducing Piano

This new and great instrument of surpassing beauty will be on display and may be heard for the first time . . . . . . commencing tomorrow, Monday morning

FOR 62 years Lyon & Healy has been the meeting place of names illustrious in the development of musical instruments. Such names as Steinway, Lyon & Healy, Steck, Duo-Art, Weber, Brambach, Stradivarius, Lyon & Healy Harp, Estey Organ, Victor, Brunswick, Columbia, Radiola, Atwater Kent, Washburn, Holton—all names that represent outstanding achievements, are names heard every hour here.

Now the name Lyon & Healy—borne so proudly for two generations by the famous Lyon & Healy piano—joins with another great name, Duo-Art. And tomorrow the Lyon & Healy Duo-Art Reproducing Piano takes its place among the great instruments of the world.

What Is a Duo-Art Piano?

The Steinway, the Weber, the Steck, and the Lyon & Healy Duo-Art Reproducing Pianos [you certainly should have one or the other] give new joys to piano ownership. For the Duo-Art Piano can be played in three different ways.

You Can Play a Duo-Art Piano in Three Different Delightful Ways

First—you can put in a music roll recorded by one of the world's master pianists—and hear the greatest music of all time played exactly—not almost, but exactly—as he played it. Every subtlety of tone, every shade of emphasis, exactness of tempo—"Perfect fidelity," Paderewski called it. Josef Hofmann wrote—"indeed my actual interpretation with all that implies."

Second—you can play your Duo-Art as a Pianola, regulating the emphasis and tempo, and so put your own interpretation into the composition being played.

And third—you can play the piano yourself in the ordinary way for the Duo-Art mechanism can be cut off entirely by the simple movement of a lever, making your Lyon & Healy Duo-Art piano a Lyon & Healy pianoforte—the same that has been famous for so many years for its wonderful tonal qualities.

But that's only half the story—Think of this:

> Every kind of Music—from Classic Masterpieces to the latest Broadway Dance success—represented in our Duo-Art Library of rolls.

No matter what your mood—no matter what the musical tastes of the friends you may be suddenly called upon to entertain—the Duo-Art Piano rises to the occasion—

It you feel like just listening—there are the works of the great masters or the homely melodies that have become classic with the years.

If you want to dance—dance! To the latest, most tantalizing dance music of a Broadway show.

If you want instruction—a music lesson with any of the world's greatest interpreters of great music.

If you feel like singing—let a great pianist accompany you—for the Duo-Art library of rolls includes hundreds of accompaniments for songs, both classic and popular.

It is hard to realize, until you have experienced it, how much the Duo-Art has enlarged the enjoyment of the piano. The new Lyon & Healy Duo-Art is, in addition, a piece of furniture of proud distinction and utter beauty—an original design by the eminent pianoforte case designer, W. Zaiser.

This is No. 8 of a Series of advertisements telling about great events of the Fall, 1926.

No. 1 told about the new Basement Piano Store.

No. 2 told about the new complete Lyon & Healy Camera Department.

No. 3 told about Viva-tonal Columbia phonographs and records.

No. 4 told about the enlarged and remodeled department of Band and Stringed Instruments.

No. 5 told about Atwater Kent Radio in Lyon & Healy's Radio Department.

No. 6 told about the new Lyon & Healy first floor record department.

No. 7 told about the rearranged Sheet Music Department.

No. 9—next week—will be an unusually important announcement. Watch for it!

The Lyon & Healy Plan of Ownership

It is becoming more and more the custom to take care of important purchases, of such things as pianos, out of income instead of disturbing one's bank account. The Lyon & Healy Duo-Art Reproducing Piano can be purchased under the Lyon & Healy Plan of Ownership on convenient monthly payments. There is a similar Lyon & Healy Plan of Ownership for all pianos sold here.

NINE DIE IN MINE EXPLOSION AT NANTICOKE, PA.

Caught in Terrific Blast in Colliery.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 30.—[(AP)]—The explosion which caused the death of nine employes of the Susquehanna Collieries Co., at its No. 7 operation Nanticoke today may be listed with other unsolved tragedies of the anthracite field. Rescue squads late today recovered the last bodies. Four of the victims were members of one family.

With the official investigations announced, officials pointed out that there was little possibility of determining the cause of the blast which wiped out every trace of life in the section, sealing the lips of those who might know.

Joseph J. Walsh, chief of the state bureau of mines, will investigate in behalf of the commonwealth.

The other inquiry will be undertaken by the company.

Eight members of the rescue squads were overcome by gas fumes, but recovered at the hospital.

WRIGHT HELD TO U. S. GRAND JURY UNDER MANN ACT

Olga Ill and Conspiracy Hearing Is Delayed.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Frank Lloyd Wright was bound over this morning to the April term of the federal grand jury by United States Commissioner Howard S. Abbott at a preliminary hearing here on a charge of violation of the Mann act and conspiracy to violate it. Bond was set at $7,500.

A continuance of one week was taken in the case of Olgivanna Milanoff Hinzenberg, against whom a warrant was issued for conspiracy to violate the Mann act, and who was unable to appear on account of illness.

Depends on Two Witnesses.

District Attorney Lafayette French Jr. based his case against the architect chiefly on the testimony of two witnesses, Miss Viola Steinhaum, maid at the cottage at Lake Minnetonka where Wright and Olgivanna were arrested ten days ago, and Enos Lloyd Jones of Spring Green, Wis., Wright's uncle. Through testimony of the maid the district attorney attempted to prove that Wright and Olgivanna occupied the Lake Minnetonka bungalow as man and wife under the names of Mr. and Mrs. Richardson.

Through statements by Enos Lloyd Jones he brought out that Wright had confided to his uncle that he was leaving Spring Green, although the defense scored a point when the witness testified that Wright had specified that his purpose in the trip was to take Olgivanna to a destination he did not name, for the purpose of receiving competent medical attention.

Motion to Dismiss Fails.

Attorney W. M. Nash for the defense moved to dismiss the charges on the ground that no evidence had been presented, that Mr. Wright had transported Olgivanna from one state to another for immoral purposes or otherwise. He read a decision handed down by the Circuit court of appeals wherein the circumstances of the case were similar and the ruling given that it was necessary for a conviction, that the intention to violate the Mann act was formed before the journey from one state to another was begun, and that proof of such intention must be presented. Commissioner Abbott denied the motion.

The decision of the commissioner confirmed the misgivings Wright expressed yesterday that he would be unable to have the case settled today, and he threw out his hands with a hopeless gesture.

"Just as I feared," he sighed, "this only means that I can do no work until next spring—that my usefulness is curtailed until then, while my career waits on that of other men."

CINCINNATI GIRL WED TO FORMER CHICAGO CITIZEN

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—With a background of green palms and white chrysanthemums, the wedding of Miss Frances Fee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fee Sr., to Cyril A. Ward of Detroit, formerly of Chicago, was solemnized this morning at St. Patrick's church, north side, Cincinnati.

The bridegroom's two brothers, the Rev. William and Ferdinand Ward of De Paul university, Chicago, performed the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Matthew O'Brien of St. Patrick's.

The bride, attired in white chiffon velvet trimmed in Chantilly lace and wearing a rhinestone coronet, came in on her father's arm, preceded by her maid of honor, Miss Dorothy Dury. The bridesmaid was Miss Eva Fee, the bride's sister.

The best man was David D. Dunlop of Detroit. The groomsmen were Jack Fee, the bride's brother, and William Brems, her brother-in-law.

After a Chicago honeymoon Mr. Ward will take his bride to their Detroit home.

CHICAGOAN AND NEW YORK WRITER WED BY CONTRACT

New York, Oct. 30.—[Special.]—One of the few marriages by contract since this form of marriage was made a statute of New York state in 1909 took place today, when Miss Theda Cocroft, a magazine writer, became the bride of Eugene Whitmore, editor of the "Sales Management" magazine of Chicago.

The contract was drawn up by Milton Ives Livy, lawyer, and signed by Justice Louis D. Gibbs of the Supreme court. No marriage license was required, no wedding ring, and no promise to "love, honor, and obey." After Mrs. Livy had filed the papers at the county clerk's office and paid a fee of $3 the contract was signed and acknowledged "just like a deed or mortgage."

Tonight, in celebration of the unique ceremony, an old-fashioned halloween party was held. The bride said she and Mr. Whitmore had decided on a marriage by contract, as neither of them had any definite religious belief. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Cocroft of Oakland, Cal.

"VOTE TUESDAY"

Good government means protection to family, property, health, prosperity and, to a large extent, happiness. Good government depends solely on the proper representatives being chosen for elective offices. To insure proper representatives you must vote.

With so much depending upon voting, it is hard to understand why so many men and women neglect this fundamental of American citizenship. Vote for whom you please, but be sure to vote on Tuesday. Do it before you go to work. With this firm if voting makes some of our employes late, we are going to overlook it.

TEXAS MINISTER FACES TRIAL FOR MURDER MONDAY

Norris Collects Tub of Gold for Defense.

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—A clergyman will sit in prisoner's dock in District court here Monday and ask a jury of twelve of his peers to wash his hands clean of another man's blood.

The man will be the Rev. J. Frank Norris of First Baptist church, firebrand of the Baptist faith in the south, and on his hands is the blood of D. E. Chipps, whom he shot to death in the church office here on July 17.

Norris will go into court with the faith of his congregation, united behind him, for there has been no cleavage in his following over his breaking the biblical injunction:

"Thou Shalt Not Kill."

Norris will go into court not only with the moral suport of his church membership, but with thousands of dollars they have poured into a homely old washtub that has stood for weeks in front of the altar in the First church.

Will Ask No Favors.

"I ask no favors, I ask no mercy, only the same consideration that a bootlegger or Negro crap shooter enjoys, the inalienable right of self-defense," he declared recently in confirming the report that his fight would be based on a plea of self-defense.

When Judge George Hosey raps for order tomorrow, it is the unanimous opinion of Fort Worth and the southwest that the bitterest trial in the history of the southwest will be under way.

Chipps was a Shriner, a wealthy and influential business man and a close friend of Mayor Meacham of Fort Worth. He went to his death when he sought to stop Norris' vitriolic pulpit attacks on the Meacham administration.

That fact has split Forth Worth into two deadly hostile factions.

On the other hand, Norris, though hated by many with a kind of hatred that only religious intolerance can breed, has built up a powerful following in the last decade.

Frowned on by the Baptist "regulars" of Texas, kicked out of their councils at one state convention, he has drawn together by his magnetic personality the largest Baptist Sunday school in the world and one of the strongest churches in the nation.

Hamon Lawyer to Prosecute.

W. P. McLean, who won an acquittal for Clara Smith Hamon at Ardmore on charges of killing Jake R. Hamon, against the wealth and political power that backed the prosecution, will head the special staff of prosecutors engaged by Chipps' friends.

Marvin B. Simpson of Fort Worth leads a coterie of brilliant defense attorneys.

Then inject Norris' charge that he "beat to the draw a Roman Catholic plot to kill me" and you see why dozens of newspapers and press associations have special wires into the courthouse.

Norris declares that he received a phone call on the afternoon of July 17 in which Chipps threatened to kill him if he made any more threats against his friends.

These statements were supposed to be the attacks Norris had made on Meacham in a series of sermons about Fort Worth civic affairs and particularly business dealings of the administration.

One of these was Norris' erection of a platform for a revival on a campus of one of the city schools. The city notified him that it would have to be removed.

Norris refused, claiming that it was public property, and one day city workmen appeared on the scene and tore the structure down.

Another instance of friction came when the city purchased a large stone building from the Catholic church to widen a downtown street. Norris immediately flew into print with the charge that the price was excessive and that it was paid to benefit Mayor Meacham's large department store, which is near by.

Chipps Goes to Norris' Office.

"Chipps came to my office on Saturday afternoon," Norris' version of the events preceding the tragedy goes. "He said that if I made any more statements about his friends in my sermons that he would kill me."

"'Who are your friends?'" Norris said he asked him. "He replied, 'Mayor Meacham and the others you have assailed.'"

"I ordered him from my office," Norris continued, "and sat down to work on my sermon notes, thinking no more about it.

"I looked up to see Chipps confronting me. His right hand was at his hip. As much as I hated to do it, I shot him."

There was only one eyewitness to the shooting—L. H. Nutt, a church official. He corroborated every word that Norris said.

State attorneys hinted that they would investigate the youth's second story on the grounds that it might have been secured by extortion.

City Detective Bush, first to arrive on the scene, found no gun on Chipps. He did find an empty revolver in a drawer of Norris' desk, which Norris said was the weapon used to fell Chipps.

Defense Calls 50 Witnesses.

Norris' attorneys have called for 50 witnesses. The state has kept every move carefully under cover.

The extraordinarily iron courage that has sustained Norris from the time some 12 years ago when he was indicted, tried, and acquitted of burning his church, on down through a span of years crowded with bitter personal antagonism for him, never was more apparent than when he faced his congregation the morning after the shooting.

A throng estimated at close to 15,000 fought for entrance into First Church, eager to see how this militant churchman would meet his Gethsemane.

Norris stood motionless, with his hands clasped behind, barely 50 feet from the spot where Chipps fell. Behind him was massed a choir of 700 trained voices.

"My sermon today, my friends, will be on the all prevailing power of Brotherly Love," he declared in a calm voice.

"Who is he that condemneth," he continued, taking his text from the eighth chapter of Romans. "All condemnation was passed on Him. Every sin was named upon Him, and there can be no condemnation on those who are in Him. If God is for us, who can work against us.

"All things work together for he who is called to God."

Then in the same calm voice he pleaded with those present to heed the injunction of brotherly love, to do unto others as you would have others do unto you.

There was no hint in the erect bearing, the even tones, or the flash in the gray eyes that the arm that was extended in an entreaty for brotherly love had sped a leaden missile into the heart of one of his fellow men.

At the close of the service, his congregation swarmed about the chancel, eager to profess their faith in him. Many women, weeping, caught at his hands to kiss them.

It was here that his composure showed the only signs of the stress under which he was laboring. His eyes filled and he seemed unable to speak.

A few minutes before, he had called for converts and only two responded.

"This is a little unusual," he said, referring to the small number. "But the unusual is expected around First Baptist church. God works his will in unusual ways.

"My faith is stronger today in the living faith of the living God than ever before."

A glance back through a dozen years will cast light on this unusual apostle who can kill, be accused of burning his church, be thrown out of its councils, and yet bring to his feet literally thousands of almost fanatical followers.

Indicted for Arson.

Norris first came into the public eye about twelve years ago. First Baptist church was mysteriously burned. A long and sensational investigation resulted in Norris' indictment on charges of arson.

A bitter trial followed, in which Norris' congregation was divided upon the question of his guilt or innocence. In the end a jury decided that he did not fire his church.

The verdict had no effect on the breach the charges occasioned, and Norris' flock dwindled to a mere handful.

With flaming words, he carried the fight to his enemies. Hundreds came to hear this religious firebrand who stood upon street corners, in tents, and in the places of the humble and lashed his opponents, whom he charged "framed" the arson indictment.

Those that came remained to stay and gradually his flock assumed sizable proportions. In later years it has developed into a mammoth gathering that takes a whole block of buildings to house and is called the largest Sunday school in the world.

Ever alert to detect the presence of evil, Norris finally turned his fight against "Hell's Half Acre," the reservation in Fort Worth.

The crusade struck fire. It was heralded over the southwest and Norris' congregations were even larger.

Then one day Norris appeared in church with two pistols strapped to his belt.

Had Threatened His Life.

"Those hirelings of hell," he referred to inmates of the resort, "have threatened my life. I seek only the chance to defend myself."

Subsequently the reservation disappeared and Norris claimed credit for its demise.

His next big fight came in the councils of the church. Members of the faith in Texas, frowning on his sensational tactics, barred him from a seat in their convention. After a fight epochal in Texas church annals, he was reinstated, but even now is frowned upon by many "regular Baptists."

ROB MAN AND WIFE IN AUTO, THEN TAKE CAR

As Edward Poncher, his wife, and their 15 year old son, Edward Jr., drew up at the curb in front of their home at 5530 Drexel avenue early last evening, two armed youths stepped on the running board of their automobile.

"Stay inside," said one of them. "We are going to take you for a little ride."

Poncher obeyed orders and drove south with his uninvited guests. On the way one of the men took two diamond rings, one diamond pin, and two watches from Mr. and Mrs. Poncher, valued at $6,100. At 57th street the members of the family were forced out and the bandits drove on in the automobile with their loot. Hundreds of motorists on the avenue were unaware that the robbery was in progress.

Paris Won't Ape Broadway; Electric Signs Are Scrapped

PARIS, Oct. 30.—(AP)—An effort to "Americanize" Paris with brilliant Broadway-like electric signs was quashed today by the council of the prefecture of Seine department. The council ordered the immediate removal of all electrical advertisements on the tops of buildings in the Place de l'Opera, the Avenue de l'Opera, the Place d'Etoile, and about the Arc de Triomphe on the ground that they marred the beauty of the skyline.

CREW RESCUED, BUT SAILBOAT IS LOST IN GALE

New York, Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Survivors of the British sailing ship William Melbourn, lost Wednesday in a gale in the Bay of Fundy, today were landed here from the steamship Felix of the United States Gypsum Transportation company, which was forced to abandon the disabled vessel after several hours' heroic effort to take the foundering ship in tow.

Once, in the gale and heavy seas, a line was placed aboard the Melbourn, but the line broke, and after four unsuccessful effort to again place a line aboard, the Felix turned about to pick up to its lifeboat, which was drifting about with the rescued crew from the Melbourn and the volunteers who had gone to their aid from the Felix.

MRS. HALL HAS HER OWN PHOTOS TAKEN FOR PRESS

Distressed by "Hit or Miss" Newsprints.

New York, Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall has taken steps to prevent newspapers from "pictorially misrepresenting her" when she goes on trial for her life next Wednesday at Somerville, N. J., it was learned today.

Yesterday she went to a photographer at Princeton and posed for twenty-two different portraits. These are to be broadcast to newspapers throughout the country with a request that they be used instead of the "hit or miss" negatives of their own photographers. Stories and pictures which represent her as "a terrible, ugly, scheming woman," have done her an injustice, Mrs. Hall feels, and this led to her visit to a studio. "Am I as terrible as the newspapers show me?" she asked the photographer. The latter assured her that none of the pictures he had seen had really done her justice.

Injustice in Snapshots.

"The reason I am having these pictures taken," Mrs. Hall explained today, "is to correct the injustice done me through snapshots and monstrosities that continually appear in the papers showing me as a terrible, ugly, scheming woman. Whenever I step out of my house—well, you know you have seen them, those random, hit or miss affairs which show me with my hand trying to protect my face, or perhaps a curl in my lip, or, again, with deep, sunken eyes.

"I hate publicity. This thing is all so terrible, but what am I going to do? They will have pictures at any cost, and I decided that I might as well submit and have a picture to show me as I know I am."

Assistant Attorney General Alexander Simpson, who is to prosecute the state's case against Mrs. Hall and her brothers, Willie Stevens and Henry Stevens, held a final conference tonight with his aids to consider Dr. Schultz's official report of the autopsy performed on the body of Dr. Hall, which was performed today. No word, except that the body of the clergyman showed no signs of having been mutilated, was anonunced.

Attacks Witness' Record.

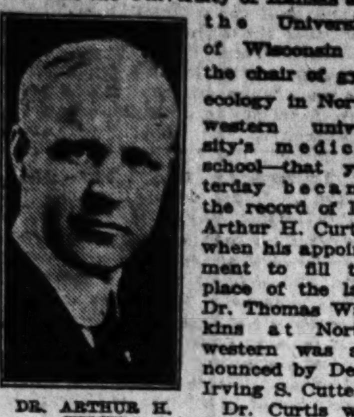
Inspector John J. Underwood made public today the names of 101 persons who are to be witnesses for the state at the trial, which begins Wednesday. More than 250 persons were interviewed, but less than half proved to have stories admissible for evidence.

A Jersey City newspaper attacked the record of Caprio, the razor clew author, today. Caprio, it was charged, was dismissed from the Jersey City police department and had faced a number of charges since then.

W. C. T. U. to Hold Prayer Hour for Its Candidates

Kenosha, Wis., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—A "call to prayer" has been issued by Mrs. W. A. Julian, president of Kenosha chapter of the W. C. T. U., to women of Kenosha and Kenosha county. An hour of prayer will be held at the Baptist church Monday afternoon for the success of the dry candidates on the county and state tickets and for the defeat of the prohibition referendum, it was announced.

DR. ARTHUR H. CURTIS, EX-GRID STAR, NOW A NORTHWESTERN PROF.



DR. ARTHUR H. CURTIS.

From college athlete and football coach at the University of Kansas and the University of Wisconsin to the chair of gynecology in Northwestern university's medical school—that yesterday became the record of Dr. Arthur H. Curtis when his appointment to fill the place of the late Dr. Thomas Watkins at Northwestern was announced by Dean Irving S. Cutter.

Dr. Curtis was known in his college days 25 years ago as Art Curtis. He was a member of the baseball team at Wisconsin in 1899, 1900, 1901-2. He was a member of the football team from 1898 to 1901, captain in the last year. He went as head coach to the University of Kansas in 1902 and returned to coach the Badgers in 1903 and 1904. He followed his coaching with two years of graduate medical work in Berlin and Vienna.

FOUND DEAD IN HIS ROOM.

William McElcheran, 65 years old, 437 North Clark street, was found dead in his room yesterday. Heart disease is believed to have caused his death.

JAIL WARDEN'S AID QUITS; CALLS JOB TOO TOUGH

William Brown, retired marine sergeant, who was made an assistant superintendent in the county jail at request of American Legion posts because of his reputation as a hard boiled disciplinarian, decided yesterday that the job is too hard for the remuneration received. Brown was given the post during the turbulent days last summer when it appeared that the prisoners were making too free with their guards.

"This is a tough job and it is not worth while for a salary of $183 a month," said Brown in tendering his resignation to Warden E. J. Fogarty.

The resignation of Brown gave the new warden his first opportunity to advance employés by his newly installed merit system. James Eggleston, a relief assistant, was given Brown's position, and Joseph Keller, a guard, was advanced to Eggleston's place. Otto Schuler, 2813 Karlov avenue, who heads the eligible list, was made a guard.

Robbers "Set In" at Dice Game and Clean Up $456

Two expert crapshooters aided with two revolvers were declared winners yesterday when they came upon a dice game in progress in the rear of the James T. Igoe Printing company, 608 West Van Buren street. Several were gathered around when the bandits entered the game. They drew their revolvers and demanded the money. After "cleaning" the game they were winner by $456 and a few gold watches.

RUSSIA PLANS TO END MEDDLING TO WIN RECOGNITION

Propaganda Agency Will Be Dissolved.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 30.—THE TRIBUNE learns from sources in closest touch with soviet Russia that a radical change in the policy of the soviet government is expected to be announced after the special primary meeting of the council of the third international. This is to be convened immediately after the conclusion of the communist party conference, now in session at Moscow.

The soviet government, THE TRIBUNE learns, has made up its mind to end the interference of the third international with the domestic affairs of other nations, and to discontinue the world-wide communist propaganda.

The first step is to be the liquidation of the propaganda department of the communist international and the next is to be a strong drive for recognition and the conclusion of treaties between Russia and all the countries which have not so far recognized the soviet government. The third point is the arrangement for the settlement of Russia's external debts. It is said the soviets plan to invite all the debtors to a congress at Vienna at which the whole debt situation will be thrashed out and clarified.

It is believed that Christian Rakovsky, soviet envoy to France, already has secured the French approval of this plan for an international conference.

THE TRIBUNE also learns that under the influence of Premier Mussolini, Russia has offered a secruity pact to Czecho-Slovakia. If it is accepted, a similar offer will be made to Poland.

Grand Duke Cyril, pretender to the Russian throne, who has been in Vienna for some days, is seeking to raise a large loan for the benefit of the Russian monarchists, THE TRIBUNE learns. Cyril recently declared the monarchy would be restored in Russia in two years.

Youths Sentenced to Gallows

Thomas McWane, 19 years old (right), and James Gricius, 21 years old, who pleaded guilty to three murders, and who were yesterday sentenced to hang by Judge Harry B. Miller. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

SLAYERS OF GIRL, TWO MEN GIVEN DEATH SENTENCE

Death on the gallows was the punishment given yesterday by Judge Harry B. Miller to James Gricius and Thomas McWane, slayers of a girl and two men during an orgy of robberies last July in Cicero. Unless Gov. Small intervenes the men will die on Dec. 31.

A plea of guilty, which attorneys had hoped would save the young men from the hangman, availed them nothing. Judge Miller in sentencing them said he felt it his duty to display the same courage that would be expected from a jury called to pass on facts in a similar case.

Gricius, whose alias is Granite, is 21 years old, and McWane is 19. The murder for which they are to be hanged is that of Miss Marie Blang, 23 year old Sunday school teacher, who lived at 1533 South 59th court, Cicero. The others slain were Frederick Hein, 2300 South Kostner avenue, Sunday school superintendent, and Ludwig Rose, Checker cab driver, 3427 North Hamilton avenue.

Kill Taxi Driver First.

The men hired Rose's cab, bound and gagged him, and then robbed him. Rose also was stripped of his clothing. When he made a move as if to attempt to escape he was shot and killed.

Later the slayers drove to South Fifty-ninth court and stopped in front of number 1533, where Hein was sitting in his sedan with Miss Blang, whom he had brought home from church. Another robbery was attempted and when Hein made a gesture of resistance and Miss Blang screamed, seven shots were fired from one or possibly two .45 caliber automatics. Both Hein and the girl were dead when police arrived.

Nabbed Planning Fourth Murder.

Gricius was arrested as he was planning a fourth murder. He said he intended to kill Sol Schwartz, son of the owner of the American Flange and Manufacturing company, 4646 Arthington street. Several months before the start of his career of banditry he had lost the thumb of his left hand while working on a lathe in the factory, he said.

"This court is called upon to do an unpleasant duty," said Judge Miller as he mounted the bench to impose sentence upon the men, who pleaded guilty last week.

"This court, however, will not shun its duty or evade the responsibility placed upon it by law.

"I have carefully examined the evidence submitted by both sides and I cannot find one mitigating circumstance. There is no testimony as to the defendant's mental condition, or their personal habits that offers the least excuse for their committing these heinous crimes.

Judge Gives Death Sentence.

"If twelve citizens were called into a jury box to pass upon the evidence the court would expect them honestly and conscientiously to perform their duty and bring in a verdict in accordance with the viciousness of the crime. The people have the right to expect from their judges the same conscientious performance of their duty as the courts expect from juries.

"This was a cold blooded unprovoked murder and I believe the people expect the courts to punish it accordingly. Therefore I shall sentence both men to death."

The defendants seemed stunned when the judge announced the sentence.

"I ain't guilty," McWane said. "This was foisted upon me."

Gricius stared at the judge for some time before he was able to stutter, "I'm not guilty."

Clemency Denied McWane.

"Inasmuch as McWane fired no shots I believe he should receive some consideration," said his attorney, Edward Maher.

"One is as guilty as the other," replied Judge Miller.

The judge's action in sentencing the men to death on a plea of guilty is unusual for the Criminal court. In past years it has been generally understood that a plea of guilty in a vicious murder case, such as the Loeb-Leopold's case, entitled the defendants to a life sentence.

D'Annunzio, in Seclusion, Writing Play About Christ

ROME, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Gabrielle d'Annunzio's self imposed exile in his villa at Gardone Rivera has been partly explained. He is cut off from all worldly contacts, laboring as much as fourteen to sixteen hours a day over two works, a mystery play with Christ as the chief character, and a drama based on the life of St. Francis of Assisi.

SENTENCED TO BRIDEWELL.

Emmett Smith, colored, 22 years old, 3752 South Wabash avenue, was sentenced to the Bridewell for one year yesterday. He was found guilty of robbery.

FRANCE MUST PAY DEBT, ENVOY TO LEGION ASSERTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 30.—French political circles' hopes that the United States elections would have the effect of switching the American debts policy were dashed today when Ambassador Myron T. Herrick, fresh from his conferences with President Coolidge, and Col. Picot, France's envoy to the American Legion convention, returned to Paris.

"The Washington accord must be ratified," Col. Picot declared, basing the assertion on his talks with President Coolidge and leading statesmen, financiers, and citizens. Col. Picot said he would inform Foreign Minister Briand and Premier Poincare of the urgent need for ratification of the Berenger accord, but he intimated that he had received assurances that if this were accomplished France might expect more lenient treatment in the payments later.

"If I could, I would pay that debt myself," Ambassador Herrick said in the presence of Henri Berenger, ambassador to the United States. It was all Mr. Herrick would say regarding the debt. The entire staff of the United States embassy and several hundred Americans greeted the ambassador.

GERMAN CABINET TO MEET TO PLAN LOAN FOR FRANCE

nk, Reparations Chief, to Have Final Say.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ERLIN, Oct. 30.—The German cab- t will meet Monday to discuss the ncial compromise plan sketched by tide Briand, French foreign min- r, the German ambassador to Paris, von Hoesch, and the American general for reparations, Seymour rker Gilbert. The plan under dis- ion now provides for an interna- l loan to be taken up through the rations agent with the German road obligations as security. The will be turned over to France help it stabilize its currency.

Disapproved by Washington.

The idea of floating the railroad obli- ons on the international market been given up owing to Washing- 's disapproval. Experts pointed out in view of the low rate of inter- payable on the obligations—6 per —they could be sold only at a ry low price, which in turn would essitate the sale of at least 4,000,- 000 marks [$1,000,000,000] worth to vide France with 2,000,000,000 gold rks [$500,000,000] which it requests stabilization.

The international loan would be is- d at a rate of interest of 8 or 9 per t, with approximately 6,000,000,000 marks [$1,500,000,000] worth of total of 11,000,000,000 gold marks 750,000,000] in railroad obligations security. The 6 per cent interest now on the total sum is to be used the payment of interest on the loan.

Fear for German Currency.

It is pointed out in Wilhelmstrasse, well as by the office of the agent eral for reparations, that these dis- sions are greatly complicated by r of the experts that a loan big ugh to satisfy France's demands y endanger the stability of the Ger- n currency, which is essential to e restoration of financial normalcy Europe.

Official circles add that while the n is under serious consideration, no ps will be taken without the definite proval of the American agent gen- l, who is supreme protector of the man currency.

Sichorski was shot by John Narzenkowski, owner of the mattress factory, while entering the factory through a side window.

MARRIAGE TIES EXALTED BY POPE AS NIECE IS WED

Miss Ratti and Count Are United by Pius XI.

BY JOHN CLAYTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Oct. 30.—Marie Luisa Ratti, niece of Pope Pius XI, was married this morning in the Mathilda chapel of the Vatican to Marquis Eduardo Persichetti Ugolini di Santa Mustiola, councillor of the Nicaraguan legation to the holy see.

In performing the ceremony, Pius XI officiated at a marriage for the first time during his pontificate. Having blessed the ring and said the nuptial mass, the pope delivered a discourse exalting the dignity of marriage as a natural contract and the most powerful element in family and social life, but above all he extolled its quality as a sacrament to which it was raised by Christ himself. Being a sacrament, he said, it carries with it all the grace necessary to the accomplishment of all its duties. With these thoughts the pope renewed his wishes of happiness for the pair.

Then, addressing the bride, he recalled that he had baptised her, administered first communion to her and was happy to have accompanied her to the threshold of her new life.

Following the ceremony, the pope was host at the wedding breakfast in the little throne room adjoining the private library. Covers were laid for sixteen, with the pope's place apart and raised above the others. Present were the bride and groom, on the right and left of the pope, Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, the parents and witnesses.

A buffet lunch was spread in the consistory hall for the guests, who were received by the bridegroom before sitting down to breakfast.

The bride was garbed in a magnificent gown of crêpe morrocaine, with the veil held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms.

371,927 ALIENS COME INTO U. S. IN A YEAR; FEW QUOTAS UNUSED

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—State department figures released today disclose that last year 371,927 aliens entered the United States under the provisions of the immigration act of 1924. Of this number 135,777 came from Canada, Mexico, and other American countries granted quota exempt status by reason of birth.

The European quotas set up under the provisions of the 1924 act were virtually all exhausted. Out of quotas aggregating 161,364 visas, only 418 remained unissued, of which 291 were in the quota for the Irish Free State, where the demand fell just short of the supply.

A distribution of the total number of visas issued to aliens shows that 161,857 went to immigrants coming for permanent residence in the United States, 40,458 to tourists and other temporary visitors, 30,835 to persons of the excepted classes from the quota countries, and the balance to nationals of quota exempt countries.

Great Britain, with a total visiting list of 12,290, sent the largest number of tourists to this country. Germany followed with 3,789; Italy with 1,401, and France with 1,286.

Mexico and Canada furnished the bulk of the immigrants and visitors entering this country from American nations.

EX-EMPRESS ZITA TO GET HER OWN CASTLE IN SPAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Oct. 30.—Spain's John D. Rockefeller, the Marquis Val de Cilla, has just contributed the last 100,000 pesetas [$15,140] necessary to purchase a palace for former Empress Zita of Austria, who, since the overthrow of the monarchy, has been living as a guest of the Spanish royal family.

For several years an organization of aristocratic Spaniards under the presidency of the king's major domo, Count Uquijo, has been trying to raise the necessary funds to purchase a permanent home for the queen without a country.

It is not definitely settled which of the numerous places on the market will be selected, but it probably will be one in Lequetio, a small village near Bilbao on the northern coast of Spain. Although not ancient, the Lequeitio palace has all the charm and design of the rugged castles of old Castile which harbored many historic figures of Spain.

BOOTLEG GANGS QUIET AS TWO ARE BEING BURIED

Marion, Ill., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Except for the funerals of William McQuay at Herrin and Ward Jones at Equality, two of the slain Birger gangsters, everything has been quiet in the Williamson county gang sector since the destruction of the Birger roadhouses near West Frankfort on Thursday morning.

Following statements of Birger that he would reveal the identity of the $21,000 Collinsville, Ill., mail robbers, postal inspectors from Chicago have been expected, but if they have been here they have eluded reporters.

Birger said that one of the three robbers was killed in the election day gun battle at Herrin on April 13 but that the other two have been trying to frame federal charges against him for peddling dope and that is why he is telling on them.

HALLOWEEN FIRES COST ONE LIFE, FRIGHTEN MANY

But Most Celebrations Are Safe and Sane.

Nearly a hundred alarms, most of them the outgrowth of Halloween celebrations, were answered by the Chicago fire department last night.

In one of these blazes, in a two story brick building at 1154 Hastings street, an unidentified man about 60 years old died. Firemen found him sitting upright on a couch in the place, which is used as a junk shop. He had not been burned and the police believe that he was suffocated by smoke.

Cause of Fire Mystery.

The origin of the fire was undetermined. One theory is that spontaneous combustion caused the blaze; another that celebrants of the holiday started it. Property damage in this fire was about $600.

Most of the alarms were turned in by property owners who feared that bonfires made by small boys would spread to buildings. At midnight the police asserted that although all available men had been kept on duty to guard against vandalism, there had been little need for extra precautions, as most of the fun had been harmless.

Schools, Movies Share Credit.

Credit for the sane celebrations was given to the organized efforts made by school principals and teachers, aided by motion picture theater owners, to obtain the coöperation of children. Yesterday morning nearly 200,000 pupils of public and parochial schools were entertained in the theaters free and signed pledges that they would not disturb the peace.

Rolland Witcraft, president of the Chicago School Principals' club, stated that in 1925, when thirty theaters coöperated in the no damage campaign for Halloween, disorder had been cut to a small fraction of that usual in previous years. Yesterday 100 theaters controlled by the Chicago Association of Motion Picture Theater Owners were used.

Celebrate Street Opening.

Citizens of the far south side used the holiday to celebrate the opening of Exchange avenue from 71st to 79th streets as a paved thoroughfare. A parade was held, with hundreds of school children marching, and the Windsor Park and Cheltenham Business Men's associations were hosts at a party later.

Vice President Charles G. Dawes and Mrs. Dawes were hosts to twenty-five youngsters at a party given in their Evanston home. Clubs and schools in all parts of the city celebrated with parties. Tomorrow night fifty-eight playgrounds, with the assistance of civic organizations, will have similar observances.

LIEUT. CONANT, NAVY CUP FLYER, THOUGHT KILLED

Mathews, Va., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Lieut. Frank H. Conant II., navy Schneider cup race flyer, is believed to have been killed when his plane crashed and sank in shallow water near here today.

Conant, a junior grade lieutenant, was recognized as one of the navy's ablest speed and stunt flyers. Recently he set claim to an air trip record from New York to Norfolk of three hours flat.

En Route to Hampton Roads.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Lieut. Frank H. Conant II., who is believed to have been killed in Chesapeake bay this afternoon, was en route from Anacostia to the Hampton roads naval air station. The news was not received here until it was too late to send out a searching plane.

Information received at Norfolk from Mathews by telephone tonight was that the crash occurred at 1:30 p. m. about a mile off shore. The weather was murky and there were no witnesses, but a man on shore heard the engine of a plane, heard it stop, and a moment later there was a crash, and then all was still.

A party went from shore and found a considerable amount of wreckage and oil floating on the water about one mile out.

POLICE INVESTIGATE DEATH.

East Chicago avenue police are trying to learn how Thomas Robinson, colored, 31 years old, 1351 North Sangamon street, received injuries that caused his death yesterday.

NORTHERN CHINA FORCES UNITE TO STEM CANTONESE

Southern Armies Weaker and Short of Funds.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Oct. 30.—The appointment of Pang-fu, closely associated with Japanese financial affairs in China through his connection with the Nishihara loan of 1919, as finance minister of the Peking government, together with recent developments in the Yangtse situation, is believed here to be indicative of a unification of the northern militarists for a determined drive to prevent any further increase in the power of the Canton nationalist government and possibly dislodge them from their Hankow position.

The Cantonese forces, manifestly depleted and short of finances, openly charge the Japanese and British imperialists with a secret combination to stifle the Chinese nationalist movement.

See Spread of Soviets.

The British press in China is publishing maps and editorials on the Cantonese advance as showing a spread of soviet influence, likening the situation to the Taiping rebellion seventy years ago, which shook the Manchu empire, and resulted in the killing of 10,000,000 Chinese during the ten years of war.

The desperate last minute attempt of the northern militarists to effect a combination to stay the Cantonese advance was precipitated by the recent action of the Canton government for the removal of its capital to Wuchang, and the announcement by the Cantonese that Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang, the Christian general, was moving an army of 60,000 from Mongolia, through the provinces of Kansu and Shensi, to combine with the Cantonese at Hankow. This would narrow the northern militarists to the coastal provinces and Manchuria.

Northerners Claim Advantage.

The situation in Kiangsi province still is confused, following more than a month's bitter fighting, with Gen. Sun Chuan-fang, ruler of eastern China, claiming an advantage over the Cantonese. He says the Cantonese ranks are split and that Gen. Chiang Kai-shek soon will be forced to evacuate the Hankow district, leaving the city in possession of Gen. Tang Sun-tse, tupan of Hunan province. Gen. Tang has been coöperating with the southerners, but now is reported to be wavering in the northern direction.

SCALDS FATAL TO BOY.

Joseph La Porte, 4 years old, 3035 North Keating avenue, died yesterday of scalds received by falling into a tub of boiling water at his home.

COOLIDGE FORMALLY PROCLAIMS NOV. 25 THANKSGIVING DAY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Following custom, President Coolidge today issued a formal Thanksgiving proclamation setting Thursday, Nov. 25, as the date on which all Americans should give thanks for a prosperous year.

"As a nation and as individuals we have passed another twelve months in the favor of the Almighty," the President wrote in beginning his proclamation. "He has smiled upon our fields and they have brought forth plentifully; business has prospered; industries have flourished, and labor has been well employed. While sections of our country have been visited by disaster we have been spared any great national calamity or pestilential visitation. We are blessed among the nations of the earth.

"Our moral and spiritual life has kept measure with our material prosperity. We are not unmindful of the gratitude we owe to God for his watchful care which has pointed out to us the ways of peace and happiness we should not fail in our acknowledgment of his divine favor which has bestowed upon us so many blessings. Neither should we be forgetful of those among us who, through stress of circumstances, are less fortunately placed, but by deeds of charity make our acknowledgment more acceptable in his sight.

"Wherefore, I, Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States, do hereby set apart Thursday, the twenty-fifth day of November next, as a day of general thanksgiving and prayer, and I recommend that on that day the people shall cease from their daily work, and in their homes or in their accustomed places of worship, devoutly give thanks to the Almighty for the many and great blessings they have received, and seek his guidance that through good deeds and brotherly love they may deserve a continuance of His favor."

BLIZZARD HITS STRICKEN QUAKE ZONE IN ARMENIA

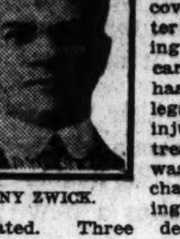
LENINAKAN, Armenia, Oct. 20.—(AP)—A blizzard today swept the region devastated by last week's earthquake and added to the misery of the homeless survivors. Earth shocks continue intermittently: a particularly severe one was felt shortly after midnight.

The situation of the shelterless population is desperate and the morale of many seems to have gone. The problem of caring for obstetrical cases is acute. At the appeal of the Armenian government, three Near East relief nurses have been assigned to care for the newly born babies, seventy-two of whom the earthquake ushered into the world.

Twenty-eight, including two sets of twins, were born in the American tent hospital. A second hospital under canvas has been opened to care for maternity cases.

MOTORIST WITH 2 WOODEN LEGS HELD IN CRASH

Charged with Driving Car While Incapacitated.



TONY ZWICK.

After two automobiles collided at 88th and Halsted streets yesterday, slightly injuring John P. Kneter, 8839 Normal avenue, and three others, police discovered that Kneter had been driving one of the cars, although he has two wooden legs. When his injuries had been treated Kneter was arrested and charged with driving while incapacitated. Three deaths resulted from auto accidents during the day, the county toll being raised to 735 since Jan. 1.

Boy Dies of Injuries.

Edwin Stanton, 14 years old, 5645 South Carpenter street, died in the German Deaconess hospital after he had been struck by an automobile near Morgan and 56th streets. Edward Tinka, 21 years old, 1258 West 73d street, the driver, was arrested.

Charles Schrom, 16 years old, of 5 East 103d street, died at the Roseland Community hospital of injuries suffered on Friday when his motorcycle crashed into a lamp post as he attempted to pass an automobile at 105th street and Michigan avenue.

Fall from Car Fatal.

Mark Farrell, 55 years old, 8443 South Ada street, was fatally injured when he fell from an automobile in Morgan Park. His head struck against a post and his skull was fractured. He was dead before the police, who had been summoned by H. Prescott of 9443 Vanderpoel avenue, the driver, arrived.

Leonard Floyd, 28 years old, 2130 Fielding avenue, was held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter by a coroner's jury investigating the death of Attorney William Morling, 36 years old, of Emmetsburg, Ia., who was killed Friday when he was struck by Floyd's car at Devon and Western avenues.

DEVER DEFENDS CITY'S PROGRESS IN PUBLIC WORKS

Chicago is not only more nearly solvent than other large cities of the country but is fully as progressive, Mayor Dever said yesterday in reply to a charge by Eugene S. Taylor, manager of the city plan commission, that Chicago is lagging in public improvements. The mayor, however, agreed with Mr. Taylor that the city is seriously handicapped by a lack of finances.

"It is a critical problem and has been for a long time," Mr. Dever said. "We need more money badly, but nevertheless we feel that wonderful progress has been made with what we have."

Mr. Taylor had pointed out that the limit on the city's bonded indebtedness, which is but one-fifth that of New York and much lower than that of other cities, has hindered the development of the Chicago plan.

I Aid Girls To Beauty
with the helps I use
By Edna Wallace Hopper

Despite my daily work on the stage, I conduct a vast enterprise to supply girls and women the beauty aids I use. These helps are the final result of 40 years of searching. I owe to them my famous beauty and my perennial youth.

To discover these formulas I have made 35 trips to France. I have spent not less than $100,000 in my quest. And every summer I go again to Paris to find anything new or better. So I feel sure that mine are the best beauty helps in existence. Now they are helping millions to new beauty and new youth.

One of these is Edna Wallace Hopper's Youth Cream. It combines many helps in one, including products of both lemon and strawberry. My marvelous complexion is largely due to this cream.

My Youth Cream comes in two types—cold cream and vanishing. I use one at night, the other in the day. Never is my skin without this priceless help. I urge you to learn what it means to you.

All toilet counters supply my Youth Cream. Please try it. The results will amaze and delight you.

SOCIETY'S BUDS CAVORT AND SING AT SERVICE SHOW

Stage Talent Is Revealed Among Debutantes.

BY MILDRED JAKLON.

Heiresses danced and sang and went through all of the approved musical comedy capers last night in "At Your Service," the Service club's annual musical show, to earn about $17,000 for the organization's various charities. The Auditorium was filled by those who wanted to see society on parade and by fond parents who had difficulty in recognizing the prize debutantes of the season in the gaudy marionettes whirling on the far off stage.

"At your Service" contained melodious tunes, the best liked of which were "Honolulu Belle" with Daisianna Smith and Luther Hammond as soloists and a chorus of Hawaiian maids; "Chinese Rose," and "Rain," wherein an effective lighting scheme illuminated dancers' costumes with rainbows and a silvery shower. There were witty skits, among them Johnny Locke as schoolmaster to a class of unruly damsels, and "The Baby's First Christmas," in which Starr Taber, Louise Mitchell, and Johnny Locke won many a good laugh.

The Junior League Parade.

The Junior league's fashion parade was one of the well applauded numbers. Piling across a lighted platform with stunning effect were Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr., a joyous snowshoeing girl in orange sports suit and white beret; Mrs. William Mitchell Blair, in a wine colored robe de style; Mrs. Russell Kelley, in a shimmering white beaded gown and ermine wrap, and Mrs. Thomas H. Cowles, Mrs. John H. McIlvaine, Mrs. J. Russell Forgan, Mrs. John Hamline, Mrs. Wayne Chatfield-Taylor, Mrs. George F. McLaughlin, Mrs. Vincent Healy, Mrs. Cyrus Edson Manierre, Mrs. T. Philip Swift, and Mrs. William R. Odell Jr. in various and sundry opulent garments.

In the feature acts Eileen McGuire proved herself to be this year's find amongst the club's talent with her graceful and intricate "Black Bottom" dance. Brier Wright and her brother, Stephens Wright, gave a sprightly and amusing interpretation of "Tonight's My Night with Baby," and "Bert" Mullins and "Stu" Prince did their satisfactory stuff on the piano and banjo. Mrs. J. Sidney Burnet sang "Fashions" for the fashion show, and a solo for the gypsy dance, while her daughter, Miss Beatrice, sold programs.

Other Favorites There.

Among others of the club favorites were Mrs. Katherine Prest Rend, Mrs. Anna Wrenn Fulton, and Louis Tilden and his accordion. The chorus of debutantes executed a great number of difficult and complicated dance figures.

The audience included Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Mrs. Jacob Baur, and Mrs. J. Hamilton Lewis who occupied the front of one box; Mr. and Mrs. George M. Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, the Joseph O. Watkins, the John B. Drakes, the John B. Drakes Jr., Mr. and Mrs. William Drake, and Miss Florence Lowden—all of whom were particularly interested in the performance of their particular bud, Elizabeth Drake, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip L. Elting, whose daughter, Ruth, was dancing. Other parents of the one-night standers included Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McVoy, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fenton, Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Farnum, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Webber McNear, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Quan.

COOLIDGE HAS SENSE OF HUMOR BUT "WON'T LET ON," SAYS ROGERS

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Calvin Coolidge has a sense of humor, but he won't "let on," Will Rogers, cowboy humorist, told a group of Old Trail drivers at a barbecue here today.

Asked how the President was, the humorist, who styles himself "Calvin's Democratic partner in the administration," replied:

"Cal is getting along right well. He has a sense of humor, but he won't always let on. Now there's a lot of people in the United States that are just the other way . . ."

Rogers, after accusing the trail drivers of almost every crime in the book from stealing cattle to being "too hifalutin," dug down in his pocket and handed the association $500 to be used for a memorial "if you get enough money, otherwise throw another party or spend it for 'tur-kill-yur.'"

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Charles Kirkpatrick, former Carsonville Sunday school teacher who left his wife and three children two years ago to elope with Ruby Bopra, 18 year old domestic in his home, was sentenced in federal court today to three years imprisonment and to pay a $1,000 fine for violation of the Mann act.

WINNIPEG, GAY IN HALLOWEEN GARB, BOWS TO QUEEN

Marie and Her Children Pleased by Revelry.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 30. — The streets of Winnipeg this evening reminded Queen Marie of Roumania, after her twenty-four hour run over 1,300 miles of Canada's undeveloped northland, of the picturesqueness of her own colorful country.

It was Halloween and Winnipeg's streets were gay with the costumes of thousands of masqueraders. Colorful crowds waited, inside and outside of the Union station to welcome and cheer the royal party.

Taking an auto ride through the principal streets of the city a little later, Queen Marie, Prince Nicholas and Princess Ileana were audibly pleased at appearance of this life and gayety after so many weary, drab miles.

Welcomed by Governor.

But thousands of revelers were barred from paying their respects to Queen Marie at the Fort Garry hotel reception, held shortly after her arrival at the Women's Canadian club reception and dinner later in the evening, or at the public reception in the parliament buildings, which began at 9 p. m. This was a state affair.

Thousands walked up the grand staircase of the capitol to the reception hall, where the new governor, Theodore Burrows, and Mrs. Burrows, received Queen Marie.

The queen wore a diamond tiara and costly strings of pearls and was beautifully gowned. But no masquerade costumes were permitted, and this kept away hosts of young folk.

Queen Marie was radiant as she passed through the admiring crowd. She courtesied and bowed to the right and the left; her democracy was quite a shock to the ultra-royalists, stiff in their acquired dignity.

A Strenuous Visit.

It was a strenuous seven and one-half hours for Queen Marie before her departure for St. Paul at 12:30 a. m., but while her voice was slightly hoarse and the farewells bewildering, she stepped lightly aboard her train and threw handfuls of kisses to the women who had congregated at the steps of her car.

At Horne Payne, on the way here, the queen chatted with townsfolk from her car when the train stopped. One man was so bold as to express the hope that her majesty would leave some souvenir of the occasion and the queen responded she would be glad to do so, yet it would be quite impossible to satisfy so many people.

"Suggest a small number," she said, and the man thought three would be ample.

"You will be O. K. of course," said the queen. "Now another," and the name of the Rev. C. P. Heavens, the Anglican clergyman, was mentioned. "That's two. Now we must have a lady," said the queen, and this time the spokesman gave the name of Mrs. J. J. Napier, wife of the divisional superintendent of the Canadian National railways.

The queen disappeared and came out bearing for each an autographed card, picturing her in royal robes and crown.

No Throne for Carol.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 30.—On Board Queen of Roumania's Train.—The inside story of how Queen Marie of Roumania and her son, Carol, the ex-crown prince, met in Paris previous to the queen's departure for America was revealed today by a high official of her majesty's suite.

The story set at rest the recurring interpretations that in her good-by kiss to Prince Carol at the boat train in Paris the queen was announcing to the world that the disowned heir would be restored to the royal succession. The reconciliation was personal, this official said, and did not change in the least the political situation in Roumania. When Prince Carol threw away his rights to the throne in order to live in Paris with the red headed Magda Lupescu, his father and the Roumanian government repudiated him officially and finally. Carol's son, the 5 year old Prince Michael, continues to be the legal heir to the throne.

The story of that meeting in Paris and events which led up to it revealed Queen Marie as a woman, confronted with a family tragedy, and torn between the instincts of a mother and the duties of a sovereign. She and the king still love Prince Carol deeply. But when the queen consented, against the advice of some of her friends, to see her truant son, she was only a mother greeting her first born son, whom she loved and who loved her, even though he had disobeyed her and his father.

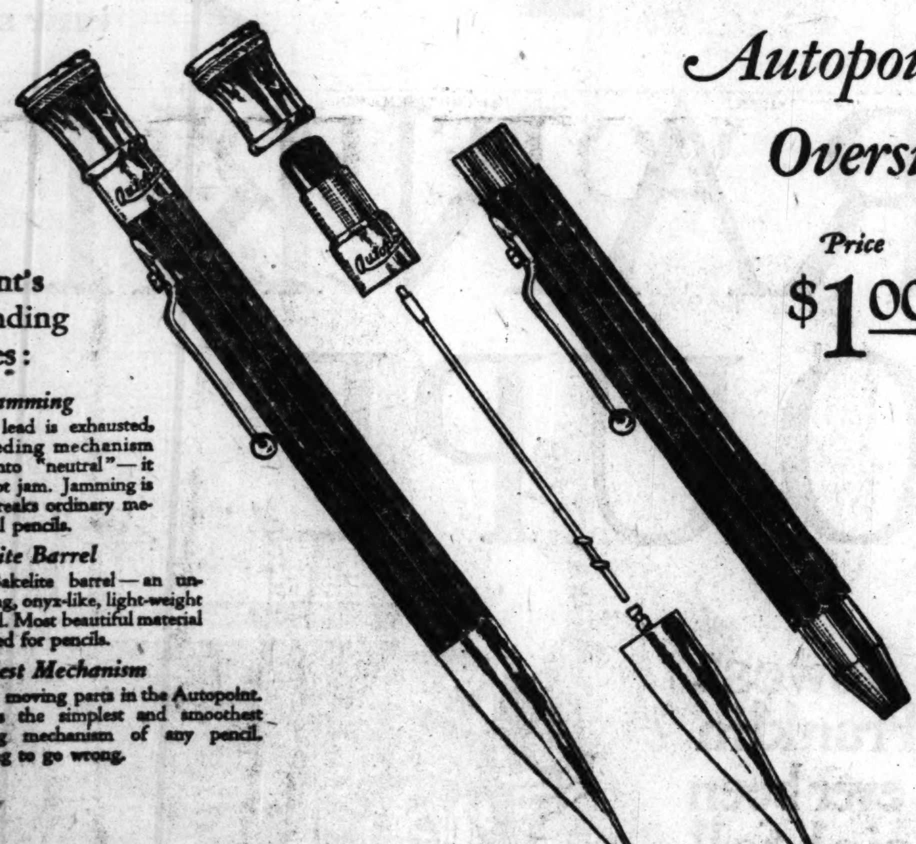
—ask to see the new Autopoint Oversize

Price $1.00



Autopoint's 3 outstanding features:

1. No Jamming When lead is exhausted, the feeding mechanism goes into "neutral"—it does not jam. Jamming is what breaks ordinary mechanical pencils.
2. Bakelite Barrel The Bakelite barrel—an unchanging, onyx-like, light-weight material. Most beautiful material ever used for pencils.
3. Simplest Mechanism Only 2 moving parts in the Autopoint. This is the simplest and smoothest working mechanism of any pencil. Nothing to go wrong.

AUTOPOINT is the pencil which has won the business world. Big business leaders use it. Buy it for their employees. Many of the largest companies in America stamp their names on it and distribute it as a good-will builder.

Autopoint Oversize is the new model. A big, easy-to-grip pencil—use it once and it will win you. The balance is ideal, the "feel" so different. Autopoint Oversize is $1.00. Use it a week and if you don't find it a better pencil than any you ever owned, we'll refund your money.

Three features have won for Autopoint its popularity. First, this famous pencil does not jam. Then, Autopoint has balance—its barrel is of beautiful Bakelite, the most ideal material for the purpose. Lastly, Autopoint's mechanism is the simplest of any pencil—only two moving parts. That means long, uninterrupted, trouble-free service.

See the new Autopoint Oversize and other Autopoint models at any dealer's. Many models and sizes to choose from, including special styles for women. If you don't find Autopoint at your dealer's, write us.

In the Democratic Column—Vote Twice

ELECTION TUESDAY, NOV. 2

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE

KEEPING G. O. P. IN POWER IS BIG ISSUE—WATSON

Senator, on W-G-N, Scoffs at Klan Inquiry.

America, swathed in prosperity, would be committing the greatest of follies if, in the senatorial elections of Tuesday and the next presidential election, Democrats should be returned to power, Senator James E. Watson of Indiana declared in a speech yesterday at his bedside in Indianapolis, which was broadcast over W-G-N by direct wires from the hospital to Chicago.

"The protective tariff has enabled our national wealth to almost double since the inauguration of President Harding and the restoration of Republican policies," Senator Watson said. "Today that wealth is greater than that of the entire British empire, France, Germany, and Italy combined. Should Democrats and their free trade policies again be put in force, we would suffer an upheaval of our entire industrial and economic status, plunging us to the depths of 'hard times,' such as we suffered during the administration of the three free trade Presidents who have been elected since the Republican party was born—Buchanan, Cleveland, and Wilson."

See Main Issues, Is Plea.

Senator Watson's speech was primarily directed to his Indiana constituents. He asked that the "underbrush be cleared away in order that the tall timber, the real things involved in this election," be seen. He pointed with disdain to the accusations that have been made against him in connection with the Ku Klux Klan scandal that has torn Indiana for the last three years, and especially during the last few months when an investigation of the klan's rule of politics was launched by Thomas H. Adams, Hoosier editor.

"When the people of Indiana cast their votes on election day, what questions will they help to decide?" Watson asked. "Will they ballot on the investigation brought about by Thomas H. Adams? If so, what must be their inevitable decision? Mr. Adams himself exonerated everybody on both state tickets except two, and, after a full investigation, the grand jury reported that it had no evidence on which to indict any candidate on either ticket. They all united in stating that none of these candidates was guilty of any corruption in connection with the Stephenson matter, and therefore there are no two sides to that controversy, for all have acquiesced in the decision rendered.

Slam at Reed Quiz.

"Will the people vote on the Reed quiz? If so, how? Not one single iota of testimony was adduced before him to show corruption, or recreancy to duty, or a barter of influence for votes, or disloyalty to either principle or party on either my part or that of any other candidate.

"I have not denied that I am seeking the votes of the Ku Klux Klan, but have coupled it with the statement that I wanted the votes of all other orders, churches, and creeds. I have never had any kind of an agreement or understanding with the Ku Klux Klan or any other organization by which I was to exchange my vote on any question, or my influence on any proposition, for their support. The simple truth is that this whole business is sensationalism run wild with not one solitary substantial fact to support any part of it. It is hearsay—the testimony of my relations to certain organizations—and started by disgruntled politicians.

National Issues Real Ones.

"After two senators have been elected from Indiana, and go to Washington and are seated, they will not there be voting on the Adams inquiry or on the Reed investigation, but on questions of policy that affect the welfare of the nation as a whole. This part of the Reed quiz and the Adams investigation will have been cast on the scrap heap by 6 o'clock on the evening of election day, and altogether forgotten. The real issues that now face us, therefore, are the issues of national importance, judged by keeping or discarding the protective tariff policies."

Mr. Watson then went into the history and records of achievements or failures of past administrations and showed that in 1921, when the Republican party came into power again, its officers found a "chaotic condition facing them."

"Five millions of people were out of employment, no new institutions were contemplated, old ones languished and faced bankruptcy, agriculture reached its lowest ebb in years, the railroads were not earning expenses, the future was uncertain and confidence was almost lost in our ability to recover from the shock of the war," he said.

Tariff Law Is Passed.

"Then we passed the emergency tariff law which saved the sheep and wool industry and greatly aided the poultry and dairy interests as well. Later on we enacted the Fordney-McCumber tariff bill, which in general restored confidence to all the people in our financial stability, resulted in the employment of all our labor at the highest wage limit known in the world in a time of peace, profitably invested our capital and enabled the government to collect huge taxes with each succeeding year.

"Tremendous advances have been made since 1921. Statistics show from 25 to 75 per cent increase in our farm crops, manufactured goods, building and loan associations, mineral output, automobiles manufactured, gasoline production, etc.

"We have reduced the number on the federal pay roll by 419,000 individuals, have cut the cost of running the government from six billion dollars to $3,500,000,000, have reduced the national debt six billions of dollars, and at the same time lowered the annual interest charge by $200,000,000. This made tax reduction possible in the amount of $840,000,000 in 1921 to $387,000,000 in 1926."

ELGIN WOMAN MARKS 103D BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Katherine Shields of Elgin, who yesterday celebrated her 103d birthday, and her twin sons, James (left) and Albert, 68 years old. Mrs. Shields is in good health, which she attributes to eating five meals daily and much sleep.

Sons Are Twins

Five meals a day and twelve hours of sleep each night have kept Mrs. Kathryn Shields of Elgin happy and contented for more than a century, she declared yesterday as she celebrated her 103d birthday.

Mrs. Shields conversed briefly with two twin sons, 68 years old, James Shields of Elgin and Albert Shields of Benton Harbor, Mich., who visited her. She has two other children living, Alfred, 75 years old, who is confined to his Elgin home by illness, and Mrs. Henry Kramer, 60 years old, of Encanto, Cal.

Mrs. Shields reads the newspapers and is interested in modern topics. She declared there is too much excitement in the world today, and attributed her old age to her calmness, her five light meals a day, and her habit of retiring at sundown and getting up at sunrise. She is deaf, but is an expert lip reader.

Born in Dublin, Ireland, Oct. 30, 1823, Mrs. Shields came to the United States in 1849 and settled in Bartlett, Ill. She moved to Engin 14 years ago.

Hold Up Pay Roll Car for $12,000; Guard Wounded

New Orleans, La., Oct. 30.—[United Press.]—Five masked bandits today held up a pay roll motor car of Mente & Co., shot and wounded a guard, and escaped with $12,000. The bandits started firing at the pay roll motor car when Huey Schmacher, driver, was unable to bring it to a halt quickly enough. One of the bullets hit James Nelson, guard, in the hip.

The Film Danger

To which authoritative dental opinion ascribes many tooth and gum disorders, should be combated daily the new way

THAT clear teeth and firm, healthy gums are largely the result of daily removal of film from teeth is largely the dental opinion of today.

As a result, thinking people—largely on dental advice—are adopting a new way of tooth cleansing, a way embodied in the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent. Old-time brushing was found a failure in successfully fighting film.

Now an effective film combatant

For years dental science sought ways to fight film. Clear teeth and healthy gums come only when film is constantly combated—removed every day from the teeth.

Film was found to cling to teeth; to get into crevices and stay; to hold in contact with teeth food substances which fermented and fostered the acids of decay. Film was found to be the basis of tartar. Germs by the millions breed in it. And they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea and most gum disorders.

Thus there was a universal call for an effective film-removing method. Ordinary brushing was found ineffective. Now two effective combatants have been found, approved by high dental authority and embodied in a tooth paste called Pepsodent.

Curdles and removes film
Firms the Gums

Pepsodent acts first to curdle the film. Then it thoroughly removes the film in gentle safety to enamel.

At the same time, it acts to firm the gums—Pepsodent provides, for this purpose, the most recent dental findings in gum protection science knows today. Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. And thus aids in neutralizing mouth acids as they form.

It multiplies the starch digestant of the saliva. Thus combats starch deposits which might otherwise ferment and form acids.

No other method known to present-day science embodies protective agents like those in Pepsodent.

Please accept Pepsodent test

Send the coupon for a 10-day tube. Brush teeth this way for 10 days. Note how thoroughly film is removed. The teeth gradually lighten as film coats go. Then for 10 nights massage the gums with Pepsodent, using your finger tips; the gums then should start to firm and harden.

At the end of that time, we believe you will agree, that next to regular dental care, Pepsodent, the quality dentifrice, provides the utmost science has discovered for better tooth and gum protection.

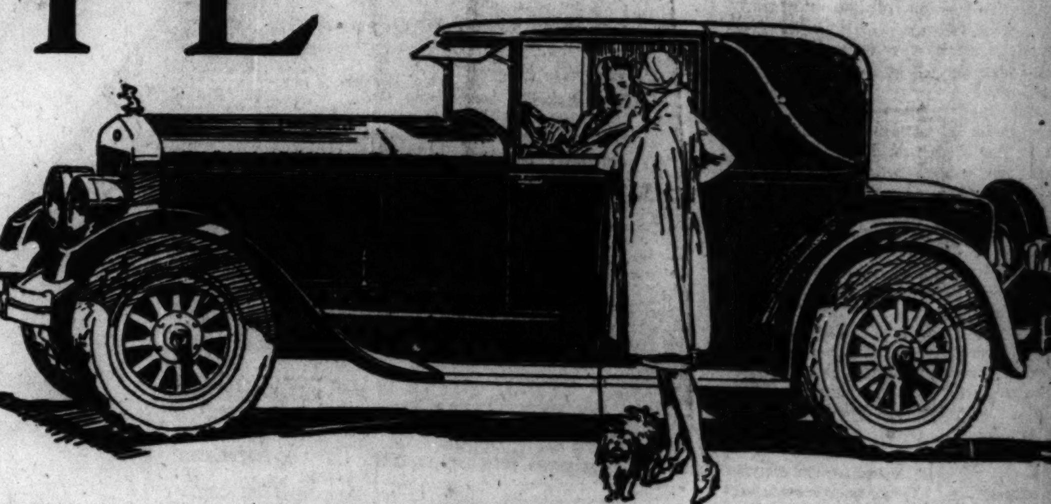
FRANKLIN COUPÉ



New Price the Lowest at which any Franklin closed car has ever been offered. Special fall showing of this great 25th Anniversary Car Now Ready

At this astonishingly favorable price—by far the lowest at which any Franklin closed car has ever been offered—the great popularity of this Coupé is certain to soar to new heights.

How eagerly motorists wanted a car of just this description was evident the moment it appeared. Heavy demand compelled an output double that originally scheduled, and pushed it to a place in Franklin's total production never before reached by any closed car but the Sedan.

And how widespread has been its influence on car builders can be seen on every hand today. This Coupé has revolutionized personal closed car design.

Its narrow steel front pillars, introducing the greater safety of clear vision, have spread through the industry like wildfire. Its broad single seat has shown owners and makers how to combine lounging roominess for two with chummy comfort for three.

Its soft leather trim has given new impetus to the vogue for leather upholstery in closed cars. Its use of the fully covered cabriolet-type rear quarter and curving side-irons has greatly widened the popularity of those style details. And its extra wide doors and extra large luggage spaces—notably that made possible by the smart English coach-boot rear—have also proved highly desirable features.

But only Franklin style and Franklin construction principles can weave these details into a whole so perfect in design and performance.

Only Franklin is cooled as are the newest airplanes: by air—free from all radiator trouble. Only Franklin is flexibly built throughout—free from the usual jolt and jar. Only Franklin is so free from the inertia and pounding of useless extra weight.

And only this Coupé takes such marvelous advantage of these principles. Exceptionally low-slung, with its uncommonly light-weight top, it rides with a steadiness free from side-sway, and drives with an ease which is unusual even for Franklin.

If you want the most distinctive—if you want the best performing—if you want the finest—of the new-day personal closed cars, come and see this marvelous Franklin Coupé, now at the lowest price at which any Franklin closed car has ever been offered. Available also with rumble seat at slight extra cost.

AST PRISONER NDS BREAD AND ATER SENTENCE

Skeptics Doubt Famine Was Enforced.

Tekamah, Neb., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Both opponents and proponents of County Judge Orville Chatt's celebrated bread and water penalties imposed on liquor law violators claimed victory today as Thomas Nelson, 50 year old farmer and the last of more than thirty diet prisoners in the Burt county jail, was released from custody at expiration of sentence.

While all county officials denied that there had been any relaxation of the diet sentence, others asserted the diet had been varied in several cases and that real food had been placed within reach of the prisoners.

One Gains in Weight.

Roy Carson, 35 year old farmer, who was released several days ago after serving sixty days in jail, of which every alternate ten days were to be on bread and water, claimed he really had served but fourteen scant diet days. Although reluctant to talk to newspaper men, he willingly stepped on the scales and showed a weight gain of three pounds. Carson declared that regular food, fed to non-diet prisoners, had been laid within reach of Nelson and other diet prisoners.

"There is no question but that enforcement of the diet was relaxed and that it implies a tacit confession that the penalties were too severe," said Richard Hunter, Omaha attorney. "Our campaign to free the men from the diet sentences apparently has enlightened Burt county officials."

Sheriff W. D. Smith said: "That matter is up to me and I enforce the law to the letter. I am glad these sentences are all over. They have been a big nuisance. I haven't been able to read a paper for some time without reading about the diet sentences."

Judge to Stand Pat.

If there was any "relaxataion" in diet sentences, Judge Chatt knows nothing about it.

"I will continue to hand out such sentences every time I think it necessary," the jurist said today. "You see here is the situation. We don't have a rock pile for our county jail. To merely send these chronic liquor law violators to jail and give them full meals and a good place to sleep would not stop their law violations. But I try to be reasonable.

CHAMORRO BOWS TO U. S.; QUITS AS NICARAGUA HEAD

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Oct. 30.—Amidst the booming of cannon, de facto President Chamorro at 6 o'clock this evening in the Managua white house handed over the presidency to the second designate, Senator Sebastian Uriza, the first senator, Rappaccoli, being in New York.

A new congress will be elected soon to choose Adolfo Diaz for the presidency to finish the term, which expires in 1928. The United States will recognize the election. It is not expected that Mexico and Guatamala will recognize him.

Thus Lawrence Dennis, American chargé d'affaires, is triumphant after four months of diplomatic sparring, while civil war, which the United States tried to settle, raged.

MISS MINTER ON WAY TO GENOA TO FORGET TAYLOR

New York, Oct. 30.—[Special.]—For the first time since the murder of William Desmond Taylor, the movie director, in Hollywood four years ago, Mary Miles Minter today partly broke her silence, consented to talk and be photographed aboard the liner Conte Rosso, on which she sailed for Genoa and Naples.

Miss Minter is traveling under the name of "Juliet K. Reilly." She occupies a stateroom with Miss Margaret McCarthy, a friend.

When Miss Minter was asked why she was traveling under a name other than that by which she is generally known, Dorothy Manners, an actress friend, said that the once well known screen actress is using the name "in an endeavor to live down the scandal surrounding the murder of William Desmond Taylor."

"How long do you expect to stay abroad?" Miss Minter was asked.

"I wish I could stay away forever," she replied.

Miss Minter admitted she did not know whether she is going back to the movies. "It's on the knees of the gods," she said.

DEPUTIES FLOUT PILSUDSKI RULE; HE HOLDS UP PAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Oct. 30.—Marshal Josef Pilsudski today stopped the pay of the deputies in the Polish sejm [parliament] which was due today, because they refused to comply with the order to stand at attention while listening to the representative of the government.

Chairman Rataj of the sejm called on President Moscicki this afternoon to ask him to attend the opening session of parliament personally. In his honor parliament is ready to rise and thus comply with Marshal Pilsudski's orders to reëstablish peace.

President Moscicki promised to make a personal appearance, but the politicians are not certain whether this compromise will persuade Marshal Pilsudski to pay them. They consider the president's promise at best a temporary victory over the marshal.

Wife's Kiss Bears Dope to Addict in Jail

Lake county authorities at Waukegan yesterday were holding for the government Marie Walters of Chicago, street address unknown, on a charge that she slipped a tube containing five grains of morphine to her husband, Clarence, by kissing him while visiting him in the jail. Walters is serving a sentence of ninety days for violation of the Harrison anti-narcotic law.

YANK'S ARRAY OF FUTURIST ART IS SOLD IN PARIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 30.—Works of French futurist painters, which twenty years ago brought guffaws from the critics of two continents, today brought huge prices, when the collection of John Quinn, the New York connoisseur, was auctioned off at the Hotel Drouot by the French government auction house.

Seventy-two pictures, many of them much discussed, abused and praised by various art factions, were presented for sale .These included works by Pissaro, Cezanne, Henri Rousseau, Henri Mattissee and others.

Some of the most exotic creations of color daubing brought hisses and laughter from the crowd of 500 art lovers and dealers who were bidding for the paintings, but such well known works as Rousseau's "Sleeping Bohemian," which is an ironic picture of a French customs officer, sold for 500,000 francs [$15,600]; Henri Mattissee's "Reclining Nude Woman," brought 100,000 francs [$3,120], and Pissaro's painting of a jetty at Havre harbor, which a critic once described as "sunrise through a fishnet," sold for 150,000 francs [$4,680].

Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:

A year ago I started the erection of a six-story fire-proof, eighty-apartment building, at 6720-30 Jeffrey Avenue. At that time I investigated different makes, to decide what make of electric refrigeration to install. As a result I ordered eighty ZEROZONE units for my eighty-apartment building. The building is now all rented, and all units in use.

Also, I have three separate ZEROZONE units in a three-apartment building at 6719 Oglesby Avenue, having one myself.

I have not heard a single complaint from either building. I heartily recommend ZEROZONE and believe it is superior to anything on the market to-day.

Yours very truly,

August West

BY DON MAXWELL.

Forty-eight thousand folk, the largest crowd of record at Stagg field, rubbed their eyes in bewilderment during the first 25 minutes of the play between the football teams of the University of Chicago and Ohio State yesterday.

They were dreaming that Chicago's twice defeated team was playing on even terms with the high geared football machine that vanquished Columbia and Iowa with comparative ease. And just when they were beginning to believe the dream might last until the game was over three young fellows from Ohio swung into action. They started on Ohio's 44 yard line and carried the ball with punch and speed over Chicago's goal line.

That touchdown ended the dream. Two more spurred the return to reality and when the 48,000 jostled their way down the runways of the new stadium the score that had been written in the record books was Ohio, 18; Chicago, 0.

Maroons Show Their Best.

Chicago's team, so inexperienced that Coach Stagg sent the players singing into the year's opening game, hoping thus to overcome their nervousness, played the best football that it knew. It was the best it has shown this year. For these first 25 minutes Chicago held Ohio on even terms. But it wasn't good enough to keep back that line breaking, open field running, fancy passing team that hopes to win the conference title for Ohio.

Ohio has football material coaches pray for. Its line is powerful; its backfield, featuring a constellation of stars, is versatile and dangerous. The cycle of the years has brought Chicago a mediocre team. It has given Ohio a great one. And the story of yesterday's game was the story of a good lightweight fighting a good heavyweight and finding that the odds were too great.

Capt. Karow, who dents a line for three yards or more at a whack, played the entire game for Ohio. He was the heavyweight's dependable left hand, never to be ignored. Three men served as the heavyweight's right hand. Only one of them worked at a time. When he tired one of the other two replaced him. The three in order of their service were Grim, Eby, and Marek.

Speed Merchants in Backfield.

They are the speed merchants of the Ohio backfield. They run the ends with the speed of dash men on a track team. They wriggle through the holes in the line which the Ohio interference opens. They pass and take passes.

Coach Wilce used Grim first. He played the first half. Eby played the third quarter and part of the fourth. Marek, the Iowan, with a broken hand, flashed into view in the closing minutes of play. It's hard to figure which of the three is the best. Any one of them makes the Chicago backs look like lame men.

Chicago and Ohio jabbed at each other without damage in the first quarter. The first part of the second they did the same. Near the middle of the period Chicago began looking dangerous. It was then the folk began wondering about that dream. An exchange of punts had placed the ball in Ohio's possession on its own 20 yard line. On the first play the Ohio backfield got the signal jumbled and when the center passed the ball no one was there. It rolled to the Ohio 2 yard line and Apitz, Chicago end, fell on the ball.

Chicago Muffs Its Chance.

It was Chicago's big opportunity. Two yards to go and four downs to do it in. Rouse made three yards on a plunge but lost a yard on the next smash. Marks got the lost yard and Rouse dropped back for a drop kick. Standing on Ohio's 12 yard line he hurried the kick and the ball sailed beneath the crossbar. Chicago's one opportunity was gone.

That turned the tide and Ohio surged to victory.

Karow and Grim carried the ball from the 20 yard line to the 44 yard marker on end runs and line bucks. Capt. Karow found the Maroon line

Navy Guns Upset and Sink Michigan in 10 to 0 Battle

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 30.—The Navy squared up the rankling matter of that awful licking the sailors suffered at Ann Arbor last year when Howard Caldwell, a bulky young sailor of the dreadnaught type, torpedoed a gap in the Michigan line in their return game this afternoon and went through the hole for the first touchdown that has been recorded against Hustle-Up Yost's young men since the fall of 1924. The Navy won the game, 10 to 0, and, although you couldn't say they actually swamped the team clustered around Benny Friedman, the greatest pitcher in football, you couldn't escape the impression that they smacked Michigan and smacked them proper.

There was nothing in the nature of a fluke about this thing the Navy did this afternoon and the victory had a particularly nice flavor to the student sailor men from Annapolis because they had heard reports that Friedman's team could not be licked just now.

The Sailors Celebrate.

So, when it was over, the whole regiment of midshipmen clattered down over the plank seats of the Municipal stadium hurdled the low concrete wall and spread over the field to tear the goal posts up by the roots and break them into splinters with their hands for distribution as souvenirs of a very swell occasion in the athletic history of the Naval academy. Fifty years hence this historic kindling will still be treasured on a sentimental par with the bowsprit of Old Ironsides.

Hamilton of the Navy had kicked a goal from the field in the third quarter which would have been enough to win the game as matters finally developed but there is a nourishing, satisfying quality in a touchdown that makes it desirable even when your game is won.

Caldwell Starts Trouble.

Caldwell started trouble for Michigan just after one of Benny Friedman's forward passes which were looping through the air all afternoon, landed plop in the arms of Tom Hamilton, the Navy's left half. Hamilton intercepted the pass about midfield, then dragged himself three yards through the Michigan line on an old fashioned buck.

Caldwell made three himself in the same way and on the next play he hacked at Michigan's right tackle, broke through, and loped away for a 25 yard run. They fell within about eighteen yards from Michigan's goal and Caldwell was thrown at the line twice more, gaining five yards on the first plunge and two on the second. A short pass failed and then Caldwell flipped one to Goudge, a Navy's quarter, who raced away on a slanting course and was just a stride short of the goal when he was run out of bounds.

Caldwell Goes Over.

Having done so much to bring the ball that far, Caldwell was given the honor on the next play. He made half the distance in that plunge and after the next play the referee discovered Caldwell's cleat marks behind Michigan's goal where no alien cleats had scuffed the soil since the game with Iowa back in 1924. Hamilton then kicked the goal for the point after touchdown and the Navy had a lead that was not molested from that point on.

The Navy had been schooled against Michigan's forward passes and the thoroughness of that schooling may be surmised from the statistics which show that Michigan's backs pitched a total of 29 throws to complete only eight of them.

The Navy backs haunted Michigan's catchers like shadows in a mystery story, and as Oosterbaan, Flora and Molenda wheeled and reached upward with yearning arms to receive the throws quick figures in dark blue jerseys and black helmets sprang up from nowhere to smack them down.

Navy's Great Game.

The Navy, on the other hand, tried eleven passes and completed five.

Michigan had no taste for straight football and made a total gain of less than half the field in the thirteen excursions undertaken by Friedman, Molenda, Gilbert and Greenwald. But Caldwell, with some contributions of yardage from Hannegan, Goudge and Hamilton ran up a total profit of 165 yards in the old fashioned game of fetching the ball by hand.

There were about 50,000 people in the place, most of them navy folks, apparently, for the academy is only a bus jump from Baltimore and Washington, only a real estate man's ten minute walk from there. There was a glitter of brass embroidery on cap-visors and shoulders here and there in the stands, denoting the presence of miscellaneous skippers, admirals, and such.

GALLOPING ARMY MULE TRAMPLES OVER YALE, 33-0

78,000 Watch Cadets Swamp Elis.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Army buried Yale with full military honors in the bowl this afternoon as 78,000 bewildered spectators watched the soldiers from the plains storm the last football trench that was waiting out ahead of them.

Yale was not merely beaten, it was routed, for the cadets rolled five touchdowns over the Blue goal line and amassed a 33 to 0 victory, and gave to Yale the worst thrashing that an Eli team has suffered since the dark ages of New Haven football.

Before the onslaught of hard driving, hard riding, hard boiled cadets, Yale reeled and fell back to be overwhelmed by an Army team on Yale soil for the first time in thirty-three years.

For thirty-three years West Point elevens have come, seen and been conquered, but today they exacted one point for each year; for thirty-three years thirty-three points, and at the end the football hopes of the Elis lay crushed beneath the heel of the Army mule.

Army spurned the keener, swifter tactics of the modern game. The cadets snapped derisive fingers at the forward pass. Not once during the afternoon did they strike through the air. They stayed on the ground and sent the shock troops on ahead and tore Yale's line to ribbons.

The Army team got the breaks and took full advantage of them. Every Army touchdown was the result of a Yale blunder. Three Yale fumbles, a blocked Yale kick, and an intercepted forward pass were converted in the five touchdowns that Wilson, Murrell, Cagle, Born, and Gilbreth carried over the Blue goal line.

Yale lost the game in the first ten minutes when Capt. Phil Bunnell fumbled on his ten yard line and Fishwick, end, dropped a perfect pass only five yards away from a sure touchdown. Bunnell's miscue gave Army its first touchdown and Fishwick's muff cost Yale another seven points. Lineup:

WOMAN NET STAR, PLAYING AS MAN, FOOLS LONDONERS

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Señorita de Alvarez, pretty Spanish tennis player, who beat Mrs. Mallory at Wimbledon last year and made a close bid for the women's championship, was the central figure in an amusing hoax perpetrated today during the progress of the finals in the Cromer covered courts tennis tournament.

It was announced in the course of the afternoon an exhibition match would be played between Col. H. G. Mayes and A. Wallis Myers on one side and M. V. Summerson and Señor Manuel Alonzo.

The four "men" eventually appeared and a close and even match took place. Not until the match was over did the spectators realize that "Señor Alonzo" was none other than Señorita de Alvarez wearing white flannels and a peaked cap which hid her hair.

Lake Forest was outplayed in every department. Briese made two place kicks, one in the first and one in the final period, and made two touchdowns, while Bloomer made a third for the Lawrence scores.

Badgers Fail to Make First Down as Gophers Win, 16-10

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Oct. 30.—Minnesota defeated Wisconsin, 16 to 10, at Camp Randall stadium this afternoon before 42,000 spectators in a game which, until five minutes before its close, threatened to become the most remarkable contest ever played upon an American gridiron.

At that time the Badgers, who did not make a first down during the entire afternoon and actually showed a minus score in their offense from scrimmage, were leading by a count of 10 to 9. Those ten points represented the only thing in which Wisconsin had been superior, great alertness in following the ball and recovering punts.

Time and again Minnesota's maddened Gophers rushed the ball to within striking distance, only to be thwarted by a fumble or a break or the defense which the Badgers substituted for an impotent offense, impotent because Gopher forwards and secondary men were charging through and spilling the attack before it was started.

Breaks Veer to Gophers.

Finally, well along in the fourth quarter, Coach Spears of the northmen sent into the fray Nydahl as substitute for Matchan, who had replaced Peplaw. This added speed and another passer to the Gopher attack. Hardly had Nydahl taken his place than he contracted the Gopher fumbling habit, dropping a received punt which Schuette recovered on Minnesota's 27 yard line. The Minnesota rooters, who had come down in seven special trains for victory, were seeing their superior eleven being beaten.

Then the breaks veered from the Cardinal to the Black and Gold. Unable to gain, Leitl, who already had put over one place, attempted another, although strategy suggested a forward pass with the ball on Wisconsin's 25 yard line and fourth down. This kick was blocked, and it was Minnesota's ball on its own 49 yard line.

Minnesota on fourth down was forced to kick, and it was the Badger ball on their 20 yard line. On fourth down Barnum punted to Nydahl at the Gopher 40 yard line, and the elusive Gopher started a return journey, sidestepping and twisting away from several charging Badgers at the Wisconsin 40 yard line, he was carried nearly out of bounds by Crofoot, but evaded the latter's final lunge, stepped safely within the field, and raced the remaining 40 yards for the touchdown which decided the issue.

Figures Show Superiority.

Throughout it was a game of thrills, of the unexpected, of a Minnesota team superior in everything except spirit and Burrus at right end. To get a better picture look at these statistics: Minnesota made twelve first downs from scrimmage, three from passes, and one from a penalty. Wisconsin made none. Minnesota gained 248 yards from scrimmage. Wisconsin lost 31 yards. Minnesota completed seven of eighteen forward passes, with three intercepted. Wisconsin completed two of nine passes, with one intercepted. Minnesota's punts averaged 37 yards, and those of Wisconsin 38 yards.

Yet with these figures Wisconsin was winning before the "Dad's Day" assemblage until Nydahl returned a punt 60 yards for a touchdown.

Wisconsin was first to score near the end of the first quarter when Joesting fumbled on the Badger 18 yard line and Burrus ran 82 yards for a touchdown, with Harmon place kicking the additional point.

Badgers Grab Lead.

Shortly thereafter Minnesota scored in three plays, Joesting with 29 yards, Almquist with 10, and Joesting slipping around tackle on a delayed buck for 10 more. Almquist's attempted place kick was blocked, so the Gophers were one point behind. Late in the second quarter Minnesota drove close enough for Peplaw to drop kick a goal from Wisconsin's 23 yard line and the Gophers had a margin of 9 to 7.

Early in the third quarter Peplaw fumbled a punt from Crofoot, which Cole recovered on the Gopher 23 yard line. Failing to gain in three downs, Leitl, who had previously retired from the fray with a broken nose, returned to drop kick a goal from the Minnesota 33 yard line, putting Wisconsin ahead, 10 to 9. To this slender lead the Badgers clung tenaciously, fighting courageously and capitalizing every opposition mistake until it seemed victory would be theirs.

Then happened what has been described.

SIX PREP GRID PLAYERS HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Fort Atkinson, Wis., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—The victory of Fort Atkinson over Whitewater City High, 25 to 0, today, was marred by an auto accident which put six members of the Fort team in the hospital. William Rogers, sub center, was brought here and later rushed to Milwaukee for treatment of a crushed foot that may have to be amputated. Other injured players are former captain, Fred Dornbrush, Harold Krum, George Henze, Len Henze, and Morman Lanzel. The players were in a bus coming from the game when a Chicago automobile failed to stop at an intersection and rammed the bus, turning it completely around and throwing the players to the ground.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 30.—Northwestern's Wild Cats dug their claws into a fine play field for razorbacks today and wallowed through the Indiana team, adding one point to the score of the first act of the Purple-Crimson drama of two weeks ago. The Purple again scored three touchdowns on Pat Page's lightweight Hoosiers, but kicked all three goals, and the final score was 21 to 0.

This Hoosier university is going to have a big laundry bill this week, for they used up a few weeks' supply of towels wiping off the ball. And it took just about two plays for one of the many substitutions, in his nice, clean sweater, to appear more like an animated man of mud than a football player.

Sibley's Fumbles Behind Goal.

Naturally the ball was slippery as a bar of soap in a bathtub and the forward passes were few and far between, while most of the runs attempted ended with the ball carrier standing on the side of his face.

Northwestern started its first string men except Schumaker, who was in place of Baker at quarter. But, with 14 points scored in five minutes, Coach Thistlethwaite began to run in substitutes, and almost all of the 40 in the squad got a chance.

There were puddles on the field when the game started and a cold drizzle was falling, but Tiny Lewis warmed the crowd of 12,000 on the first play by taking Sibley's kickoff on his thirty yard line, slicing to the left and racing down the sideline 70 yards for a touchdown. He kicked goal.

Northwestern's second touchdown came on the sixth play of the game. Lewis kicked after the second kickoff. Sibley fumbled the ball behind his own goal line and Fisher fell on it. Lewis again kicked goal.

Holmes Runs Fifty Yards.

Holmes put another Purple splotch on a drab day early in the third quarter when he started through the left side of the Crimson line at midfield, brushed aside two or three would-be tacklers, and ran fifty yards for the third and last score. Baker kicked that goal.

With five minutes to play, Richard Garrison, a 140 pound Crimson quarter back, began Indiana's only threat to score. A couple of line plays put the ball on the 38 yard line and Garrison went into "do or die." He tore through the right side of the Purple's line for 11 yards. He tried the other side of the line and ripped off eight yards. He tried it again and made it first down. The drive ended when Bennett slipped in the treacherous mud and failed by one yard to make first down on Northwestern's eight yard line. Baker kicked out of danger.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 30.—"Taking advantage of a break late in the fourth quarter and pressing the advantage with forward passes, Illinois defeated Pennsylvania today in the Memorial stadium, three to nothing, in the presence of 60,000 spectators. It was a fighting climax to a hard fought and cleanly played game.

For three periods neither would open up with a forward pass. It was simply an old style game of football with three attempts to gain followed by a punt. It was apparent each eleven was playing for the proverbial break and both teams had their chances in the final quarter.

Late in the third period, Penn forced the ball to the Illinois twenty-one yard mark and when a yard and a half was needed for a first down the Ben Franklins took a gamble. After Wascolonis was shot off the right side of his line, the sticks were called out for measurement. Penn had failed to make the distance by two inches.

The Break of the Game.

With the wind at his back, Lanum gained steadily on the punt exchanges which followed. Finally Penn was in possession of the ball on its forty yard line. Murphy's punt was partially blocked and the oval went to Illinois in midfield. Coach Zuppke's team then opened a forward pass attack. Peters shot a pass to Daugherity, which took the oval to the Penn twenty-one yard line. Peters hurled another pass to Lanum, who was stopped on the easterners' six yard line.

Rather than take any chances acting Capt. Shively ordered Peters to make a field goal effort. The ball sailed squarely between the posts from the seventeen yard line.

Penn elected to receive the next kick off and immediately opened a forward pass offense which was smothered by the Orange and Blue. An exchange of punts and a Penn fumble gave "Frosty" another chance at the Penn goal from the 35 yard line. Just before the ball left Center Reitsch's hands the gun was fired and the referee blew his whistle to denote the end of the game. "Frosty," however, drove the ball between the posts, but the score did not count because the ball had not left the center's hands before the pistol was fired.

Great Triumph for Zuppke.

Naturally it was a great victory for Illinois and a wonderful triumph for Coach Zuppke, who is deserving of a world of credit for remodeling a team which was beaten a week ago by Michigan, 13 to 0. The huge throng of Illinois rooters went into a frenzy when "Frosty" drove the ball between the posts for the only score of the game, and Peters is the hero of this college town tonight.

The much vaunted hidden ball plays of Penn did not bother Illinois. In fact, the Penn elbow pads, which resemble footballs, were greatly overplayed. There was nothing deceptive about them and the hidden ball formations which Penn used were employed by teams twenty-five years ago. Foster Sanford, a former Yale player who has coached in the east for many years, asserted Yale used similar formations in the early nineties.

The Penn backs, however, faked their plays nicely, and if the Illinois line had not played so well and charged with a determination which could not be denied the sturdy Penn backs would have made plenty of ground.

How Penn Was Stopped.

In stopping the Penn attack Coach Zuppke had an excellent defense. He permitted Reitsch, his center, to play in a roving position. Nickol and Wilson, the ends, played close to their tackles, while the Illinois defensive line was much tighter than usual. This prevented any delayed straight attacks from weaving through the Illinois forward wall.

The Orange and Blue defensive half backs, which Zuppke calls lurking ends, played back and outside their tackles. Lanum and Daugherity played back of their half backs. In other words, it was a 6, 2, 2 defense.

The Illinois ends drove in the moment the ball was snapped, and the entire line charged. Reitsch, who is one of the brainiest centers in the conference, was quick to fathom the Penn attack, and was in the thick of the fray. He stopped most of the visitors' line thrusts and at times made tackles on the wings.

In other words, Zuppke had instructed his players to watch the ball, and this they did to perfection. They tackled hard and clean, and only on a few occasions did Penn show any indications of an attack which would be sustained long enough to result in a score.

When Illinois had the ball, Penn was crossed several times. This was especially true on third downs, when Butler, the Penn center, pulled out of his position in the line to help block on Illinois punts. Instead of punting, Illinois pulled the quarter back sneak, with Lanum driving through center for choppy gains.

Illinois also used a few deceptive plays of the hidden ball variety. On drives off the tackles the ball was faked to one back and then given to another, with the former taking an important part in the interference. Illinois backs drove with plenty of power in this style of offense, which was not effective long enough to work the oval into scoring positions.

Like Old Time Football.

As previously stated, the first three-quarters of the game reminded one of the days of the 5 yard rule in three downs. In the second quarter Penn, by taking advantage of the north wind, gained enough ground on punt exchanges to permit P. Scull to make two field goal attempts. One was blocked and the other went wide of its intended mark.

Both teams played all the football they had been taught. Penn tried just as hard to defeat Illinois as it did to win its important battles in the east. Illinois, however, was set. The players entered the fray with an indomitable Illinois fighting spirit and refused to yield an inch to the strong invader.

Statistics of the game show that Illinois made six first downs against three for Pennsylvania. Illinois gained 57 yards through the line and Penn 76. Illinois got around the Penn ends for 77 yards and the Franklins made 27 around the Orange and Blue flank players. Illinois completed three out of five forward passes and Penn one out of four. Lanum averaged 33 7-16 yards on his punts and Murphy 41½ yards.

DETAIL PLAY OF GAME

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Illinois and Pennsylvania turned back the clock in their struggle, displaying a brand of football familiar twenty-five years ago. Neither team was willing to open up until late in the final period. Following is the detailed play:

FIRST QUARTER.

Schull kicked off for Penn and Peters brought the ball back to Illinois' 35 yard line. Daugherity smashed Penn's right guard for two yards and Steward for three. Daugherity plowed into center for three yards. Lanum punted to Rogers, Penn's 27 yard line.

Wascolonic hit center for four yards. He rolled inside Illinois' right tackle for four more. He failed to gain in the next play and Murphy punted to Lanum who stopped on Illinois' 36 yard line. Steward made three around Penn's left wing and one more yard around the other end. On a trick play Stewart slid through Penn's right tackle for three yards. Lanum punted to Rogers on Penn's 28 yard line. On the hidden ball trick Murphy plowed through for five yards. On the next play Stewart nailed Wascolonis for a five yard loss. Murphy punted to Peters who ran out of bounds on Illinois' 45 yard line.

Penn's Trick Plays Fail.

On a bad pass from center Dougherity fumbled but recovered for a six yard loss. Peters retrieved five yards and Lanum, after failing to gain, punted out of bounds on Penn's ten yard line.

Schull made 2 yards on the hidden ball trick. Rogers gained 3 yards. Murphy punted and the ball was downed on Penn's 46 yard line.

An Illinois play went wrong and the ball was tossed out into the clear by the center, but Daugherity recovered for Illinois on his own 46 yard line. Illinois failed to gain, and Lanum punted to Rogers, who stepped out of bounds on Penn's 23 yard line. Rogers was nailed by Marriner for a 2 yard loss. Murphy went through center for 2 yards and then punted out of bounds on Illinois' 46 yard line.

Singer tore in and threw Peters for an 11 yard loss. On a double pass, Daugherity failed to gain around his left end. Peters shot around Penn's left end for 8 yards. Lanum punted to Rogers, who stepped out of bounds on Penn's 20 yard line. Rogers failed to gain on the hidden ball trick as the period ended. Score: Illinois, 0; Pennsylvania, 0.

SECOND QUARTER.

Murphy gained a yard at Illinois' left tackle. Murphy punted to Peters on Illinois' 36 yard line. Stewart lost four yards. Lanum made two yards at center. Stewart walked through left tackle for eight yards. Lanum punted to Rogers on Penn's 31 yard line. Rogers failed at his left end. Rogers made five yards on the hidden ball trick. Murphy was held without gain at center. Gallivan supplanted Stewart at left half for Illinois. Murphy punted to Lanum, who brought the pigskin back to Illinois' 36 yard line.

Gallivan made two yards outside Penn's left tackle. Daugherity smashed Penn's left guard for three more. Peters gained two yards at Penn's right tackle. Lanum punted out of bounds on Penn's 34 yard mark. The hidden ball play resulted in a four yard loss. Murphy was thrown for a loss and then punted poorly to Peters, who was downed as he caught the ball on Illinois' 40 yard line. Capt. Kassel went to right end for Illinois.

Peters Thrown for Loss.

On a fumble by Peters, Smith of Penn recovered on Illinois' 36 yard line. Wascolonis smashed center for a yard. Rogers went through Penn's left tackle for a yard. Schull attempted a drop kick at the forty yard line but the ball went wide and Illinois put the ball in play on its own 20 yard line.

In two plays Gallivan made five yards. Peters lost eight yards on a double pass but the play was recalled and Penn penalized five yards for offside, giving the Illini first down on their thirty yard line. It was the initial first down of the game. Peters ripped through for four yards, but Gallivan lost two on the next play.

Peters slid through his right tackle for four yards and Lanum punted to Rogers, who brought the ball back 15 yards to midfield. He gained 2 yards around Illinois' left end on the next play and followed with 3 more. Fields replaced Schull at right half for Penn. Wascolonis tore through center for 2. With 2 yards to go on fourth down Murphy punted over the Illinois goal and the ball was brought out to the Illini 20 yard mark.

Gallivan scooted around Penn's left end for 5 yards. On a double pass Peters shot inside Penn's right tackle for 7 yards, giving Illinois a first down. Gallivan made a yard and Peters 4 as the period ended. Score: Illinois, 0; Pennsylvania, 0.

THIRD QUARTER.

Peters kicked off to Wascolonis, who brought the ball to Penn's 42 yard line. Rogers tore around Illinois' left end for nine yards. Wascolonis made first down on Illinois' 42 yard line. The Illini were fooled by the hidden ball. Scull failed to gain but Rogers made a yard. Penn's first forward pass, Murphy to Wascolonis, was incomplete. Murphy punted out of bounds on the Illini 3 yard line.

Peters drove into center for five yards. Lanum punted out of bounds on Illinois' 35 yard line. Wascolonis gained a yard on the hidden ball stunt. Wascolonis was thrown for a two yard loss. A pass, Murphy to Thayer, grounded.

Scull attempted to drop kick from the 40 yard line but it was blocked and Daugherity recovered for Illinois on his own 31 yard line. Lanum was forced to punt and Rogers was stopped on Penn's 43 yard line.

Penn Tricks Zupmen.

Wascolonis made a yard over his right end. Murphy made four through Illinois' right guard. Scull was thrown by Lanum for a yard loss at Illinois' left end. Murphy punted over the Illinois goal and the Illini put the ball in play on their 20 yard line.

Daugherity hit center for three yards. Stewart failed to gain. Daugherity bucked through again for two yards. Lanum punted to Penn's 46 yard line. Scull smashed Illinois' left guard for two yards. On the hidden ball trick, Rogers went inside Illinois' left tackle to the Illini 30 yard line. Rogers lost three yards. A Penn fumble was recovered by Murphy on Illinois' 47 yard line. A pass, Wascolonis to Rogers, netted ten yards. Murphy punted out of bounds on the Illinois 15 yard line.

Lanum drove through center for four yards. Peters was good for a yard at his left tackle. Daugherity lost two yards around Penn's right end. Lanum punted to Rogers, who was downed on Illinois' 41 yard line.

FOURTH QUARTER.

Rogers was good for a yard at center. Murphy tried the same spot without gain. Rogers put the ball on the Illini nineteen yard line. The hidden ball trick did it. Wascolonis failed to make first down by inches and Illinois took the ball on its own eighteen yard line. The Illini were unable to gain and Lanum punted to Rogers who was nailed on Penn's 36 yard line.

Two attempts by Wascolonis and one by Murphy failed to gain more than a couple yards. Murphy punted and the ball was downed on Illinois' twenty-three yard line. Gallivan grabbed a yard at Penn's right tackle. He repeated for three yards. A pass by Lanum was blocked but Daugherity recovered for Illinois. Lanum punted to Rogers who was downed on Penn's 34 yard line. Murphy lost two yards and then three at Illinois' right end.

Illini Gain Through Air.

On the hidden ball stunt Scull made four yards inside Illinois' left tackle. Murphy punted weakly and it was Illinois' ball on their own 49 yard mark. An Illinois pass grounded. A long pass, Lanum to Wilson, was incomplete and the Illini were penalized five yards for the failure. A beautiful pass, Peters to Daugherity, put the ball on Penn's 34 yard line. Another pass, Peters to Lanum, moved the oval to Penn's 22 yard mark. Peters sneaked through center for five yards and first down, putting the ball on Penn's nine yard line. Gallivan failed to gain. Lanum dove into center for two yards. Peters dropped back to the fifteen yard line and booted a perfect drop kick. Score: Illinois, 3; Penn, 0.

Lanum kicked off to Rogers who came back to Penn's thirty-five yard line. A pass, Murphy to Rogers, was incomplete. A long pass by Murphy was slapped down by Peters.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 30.—Many stars from Notre Dame's thundering herd of football players still were nursing bruises which Northwestern gave them a week ago, so the herd today moved along more after the manner of domestic cows and was able to beat a game and hustling squad of southern gentlemen from Georgia Tech by a modest score of 12 to 0.

A few of Rockne's regulars were able to take part in the contest for brief periods, but most of the time he used his second and third string men. They rushed the boys from the south for a touchdown in the first few minutes of play, then succeeded in getting another in the second period and after that were content to play a defensive game.

Irish Think of Army?

It was not a bit like a Notre Dame game and probably if most of the crowd of 15,000 had not been loyal alumni of Notre Dame, they would have been hollering for their money back or at least giving the boys the old raspberry. Rockne's athletes played as if they were afraid of hurting somebody or of getting hurt themselves. They seemed to be thinking only of hard games to come and took this combat today as a practice affair for future battles of consequence.

It was apparent that Rockne wasn't satisfied with the way things were going after one quarter had been fought, for he sent in a few first string men to rip things up, not only make sure of victory but to give the crowd a thrill or two. Among those sent in was Mr. O'Boyle, the only good full back left on the squad. He had a bad leg, but went into the fight and for seven minutes gave the crowd about seven thrills as he ripped and tore his way through the southerners, not even once stopping to consider them as gentlemen from the south.

But after about seven minutes of this stuff, they helped Mr. O'Boyle off the field and laid him out on the side lines. Some southern gentleman filled with hospitality, had taken Mr. O'Boyle's lame leg in a vicious tacke and all but twisted it off.

Southerners Show Class.

It did look as if some of the Dixie fellows knew something of the game of football. They have a first class line that seemed about to stop most of the Notre Dame passes until O'Boyle got in. They had a set of backs with plenty of speed and they played a good overhead game. Barron, a brother of the famous Red Barron, was a whale in plunging through the line.

At the start of the game the southern gentlemen were fussed and allowed Notre Dame to get off to a flying start. Notre Dame kicked off to Crawley, who was downed on his own 25 yard line and the attempts of the Georgians to gain through the line were smothered. Parham punted high in the air and Maxwell of Notre Dame downed the ball on the Georgia 37 yard line.

From that spot the Irish rushed the ball over for a touchdown. Riley hit center for four yards and Roach made it first down on the 25 yard line. Chevigny was nailed for no gain, but came right back with the ball on a criss cross for a first down on the 15 yard line.

Roach Scores Touchdown.

Roach made three and then seven and it was first down on the 5 yard line. Smith hit center for two yards and Chevigny failed to gain. Then Roach hit over Georgia's left tackle and went over for a touchdown. His attempt at goal was blocked.

For the rest of that period the boys were stopped, though most of the play was in Georgia territory. Starting the second period Rockne sent in O'Boyle, Dahman and Niemiec as backs and put Voedisch and Wallace on ends. Notre Dame had the ball on Georgia's 45 yard line and after some exchanges of punts and some tearing plays by O'Boyle, they succeeded in getting a touchdown just before the half ended. Dahman made the final plunge of three yards for the score.

Petri and Lands Win Six Day Bike Grind by 4 Laps

BY FRANK SCHREIBER.

Final Standing

	Miles.	Laps.	Pts.
Landis and Petri	2,400	9	303
Beckman and Winter	2,400	5	192
McNamara and Goosens	2,400	4	660
Wynsdau and Belloni	2,400	4	220
Stockholm and Grimm	2,400	1	235
Walthour and Spencer	3,399	0	924
Coles and Bruskie	2,399	5	511
Kockler and Keller	2,399	4	268

Dave Lands, the Yankee veteran from Irvington, N. J., and Otto Petri, a round faced, husky German boy, won the six day bicycle race which came to an end at 11 o'clock last night at the Coliseum. Lands and Petri raced 2,400 9-10 miles during the week's merry go round and at the finish were four laps out in front of Anthony Beckman and Charley Winter, the "little old New York" team.

Third in the standing was Reggie McNamara, the Jersey veteran, and Alphonse Goosens, the long legged, rough riding Belgian, who were five laps behind the leading combination. Wynsdau and Belloni trailed in fourth position. McNamara and Goosens and Wynsdau and Belloni were tied in mileage, but the former team led in the scoring of points having a total of 660 markers against 220 for Wynsdau and Belloni.

Attendance Record Broken.

Records were smashed during the week's riding. First and foremost in the minds of the promoters, the attendance records or sixf days of racing went into the discard when more than 100,000 paid their way into the old Coliseum. Last night's crowd was about the poorest of the week, but the regular fans attributed this to the fact that the leading team was five laps in front when the final hour of sprinting started at 10 o'clock.

The record for stolen laps in a race was broken when the teams stepped out for a total of 330 stolen circuits of the track. The former record of 241 stolen laps was established at the six day race held at the Coliseum last spring.

Fifteen teams started the race last Sunday night and the riding during the week was the hardest ever seen in a Chicago race. One team quit the race on Wednesday night because the combination couldn't stand the pace and dropped behind so steadily that Referee Frank Kramer allowed their pleas that they be allowed to drop out.

Merkner Hurt in Spill.

Three Chicago boys held their places during the race. Carl Stockholm, who was teamed with Willie Grimm, finished in fifth place; while Ernest [Hy] Kockler, paired with Willie Keller, finished sixth. The other local entry, Eddie Merkner, who gained fame as an amateur under the colors of the South Chicago Wheelmen, rode brilliantly during the week along with Alex McBeath, but was injured in a spill in the final hour of sprinting and was forced to drop out.

The team of McNamara and Goosens won the majority of the points in the last hour of sprinting, gaining 660 markers. Reggie and partner finished first in seven sprints out of the final series of 23 and placed in seventeen. Bobby Walthour and Freddie Spencer won first in seven sprints, Walthour winning six.

Jam after jam was started during that hectic last hour of racing. The leading team were wary and watched their rivals closely enough to ward off any attack by the teams within striking distance of first place. Some of the trailing combinations, however, gained laps because the first three teams were content to take pace and fight each other off.

Wild Jamming Near End.

During the fourth sprint the teams of Beckman and Winter, Wynsdau and Belloni, Walthour and Spencer, and McNamara and Goosens each gained a lap, and then in the sixth sprint Stockholm and Grimm and Walthour and Spencer stepped out and grabbed a lap. This jam was ended by the spill which sent Merknor down on the flat of the track in front of the bunks.

Here is the number of laps gained by each team during the week's racing:

Petri and Lands, 36; Beckman and Winter, 32; Wynsdau and Belloni, 31; Walthour and Spencer, 26; Stockholm and Grimm, 28; McNamara and Georgetti, 24; Stockelynch and Goosens, 22; Coles and Bruskie, 22; Dinale and Bestetti, 21; McBeath and Merkner, 20; Kocfller and Keller, 20; Belloni and Gaffney, 13; Dempsey and Hanley, 12; Declerck and Heinsberg, 9; Van Kempen and Degraves, 7.

The newly constructed team of McNamara and Goosens gained seven laps after having been paired at 11 o'clock on Friday night.

OHIO CRUSHES MAROONS FOR 18 TO 0 VICTORY

Chicago Wilts After Second Quarter.

asleep and made ten. Grim passed to Alber for 35 yards and McDonough tackled from behind to bring him down on the Maroon 13 yard line. Another pass, Grim to Alber, secured 7 yards. Grim and Karow carried the ball over the goal line.

The second Ohio touchdown came in the third quarter. Ohio had the ball on Chicago's 32 yard line when Karow, the dependable left fist of the heavyweight fighter, found the Maroons off guard. He tore through Chicago's right tackle and raced almost unpursued to the goal line.

Pass Is Intercepted.

The last touchdown came in the fourth quarter. A pass by Marks was intercepted by Clark. He was stopped on the Chicago 18 yard line. The flashy Eby then swung into full speed and ran to the 6 yard line. Karow hit center for 2 yards and Eby came back with an end run that scored.

In the second half Stagg sent little Georgie Reed, the freshman flash of last year, into the game as a quarter back. Georgie looks like a grade school player but he snapped the plays and made several runs like a veteran. He was taken out when Chicago needed a punter and S. Rouse was returned to the lineup.

The statisticians in summarizing the game found good reason for the Ohio victory. Chicago made five first downs and the visitors made 13.

Hunt missed one of the Ohio tries for goal after touchdown; Clark missed two. Their misses were the only glaring weak spots in the Ohioans' play.

The battle between the lightweight who wasn't good enough to beat the good heavyweight ended with Marek dazzling the stands with bursts of fancy speed.

BRADLEY BLANKS WABASH, 14 TO 0, ON MUDDY FIELD

Crawfordsville, Ind., Oct. 30.—(AP)—On a sloppy field Bradley Tech today carried an unsullied banner and placed it triumphantly above the Scarlet of Wabash, winning their 20th victory by dropping the Little Giants, 14 to 0. The contest was marred by constant fumbling.

After the first quarter ended in a scoreless tie Bradley managed a safety when Shipherd broke through to block Viners' attempted punt. A blocked punt in the third quarter paved the way for the first Bradley touchdown. Decremer passed to Cravens over the Scarlet goal line in the final period for a second touchdown.

A Wabash drive in the third quarter was halted when McDougal was banished from the field for slugging.

The Olympias and Buda will battle for the lead in the Major league at Harvey. Another Major league game will feature the Pullman and the North Shores at 103d and Corliss streets.

Yost Asks Why Is a Team Favorite; Experts Agree

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Fielding H. Yost, veteran coach of football and director of athletics at the University of Michigan, does not like to see his team the favorite, he said before today's game, lost by Michigan to Navy, 10 to 0.

"Why should Michigan be favored over the Navy?" he asked. "Both are great schools. Each will be permitted to play only eleven men and for the life of me I can't see that Michigan should be picked by the experts. It seems to me that in most football games at this stage of the season either team might be considered as likely to win as the other.

"As for upsets, what is an upset? As I see it, an upset is a game where the team wins that the experts thought would lose. But it was just as good a team, perhaps, before it was picked to lose."

Tonight most of the "experts" think the Navy victory over Michigan was an "upset."

HUNGRY BROWN BEAR EATS UP DARTMOUTH, 10-0

20,000 Watch Green Drop Third Straight.

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Brown's big grizzly bear licks his chops this evening over another satisfying meal and gazes, still hungry, in the direction of Harvard. The same eleven youngsters who last week gave Brown its first victory over Yale in ten years today knocked down the Dartmouth Indian and came through with a slate still clean, 10 to 0.

But the slightly dazed look in the eyes of the bear tonight was not due to any overeating. Brown won only after one of the hardest, most keenly fought games of football that eastern fields have seen.

20,000 See Brown Win.

Twenty thousand jammed every corner of Dartmouth's stadium in the Hampshire hills this afternoon and watched the alert, springy eleven in the brown jersies convert a blocked kick in the second period into a touchdown and an intercepted, last minute Dartmouth pass into a field goal in the final.

They watched, between those scores, as even and inspiring a fight of lines and backfields as they could have asked for, with Brown, threatened repeatedly, shutting down on Dartmouth rushes and passes and carrying the fight back to the enemy.

Dooley's Sub Stars.

They saw Broda and Towle on Brown's end turn in magnificent gains. And they saw Harris take the injured "Death" Doley's place turn in a splendid game against great odds.

Dartmouth outgained Brown, 198 yards to 120, and against 14 first downs to Brown's 6, but once in scoring position Brown stopped them up. Dooley was rushed in with his bandaged hand in the second and third periods, but his hurt stopped his passing and he completed only two of the passes he tried.

BOSTON COLLEGE WINS

Boston, Mass., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Boston college's hitherto uncrossed goal line was crossed today by the West Virginia Wesleyan football team, but Boston won, 27 to 6. Each of the four Boston college backs scored a touchdown. The Bobcats went scoreless until the third period when Kemerer scooped up a loose ball in the Boston college back field and dashed sixty yards through an open field for a touchdown.

The forward passing of Weston to McKenney and Dower resulted in two touchdowns. Weston and Cronin each went through the Wesleyan line for a touchdown.

Missouri Stops Air Attack of West Virginia to Win, 27-0

Morgantown, W. Va., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Missouri university led a thundering, crashing herd into the east today and vanquished the West Virginia Mountaineers by the score of 27 to 0 before a crowd of 20,000 persons.

One touchdown came in the second quarter after a 63 yard march; another from midfield in the third quarter aided by a long run by Flamank; a third one in the fourth session when Morgan intercepted a West Virginia pass past midfield and ran to his 19 yard mark, later to be converted into a touchdown by O'Sullivan, and the final one when Brown intercepted Hamilton's pass and ran 70 yards for a touchdown.

Mountaineers Are Outclassed.

The Mountaineers were outclassed from the start by the big western team and while the West Virginia line played a great defensive game the passing combination of Stuber to Clark gained too much ground at important times to thwart a Tiger victory. The Missouri line was too good for the Mountaineers and paved the way for the first victory gained over a West Virginia team on its new Mountaineer field after fourteen successful contests.

Sensational returns of kick-offs by Ryan and Hamilton were offset by long runs after intercepted passes by Missouri players and the Mountaineers were held at bay at all other times.

Both Sides Furnish Stars.

Flamank, Stuber, Clark and Lindemeyer starred for the Tigers, while Morrison, McHenry and Hardy carried the brunt of the battle for West Virginia. Lineup:

DRAKE BEATS KANSAS

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Drake won its first Missouri Valley game of the season here today at the expense of the Kansas Jayhawks, 13 to 0. The game was listlessly played except in the first quarter, when Drake made all of its points.

Two forward passes from the 42 yard line gave Drake its first touchdown in the first ten minutes of play. Everett, flashy Drake quarter, whose open field running was the individual feature of the game, raced 43 yards for another touchdown soon after, but the play was called back because Drake was off-side. The second touchdown came on line football aided by one forward pass.

Kansas threatened to score early in the second quarter, but lost the ball on downs on the Drake seven yard line and for the remainder of the game the pigskin remained between the two 20 yard markers.

Jones and Delmege on defense and Everett on the offense were the Drake stars. Capt. Zuber and Starr led the Kansas offensive with Hauser and Hamilton doing stellar defensive work.

COLGATE SWAMPS MICHIGAN STATE, 38 TO 6, IN RAIN

Hamilton, N. Y., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Playing in a driving rain, Colgate's team, minus its captain and field general, Nick Mehler, defeated the Michigan State eleven, 38 to 6, here today.

Bud Newell, Syracuse youth, playing for the injured Mehler, was the leading ground gainer, intercepting two of Michigan State's passes, making runs of 30 yards and 35 yards, and scoring two touchdowns.

RIPON BATTERS BELOIT, 33 TO 0

Ripon, Wis., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Playing a line plunging game, Ripon college defeated Beloit today, 33 to 0. Showing remarkable drive, Bahrs, quarter back, starred for Ripon by piling up five touchdowns. Murchie kicked three extra points. Out of seven passes attempted by the Ripon team six were completed. Thomas and Bahrs starred for Ripon.

LAFAYETTE SCORE IN LAST MINUTE NIPS W. AND J., 16-10

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Lafayette's football team remains undefeated tonight as the result of its thrilling victory over Washington and Jefferson here this afternoon by the score of 16 to 10. More than 20,000 people banked the huge stands to see one of the greatest games ever witnessed on Franklin field.

With less than a minute to play and the score 10 to 9 against it, Lafayette came through with a touchdown that downed Andy Kerr's legions.

COLUMBIA, 17; CORNELL, 9

New York, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Emerging from the shadow of six straight Cornell defeats, a battered Columbia eleven snatched victory from the Ithacans in a thrilling last half rally before 40,000 spectators at the Polo grounds today, 17-9.

A spectacular rally by Columbia which netted two touchdowns and a field goal, turned the tide after the Red and White ranks had been riddled and routed in the first two periods under a crushing line assault by the powerful and hitherto unbeaten Cornell machine.

SYRACUSE WINS, 31 TO 0

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Syracuse's second and third string players had a field day at the expense of Johns Hopkins today, the Orange winning, 31 to 0. Ray Jones, former end, played a sensational game for the Orange as substitute quarter back, reeling off three touchdowns and gaining almost at will.

HOLY CROSS, 20; DAYTON, 7

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 30. — (AP)—The Holy Cross football eleven, playing without the services of three regulars who were declared ineligible last night, won its sixth straight victory today by defeating Dayton university, 20 to 7.

Dayton was first to score, its strong aerial attack bringing a touchdown early in the first quarter. Holy Cross came back with two touchdowns in the second period, the result of fine running on the part of Kittredge and Wise and of several long passes.

Holy Cross' third touchdown came in the third period after Wise and Kittredge had banged their way from midfield in a series of off-tackle plunges.

HARVARD STAGES FIELD MEET TO BURY TUFTS, 69-6

Second and Third Teams Join in Rout.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Harvard's new football machine had a field day today, running ragged over Tufts for a final score of 69 to 6. The visitors' single scoring opportunity came in the first period, when three forward passes carried the ball to the Crimson 9 yard line, and Ellis drove over for a touchdown.

Harvard started its first string eleven, but after Miller's first touchdown substitutions became the order of the day, until every member of the Crimson squad had seen action. The Crimson's first, second, and third string back fields romped over Tufts, gaining on line rushes and long runs almost at will. Miller accounted for three of Harvard's ten touchdowns, while E. Clarke and Chauncey, substituting for Miller and Sayles, each made two. Lineup:

TIGERS, 27; SWARTHMORE, 0

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 30.—(AP)—The Princeton Tigers proved too much for Swarthmore in Palmer stadium today and the Garnet was smothered, 27 to 0. This was the first time in eight years that Swarthmore had failed to score on the Orange and Black and the first time this season that Princeton kept its goal uncrossed. The Tiger used straight line plays with a few forward passes.

A late rally by Swarthmore in the final period had the Tigers on the run for a few minutes. Lineup:

WASCOLONIS ROLLS OFF TACKLE FOR FOUR YARD GAIN THROUGH ILLINI WALL IN PENNSYLVANIA'S FIRST QUARTER OFFENSIVE. The snarling full back of the eastern eleven has slipped through the line to be thrown off balance by an outstretched arm of Illini tackler and faces other Illini warriors closing in to stop the advance. The expression on the faces of the players indicates the tenseness of the gridiron battle waged at Champaign before a crowd of 60,000. HAWTHORNE RACE OPENS NEW ERA ON LOCAL TRACKS

Best Dirt Trail Pilots Join A. A. A.

CLIFF WOODBURY.

Chicago may become a leading center for American Automobile association races as the result of the big card arranged at Hawthorne this afternoon. A number of drivers who have been making fast time over dirt tracks in the west are planning to join the national body with a view to giving the public organized racing competition.

Many of these drivers, keen to compete in the 100 mile race to be held under A. A. A. auspices at Hawthorne today, have already qualified and it is likely that several more will be admitted to the Triple A for the coming season.

In the event the leading drivers of Chicago gain memberships in the A. A. A. it is likely that the Roby track will become an official course next year. It is also certain that Hawthorne will in the future be known as an American Automobile association track.

Louis Chevrolet, promoter of today's 100 mile race, is prepared to take a lease for automobile contests on the Hawthorne track and promises at least half a dozen major events for the oval next year. He plans to bring in leading speedway drivers of the country for each card.

Cliff Woodbury will introduce a new car to the Chicago fans this afternoon. It is a Miller-motored front drive. The car was brought to Indianapolis last year by Harry Miller, but, being an innovation, failed to secure a driver who was convinced that the front drive principle could win.

Chevrolet announces that alterations in the Hawthorne track have made it lightning fast and he anticipates one of the most interesting competitions on record. It has been many years since Chicago has had a long distance race under American Automobile association auspices. Not since the heyday of the old board speedway at Maywood has the public been offered an opportunity to witness an A. A. A. race of a century or more.

Headliners in the time trials and feature race this afternoon include Woodbury in a Miller, Wilbur Shaw and Baumann in Frontenac specials, Eddie Burbank in a Frontenac, Leslie Allen in a Kohlert special, Louis Schneider in a Boyle special, D. D. Morris, Walter Martin, Ralph Eckstrome, Earl Phillips, Fred Roberts, Carl Marchese, and Art Branch in Millers and other specials which meet three A specifications, and several additional pilots still to qualify. There will be fifteen cars facing Starter Seth Klein in the century, and other cars will attempt to get under the wire in the early time trials today.

President Anton J. Cermak of the Cook county board, Eugene Silver, T. J. Rochford, and Charles Erbstein are the judges of the final meet, and Eddie Edenburn of Detroit will act as official representative for the national association. Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, will be referee.

It was announced last night that a special train will leave the Randolph station of the I. C. at 1:45 p. m., stopping at Van Buren, Twelfth, and Halsted street stations to pick up speed fans.

Sangor, Hill Await Match on West Side

Joey Sangor of Milwaukee and Johnny Hill, the Filipino, will meet in the windup of the boxing show at the Madison Gardens arena, Rockwell and Madison streets, tomorrow night, and Shuffle Callahan of Chicago Heights and Pinkie Mitchell of Milwaukee will clash at Dexter Park pavilion on Friday night.

Sangor and Hill are aggressive fighters. Joey has a technical knockout to his credit over Sammy Mandell, the world's lightweight champion. This victory was achieved before Sammy graduated into the 135 pound division. Joey has made many other creditable fights. Hill is a hard hitter and will rely upon his right hand to stop the Cream City battler.

Promoter Jack O'Keefe has arranged an interesting supporting card. In the semi-windup Harry Ebbets of Brooklyn will take on Joe Sullivan for six rounds. Jim Savage and Battling Kavanaugh, local heavyweights will mingle in another six rounder and Jackie Conway of St. Paul will meet Steve Adams of South Chicago. Two other four rounders complete the card.

DE PAUL U. WINS OVER LA CROSSE NORMAL, 37-14

De Paul university staged a comeback yesterday by downing La Crosse Normal, which has not lost a game this season, 37 to 14.

De Paul had plenty of drive and outplayed La Crosse in every quarter except the third when the visitors put over two touchdowns.

THE SPORTING GOODS BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

THIS MATERIAL AGE.

I don't know to what extent, if any, the bird legged freckle faced kids of today between the ages of, say, nine and fifteen, are fascinated by the notion of becoming big league ball players. But I suspect that they are less enthusiastic about it than the kids were eighteen or twenty years ago which time was an age of innocence regarding the material facts of a ball player's life.

In those days the pieces in the papers about baseball players were consistently romantic. You seldom read about squabbles over salary and the fact that so great a ball player and sport page hero as Johnny Evers was receiving just a couple of thousand dollars a year was not deemed to be an interesting story. The cynical school of sport writing which now holds possession of the sport pages, had not been born and the people who went to ball games invariably were referred to as fans, not as customers which is a sordid word and bad for the illusions.

"I sat by Johnny Evers at a world series a couple of years ago. He was experting, as the term goes, for a press association and you might be interested to know that Johnny is one of the very few ball players who can sit in a press coop and put down criticisms and comments on a world series game that will stand up and read well when the chill has stiffened the type.

However, Johnny fell to talking about his career with the Cubs and he laughed a very nasty dry laugh when I said that he had been a god to the kids in my old neighborhood around Kenmore avenue and Irving Park boulevard in Chicago and that we all tried to execute the instructions that he gave in a series of stories in one of the papers, hoping to learn to field the way he did.

Johnny said that was a laugh to him because when he was doing his biggest trade in the hero business, as a member of the combination of Tinker and Evers and Chance, he was making no more than $3,000 a year. In his first big season his pay was less than $2,000. Charlie Murphy was a great hand to pay off in glory, Johnny recalled, and the customers furnished that.

During the last few seasons I have talked to a number of kids regarding the desirability of a big league baseball career without finding one whose ambition was seriously pointed that way. Some of them were rich kids who wanted to play quarter back at Yale or pull a sweep in the crew. The other kids weren't definite about their athletic ambitions, except in Florida, where Walter Hagen, Johnny Farrell and some other professional onion-thumpers of gorgeous plumage were making some money at golf. Down there the kids wanted to be golf pros and wear mauve bloomers and blue and white hatbands like Farrell's and dance on the club verandas with society dolls at night, all dolls with bare arms and long cigaret holders being classed as society dolls.

Eighteen or twenty years ago the kids read "Won in the Ninth," a novel by Christy Mathewson or "A Bride and a Pennant," a novel by Frank L Chance and believed that Matty and Chance had sat up late at night, pecking at their typewriters to createe literature in person. But nowadays no kid is sap enough to believe that Babe Ruth writes Babe Ruth's stuff or that John McGraw writes his.

THAT beautiful innocence of twenty years ago has been destroyed or very seriously damaged and I imagine that the kids of the present, in considering the allurement of a baseball career also wonder how much dough they will get along with hoorah. Probably they are mindful that they might be traded to Topeka. It isn't enough to promise them that the papers will print their pictures.

They have been given a large ration of Babe Ruth, of course, and his career has been made desirable in almost every way, with glory and dough in even proportions. But they have read about such clubs as the Phillies, for instance and the ration allowance of $3 a day that some baseball firms give their players, who, therefore, go looking for cheap, mean places to eat in, instead of crowding their vest buttons up against a heavy table cloth in swell joints and calling in a lordly way: "Garcon! I am Emil Outsch, the star utility infielder of the Red Sox! Bring me the menu."

The kids have read about fellows being sent to play ball in the summer heat of Macon, Ga., or fellows fined for giving balls to their girl friends or fellows bawled out like ordinary errand boys right in front of the customers by sharp-tempered managers as Hornsby and Cobb.

Illusions can't stand that.

PACKERS BATTLE CARDS; AKRON TO MEET BEARS

Bulls Entertain Boston at White Sox Park.

Pro Game on Air

THIS afternoon's football game between the Chicago Bulls and the Boston Bulldogs of the American pro league will be broadcast by W-G-N, direct from Comiskey park, starting at 1:50 o'clock.

The Green Bay Packers' pro grid machine engages the Cardinals at Normal park this afternoon desirous of erasing the 13 to 7 defeat they suffered three weeks ago on their home grounds and which knocked them out of the lead in the National league race.

Since that date, the Cards also have had their share of trouble, losing to the Bears, and barely escaping the Badgers' claws last Sunday, winning, 3 to 2. However, the south side fans believe that the worst is over and look to a rejuvenated lineup to repeat the original dose for the invaders.

Dunn at Half Back.

Ike Mahoney will call the signals today and Red Dunn will do his stuff from a half back position. Swanson, who joined the team last week, will make his local début at right end. Fred Gillies will play tackle. The only bad news is that Ralph Claypool may not be able to start at center because of injuries received at Milwaukee.

Rex Enright, Notre Dame full back last year, will assault the Cards' forward wall, while Mathys, Indiana quarter back, can be counted on to cause the half backs plenty of trouble with his passes.

John W. Lowery, Democratic candidate for municipal judge, will kick off to start the game at 2 o'clock.

BEARS BATTLE AKRON

The Chicago Bears, leading the National league race after three successive victories, will show their wares at Cubs park this afternoon to the second division Akron Indians. Although the Bears are picked to win, it is not improbable that they will have trouble accomplishing the task, for the Indians have a 6-6 tie with the Frankford Yellow Jackets, joint holders of first place in the standings

Chase, the 214 pound full back of the visitors, is said to hit the line with the drive of a Nevers, and if this is true, the Bears' forwards will have sufficient entertainment.

Paddy Driscoll has recovered from the knee injury he received last week and will start at half back. Bill Senn, who ran 68 yards through the Duluth team, will again be given an opportunity to perform.

BOSTON PLAYS BULLS

The Chicago Bulls meet the Boston Bulldogs at Sox park in an American league game and will endeavor to stretch their perfect record on the local gridiron, having previously downed Grange and last week given Cleveland its first setback.

Norman Stades, Johnny Mohardt and Joe Sternaman will lead the offensive, while the Bulls' line seems to have hit its stride and should be able to turn back the eastern collegians.

The Boston backfield is studded with stars. Gehrke, at full back, and Rollie Gilroy at half, are excellent performers. Herb Treat, former Princeton All-American, is coach of the Bulldog aggregation in addition to playing his tackle position. He is rated one of the best tackles in the Grange league and the Bulls' ends will have to use all their tricks for their backs to gain around his side of the line.

ELGIN'S PASSES DOWN ROCKFORD ELEVEN BY 6 TO 0

Rockford, Ill., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Elgin made a bid for the championship of the Big Seven conference by defeating Rockford, 6 to 0, today before a crowd of 7,000.

Hyde Park Upsets Lindblom, 13 to 0; Waukegan and St. Mel Are Victors

Lindblom, City league champions for two years and undefeated during its long reign, stumbled yesterday in the race for this year's title and lost to Hyde Park, 13 to 0, at White City park.

While the beating was the first Lindblom has suffered it did not come unexpectedly, as Coach Moore's machine was hampered by injuries and ineligibility, while Hyde Park has been showing great strength.

With a slight chance to overtake Bowen for the section title, Hyde Park played splendidly and displayed a strong defensive game which was on a par with its offense. Edwards and Corry counted for the winners. Edwards' long runs featured the contest. Lineup:

The Techs took the kickoff in the first quarter and paraded to the five yard line where, with six inches to go, a fumble halted the attack. Other chances to score were lost because of penalties and fumbles.

Late in the last quarter Marshall penetrated Harrison territory and crossed the goal line from a spread formation, but the play was called back and Marshall was penalized for holding.

This was Marshall's last game. Harrison can win the section title by beating Crane next Saturday. Lineup:

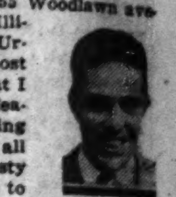
The Question.

What was the most interesting football game you attended this year?

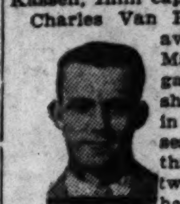
Where Asked.

Fifty-fifth street and Woodlawn avenue.

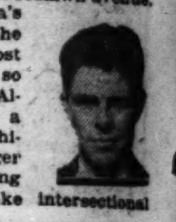
The Answer.



Jimmy Cusack, 5555 Woodlawn avenue, student—The Illinois-Iowa game at Urbana was the most interesting game that I have attended. The features were the running of Kutsch and the all around ability of Frosty Peters, who lived up to his reputation in that game. Might also make mention of the fine end play of Kassell, Illini captain.

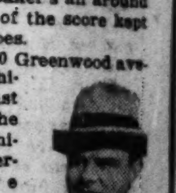


Charles Van Pelt, 5541 Woodlawn avenue, student — The Maryland - Chicago game. Wally Marks showed up better than in any game so far this season and the fact that this was one of the two games that Chicago has won made it the most interesting for me. The Maroons at that stage of the season looked impressive in their possibilities.



Merle Elliott, 5541 Woodlawn avenue, instructor—Florida's game fight against the Maroons was the most interesting contest so far this season. Although Florida had a shifty back field, Chicago's line was stronger and succeeded in holding the Floridans. I like intersectional games.

F. P. O'Hara, 1218 East 55th street, hardware—I think the 40,000 who attended the Northwestern - Notre Dame game will share my opinion that it was the best of the season. The high lights of the game were Parisien's southpaw passing, Niemiec's punting, and Baker's all around work. The closeness of the score kept everybody on their toes.



J. L. Finnegan, 5400 Greenwood avenue, druggist—The Chicago-Purdue game last Saturday, in which the Boilermakers gave Chicago its first Conference defeat. There wasn't much to choose between the teams at the start of the game, Purdue soon showed its superiority.

STANFORD NIPS TROJANS, 13-12, IN GRID UPSET

Cardinals Pile Up Points in Second Half.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 30.—The Stanford team that Coach Glenn Warner ten days ago termed "the worst football team I ever coached" must have made the old coach blush this afternoon while Stanford was drubbing Southern California, 13 to 12, and taking a firm clutch on the Pacific coast intercollegiate conference championship.

Instead of the one point margin of victory, Stanford might have beaten the Trojans by eight points had luck failed to smile on Southern California when Full Back Lloyd Thomas rushed 48 yards for a touchdown in the second quarter when a fumbled ball shot ten feet straight into his hands

Hoffman Batters Line.

The Stanford section of a packed bowl of 78,000, never had a moment to grieve over the loss of Ernie Nevers, for another human line slugger in the person of Clifford "Biff" Hoffman slammed the Trojan line for steady gains.

Hoffman scored the first touchdown for Stanford in the second half after U. S. C. had run up a lead of 12 to 0. Hyland packed the second Cardinal touchdown across in the third quarter after Hoffman shot him a pass from midfield to the 20 yard line. Bogue converted the goal kick and the Trojans never thereafter had a chance to win.

Southern California made its first touchdown on the first play of the second period when Morton Kaer, its shining star, raced the ball around Stanford's right end after the Trojans had been held until fourth down on the Stanford one yard line.

Thomas Runs 48 Yards.

Lloyd Thomas, brother of the famous Thomas brothers of University of Chicago, put over the second Trojan counter in the second period when he grabbed Hoffman's fumble and raced over the goal line.

U. S. C.'s punch failed when the Stanford line wore down the Trojans in the second half. In its early lead the Trojans ran up enough lead to give them a statistical advantage of fourteen first downs to the winners' seven. Stanford, however, gained 70 yards by passes and made each of four successful aerials count towards a touchdown.

Manuel Laraneta of the Trojans had it in his power to win the game for Howard Jones' team, but missed both place kick efforts for points after touchdown. Lineup:

OREGON, 21; BEARS, 13

Berkeley, Cal., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Bombed from the air and battered on the line, California's Golden Bears succumbed to the rushing attack of Oregon, 21 to 13, today.

It was a great day for the Webfooters of Oregon, whose followers saw the northern squad score its first conference victory since 1924, and at the same time tumble California for its third straight conference defeat of the year.

Opening with a flashing attack, Oregon pushed over three touchdowns in the first half. However, two times the Bear gridiron cohorts crossed the goal line in the third period and drove the northerners back again in the last quarter only to lose the ball when scoring opportunities arrived.

Oregon's touchdowns all resulted from a deceptive aerial attack.

NEBRASKA, 31; AMES, 6

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Nebraska reeled off four touchdowns and added three points on Stephens' 40 yard place kick to smother Iowa State of Ames today, 31 to 6.

Off tackle plunges and sweeping end runs by Presnell and Stephens, Nebraska backs, featured a powerful attack which took the ball over the Ames goal in every period. Stephens' long goal kick was executed in the teeth of a strong wind. Presnell contributed the most spectacular feat of the day when he swung around Iowa State's right end and covered 60 yards for a touchdown.

A recovered fumble on the Husker 20 yard line paved the way for Iowa State's only score, Weiss plowing over for the touchdown.

SOONERS, 21; WASHINGTON, 0

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Washington university's defense crumpled in the last half today, and the University of Oklahoma won, 21 to 0. The last two touchdowns came after intercepted passes.

EX-YALE SQUASH PLAYER FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL

New York, Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Clyde Martin, 36 years old, considered one of the greatest squash players that ever took a racquet for Yale university, was found dead today in his room at the Yale club.

A club valet who entered Mr. Martin's room found his body, clad in pajamas, lying on the floor beside the bed. It was concluded that Mr. Martin became ill and got out of bed to call for assistance when he collapsed and died. Dr. James Ross of the Roosevelt hotel said he believed Mr. Martin died of a sudden attack of acute indigestion.

IN THE WAKE OF THE NEWS

DYCHE STADIUM.

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY trustees have named their new $2,000,000 athletic field Dyche stadium in honor of William A. Dyche, for 23 years business manager of the university.

The Wake felicitates the trustees on their choice—and incidentally for beating us to it. That name had struck us as a proper one to be sprung at the time of the stadium dedication with the Chicago game of Nov. 13.

THE TRIBUNE sporting department suggested "Stagg field" and so referred to the Maroon gridiron for months before the University of Chicago trustees formally authorized the title. It also suggested "Huff field" for the gridiron of Illinois memorial stadium, but so far no official action has been taken. At Michigan there is the imposing Yost field house.

Thus there is precedent for honoring men whose efforts have built up college athletics when lasting structures were erected. At Northwestern neither Director Wilson nor Coach Thistlethwaite have been connected with the Purple long enough to warrant such distinction.

Except in Evanston Mr. Dyche is not generally known as a "booster" for athletics. To find a business manager, usually hoarding available funds for scholastic purposes and buildings, proponent of a vast athletic field is as notable as it is unusual, but that is just what Mr. Dyche has been for many years.

For two years before building actually began he was in frequent consultation with college authorities, architects, builders, even members of the press, seeking their ideas. Then through coöperation of the trustees he arranged the stadium financing without appeal to alumni or students for contributions.

It might be added in passing that Mr. Dyche's vision and business ability are held by Purple alumni largely responsible for converting into realities the McKinlock campus, men's and women's quadrangles, as well as the stadium.

Welcome, Dyche stadium, to midwestern athletic fields!

College Songs.

["Hail, Purdue," contributed by P. W. S.]

To your call once more we rally,
Alma Mater, hear our praise!
Where the Wabash spreads its valley,
Filled with joy our voices raise;
From the sky in swelling echoes
Comes the cheers that tell the tale
Of vict'ries and your heroes.
Hail, Purdue! We sing. All hail!

Hail, hail to old Purdue,
All hail to our Gold and Black;
Hail, hail to old Purdue,
Our friendship may she never lack;
Ever grateful, ever true,
Thus we raise our song anew
Of the days we've spent with you;
All hail, our own Purdue!

Free Throws After Fouls.

From a young friend who is trying for the freshman basketball team at a Big Ten university we have this closeup: "I am beginning to wonder how the collegian basketball player who is fouled shoots his free throw. So far they have done everything but bite me, and no one has called a foul yet. Golla, this IS a great life if you don't weaken."

MONMOUTH'S AIR ATTACK DOWNS AUGUSTANA, 10-0

Rock Island, Ill., Oct. 30.—Monmouth college's aerial attack proved too much for Augustana here today, the Norsemen going down to defeat, 10 to 0, before a homecoming crowd of 3,000.

Monmouth, held scoreless for three quarters, brought its Molesworth to Taylor forward passing combination into play in the late stages of the game. Monmouth took the ball from its own 41 yard line to Augustana's five yard line, principally on its effective passing attack, and Taylor scored with a drop kick from the 12 yard line. With seconds to go, Molesworth intercepted Olsson's pass and on the next play received a 20 yard toss from Taylor for a touchdown. Taylor kicked goal.

LOMBARD BEATS BUTLER, 18 TO 0

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—The brilliant punting of Moser stellar Lombard half back, enabled the Galesburg college to defeat Butler in football here this afternoon, 18 to 0. Although the field was a quagmire because of heavy rains, Moser's kicks averaged fifty yards, and one sailed 65 yards.

Lombard held Butler off all during the first half and then in the third period Sandberg and Coulter hit the line for a touchdown. A pass Moser to Coulter in the fourth period enabled Lombard to score again.

Des Moines U. Beaten by North Dakota, 33 to 0

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 30.—(AP)—With Couchman, their star back, forced out of the game by injuries in the first period, Des Moines university Tigers proved easy for North Dakota here today, and were beaten, 33 to 0. Nemic's forward passing opened the way for three North Dakota touchdowns, and a punt blocked by Bokavoy deep in Des Moines territory paved the way for a fourth. The final score was made following a 45 yard run by Goldberg from the kickoff.

Iowa Upsets Carroll Grid Team by 21-0

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Iowa showed a slightly strengthened defense today against the driving, erratic attack of Carroll College, winning, 21 to 0.

Carroll used varied line smashing and forward passing attack, making only one first down in the first half and one in the second. Iowa failed to spring the passing attack that had been expected, but gained ground regularly on off tackle smashes and end runs.

Byers, sophomore quarter, and Bunn, sophomore full back, starting their first game on the regular squad, also starred. Byers scored the first touchdown of the game by returning a punt untouched through the entire field for 50 yards. Kutsch scored twice, one in the second quarter, when he shook off three tacklers and raced 12 yards to the goal, and the second in the third period. Lineup:

SUZANNE DELAYS CHICAGO MATCH UNTIL NOV. 18

Suzanne Lenglen, French tennis queen, will make her Chicago appearance at the Coliseum on Thursday, Nov. 18 instead of on Nov. 16 as was announced by C. C. Pyle two weeks ago.

The change was made at the request of Mlle. Lenglen who told Pyle that the schedule of three games a week is too strenuous and that after her Pittsburgh appearance next Tuesday she desires to play but twice weekly.

For the Chicago engagement the Coliseum will seat less than 10,000 persons after the space required for the double court is utilized at the expense of the present seating arrangement. The concrete floor in the arena will be surfaced with a portable cork and rubber layer topped by a tightly drawn canvas, declared by the players to provide a perfect playing court.

GRANGE'S YANKS RALLY TO DEFEAT QUAKERS, 23 TO 0

American League Leaders Suffer First Defeat.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Dormant for nearly three periods, Red Grange's New York Yankees came to life, caught the Quakers unawares, and soundly whipped them this afternoon, 23 to 0, before a crowd of 30,000.

Gridiron ghosts trod the field for three periods. They used to call Grange the "galloping ghost." Today he was a ghost, indeed—the ghost of the man who just about a year ago rode over Penn for three touchdowns and gained 330 yards all alone. Today he gained in all 85 yards, running the ball, throwing and receiving passes, and running back kicks. He lost against this total 15 yards, making his net yardage 70 yards. Opposed to him was the old battering ram of Penn, "Little" Albert Kreuz. All Al did was to try two placement goals—he missed both.

The Yankees really became a gridiron machine when George Pease, Columbia quarter back of 1925, took charge. He started a battering attack late in the third quarter and, centering it about "Pooley" Hubert, last year's Alabama university ram, and the fleet Eddie Tryon of Colgate, the Yankees marched about 40 yards. Pease carried the ball over. The drive was started by Red Grange catching a pass which gained 18 yards.

The game, dead for three periods, made up in thrills in the last quarter for the earlier calm. It was the first defeat for the locals and was the first time the Folwell coached eleven had its goal line crossed.

St. Thomas and Columbia Play to Scoreless Tie

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 30.—In a hard fought battle, Columbia and St. Thomas played to a scoreless tie this afternoon. Each tried one goal from field. Noonan, Russell and Schwind starred for Columbia. Columbia held for downs on the two yard line in the last quarter and then started an offensive, bringing the ball into St. Thomas' territory as the game ended.

Lisle Forfeits to Elgin Academy on Disputed Decision

Elgin, Ill., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Elgin academy practically clinched the title in the Northern Illinois Junior college conference today when it won on a forfeit from Lisle by 1 to 0. Coach Bauer of the visitors withdrew his team from the fray in the middle of the third quarter after an out of bounds decision had gone against them. The score was 3-3 at the time, Van Schaack having scored for Elgin and Kanppik for Lisle with a place kick and drop kick, respectively.

In the disputed play, Leithead of Elgin caught a pass and dashed 40 yards to Lisle's three yard line. Lisle asserted the Elgin runner was off side on the 20 yard marker. After Elgin had advanced the ball to the one foot line on the next play, Lisle called a halt and walked off the field.

Morton Junior college, Elgin's one remaining conference foe, was defeated by Lisle last week by 34 to 0.

LOYOLA BEATS "Y" COLLEGE ELEVEN, 20-7

Loyola university defeated "Y" college, 20 to 7, at Loyola field yesterday in a game featured by an 80 yard run by Luchs, full back, for the losers' only score. Capt. Dan Lamont of Loyola was allowed to leave the hospital to watch the game.

Loyola scored in the first quarter when Burke got a "Y" fumble on the 50 yard line. Downs and Lundgoot made two first downs each, and McGrath plunged through the line for the touchdown.

Norton recovered a fumble in the second period after Kiley sent in his regulars. Johnson passed to Norton for 13 yards, and the latter skirted end for 22 yards. Etu hit tackle for the score.

Loyola's third touchdown came after Witry intercepted a pass when Norton got 12 yards and Cronin 24 around end and Johnson crossed the goal line on a quarter back sneak.

Capt. Drury and Peach looked best for the Y. M. C. A. in the line, while Witry was the shining light in Loyola's forward wall. Lineup:

JACK ALEXANDER WINS FAREWELL AURORA HANDICAP

Comes from Fifth Place to Conquer Hot Time.

BY FRENCH LANE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Aurora, Ill., Oct. 30.—Jack Alexander carried H. C. McConnell's orange and purple silks to a brilliant victory in the $2,000 Cermak handicap at six furlongs here this afternoon. He came from far back and beat Hot Time by a nose in the contest which featured the closing day of the Chicago district turf season.

Sanola and Anne Marrone II, coupled as the Sanola Farm entry and backed to the exclusion of the others until they were even money favorites, failed to get any part of the purse, Sure Fire, a long shot, poking his nose in front of Sanola near the finish to get third money.

Ends Racing Season.

Both Sanola and Anne Marrone carried heavy imposts and the big package brought them back. A crowd of 8,000 braved a cold cloudy day to say farewell to the thoroughbreds for the season in this section which has run for 130 days. Jockey O. Mazoue furnished the thrills by booting home four winners.

While Jack Alexander gave the players their most severe jolt of the day by running his good race, he was not entirely overlooked, paying $12.80 in the $2.00 mutuels. He had campaigned in Canada most of the season where he had beaten some good ones.

The race brought a bad spill when Golden Lynn stumbled and fell on the first turn. Jockey Crowell was severely shaken up and was unable to ride during the remainder of the afternoon.

Hot Time, showing his usualy dazzling early speed, was first away from the barrier, and by the time they hit the turn had gone into a two lengths lead. He increased his advantage at the top of the stretch to three lengths and at this point Sanola started dropping back.

Long Shot Wins Third Race.

Jack Alexander had been racing in fifth place but began a mighty drive under Jockey R. Crees' hard riding and mowed down his opposition one by one until only Hot Time was in front of him. He took Hot Time into camp in the last half dozen strides.

The other events all carried the claiming clause but they brought exciting racing and some tall priced winners, the genuine long shot of the day to score being Dr. A. Lowenthal in the mile third race who got up in the late going to overhaul Columbia II and capture the big end of the purse at odds of 25 to 1.

LESSONS IN BRIDGE

To bridge players less skillful, the insight of the experts into the hands of their opponents in the game broadcast from station W-G-N last Tuesday was nothing short of uncanny.

In a game marked by splendid attack and equally splendid defense, Wilbur C. Whitehead of New York, and Maj. R. J. Herman of Boston, were matched against E. E. Denison of Portland, Me., and Milton C. Work of New York.

The hands and positions of the men were as follows: Mr. Whitehead, the dealer, whose position was "south" held: Spades, J, 3, 2; hearts, A, J, 4; diamonds, Q, 3, and clubs, A, 9, 8, 4, 2.

Mr. Denison in the "west" held: Spades, K, Q, 4; hearts, K, 10, 9, 3; diamonds, K, 8, 6, and clubs, 10, 7, 6.

Maj. Herman playing "north" held: Spades, A, 10, 7, 6; hearts, 8, 7, 6, 2; diamonds, A, 10, 4, and clubs, K, 5.

Mr. Work in the "east" position held: Spades, 9, 8, 5; hearts, Q, 5; diamonds, J, 9, 7, 5, 2, and clubs, Q, J, 3.

Mr. Whitehead, the dealer, opened the bidding with one club. He did so not with any particular desire to play clubs, but simply to tell his partner that he held two quick tricks in his hand.

Mr. Denison with an average hand of four high cards doubled, to let his partner know that he had a valuable assisting hand but one not strong enough for an original bid. Maj. Herman bid one no-trump and Mr. Work passed.

On the second round Mr. Whitehead allowed Maj. Herman's bid to stand, and Mr. Denison also passed, so that Maj. Herman was the declarer.

Work Opens Play.

The play was opened by Mr. Work, who led the five of diamonds, the fourth best card of his longest suit. This is usually the best lead against a no-trump declaration when partner has not bid. As Mr. Whitehead spread his dummy hand on the table, Maj. Herman shrewdly played the three of diamonds from it. Many would have played the queen, but Maj. Herman figured that with the king probably in Mr. Denison's hand he could make only one diamond trick by making such a play at this time. To force a high diamond from declarer, and to establish Mr. Work's entire diamond suit if he should happen to hold the ace together with the jack, Mr. Denison played his king.

In planning his campaign of play, Maj. Herman could count one spade trick, one heart trick, two diamond tricks, and two club tricks, one short of his contract. The one thing necessary for him was to prevent Mr. Work from making any established diamonds. He figured it would do no harm to pass the first diamond trick, so Maj. Herman played the four of diamonds, thus getting rid of one of his losers at once.

On the second play of cards, Mr. Denison led the eight spot of diamonds, Maj. Herman the ten, Mr. Work the deuce, and dummy took the trick with the queen.

Starting at once on his longest suit, Maj. Herman then led the deuce of clubs from dummy in order to establish two long clubs in dummy before dummy's ace of hearts reentry was taken out. Mr. Denison played the six, Maj. Herman the king, and Mr. Work the trey.

Maj. Herman now led the five of clubs, Mr. Work played the jack, dummy the ace, and Mr. Denison the seven.

Herman Leads Clubs.

Hoping that clubs would break, Maj. Herman led the nine of clubs from dummy, Mr. Denison played the ten, Maj. Herman discarded the deuce of hearts, and Mr. Work won with the queen of clubs.

On the next play of cards, Mr. Work had no better lead than the diamond. All the high diamonds with the exception of the ace had either been played or were in his hand. He led the 7. Dummy discarded the 2 of spades. Mr. Denison played the 6 of diamonds and Maj. Herman won with the ace.

Maj. Herman now had two good club tricks in dummy and could expect one more heart trick. These however, were not enough to win game. Consequently he decided to feel out the spade situation and take his only chance of making game. He figured that Mr. Denison's double of Mr. Whitehead's original bid placed with him the king and queen of either hearts or spades.

So Maj. Herman led the 6 of spades. Mr. Work covered with the 8 spot. Dummy played the jack and Mr. Denison won with the king.

Although this was a false card to deceive Maj. Herman as to the location of the queen, it placed Mr. Denison in an awkward position. He did not wish to lead a heart from his king-10 up to dummy's ace-jack. If Maj. Herman held a queen this play would only present him with a trick. The only other lead was a spade but this was a daring venture. Maj. Herman probably held the ace-10 and a finesse of the 10 by Maj. Herman would win the game. But it seemed to be his only chance. Therefore Mr. Denison led the 4 of spades.

Lead Surprises Herman.

The lead surprised Maj. Herman, but one could almost read his thoughts as he reasoned: "If Mr. Work had held the queen and one spade it would have been his logical play to jump in with the queen on the first spade lead, make his two diamonds, and thus save game. Undoubtedly he would have done so. Therefore Mr Denison had undertaken a shrewd play in the hope that I will fall into the trap." So Maj. Herman cannily played the 10 of spades, Mr. Work the 5, the dummy the 3. This was Maj. Herman's fifth trick.

Maj. Herman now led the ace of spades, Mr. Work played the 9, dummy the 4 of hearts, Mr. Denison the queen of spades.

For his seventh trick Maj. Herman led the 7 of spades, Mr. Work discarded the 9 of diamonds, dummy the jack of hearts, and Mr. Denison the 3 of hearts.

Maj. Herman now led the 6 of hearts and claimed the rest of the tricks, as he would win with the ace of hearts in dummy and his two club tricks were good, thus making four tricks in no-trump and game.

The score was as follows: 40 for tricks, 40 for aces, or 80 points in all, and game.

Maj. Herman played very ably as the declarer. Mr. Denison played equally well on the defensive. His return of the small spade after winning the first spade trick with the king was a brilliant attempt to save game. He had all to gain and nothing to lose by the play. And, although it failed because of Maj. Herman's shrewdness, it was a fine display of auction bridge skill.

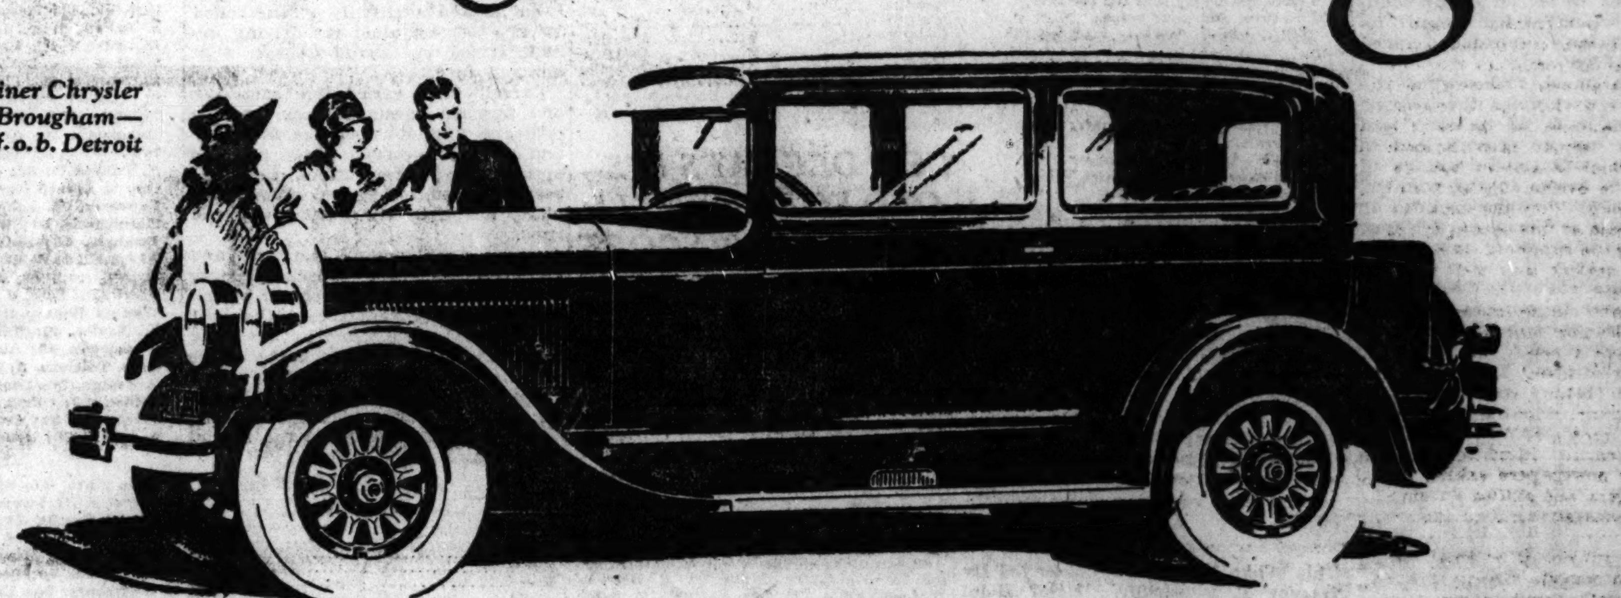
The NEW INFLUENCE on all fine motoring

New, Finer Chrysler "70" Brougham—$1525, f.o.b. Detroit



With its new beauty and new, lower prices joined to proved and unmatched superiority of performance, dependability, roadability, economy and long life, the new, finer Chrysler "70" exerts even more emphatically the influence which for the past three years has meant nothing but Chrysler.

Since the announcement of the first Chrysler the motor car industry has endeavored to emulate and imitate Chrysler design and practice, Chrysler performance and appearance.

But never for a moment during these three years has it been possible to mistake any other car for a Chrysler, or a Chrysler for any other car.

And now, with the coming of the new, finer Chrysler "70"—at its new, radically lower prices—the gap between Chrysler and the commonplace, Chrysler and the conventional, is made even more marked than ever.

Newer, more exquisitely graceful bodies of exclusively Chrysler design, newer, more distinctive silhouette—newer luxury of comfort—newer, greater riding ease—newer richness of upholstery—newer, finer hardware and fittings—newer refinements in controls and lighting—newer, more attractive color blendings far in advance of current harmonies—with basically the same famous chassis, unchanged save for refinements.

Thousands upon thousands of enthusiastic motorists are hailing it as the turning point in motor car body design—the forecast of the new vogue in motoring for years to come.

You simply must see and drive the new, finer Chrysler "70". That's the only way you can fully appreciate its new beauty, combined with phenomenal and unchanged performance.

Motor Builders Meet Safety Code with Small Cars

Uniform Light Law Urged as Vital Accident Prevention.

BY WHITCOMB WILLIAMS.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Proceedings of the annual safety congress, which convened in Detroit this week, were watched with considerable interest by automobile manufacturers, especially that part of it concerned with traffic regulations and control.

During the last two years manufacturers have seriously considered the advisability of introducing small automobiles specially designed for driving in the congested districts of city traffic. Two or three companies have made the initial move in this direction, and makers generally have expressed themselves as favorably inclined toward more stringent traffic regulations, in line with delegates to the convention, who registered similar expressions. This is taken as an indication that more small cars will be introduced in the coming year with improved features of the past attempts.

Another important subject which was discussed, one of vital interest to manufacturers and to owners, was that of headlight regulations and enforcements. Standardization as the remedy for this particularly vexing problem was advocated by J. B. Hunt of the electrical research division of General Motors corporation.

Answering the plea of manufacturers in general that every household have two cars instead of one—especially where one large car is concerned—the downward trend in prices is making this condition possible to a far greater extent than ever before. Lower prices and smaller cars is the present trend.

A banking publication recently quoted a well known automobile manufacturer as having remarked that the practice of installment buying had gone too far and that, as a result, there was a decrease in the buying power. Credit terms have become sales terms, which is always bad, because it leads to overbuying and also to careless buying. With the usual attention being paid at this season of the year to moving the supply of used cars now on hand, dealers may well profit by the warning.

The talk in automotive circles right now is that a leading manufacturer is soon to announce a new "six" carrying a price tag of about $1,000 and a straight "eight" selling around $1,500. A Detroit company, financed by a Toledo manufacturer, is said to be back of the announcement. Blind advertisements in daily newspapers asking for dealers, managers, and skilled automobile workers lends strength to the report.

Still another subject of no small importance in automobile circles is the possibility of another well known automobile concern establishing a manufacturing branch in Detroit. News this week from Paris was that Peugeot, the great French car builder, is seriously contemplating opening of an American plant here.

That the private cars of the future will be driven from the front wheels is the belief of no less an authority than Earl Cooper, well known race driver. Cooper sets the time as from three to four years, the private car being about that length of time behind the racers in new developments because the racing car is the crucible out of which the present day cars have been developed. With the front wheel drive the motor is placed backwards in the frame and a lower center of gravity is therefore possible.

Small cars featured the Olympia motor show, which was staged in London this week. Cars of every size and price, however, were to be seen, and several new models made their first appearance.

A general downward revision in prices and a market-wide improvement in standards of mechanics, comfort, and equipment were also features. But the small cars on display held the attention of visitors, most of them smaller than the smallest American car. The reason for this is the fact that England imposes a tax of $5 per horsepower, and the sevens and tens are necessary in order to keep the price of a registration license below the price of the car. The minimum price of an English license is $35. With this situation facing them, English motor engineers have performed wonders in developing high speed motors, eliminating extra weight and unnecessary power.

Employment in the various automobile plants and accessories shops continued its downward trend this week with a decrease of 3,406 as recorded by the labor barometer of the Employers' association. This drop brought the total now employed to 224,806, compared to 266,253 for the corresponding period of 1925.

E. L. Cord, president of Auburn, has purchased the Lexington Motor corporation of Connersville, Ind., and the Ansted Engineering company, both of which have been in the hands of a receiver for some time. Cord announces that he will start a branch factory for the production of Auburn automobiles in the new location.

He's Out to Learn the Truth About Motordom

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Dorothea Rubenstein, 734 Independence boulevard, Chicago, was awarded $5.

The Question.

In traveling this year, where have you seen the prettiest scenery?

Where Asked.

Michigan avenue and Erie street.

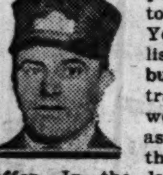
The Answers:

Michael J. Pontone, Edgewater Beach hotel, dancing instructor—The Grand cañon in Devils Rock, Palos Park, Colorado, has the prettiest scenery I've seen this year while traveling. All roads to the west offer wonderful views, but it takes Colorado to put the finishing touches to a motor trip.

Gladys Sutton, 815 N. Harvey avenue, Oak Park, telegraph operator—Estes park in Colorado has the finest scenery I've discovered. It is so colorful at all seasons of the year, and the rustic and odd looking inns are unusual. Mountain trails are also beautiful but dangerous for the average middle west driver.

Joseph G. Murphy, Sherman hotel, salesman—The dells in Wisconsin are beautiful with their caves and cañons, and the entire Mississippi valley is worth driving to see. I like the roads of the northwest best of all, for they combine everything in the way of scenic features.

Tessie Gruber, 4838 School street, bookkeeper—The drive through Lake Forest with its twists and turns and the beautiful homes along the lake is my favorite. Our own boulevard system is beautiful especially along the outer drive in Grant park. The Chicago driver doesn't have to travel thousands of miles for scenic thrills. He can stay right at home and enjoy the best Sunday spins in the west.



Charles W. Catino, 2648 West Superior street, conductor—Yellowstone and Yosemite parks top the list for me this year, but all along the main trails from Chicago west the tourist finds as beautiful views as the country has to offer. In the last few years home builders of the western cities have created wonderful scenery inside of city limits and it pays to make a tour of every town and city along the route.

Ontario Reports Canadian Roads Ready for Winter

MAINTENANCE is now one of the most important divisions of the highway department's work in Canada, according to a road bulletin issued yesterday.

"Motorists should give highway workers the right of way whether it is to the right or left," it declared. "Often the teamster or patrolman has two or more horses on a road machine. Whether driving a motor car, truck, or a team, it is easier and quicker to give the road than to try and hold it. A little matter of courtesy and accommodation on the road, coupled with commonsense will save a lot of trouble sometimes and also avoid endangering lives. Keep in mind that the highway employés are working for you—are in your pay."

The official report on Ontario road conditions follows:

Highway 2—Trans-provincial highway from Windsor to Quebec boundary—544.5 miles—where direct connections are made with the Quebec highway No. 27 to Montreal. This road passes via Chatham, London, Woodstock, Brantford, Hamilton, and along the north shore of Lake Ontario through Toronto, Oshawa, Cobourg, Belleville, Kingston, continuing on one of the province's most scenic routes in southern Ontario, namely the north shore of the St. Lawrence river, via Brockville, Prescott, and Cornwall. 490 miles of this route is paved.

Windsor to Toronto—244.2 miles—Good throughout. Two detours west of Wardsville, east of Wardsville.

Pavement from Windsor to 8½ miles east of Thamesville. Culvert construction in village of Louisville. Construction work is in progress from a point five miles west of Wardsville to Wardsville; detour to the south. Highway open nights and Sundays. Highway immediately east of Wardsville also closed for 3 miles owing to paving construction. The detour is to the north and is clearly marked. Strathburn to Toronto road is paved throughout.

Toronto to Quebec boundary—300.3 miles, seven detours. (No detour over seven miles long)—Newcastle, Grafton, 3¾ miles west of Brighton, west of Kingston, Gananoque, west of Lansdowne and west of Brockville.

Pavement good from Toronto to five miles east of Cobourg, except between Newcastle and Port Hope. East of Newcastle the road is under construction. Turn south three miles east of Newcastle one mile; thence easterly 3 miles and north 1 mile to highway. Length of detour 5 miles—two miles longer than the Provincial highway. Road is gravelled throughout but narrow. From five miles east of Cobourg to Brighton gravel road is under construction. Detour south at Grafton one mile to the old Can. Nat. Ry. roadbed; thence easterly 3½ miles and north ¼ of a mile to highway. Length of detour 4¾ miles. Drive carefully at night as on detour some sections are narrow. Three and three-quarter miles west of Brighton detour south for ¼ of a mile to Can. Nat. Ry. roadbed; thence easterly ½ mile and north ¼ mile to highway. Length of detour one mile. Fair in all weather conditions. The road has not been shouldered on sections of pavement that have been opened. Motorists should drive cautiously. Trenton to Quebec boundary pavement and surface treated macadam in fair condition throughout except where construction work is going on and short sections may be rough. Detours at Kingston, Gananoque, Lansdowne and west of Brockville. Penetration macadam construction proceeding west of Kingston, Gananoque, Lansdowne, Brockville, Cardinal, Morrisburg and east of Cornwall. Dominion government road west of Morrisburg, Iroquois and east of and at Cardinal are in very bad condition. Total length 3.55 miles.

Quebec boundary to Montreal—Quebec highway No. 27—55.11 miles. Good from boundary to Montreal. Resurfacing is under way at Beaconsfield, but this work does not affect traffic. Motorists should dim lights at night along the Soulanges canal.

Highway 3—International highway, Windsor to Niagara Falls—257.2 miles via Leamington, Blenheim, St. Thomas, Aylmer, Tillsonburg and Welland. This is the shortest route between Michigan and adjoining states to Buffalo and the east.

Highway good throughout—Two detours—Delhi village—Iona to Sheddon.

Pavement Windsor to Leamington. Leamington to Sheddon gravel surface is in good condition. Culvert construction approximately three miles east of Port Alma. From Iona to Sheddon the highway is closed owing to paving operations. Detours are clearly marked. Sheddon to Aylmer the road is paved for approximately 21 miles.

Road Conditions Reported Good for Autumn Drivers

Ways to South Open; In Illinois Detours Are Lifted.

BY J. L. JENKINS.

IMPROVED highways and trails throughout the north central states continue in good condition with the exception of a few earth detours, which will soon be eliminated or improved for winter travel, according to the highway department of the Chicago Motor club. Light rains and extremely cool weather in certain sections have kept earth roads somewhat slippery and bad for motor travel.

Through trails and main traveled highways leading through the southern states are generally good. Practically all routes to the south have a few detours which are maintained in fairly good condition. Considerable rain reported over the entire southeastern states.

Heavy rains are reported throughout the middle Atlantic and New England states. Main trails, however, are all weather roads and dependable at all times. Detours all good.

No rain of importance occurred during the week in the western states and roads are now in good condition. Texas roads and extreme southwestern roads reported good. Mountain passes throughout central west and northwest remain open.

Road conditions in Illinois are as follows:

Sheridan road is closed for resurfacing between Rogers avenue and Calvary cemetery. Detour is marked.

Irving Park boulevard—Pavement completed and open from Des Plaines River road to Mannheim road (Ill. 46).

Rand road—Widening west of Des Plaines River road finished; north half of road open.

Peoria—Roads improving but rough in places. River receding from paved road on Ill. 9, but detour still necessary. Pekin bridge now open for traffic.

Ill.-2—Between Rockford and Rockton was completed October 25; probably open November 25.

Ill.-3—Cars not permitted to enter Beardstown from the east; ferry will carry passengers to landing place west of river when water recedes sufficiently.

Ill.-4 A—There is a gravel and earth detour starting at the Cook county line and extending southwest for about 6 miles. This detour is narrow and rough. Dirt portions are bad in wet weather. Use new Ill.-4 via 5th avenue in La Grange.

Ill.-7—One-way traffic on Dimmick hill between Ottawa and La Salle for widening of curves.

Ill.-8—Short detour near Burlington, Ia., bridge concrete now being laid. Viaduct under C. B. & Q. track completed; road should be open in about five weeks.

Ill.-9—State has arranged a .5-mile detour around high water between Canton and Peoria; detour good.

Ill.-18—Bridge out at Yorkville. Local traffic advised to use east River road out of Aurora.

Ill.-19 and 22—Temporary bridge over Fox river west of Barrington completed and in use while new bridge is being constructed.

Ill.-23—Bridge completed and open north of Sycamore; detour eliminated and highway now open for travel.

Motorists driving in Indiana will find conditions as follows:

Dunes highway (U. S.-12 and U. S.-20) is closed for construction east of Millers. East-bound traffic should go south from Gary on Virginia street, east on 21st avenue to East Gary, then to the pavement at Burns ditch; detour marked.

Vincennes—Wabash river bridge connecting Vincennes with Lawrenceville, Ill., is closed; good ferry accomodation, however. To avoid ferry from Marshall, Ill., use U. S.-40 to Terre Haute, then U. S.-41 to Vincennes.

Ind.-53 (new)—Pavement now open from Crown Point to Hebron; construction proceeding from Hebron south.

US-40 [old Ind-3].—Motorists advised to drive slow at brigewash between Richmond and Ohio line. Use traction company's bridge at Hiser's station, 19 miles west of Richmond where a watchman handles traffic by a stop and go signal. Temporary bridge at 1 mile east of Cambridge City because of railroad overhead at Putnamville; traffic detour is over Ind-43 then on marked route back to US-40 at Putnamville. Dangerous railroad crossing on detour near Putnamville; parts of detour are narrow and rough.

The reports from Wisconsin show gravel highways in fair condition near Wautoma. State highways, Nos. 10, 21, 22, 49 and 73, reported in fair condition; no detours.

Sheboygan.—Paved and graveled highways reported good. State highways Nos. 17, 23, 28, 32, 42, 57, 67, and 144, reported good.

Stevens Point.—Roads quite soft in some places on account of heavy rains during the past several days.

Wis-83.—Now completed through Racine county and will be open for traffic about Nov. 15.

All state highways in the Iron Mountain district in Michigan are reported to be in good condition for travel.

Mich-13.—State line to Plainwell, pavement. Plainwell to Cadillac, good gravel and pavement with two good detours, between Plainwell and Wayland. Cadillac to Mancelona, good gravel and pavement. Mancelona to Harbor Springs, pavement and good gravel.

Mich-16.—Detroit to Grand Haven, pavement. Temporary bridge detour near Marne.

Mich-60.—New Buffalo to Niles, narrow pavement for 10 miles west, very rough. Niles to Cassopolis under construction. Traffic advised to travel via Pekagon. Cassopolis to Three rivers, pavement and good gravel.

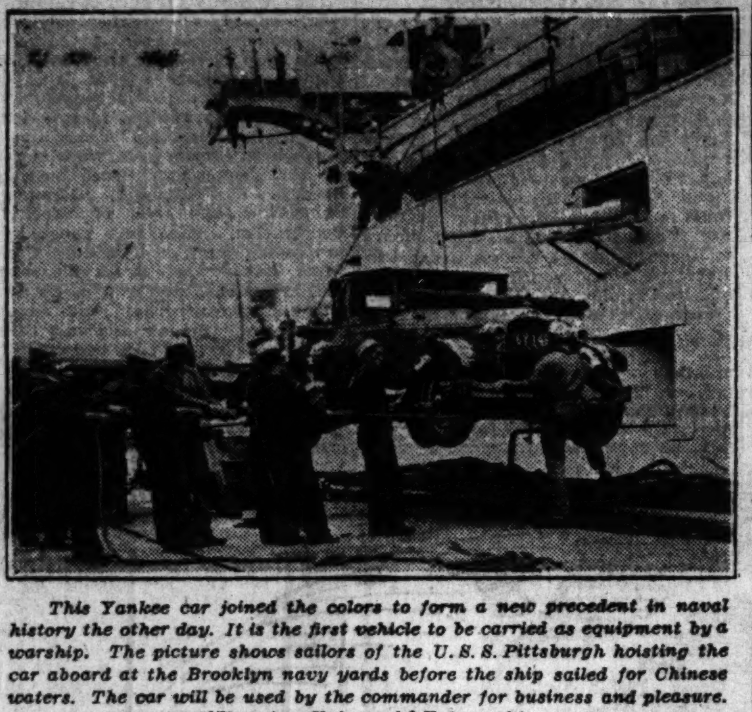
Clean Contacts.

The first thing to do if the engine starts hard or begins to run unevenly is to see that the contact or breaker points are breaking at least .015 of an inch and that the contacts are clean. The fiber that bears on the cam wears with use, reducing the space to break the circuit.

Useful in South

Motor vehicles in North Carolina are proving to be the residents' chief means of travel. Passengers can journey from one end of the state to the other by bus, spacious motor busses making regular schedules on routes between seventy-five and one hundred mils of length.

NEW NAVY RECRUIT



This Yankee car joined the colors to form a new precedent in naval history the other day. It is the first vehicle to be carried as equipment by a warship. The picture shows sailors of the U. S. S. Pittsburgh hoisting the car aboard at the Brooklyn navy yards before the ship sailed for Chinese waters. The car will be used by the commander for business and pleasure.

News and Views of the Auto Trade

CHICAGO was chosen yesterday as the pivot for one of the biggest merchandising plans developed in the automobile industry in the last decade. E. L. Cord, president of Auburn and head of the "younger set" among manufacturers, who has just purchased and reorganized the famous Duesenberg plants in Indianapolis and the equally famous Ansted motor plants in Connersville, Ind., called together several hundred dealers and distributors in the middle west division of his company at the Blackstone and outlined plans for the next two years for the national Auburn organization.

The Duesenberg car, he explained, will not be made a part of Auburn dealer interests, but will continue as a specialized unit under command of Fred Duesenberg, internationally known race car builder and automotive engineer. The Deusenberg car will be produced in limited quantity for motor sportsmen of the United States, and no job will leave the Indianapolis factory with a price mark of less than a minimum of $15,000. The old Ansted plants in Connersville, which have been operating under a receiver since expensive equipment and even more expensive mechanical research wrecked the finances of Lexington, will be combined with the Auburn units and joined in the production of Auburn cars. Roy Faulkner, vice president and sales manager, and Paul Peter Willis, sales advisor for the company, completed the merchandising outline which will be employed throughout the country in Auburn sales and service.

In order to meet the 114 per cent increase in foreign business and increasing domestic demand for new cars of the Nash line the huge new auxiliary plant of the Seaman Body corporation of Milwaukee was thrown into service yesterday. The Seaman plant, half owned by the Nash company, is a five story building of steel and concrete construction, 173 by 100 feet in dimensions, used exclusively in the manufacture of Nash bodies. The new building is one story in height and 600 by 100 feet.

According to late reports, General Motors is about to try out a truck renting plan. Trucks are to be rented to business concerns and individuals at $30 a week, plus 13 cents a mile of use to follow the general scheme worked out by John Hertz in his car rental system in Chicago and the country generally.

MOTORDOM

Famous Ace Made Chairman of A.A.A. Auto Race Board

CAPT. E. V. RICKENBACKER has been appointed chairman of the new contest board of the American Automobile association, according to an announcement made yesterday by the national motoring body, of which the contest board is a major department.

The board supervises all official and sanctioned automobile racing in the United States and Rickenbacker's acceptance of the chairmanship is expected to give an enormous impetus to this great sport.

Rickenbacker will take office with a new board composed of nationally known men. The board was recently reorganized at a meeting held in Washington at which its membership was strengthened and expanded in such a way as to be more representative of the public and the press, speedway and track operators and owners, as well as race drivers and automotive engineers.

Before he entered the world war, "Rick" was one of the most colorful drivers in America. He was famous wherever racing was known from 1911 to 1917, when he went to France with Gen. Pershing in the first unit of the A. E. F.

Rickenbacker, who had seen Barney Oldfield and the other famous "old timers" drive when he was a boy, dreamed of the roaring road, and finally got on it in a stock car race at Council Bluffs, Ia. He drove in the first Indianapolis 500 mile classic in 1911 as a relief driver. From that day, his fame grew steadily, and the newspapers blazoned it when he appeared in France, at first as Gen. Pershing's chauffeur, and later as one of the most daring and capable aviators produced by the world war.

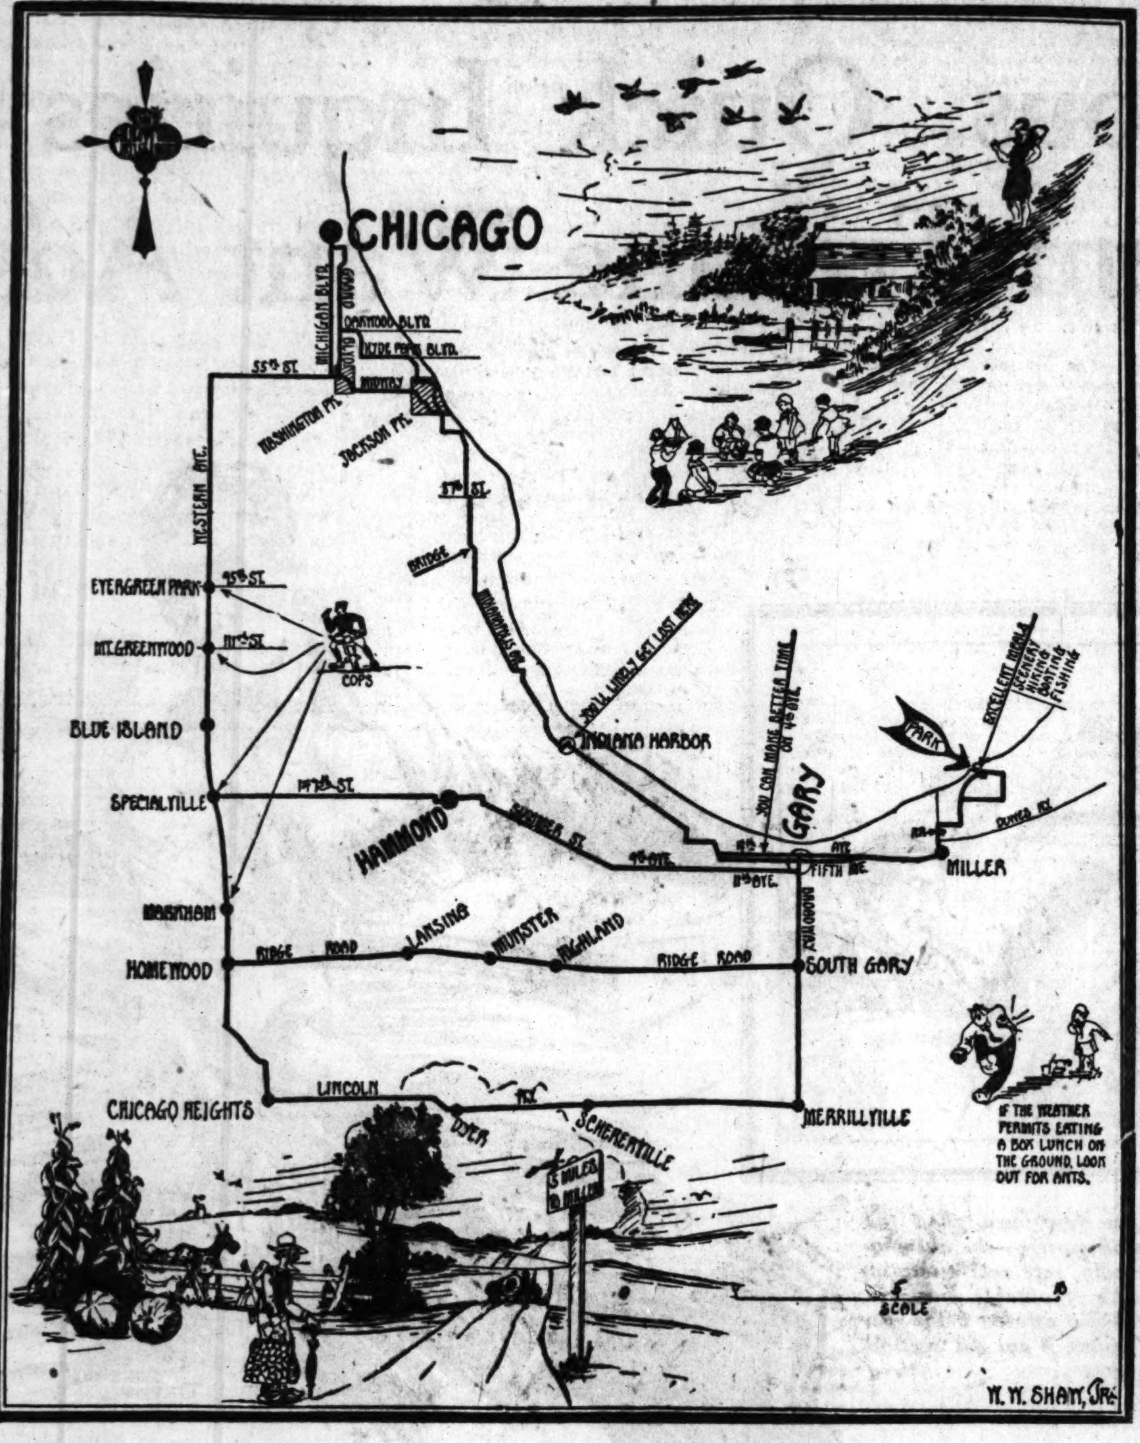
Ten Thousand Cheer Dramatic Opening of New U. S. Road

BECKLEY, W. Va.—[Special.]—With ten thousand good road enthusiasts from eight states watching, Gov. Howard M. Gore, West Virginia chief executive, drove a steam roller over the last link in the Lakes to Florida highway, near here, today, thus officially opening it.

Moving picture machines were focused on him as the crowds cheered. He afterwards made an address in which he told of the importance of the trail to the entire east and expressed the hope that it would usher in a new period of greater amity and prosperity. Citizens of this city, aided by Bluefield and Princeton, made every effort to entertain those coming with the great motor caravans to witness the dramatic scene

Tribune Tours

XXX.—NEW CALUMET TOUR CIRCLE.



SUMMER road work has at last opened the Calumet and northwest Indiana touring district to Chicago's thousands of Sunday drivers and cleared some of the barriers away from popular trips to Dunes park.

This week's tour suggestion shows four good options for the Chicago driver heading into the vast industrial district around the south end of Lake Michigan and bound for one last day in the dunes. From Gary east and north holiday congestion is still heavy on the Dunes highway, but the map indicates how drivers may escape the jams on the old familiar route via Indiana Harbor and South Chicago on the way home.

Finds Good Road from Chicago to Florida Cities

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Oct. 30.—Motorists of the middle west may now travel to this city over hard surfaced roads without fear of mountain roads through Tennessee and Kentucky. They now have a clear and safe highway from Chicago, Detroit or Cleveland without being compelled to take the east coast route, according to a checkup made by George S. Robbins, veteran automobile and motor magazine editor who has just completed a 6,000 mile tour after consulting American Automobile association authorities and touring bureaus enroute.

Out of Chicago the route was checked and found a ribbon of hard surfaced highway most of the distance. Coming into Florida, the automobilist now rides along in comfort over paved highways from the northern part of the state through Lake City, Gainsville, Wildwood, Dade City, Tampa, the Gandy bridge into St. Petersburg.

"The route follows highways No. 42 out of Chicago and 25 through Michigan City to South Bend," says his report. "It follows the hard surfaced road through Mishawaka, Elkhart and Ligonier to Fort Wayne where the motorist takes routes 2 and 51 to Dayton and No. 6 to Cincinnati.

"There are hard surfaced highways from both Cleveland and Detroit to Cincinnati, one by way of Columbus and the other by way of Dayton. From Cincinnati the route covers the beaten trail of hard surfaced highways through Lexington and Knoxville to Chattanooga. No longer need motorists quake with fear at mountain climbing on this stretch. There is still a detour between Berea and Mt. Vernon in Kentucky, but this will soon vanish before the march of the road builder. There is a definite detour. It simply adds a little variety to the trip. Leaving Chattanooga, one finds two routes that branch off at Fort Orglethorpe. The road through Dalton is approximately twenty-five miles shorter and recent road construction probably makes it preferable to the route through Rome, Ga. Then starts the long trip through Georgia via Atlanta, Macon and Tifton to Valdosta. There are a number of short detours which are well marked and Georgia will soon have much improved roads—they are getting better every day.

"There is nothing but joy for motorists when they come into Florida. Barriers, marking detours, have been removed and hundreds of thousands of tourists will enjoy wonderful motoring this fall and winter over new stretches of hard surfaced highway completed recently."

British Car Makers Fear Yankee Grip on Empire Markets

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 26.—British motor car manufacturers are said to be greatly concerned over America's increasing grip on the empire markets. Recent arrivals from overseas speak of the growing preponderance of American built cars, especially in Australia, New Zealand, and Canada. The British manufacturers apparently are taking serious notice of these reports and it is declared tonight that they are planning a mass attack in an endeavor to oust the American competitors. One firm will turn out mass production of cars especially designed for Latin America and the British dominions at the rate of 250 weekly before next year.

AUTO COSTS.

It requires 484 bushels of wheat to buy an average automobile. In 1921 the average car cost 633 bushels, and in 1912, 1,456 bushels. In corn the cost is 1,071 bushels, 1,066 bushels in 1921, and 2,307 bushels in 1912. Average prices of $750 for automobiles and $1.55 for wheat are used.

Slow Drivers.

Slow motorists are ordered to move faster or get out of line on crowded highways in Pennsylvania. The order coming from the police of the state highway motor patrol, applies only to open roads where no danger to pedestrians will result from vehicles moving from 25 to 35 miles an hour.

GERMANS AIM TO RIVAL U. S. IN LOW PRICE CAR MART

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 30.—Though the price of German cars still is high, the German automobile industry yesterday opened the national automobile show, confident that the reforms carried out in the country's plants, and the technical innovations in German cars will enable Germany to resume competition with the American car on the international market soon. The exhibition showed that German cars still are 33 per cent higher than American cars, but German engineers will concentrate their efforts in the forthcoming months to cutting down the difference in price.

Drastic reforms and amalgamations which the German automobile industry has imposed on itself in the last year have led to a reduction of the big manufacturing plants from eighty to thirty-two, but at the same time have enabled the engineers to achieve greater technical progress in the last twelve months than in any period since 1914.

More Cylinders Now.

Among the examples cited by experts is the fact that last year only luxury cars had four wheel brakes. This year they are on most cars, which have increased their three and four cylinders to six and eight cylinders, even in the cheapest makes.

The German automobile industry is laboring under the country's system of taxation, which taxes cars according to horsepower. Artificial reduction in horsepower to dodge the higher taxation results in overstraining of the motor, experts declare. The horsepower tax on a Ford is $125 in Germany.

Not So Much Credit.

While in the United States 75 per cent of the cars are bought on the installment plan, only 25 per cent are sold on this principle in Germany. American auto agents introduced the installment idea in the German post-war market, but it is progressing slowly.

The exhibition which opened today is Germany's last national automobile show. Hereafter German automobiles are to be shown together with American, Italian, and other nation's autos. Through the country's entry into the league of nations, Germany has resumed its seat in the International Auomobile association.

SUCCESS MEANS PRESS FREEDOM, WRITER ARGUES

The charge that commercialism is throttling the independence of the American press is false, according to Frank B. Thayer, former newspaper man, whose new book, "Newspaper Management," will be issued by D. Appleton & Co.

The independence of a newspaper is a direct result of successful advertising and circulation methods, Mr. Thayer states. The financially weak paper, he says, constantly jeopardizes its editorial integrity to curry favor with business interests.

Mr. Thayer cites THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE as an example of efficiency in newspaper organization, placing emphasis on its editorial policies as an example of soundness, its classified ad system, and the merchandising service of its advertising department.

Mr. Thayer, whose home is 1218 North Shore avenue, formerly was a staff writer for the Springfield [Mass.], Republican and later was a member of a faculty of the Medill School of Journalism, Northwestern university. There he taught classes in newspaper management and writing for business publications. The book was the result of his work there. He now is with S. W. Straus & Co.

Britons Deny Aim to Hurt Chicago Packers' Trade

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Officals of the Royal Mail Steam Packet company, which is building five new fast 15,000 ton steamers for the London-River Platte service in order to transport more chilled meat to England from Argentina, denied today that the service means sharper competition with the Chicago meat packers. They declared, on the contrary, that no competition is implied at all, since most of the meat cargoes will be products of the Armour and Swift companies, which have large establishments along the River Platte.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—SUGAR—Trading in sugar was light with the close of the week showing a limited range in prices which compared with Friday's 1 point lower to 1 point higher. The general disposition was to let the market drift and take care of itself. Expectations have been that the United Kingdom would be a buyer of futures, but so far they have not taken hold of any decisive way that would encourage bullish operations. Cuban advices indicated that damage by hurricane was approximately 220,000 to 300,000 tons. Export business was larger. Prices as wired to Lamborn & Co., follow:

	Sales tons.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. close.
December	4,200	2.75	2.73	2.73	2.74
January	5,000	2.76	2.75	2.75	2.76

LEGION HUNTS MISSING MAN.

1933 Exposition on Islands in Lake, Is Plan Suggested

A suggestion that five islands in Lake Michigan, lying between Roosevelt road and Jackson park, be used as the site for the 1933 Chicago Centennial exposition was made at a recent conference of the subcommittee of the ways and means committee of the exposition, it was announced yesterday by Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the exposition committee.

Two of the islands, it was pointed out, are already in existence, and three more are to be filled in by the south park board.

"If the park board should agree to the use of the islands," said Mr. Hurley, "they could be connected by ornamental bridges, while a subway could be constructed to connect them with the mainland."

Ample Space on Islands.

The five islands, with a total of 537 acres of ground, would provide ample space for the exposition, of which more than a score units have already been suggested, Mr. Hurley believes.

"We plan the exposition to be the biggest of its kind ever attempted," said Mr. Hurley. "And, above all else, we want to build it around permanency and service. Our celebration will not simply be 'another exposition,' another 'show.' It will have a new vision. What we create must live on as a memorial to Chicago."

Some of the exposition units now being considered are buildings of administration, advertising, agriculture and stock raising, amusements, ancient civilization, chemistry, education, electricity, engineering, fine arts, horticulture, labor, manufacturing, mechanics, metallurgy, mineralogy, moving pictures, music, public health, publishing, printing, radio, religion, sports and transportation.

Museum Part of Exposition.

It is planned to have the Rosenwald industrial museum a part of the exposition.

"Chicago is the nation's greatest agricultural capital," said Mr. Hurley. "A Chicago agricultural foundation, in connection with the exposition, should be of help to the farmers in a commercial and educational way, and also assist in solving the problem of finding a remedy for the recurrent distress of the farming industry."

It was also urged that the exposition include a great sports center for year around activity, embracing everything from football to tennis, track meets and hockey, indoor as well as outdoor.

Another idea is to bring the Olympic games to Chicago during the exposition year. Building plans for the exposition should be in harmony with proposed projects of the Chicago plan commission, Mr. Hurley declared.

TEACHERS ASKED TO CLARIFY FLAG OATH FOR SCHOOL PUPILS

Inasmuch as the present oath of allegiance to the flag is too involved for ready comprehension by children, Supt. William McAndrew, in a bulletin to principals yesterday, urged that the meaning of the pledge be impressed upon students.

Repetition of the pledge has often become a meaningless rite, the superintendent stated. Such absurdities as: "I pledge a leagens to my flag and to the republicans for which it stands, on nation in the visible and for liberty and just as for all," and "I pledge a legion," or "One nation individual with liberty and jesters," have resulted when pupils have written the oath, he said.

The superintendent declared, "We ought to have a pledge to the flag in the language of children. We ought to have patriotic songs not so easily misunderstood, but since the present ones are used the teachers must accept the responsibility of the correct meaning being conveyed."

British Duke Makes Self Company to Manage Estate

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 30.—The Duke of Devonshire has turned himself into a limited company to administer his estates, under the name of Chatsworth Estates, Ltd. There are now twenty-six British peers who have thus incorporated themselves, including eight dukes. The Duke of Devonshire is the wealthiest of the lot, the capitalization of his company being £2,304,000 [$11,520,000]. The reason for this plan of managing estates in companies is that as such they are not subject to a super-tax and transfer of the shares to descendants during life is much easier and is subject to lower taxation than the direct transfer of lands.

The largest week-end hog supply since March at 11,000, fresh and stale offerings, met early clearance at steady prices in active buying on local account, most interests showing a preference for better grades. Range of prices narrowed sharply, top and average being only 70c apart at $13.40@$12.70, respectively, against $1.45 early last week.

Bids on special sorts of 250@300 lb., averages ranged up to $13.50, one lot of 15 averaging 292 lbs., reaching this price. While average stands within 10c of the highest since last July, yesterday's top for loads at $13.40 was lowest in over two months. Receipts were estimated early at 6,000 and later closer to 7,000, including 1,600 bought by packers on relatively lower outside points. Outsiders absorbed 2,500 and only pen holders and inferior grades, numbering about 1,500 were left.

An influx of spring pigs, many averaging 170@225 lbs, swelled receipts to 144,800 last week, the largest since March, and forced the average weight to the lightest point since last February. The estimated average at 242 lbs is comparatively heavy for this season, comparing with a five yea raverage of 234 lbs, and with 244 lbs the corresponding week in 1925. Extreme top hogs this week at $13.80 equals the lowest weekly top since the first week in August. Geeral average price, due largely to quality, advanced to $12.80, within 5c of the highest since the middle of July.

Big Beef Steer Shipments.

Immense shipments of beef steers from the corn belt swelled last week's total cattle receipts to 93,800, the largest since the record run of 111,966 in November, 1920, despite the fact that arrivals from the range were smallest since the marketward movement in the west reached full swing. Westerns numbered 17,200, against 20,500 the previous week and 24,200 a year ago, the season to date showing a decrease of 34,000, compared with a year ago.

Six weekly cattle totals on record are over 100,000, with the three largest weeks established during the same week of November in the years, 1918, 1919, and 1920, each showing an increase over a year earlier. Beef steers finished mostly 25c to $1.00 lower for the week, butcher stock mostly 50c lower, and calves 50c lower. Rangers weakened after a higher start and closed 25@50c lower. Average price of good beef cattle fell to $9.70, lowest since August.

Sheep Receipts Dwindle.

Dwindling supplies failed to check the downward movement of the lamb market last week and prices finished at the lowest point since early in October, showing mostly 50c loss since a week ago. Arrivals during the week at 90,300 were smallest in over two months, range stock decreasing most. In a scramble for light lambs in mid-week, country buyers bid feeders up to $14.25, highest of the month and 25c above the week's top killers, paying $14.00 for ewe lambs for future breeding. Yearling breeding ewes brought $11.50 and full mouth $8.50. Yearling wethers for slaughter reached $11.25, and old stock $8.50, with old ewes at $7.00. Shorn lambs dropped from $12.85 early in the week to $12.60 late. Receipts for Monday are estimated at 29,000 cattle, 38,000 hogs, and 22,000 sheep, against 32,728 cattle, 34,608 hogs, an d25,444 sheep a week ago, and 30,970 cattle, 51,561 hogs, and 27,010 sheep the corresponding da ya year ago. Next week's receipts are estimated at 76,000 cattle, 150,000 hogs, and 75,000 sheep, against 71,543 cattle, 150,249 hogs, and 69,815 sheep a year ago.

CASH · GRAIN NEWS

Export sales of 500,000 to 600,000 bu wheat were reported at the seaboard, but it was the genral claim in most quarters that the break in futures resulted in very little grain being sold, and inquiry from abroad was limited. One large exporter said he sold practically nothing. Norway bought 40,000 bu rye.

Chicago handlers sold 260,000 bu wheat, 75,000 bu corn, and 22,000 bu oats to the domestic trade, the wheat including 250,000 bu to Buffalo. Sales of 50,000 bu corn were made to go to store, with purchases of 125,000 bu to arrive.

Millers were fair buyers of cash wheat on spot, with the basis steady to ½c higher. No. 2 red brought ¼c under to ½c over and No. 3 red 1@3c under December, with No. 2 hard 2@4c over and No. 3 hard December price to 2c under. Basis at St. Louis and Kansas City was unchanged, with spring wheats at Minneapolis unchanged to 1c lower, with off grades, high moisture, and sprouted grain showing the decline.

Choice cash corn was in good demand and as much as ½c better as compared with the December, with some of the off grades ½c lower. No. 2 grades sold at ¼@1c over December, No. 3 grades December to 1c under, and No. 4 grades 2@3½c under. Sample grade new sold at 47@63c. Outside markets were ½@2½c lower.

Cash oats basis was steady to ½c lower, with No. 2 white 2¼@3¾c over December and No. 3 white ½c under to 1c over the future.

Official receipts of grain at Chicago Saturday: Wheat, 46 cars; corn, 572 cars; oats, 74 cars; rye, 3 cars; barley, 18 cars.

LIQUIDATION IN LARD

Liquidatio by holders of October and November lard was on to a liberal extent, with deliveries of 800,000 lbs. of lard on October contracts and 50,000 lbs of bellies. There was selling of October and buying of November and January lard, with pressure from short sellers, and fair support by profit takers on recent sales. The close was around the bottom of the day, with the near deliveries off 20@25c, December up 5c, and the distant futures 2½@5c lower. Short ribs were 15@25c lower and bellies unchanged to 50c lower. Lard in Liverpool was 6d to 2s 3d lower.

Hog prices were steady, with receipts light and a larger run expected this week, 41,000 at Chicago for Monday and 150,000 for the coming week. Receipts, although light, were larger than a week ago, but smaller than last year. Packing in Chicago for the summer season to date aggregates 3,287,000 hogs, against 3,403,000 last year. PROFIT TAKING SALES BATTER PRICE OF WHEAT

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Heavy selling of wheat, which many traders regarded as liquidating of lines bought some time ago and generally credited to politicians and others, was responsible for a break of 2⅜c in prices. That carried the December down to $1.40¼, and the finish was within a fraction of the bottom, with net losses of 2¼@2½c. December finished at $1.40⅜ to 1.40½; May at $1.45⅛ to $1.45⅝, and July at $1.38.

It was the gossip of the trade that the leading sellers of wheat during the day were the same interest that has been a persistent buyer on all the dips under $1.42 for December of late, and which was instrumental in starting the upward movement several weeks ago, but found that the market did not respond to the buying, and decided to sell out. Support was lacking until the market had broken through the bids, buying against which and short covering checked the decline.

All deliveries of corn sold at a new low for the season with the close at the bottom with net losses of ⅝@1⅝c with December, 74¼c or 8⅜c under May, while July was 84⅝c. Oats lost ⅛@⅝c with December, 43c to 43⅛c, and May, 47½c to 47⅝c. Rye declined 1¼c, with December 98¼c, and May $1.05.

Grains Lower for Week.

The entire grain list showed a heavy undertone a good part of the week, and while there were numerous rallies, all upturns brought in a return of selling pressure, and at the last wheat was 3⅝@4c; corn, 2⅝@3⅝c; oats, ⅝@1c, and rye, 3⅝@4¼c lower than the finish of the previous week. Lard lost 27½@30c, and bellies 70c@$1.02½ for the week, with ribs 12½c lower to 12½c higher.

There was nothing in the news to account for the change in front on the part of eastern speculators, and houses with eastern connections were persistent on the selling side. Winnipeg showed more strength than Chicago and was 1@1⅛c lower at the last, while Buenos Ayres declined only ½c in the face of beneficial rains in the provinces of Cordoba, Santa Fé, and other parts of the main wheat belt. Liverpool was off ⅛@½d on the deferred deliveries. Export sales in all positions were finally estimated at 500,000 to 600,000 bu, although some exporters claimed there was no demand.

Liquidation in Corn.

Liquidation was resumed in corn with the break in wheat starting scattered longs to selling. Buying against bids was a factor in checking the downturn. Spain was reported to have bought 5,500,000 bu Argentine corn for December-July shipment, but it had no effect on the local market. The purchase of this grain was authorized some weeks ago. Country offerings of old corn remain fairly liberal with purchases of 125,000 bu to arrive.

Stop loss orders were uncovered in oats on the way down, while buying on resting orders and short covering furnished the bulk of the support. Commission houses sold December and bought May early at 4¼c difference. Spreading between rye and wheat, the latter being sold, prevented rye from making a full response to the decline in wheat. Trade however, was not large. The seaboard reported 40,000 bu sold to Norway.

PLENTY OF TIMOTHY HAY

There were good supplies of timothy hay, 44 cars arriving, while offerings of prairie hay alfalfa were light, and of straw fair. Trading on Saturday was moderate and southwest prairie $1.00 lower, with marsh hay in good demand for No. 1 at unchanged prices. Arrivals were 2 cars alfalfa, 2 cars southwest prairie, 2 cars rye straw, 3 cars oats, and 1 car wheat straw. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

There were 5,000,000 bu of grain, mostly corn, in various positions in railroad yards and at elevators in Chicago and vicinity on Saturday morning, as reported by the railroads. In all there were 1,580 cars on track and 1,606 cars at elevators. One elevator at South Chicago had 275 cars. Receipts of grain have ranged from 600 to almost 1,400 cars a day of late, the latter last Monday, and it is expected that that figure will be reached tomorrow. Shipments have ranged from 200 to 300 cars daily.

Estimates are for a decrease of around 1,000,000 bu in the visible supply of wheat on Monday's report. It will compare with a reduction of 2,114,000 bu last year. Kansas City stocks decreased about 100,000 bu, Duluth should show a good reduction and Chicago is about a standoff. World's shipments for the week are estimated at 15,500,000 bu, against 14,787,000 bu the previous week, and 13,963,000 bu last year.

A large increase in corn stocks at Chicago and in the visible supply is expected on Monday. At Chicago there is around 4,000,000 bu on track, and other markets have had a good run. The visible should show a large gain.

Wheat receipts at Kansas City in October were 4,603 cars, against 2,480 cars last year, and a ten year average of 4,692 cars. The largest October on record was 7,905 cars in 1924. Corn receipts were the largest on record for October, 1,017 cars, against 533 cars last year, and 535 cars as the average.

The grain trade was very bearish at the close Saturday, with prices the lowest of the week and corn futures at a new low level. There was general buying of bids after the close in expectation of renewed liquidation by longs on Monday, traders being disposed to even up owing to uncertainty as to the election throughout the country on Tuesday. It was said that the short interest in all grains was increased on the decline.

With December corn down to a new low for the season 74¼c in Chicago, and No. 2 yellow 1c over December, it would make the latter 75¼c. This is about the lowest since last July when cash corn was down to 71c, while in April it was 70c for contract grades in store.

Private reports on the corn crop and farm reserves of corn are due on Monday. There are estimates of a small increase to a moderate decrease from the 2,680,000,000 bu given by the government in October. The average of the private estimates last month was 2,712,000,000 bu. The government report on farm reserves Nov. 1 last year was 60,952,000 bu, and in 1924 it was 101,934,000 bu, while in 1921 reserves were 279,647,000 bu, the largest in over 16 years.

A London cable says: "British coal strike parley brings hope of compromise agreement next week."

Argentine cable reported rains in Entre Rios Cordoba, and Santa Fe. Unsettled in Buenos Aires.

Cables report that fair quantities of native German wheat has been sold for export which must be replaced by purchases abroad later in the season.

Occasional brief periods of participation in the form of rain or snow flurries, temperatures somewhat below seasonal normal, beginning the week rising and later falling, averaging on the whole about normal, is the forecast of the government weather report for the region of the great lakes and upper Mississippi and lower Missouri valleys.

"It is pointed out that the bulk of the North American surplus of wheat is still undisturbed and is likely to meet a lessened demand as time goes by and the southern hemisphere supplies become available," says Thompson & McKinnon. "We believe this to be the essence of the situation, if not the market. Until pressure from the country ceases in corn and distributing demand improves there will be no virtue in the market."

DRY GOODS MARKET.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Cotton goods sales for the week in the gray goods division ran ahead of production, many contracts having been entered for the first part of the year. Yarns were steadier, silk trading has been less active in first hands, but spring business has developed well thus far in several houses. Burlaps were slightly easier in Calcutta and barely steady here. There is less business in wool goods for immediate delivery as the first late rush in the garment and clothing trade is over.

2. The structure will contain 106 apartments of four to thirteen rooms; it is planned to sell 26 of the larger apartments on a co-operative-ownership basis.

ADDRESS B E 228, TRIBUNE

PEACE TIME U. S. GREAT USER OF WAR EXPLOSIVES

BY HARPER LEECH.

What more sardonic than a census report?

One lies on the desk. It shows that in the peaceful year of 1925 Americans used 282,310,576 pounds of dynamite, 60,711,377 pounds of "permissible explosives," 6,437,194 kegs of blasting powder, and 373,832 pounds of raw nitroglycerin for shooting oil wells.

All that stuff, and a lot more, was produced by some 6,000 men, in an industry capable of tremendous expansion in a very short time.

Well, coal cannot be conjured from the earth with kind words nor will pretty language shock the oil out of reluctant sands.

Nor will similar treatment take the teeth out of the dogs of war. Nor will all the confabs and treaties, from now unil kingdom come, ever really disarm a nation that gets angry. Every other peacetime industrial process is potential armament—every census report on mining, manufacture, or transport is a military document. Every crop report can be read as fight stuff. We speak of peaceful agriculture and smiling fields, but always the golden ages of farming have been when the young men were off to the wars.

Would you read the biography of Mars—study the history of the wheat market. It will make you doubt whether the honest yeoman can thrive in peace. Michael Rostovtzeff shows that the return of serfdom to western Europe came after the Roman empire had established and maintained peace about the war torn Mediterranean.

Try to imagine what would happen if two "disarmed" nations flew at each others' throats today with weapons hastily improvised in automobile factory or with death churned out of dye vats. We had a hint of that in 1914-1918, but the massacre would have been redder yet, if it had been "disarmed" people who first mixed it.

The truth is that mankind arms itself, whether it will or not, in the measure that it prospers. The very potentialities of destruction, which lie in prosperity and culture, demand that wars be waged between trained forces, which can oppose every tactic of offense with the appropriate defense or counter attack, and thus so neutralize the new powers of the race, that the slaughter can be steadily reduced in proportion to the numbers engaged—which has been happening for ages, except where indiscipline prevailed.

If an industrial nations always is thrice armed, because the means by which it works also are means by which to fight, it also is ever more vulnerable to attack than a nation primarily agrarian—note the Boers, the Balkans, and the Bolshies. The nation which has little to fight with has little for which to be attacked. Its punch lies largely in its resiliency.

The industrial nation is a chain of many brittle links. Especially is this true where industries are concentrated in great centers like Chicago or the Ruhr. A nation great industrially and vast territorially, like the United States, has added weakness, because its transportation lines are at once so important and so long.

A primarily agrarian people always seems to be able to mobilize a greater part of its total man power for actual fighting service than an industrial people. These may be things worth thinking about when the next demand comes for federal tax cuts.

COTTON PRICES HIGHER

Strong efforts are being made throughout the south to induce buying of cotton through the various state associations and otherwise, which is reflected in less selling pressure and a moderate absorption of the offerings with a steadying effect on values. Liverpool was 3 to 5 points higher at the start, and while early trading was at lower prices, all losses were regained later with a close at nearly the best prices of the day. Futures in Chicago showing net gains of 11 to 24 points, and the other markets of 11 to 20 points. Spots were 20 points higher in both markets, with New York 12.85c, New Orleans 12.70c, and Houston 12.60c.

Weather throughout the cotton belt was cold and generally favorable for picking. Trade reports from Worth street were better and Fall River sales of print cloth for the week were 60,000 pieces, with mills in that section operating at 83 per cent of normal.

At a conference at Memphis of bankers and cotton marketing executives it was decided to organize a $2,750,000 corporation to finance 600,000 bales of cotton, which is to be withdrawn from the market. Prices in leading markets follow:

WALL STREET NOTES

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The market on the curb exchange today performed in a manner expected at the present time for a half holiday session with election approaching. Estey Welte again rose to new high figures and American Seating followed its recent upturn with an additional gain of 1¼ points. Durant Motor was an exception to the general trend and suffered a loss of a point on comparatively small sales. New York Transportation moved to a new high for the year, selling to 61.

The normal smooth surface of the bond market was ruffled by a flurry of selling in the Erie railroad issues, which followed the publication of unconfirmed reports that the Van Sweringens planned to eliminate this road from their Nickel Plate merger group.

Investors Face Two-fold Danger.

There are securities of all grades and degrees of safety.

And there are so-called securities of no safety or value at all. Shares of stock in companies which have no existence, or which exist only for the purpose of selling stock and then fading from view.

Such stocks come under the head of fraudulent securities and, of course, the purchaser never has a chance. His money is gone as soon as he has "invested" in them and that's the end of it.

Then there are stocks which can be classified as hazardous speculations. Such are the stocks of many companies which cannot or do not operate profitably. Oil or mining stocks of companies whose properties cannot be made to produce sufficiently to make them pay are examples of this type.

Many such stocks are on the market and some are actively dealt in although they may have no real intrinsic value, their only value to the purchaser being the chance that they may be boosted in price sufficiently to enable him to sell at a profit.

Above these stocks come those of companies which are in actual operation, but whose earning power is as yet unproven or is so unstable that they may swing from profit to loss at any time.

Stocks in such companies have some real value, but this is constantly changing with the changing earnings and may never yield any return.

Above these speculative stocks come those of companies of proven earning power and these go through all the grades from those which are succeeding in a small way up through those which are exceedingly prosperous and are consistent and large dividend payers.

And at the top of the list—from the point of view of real safety—come high grade, conservative bonds.

In passing let us say that bonds also are of all grades, from the most speculative to the most conservative, but we take speculative stocks as an example because more fraud is practiced in the sale of stocks and more hazardous speculations are indulged in in stocks than in bonds.

The object of our remarks so far has been to point out the dangers to which the amateur investor is exposed in buying securities without knowing all about the companies issuing them and all other pertinent conditions.

But there is another important factor entering into every investment—that is the character and reputation of the firm or individual from whom the security is purchased

There are salesmen all over the country peddling fraudulent securities.

Some claim to sell securities that are bona fide and promise delivery of the certificates at an early date.

They give a receipt for your money and that is the last you hear of them or it.

Some claim to, or actually do, represent houses in the city and frequently offer high grade listed stocks, but all too often your order is "bucketed"—you are sold out as soon as your money is received and your order placed and that is the end of that.

Often such houses solicit orders by telephone or wire—a practice rarely if ever resorted to by first class legitimate houses except occasionally with their regular customers—and the result is the same.

The point is that, even if one knows all about the security he intends to purchase, he still is exposed to the danger of fraud when buying it from a stranger or a house of whose reputation he knows nothing.

An old, established reputable investment house may sell securities of different grades and varying degrees of safety, but such houses will tell you which are speculative and which are not and will not try to force on you something that is a pure speculation by assuring you that it is safe.

In other words, such houses will deal honorably and you, at least, will not be exposed to fraud, either in the nature of the security or in the filling of your order.

It costs no more to deal with a reputable house than with a doubtful one or a stranger and, in most instances, it costs a great deal less.

FINANCIAL NOTES

Speculative possibility of an extra dividend on the common stock of the Chesapeake and Ohio when the directors meet next month absorbed attention in Wall street yesterday, coincident with the rise in the shares and lively gossip of new plans in the Van Sweringen "Nickel Plate" merger. Dividends of $12 have been paid so far this year. An extra by the C. & O. is expected to be followed by similar action by the Hocking Valley, earnings of which are comparatively better than last year.

Orders for more than 500,000 tons of rails have been placed with Chicago mills since the current buying movement started and it is estimated about 300,000 tons more will go to western mills for 1927 delivery. The Missouri Pacific and the Chesapeake and Ohio each has ordered 45,000 tons, distributed among Tennessee Coal and Iron railroad, Inland Steel and Illinois Steel.

Steel mill operations in the Youngstown valley next week will average 75 per cent of capacity, 35 of the 53 open hearths being scheduled to melt. Sheet mill schedules will be little changed, active units ranging from 110 to 112 out of 127 in the Mahoning valley. Additional price advances are expected for pig iron in line with higher fuel prices.

Bank clearings throughout the country this week dropped 5.9 per cent compared with a year ago, a total of $9,248,923,016 being compiled by the Commercial and Financial Chronicle, against $9,387,465,083. New York City showed a decrease of 8.8 per cent.

STOCK MARKET WEAK AND DULL AS WEEK ENDS

YESTERDAY'S AVERAGES

	High.	Low.	Last.	Net chge.
20 railroads	96.49	96.04	96.16	— .18
20 industrials	166.35	165.18	165.54	— .52

New York, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Reactionary price tendencies predominated in today's brief session of the stock market, which witnesses the usual pre-election readjustment and lightening of speculative accounts. There were occasional flurries of strength in various groups, but invariably the higher prices attracted increased offerings, leading to the abandonment of operations for the rise.

The most interesting development of the day was the publication of an unofficial report that the Erie railroad was to be dropped from the new "Nickel Plate" consolidation. This caused rather active selling of the Erie issues, which registered extreme declines of a point or two, despite the fact that banking interests identified with the Van Sweringens later denied the report. Chesapeake and Ohio, stockholders of which are expected to receive a generous special dividend in the near future, was bid up four points at one time, but later sold down to 169⅝, up 1⅜ points net.

Steel and Motors Weak.

A drop of 2 per cent in bank clearings in the principal cities of the country this week, compared with the week before, was used as a pretext for a renewal of selling pressure by bear traders. United States Steel common and General Motors each yielded about a point at 138½ and 148¼, respectively.

Fox Film, which was run up sharply yesterday on the private showing of the new talking picture of the company, fell from 75 to 72 on realizing, and then made partial recovery. Sharp recessions also took place in Du Pont, Onyx Hosiery, Owens Bottle, and United Cigars.

Chemical Issues Sell Off.

Fears that the widespread agitation to restrict cotton acreage in the south next year would hurt the fertilizer business brought about further liquidation in some of the chemical shares. American Agricultural Chemical preferred and International Agricultural Chemical common and prior preferred sank to new low levels for the year. Otis Steel prior preferred also touched a new low.

Trading in the foreign exchanges was of the usual dull, half-holiday character, with quotations displaying an easier undertone. Demand sterling was again down to $4.84¼, but French francs held firm around 3.15 cents. Italian lire were again heavy, yielding over 10 points to around 4 cents.

The weekly clearing house statement showed excess reserve of $17,666,240, contrasting with a deficit in reserve of $23,-979,460 last week. Aggregate reserve was $608,151,000. The detailed statement of actual condition this day showed gains in all of the principal items. Loans, discounts, and investments increased $69,-886,000; cash in own vaults, $441,000; reserve in the federal reserve bank of member banks, $49,059,000; net demand deposits, $50,902,000, and time deposits, $18,140,000.

Erie Railroad Remains in Van Sweringen Merger Plan

New York, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Reports that the Erie railroad would be dropped from the proposed Nickel Plate merger were discredited today by banking interests closely affiliated with Van Sweringens. Although declining to comment directly on the rumors regarding a new grouping as published in New York, several bankers who provided financial backing for the Van Sweringen brothers, indicated that they had not been advised of any change in the plan, which contemplated the unification of the present Nickel Plate, Chesapeake and Ohio, Hocking Valley, Pere Marquette, and Erie systems.

Fidelity Trust and Savings Absorbs North Shore Trust

Absorption of the North Shore Trust and Savings bank, Sheridan road and Argyle street, by the Fidelity Trust and Savings bank, 1050 Wilson avenue, was announced yesterday. The merger will be effective tomorrow and will add $1,180,000 to the total deposits of the Fidelity bank, using figures in the bank call report of the North Shore bank as of Oct. 11. This will increase the total deposits of the Fidelity institution from $5,399,000 to $6,579,000. E. C. Dose, cashier of the North Shore bank, will remain with the Fidelity Trust and Rudolph Lederer, I. B. Perlman, and David Saul Klafter, directors, will be added to the board of that bank.

Studebaker Earnings Show Decline for Third Quarter

The earnings statement of the Studebaker corporation for the third quarter of 1926 showed net income of $3,068,264, equivalent after preferred dividends, to $1.56 a share on the common stock, compared with $5,035,177, or $2.61 a share, in the third quarter of last year. Net income for the nine months this year was $11,804,125, equivalent to $6.08 a share, compared with $15,157,226, or $7.85 a share, in the same period last year.

Max Mason Speaks Tuesday at Strippers' Conference

Max Mason, president of the University of Chicago, will be the principal speaker at a session of the Shippers' Conference association to be held Tuesday at the Hotel La Salle. Traffic problems from freight rate zones throughout the nation will be under discussion. Among those at the speakers' table will be W. R. Dawes, Maj. Rufus W. Putnam, Fred W. Sargent, W. B. Storey, L. A. Downs, H. R. Curry, Paul Butler, John T. Pirie, E. L. Ryerson, and Ezra Warner.

METAL MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(AP)—COPPER—No improvement for the week. Domestic consumers have not yet covered November needs in full. Electrolytic is available at 14 cent level delivered at Connecticut valley points. TIN—Had sharp reaction on technical weakness in London and larger shipments from the straits. LEAD—Held fairly steady despite the heaviness abroad. Buying was good for November and December delivery. ZINC—Toward close of week was in better demand from consumers; prices a shade higher. ANTIMONY—Easier under increased offerings from China, with buyers holding off and inclined to await developments.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—LEAD — Dull at $7.90. ZINC—Slab quiet at $7.25.

Chicago stocks were quiet and irregular in yesterday's week-end session. A burst of activity in Consumers common was the feature, the price advancing 1¼ while the preferred gained 3 points on light trading. Montgomery Ward declined a small fraction, but Sears-Roebuck was about steady. Q. R. S. made a further gain of half a point in anticipation of an announcement concerning the purchase of another concern. On small trading, Quaker Oats was up 4½. Borg & Beck held about steady and Auburn Auto was fractionally lower.

CHICAGO CURB MARKET

While a number of issues displayed strength in the local unlisted securities market last week, there was a lack of uniformity.

Palmolive advanced to sales at 11, up 3 points. It was later in supply at this figure, however, with bids of 115. Kellogg company continued in excellent demand, and the bid price improved another point to 110 without attracting sellers. Interstate Iron and Steel common was 2 points higher, with sales between 101 and 102. The preferred was unchanged at 105 bid, 106 asked. Beatrice Creamery common was heavy, offerings at 62 failing to attract buyers better than 60. Creamery Package also declined slightly, transactions being made between 30 and 31. After declining 4 points on a heavy volume of trade to low sales at 80, Elgin National Watch firmed up to 80⅝ bid, 81½ asked. Godchaux Sugar preferred was in good demand at 21 and higher.

Great Lakes Transit regained its previous loss, advancing about a point to high and last sales at 28⅝. Congress Hotel common was again in supply and lost another 15 points at 175 to 185. Lack of interest on the buying side was noted in the Keystone Steel and Wire issues, the common being offered at 46 and the preferred at 86. A buying movement developed in McCord company common, carrying it to high sales at 9. It closed slightly easier, however, at 8 bid, offered at 8½. Celotex securities were higher, the common advancing almost 15 points to sales at 167, and it held the greater part of its gain, closing at 160 bid, 165 asked. The preferred ranged between 89⅝ and 92.

Among the bank shares Union Trust continued strong, selling at 435. It was later wanted at this price with no stock available. Chicago Trust was 3 points higher, selling at 281. Illinois Merchants Trust showed little change between 598 and 602. There were several reported transactions in Continental and Commercial National between 452 and 455. Northern Trust was again heavy, offerings at 475 reflecting another 2 points loss. There were buyers for Union Bank of Chicago at 243, but there were no reported transactions on account of the scarcity of offerings. National Bank of the Republic sold as low as 282, but later regained its entire loss in selling at 285 to 288. Foreman National was wanted at 475.

Wanted: Bond Salesmen

One of our clients, an old and progressive investment house, with offices throughout the United States, is seeking several men of integrity and ability for the Chicago sales force.

A similarly high-calibered man is wanted to travel Illinois.

While successful bond selling experience is desirable, it is not a prerequisite. Integrity, sincerity and selling sense and ability are qualities that will be given first consideration.

An equitable and liberal policy of compensation is in effect and the house is primarily interested in helping its men succeed.

Our client's salesmen have been advised of this advertisement; hence you can write fully and in confidence. You will not be embarrassed in your present connection. Please do not phone or call.

Chicago Yacht Club Plans Gothic Structure on Lake Front

HISTORIC BOOK FIRM BUILDS ON SOUTH SIDE

Big Structure for Bostonians.

The Houghton-Mifflin company, one of America's oldest and best known publishing houses, having been founded in 1828 in Boston, has started work on a six story structure in Chicago's rapidly growing publishing center in the South Central district, which will be one of the most imposing buildings of its kind in that section of the city.

The big structure is being erected at the southwest corner of Prairie avenue and East 25th street on a lot 90x180. The architects are a Boston firm—Monks & Johnson.

The big New England publishing company will occupy two entire floors and will rent office and semi-office space to other firms. The south central office of the Bowes Realty company, who negotiated the purchase of the site some time ago, will handle the renting of the building.

Back to Days of Hawthorne.

The Houghton-Mifflin company dates back to the time of Hawthorne, Emerson, Longfellow, Lowell, and others of the outstanding group of New England writers which made such an impression on American literature.

The Riverside Press of Houghton-Mifflin is one of the largest and best equipped plants of its kind in the world. It was founded by Henry C. Houghton in 1852 and was known as H. O. Houghton & Co. Later it became Hurd & Houghton in 1864, and in 1878 the name was changed to Houghton, Osgood & Co.

Houghton, Mifflin & Co. started doing business under that name at 4 Park street, Boston, in 1880. In 1908 it became known as the Houghton-Mifflin company and now has its headquarters at 2 Park street, Boston.

Has Impressive Roll Call.

"The significant history of a publishing house lies not so much in the record of its changing control, its accessions, amalgamations and removals as in the roll call of its authors," comments an official of the Houghton-Mifflin company.

"The enumeration of the frequenters of the publishing offices of the Houghton-Mifflin company is an outline history of American literature. To the back room, in the corner store on Washington street, Boston, came familiarly, bringing the products of their pens, or simply, perhaps, for lettered conversations, Hawthorne, Emerson, Dr. Holmes, Longfellow, Lowell, J. T. Trowbridge, Whittier, Henry Ward Beecher, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Ole Bull, Rufus Choate, H. D. Thoreau, Edwin Forrest, and E. P. Whipple.

Dickens a Visitor.

"Dickens and Thackeray were entertained there during visits from overseas. Toward the end of the period certain young men might have been seen among the frequenters, not always, perhaps, quite in the New England traditions; young Mr. William Dean Howells and Thomas Bailey Aldrich, and, a little later, two very breezy characters from the wild west over the lately completed Union Pacific railroad, Bret Harte and Samuel M. Clemens.

"After the removal of the firm to Tremont street some of the older figures began dropping away, their places being taken by newer writers—Bayard Taylor, George Parsons Lathrop, and John Fiske."

Publishers of Thackeray.

The Houghton-Mifflin company and its predecessors were, even in the days before the copyright law, the first authorized American publishers of most of the great Victorian authors—De Quincey, Thackeray, George Eliot, Charles Reade and Dickens, Tennyson and Browning.

Notable among the firm's contemporary authors from overseas are Denis Mackail, Havelock Ellis, John Buchan, Ian Hay Beith, Rafael Sabatini, Anne Douglas Sedgwick, Hilaire Belloc, and George Trevelyan.

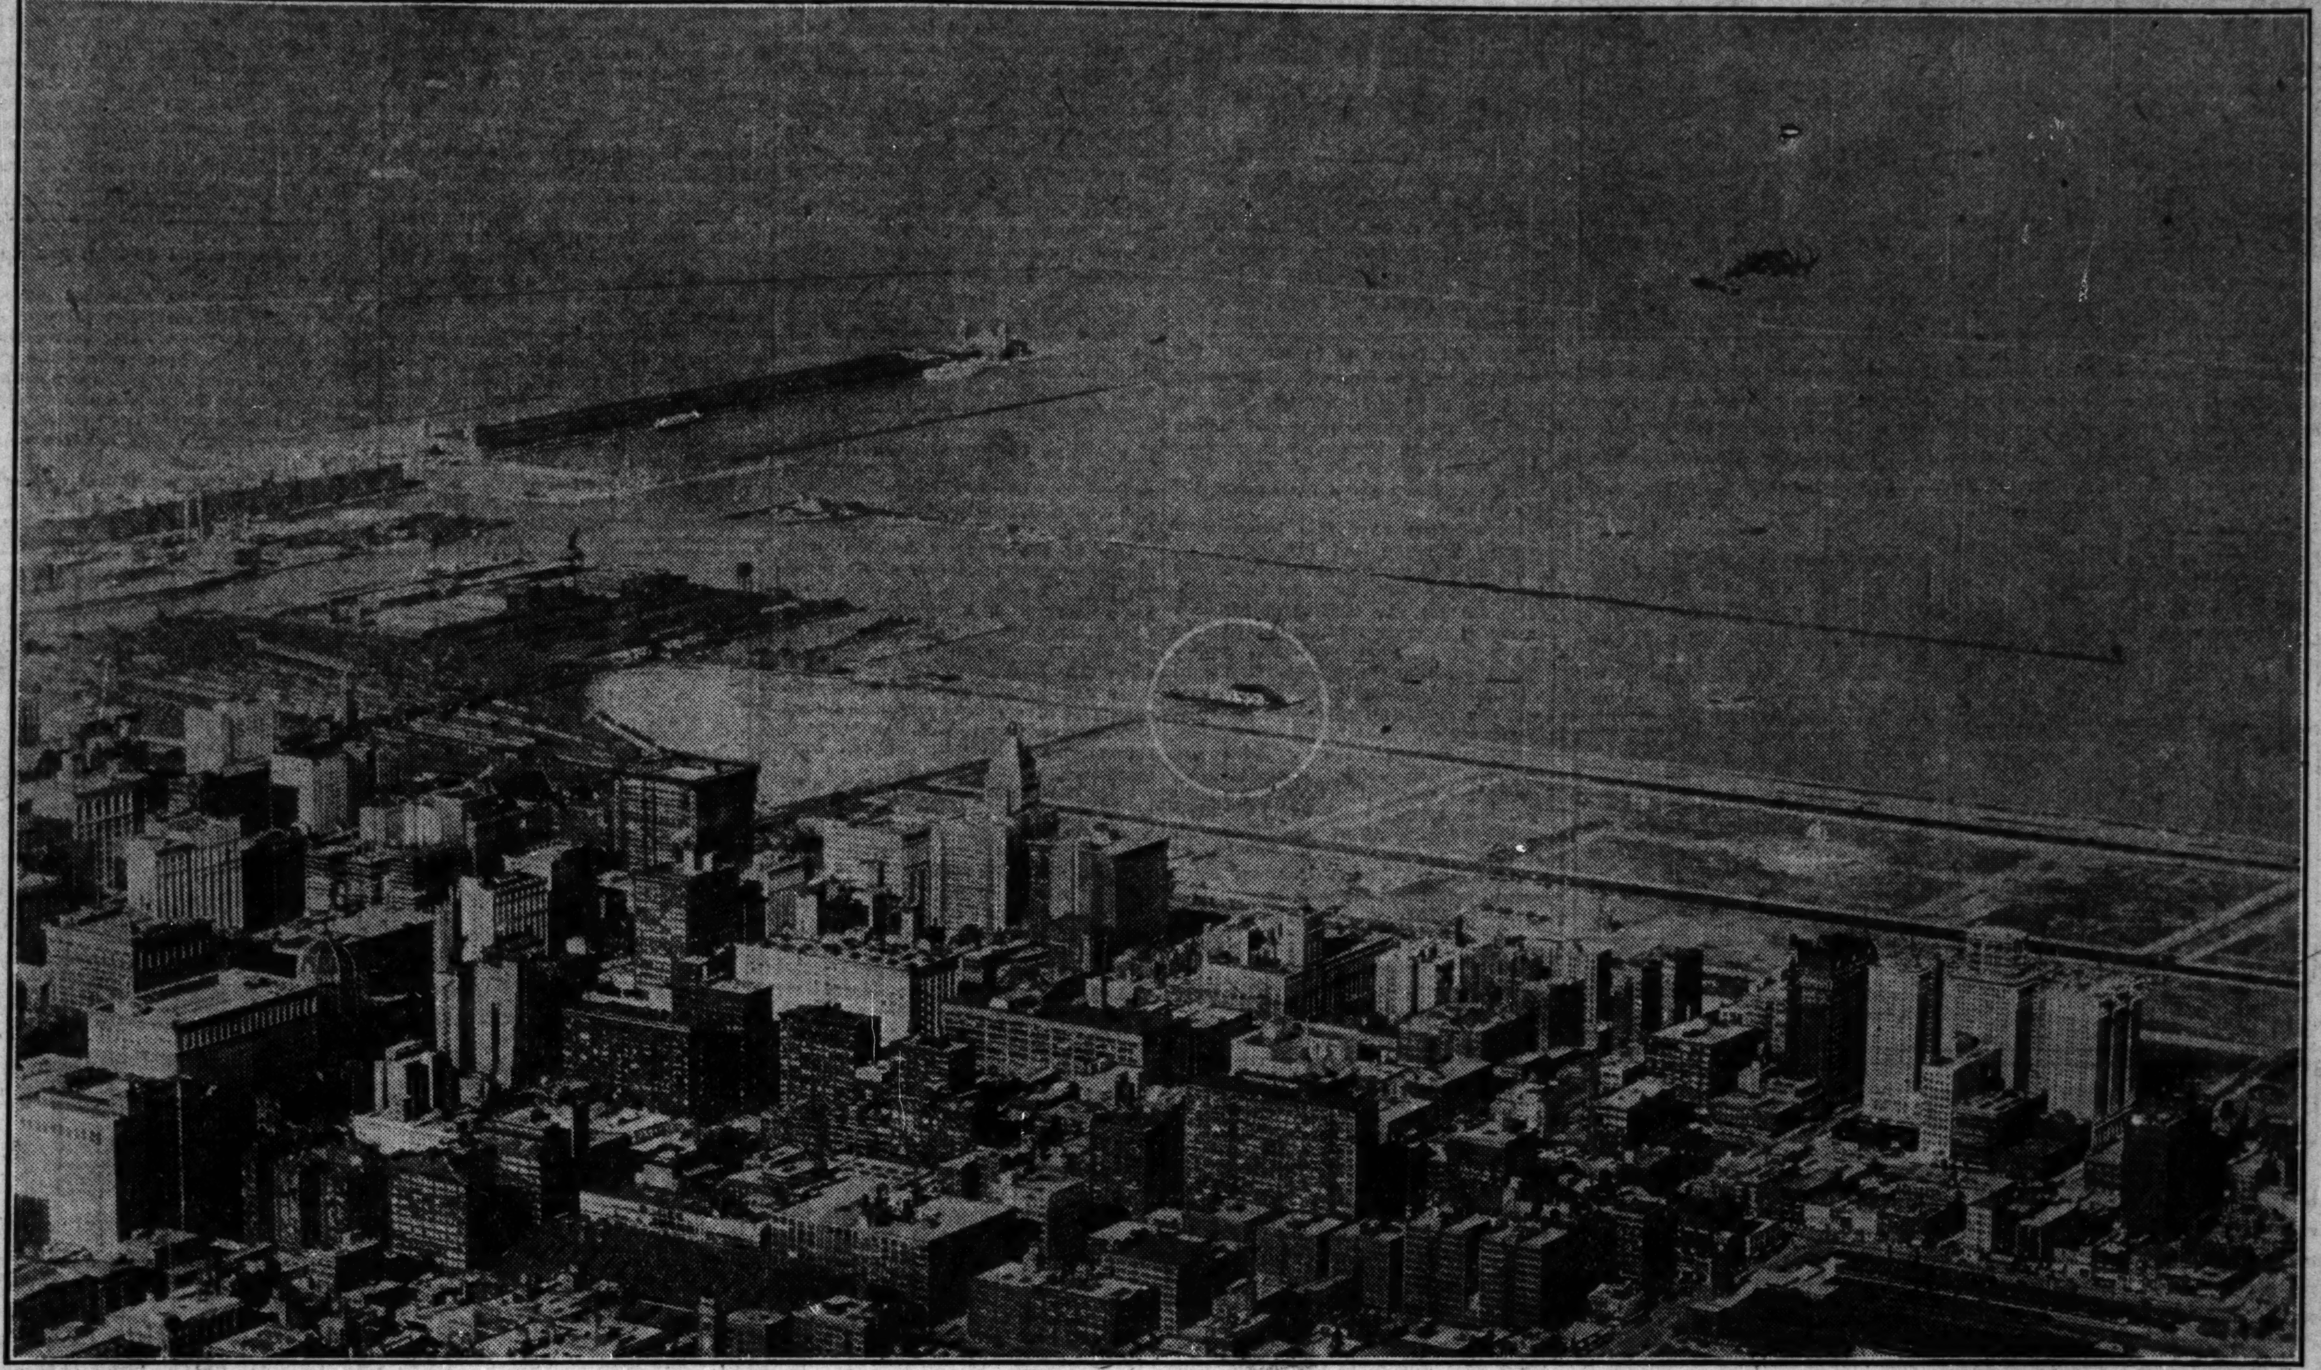
Butter and Egg Concern to Build in West Randolph St.

Thomas S. Smith has sold the northwest corner of Randolph and Carpenter, 100x165, to the H. C. Christians company, butter and egg concern of Johnson Creek, Wis., for a reported $90,000. The buyer intends erecting a modern building for its own use. The First Realty company was broker.

WHERE FRESHWATER SALTS WILL BUILD MAGNIFICENT HOME



No yacht club in the world will have such a magnificent setting for its headquarters as will the Chicago Yacht club, which is to erect a Gothic structure at the foot of Monroe street, in Grant park, as shown by the circle in the above picture. It'll be unquestionably the most accessible club, from a motorist's point of view, of any in the city when the new drive and bridge at the mouth of the river is completed, linking the Lincoln and south park systems. Details of the announcement by George Woodruff, next year's commodore of the Chicago Yacht club, regarding the new clubhouse are given in the next column. Above photo by the Chicago Aeronautical Service.

TO MAKE CITY SAILING CENTER OF GREAT LAKES

Plan to Let Public Use Docks Free.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

With the erection of a palatial new Chicago Yacht club house on the Grant park lake shore, at the foot of Monroe street, plans for which were announced last night by George Woodruff, vice chairman of the board of directors of the National Bank of the Republic and commodore of the club for 1927, this city is to be made the yachting headquarters of the Great Lakes.

The new club house, according to Mr. Woodruff, is to be one of the finest of its kind in the world and will harmonize architecturally with the other public buildings in and about Grant park.

"The contemplated plans will provide a clubhouse that will excel that of the best known yacht clubs on the Great Lakes," said Mr. Woodruff.

City to Be Yachting Center.

"It is felt that such a development in Grant park will make Chicago the real yachting headquarters of all the Great Lakes and will bring to this city a great number of yachts each year, together with many thousands of visitors.

"It has been suggested that the docks of the club should be open to the use of the public in general and that boats of all types should be allowed to use them for landing purposes.

"Furthermore, it has been felt that the Chicago Yacht club, through this proposed development, can greatly popularize the use of Grant park by the people of the city. The new club house, of course, will become the center of Chicago's yachting activity with many yacht races starting and finishing off Grant park.

Should Stir Public Interest.

"Public interest in these yacht races should greatly increase when it is understood that it'll be possible to view these events from the shore line along Grant park."

The proposed new club house probably will be Gothic in architecture, and of Indiana limestone. It tentatively has been decided to have the structure six stories in height.

The Chicago Yacht club was organized in 1875. It has had quarters on the lake front, in what is now Grant park, since 1901.

A few years ago it erected a club house in Belmont harbor. This, it is understood, may be used as a "station" by the club when the big Grant park structure is completed.

Here's 1927 Ticket.

The following men have been proposed by the nominating committee as officers for next year: George Woodruff, commodore; Philip K. Wrigley, vice commodore; Clark Wright, rear commodore; Robert Upham, treasurer; R. G. Jones, secretary.

The new directors of the Chicago Yacht club will be: George Getz, Hollis Potter [present commodore of the club], Edwin Sims, J. Will Johnson, and A. E. Bendaleri.

The holdover directors are Samuel Insull, Sheldon Clark and Edward Kelly.

The property is 181 feet deep. Henry E. Hedberg of Hedberg & Bistor and Harry Goldstine of the Harry Goldstine Realty company were the brokers in the deal. Builders Buy 139 Lots in Westchester

An important transaction is reported from the Westchester district, where George F. Nixon & Co. sold 139 lots for immediate building purposes to Visser & Co., headed by Peter Visser of River Forest. It is stated the purchase price was $150,000.

The lots bought by the Visser company are in the area south of the Roosevelt road terminal of the elevated, being situated on Canterbury avenue and Broadway, the latter a 100 foot thoroughfare. The building program calls for two and three apartment buildings, residences, and some stores.

Buurma Bros. recently bought 239 lots in another part of Westchester, and it is stated they will begin building operations soon. Roy Pederson of the Westchester office of the Nixon company handled the Visser deal.

Plan $450,000 Building on Milwaukee Av.

B. Leo Steif & Co. have drawn plans and work is to start at once on a $450,000 three story business block at the northwest corner of Milwaukee and Spaulding avenues on a 193x125 site.

Sam and Harry Lanski bought the site from the Logan Development company for a reported $350,000.

The new building will contain fourteen stories and seventy-three apartments of three and four rooms each. Charles P. Schwartz was attorney for the seller and Joseph Golde for the buyers.

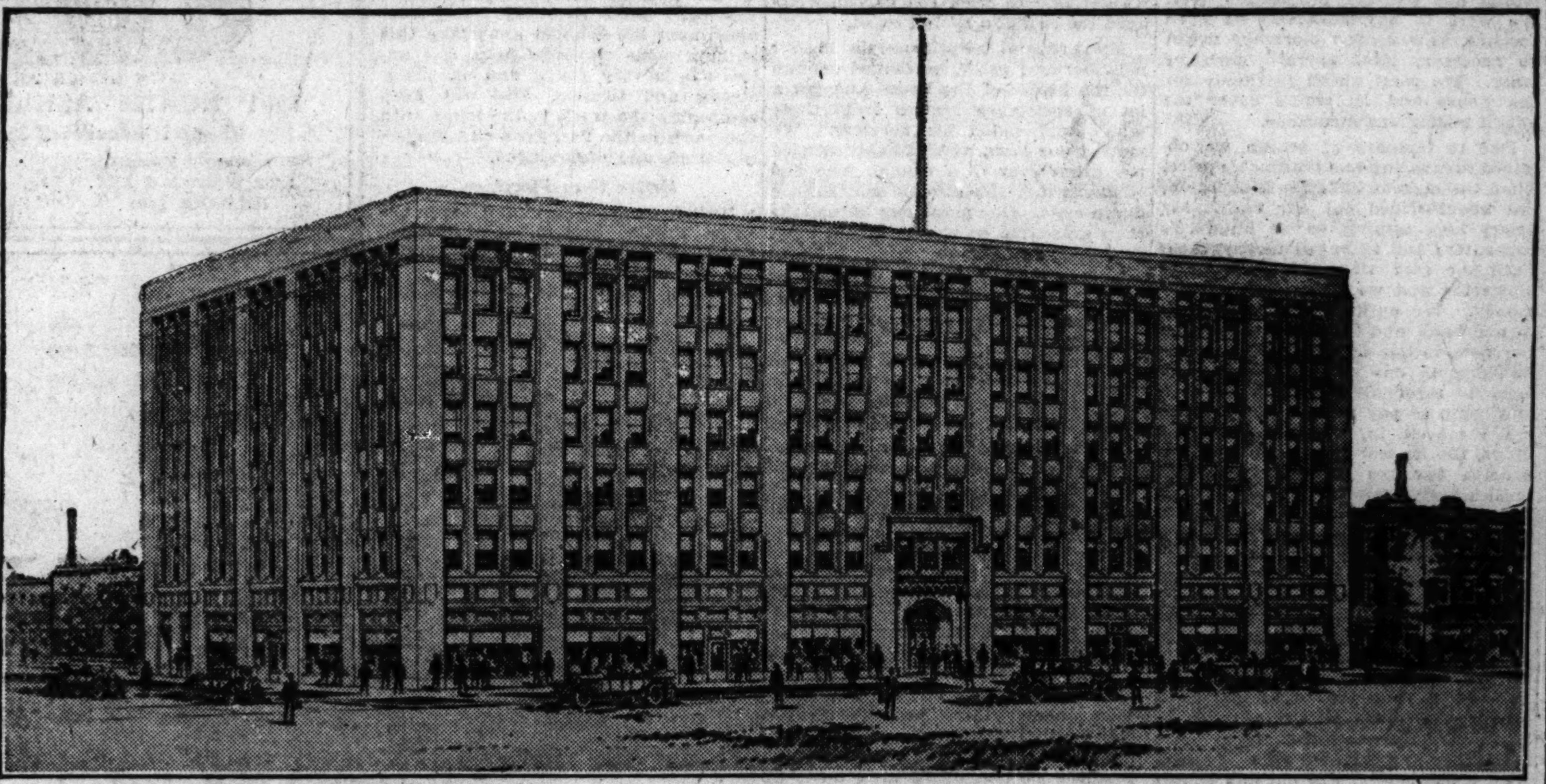
APPAREL SHOP RENTS STORE IN PALMER HOTEL

The Palmer Apparel Shop, Inc., has leased space in the new Palmer house at 105 South State street, containing about 1,700 square feet on the first floor and 5,300 square feet in the basement. The shop will specialize in the sale of gloves, hosiery, lingerie, purses, and millinery.

The lease is for ten years at a term rental of $600,000. E. W. Weiss, formerly connected with the New York Waist stores, is president and general manager. The architect designing the store front and interior is B. C. Greengard.

Winston, Strawn & Shaw, attorneys, represented the Palmer estate and I. E. Weiss and John Elliott Byrne represented the lessee. Ross & Browne represented the Palmer estate as brokers.

ADDITION TO SOUTH CENTRAL PUBLISHING CENTER



This is the new Houghton-Mifflin company building now under construction at the southwest corner of Prairie and 25th, from plans by Monks & Johnson, Boston architects. Details are given in an adjoining column. J. C. Halden made the rendering.

The sale was negotiated by George Pulford of the Sterling Realty and Mortgage company, E. C. Brownlee & Co., and S. Charles Iversen & Co. S. Charles Iversen & Co. will have charge of the property. Butz, Von Ammon & Marx handled the legal details for the purchasers and Joseph Muhlke for the sellers.

WALGREEN PLANS 105TH STORE; TO BE ON ASHLAND

Faith in Chicago Real Estate Aid to J. G. Shedd

Faith in Chicago's future and wise investments in Chicago real estate were given by David R. Forgan as two of the main reasons for the fortune of $15,215,000 which the late John G. Shedd left in his will. Mr. Forgan, for years the friend and associate of Mr. Shedd in many civic and business enterprises, made his remarks at the memorial service for the merchant at the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall on the evening of Oct. 24.

"John Shedd was a man of vision, and his faith in the future never wavered," Mr. Forgan said. "He always maintained that the future Chicago was destined to be greater than any one could possibly foresee. His encouragement and help in the great plan of Chicago, which has done and is doing so much for our city, was a notable example of his interest in civic projects and faith in Chicago.

"But he was never a visionary. Young John Shedd making his way in the early years had few entertainments, saved even when the amounts were trifling, invested his savings in real estate in a small way, and only very slowly and gradually came to the time when he could buy a corner in the loop.

"While a keen trader, nothing crooked, underhanded, or questionable was tolerated by John Shedd, and his fortune was accumulated by fair, honorable business methods and far sighted, legitimate investments. That is no small thing to say regarding any millionaire."

Title and Trust Official to Address Realty Class

M. M. Oshe, tilte officer of the Chicago Title & Trust company, will lecture on "Guarantee Policies" before the real estate practice class of the Cook County Real Estate board, tomorrow at 8 p. m. at the board rooms in the Conway building.

Lease Winnemac Garage for 15 Years at $210,000

Hyman Levin has leased the Winnemac Park garage at 1800-12 Winnemac avenue to Anthony Zimlewiez and W. Sutton Reynolds for fifteen years at a term rental of $210,000. Pete J. Manusos was broker. Holland & Schuchter handled the legal details.

Plan 16 Story Flats at Elm and State Sts.

A syndicate headed by Samuel Cole yesterday bought the northwest corner of State and Elm streets, 100x87, and is having plans drawn by B. Leo Steif & Co. for a $2,000,000 sixteen story apartment building.

It will have shops and offices on the first and second floors and 135 apartments of three, four, and five rooms in the upper fourteen stories.

Work will start around the first of the year, with completion set for Oct. 1, 1927. The site was bought from John W. Bleadon for a reported $250,000. Felsenthal, Struckman & Berger and Reuben J. Feldman were attorneys. Ralph W. Jackson was broker.

16 FLAT BUILDING BEING ERECTED IN WEST PULLMAN

Work is under way on a three story building at the southeast corner of 119th street and Normal avenue, West Pullman, to contain three stores, six offices, and sixteen apartments. Louis A. Snitzer has underwritten a loan of 78,000 for seven years at seven per cent for the owner, Louis Malnassy. The project will represent an investment of $150,000, it is stated. The architect is Edward George McClellan.

Push Work on Banking Home in Steel Area

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Work is progressing rapidly on the first unit of the new home which the Calumet National bank is building at the northeast corner of 91st street and Commercial avenue. The structure is to be six stories in height and when completed, it is stated, it will represent an investment of approximately $1,000,000.

The framework is of steel with the exterior material of terra-cotta. Each unit will be complete, so when the next one is erected it will form an integral part of the building.

John Eberson is the architect and he has selected a modern adaptation of the Italian renaissance for his design. The bank floor will be unusually large and handsome. It will be finished in travertine marble with bronze adornments. The lighting will be through a skylight to take advantage of the sun's unlimited supply of cheap illumination.

For the Ladies.

The ladies come in for special consideration in the planning of this bank building. A handsomely furnished parlor is to be provided for them. A large fireplace will add a note of cheer to their room.

The safety deposit vault will be in the basement. While there will not be so many for the present, the plans call for 5,000 boxes eventually. The bank will occupy the first two floors, renting the upper one for outside offices. Of course when business demands it will take over these for its own use. Stores will extend around the building on the first floor.

The structure stands in one of Chicago's most interesting sections—the great workshop provided by the South Chicago and Calumet districts. Steel, of course, is the dominant figure in this district which, with the abolition of Pittsburgh Plus, seems slated to be the world's center for this industry.

A Rapid Growth.

The Calumet National bank was organized as a national institution in 1883. When the present owners bought it from the Cunea family in March, 1919, the bank's capital was $100,000, the surplus was $50,000, the undivided profits $50,000, and the deposits were about $2,000,000.

On the bank call of June, 1926, the capital of the bank was $300,000; the surplus $150,000, the undivided profits $63,000, the reserve fund $95,000, and the total deposits $10,000,000.

The officers of the Calumet National are: Emil G. Seip, president; Marcus A. Aurelius, vice president; Thomas J. Peden, vice president and secretary, and Fletcher A. Tinkham, cashier.

Sacramento and Augusta Apartments Sold: $185,000

HOME BUILDERS' DEPARTMENT

VEGETABLE ROOM FEATURE OF THIS COLONIAL HOUSE

Unites the Picturesque with Utilitarian.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Imagine, please, two young people, not long married, with one child or perhaps two. They want to build a small home, a good small home, capably designed, which will offer them the joys of their own grounds and their own private dwelling, which they can pay for as they would pay rent, and yet which is compact enough and convenient enough in its floor layout and room size so that no undue expenditure of labor is demanded in its upkeep from the mistress of the home.

Such a colonial residence as this with its four sizable rooms and kitchenette feature and with its two bedrooms on the second floor, with the detached privacy that sleeping rooms overhead always insure, is essentially suited to meet this typical American family problem.

Designed by William C. Presto, 308 North Michigan, architect, it has a general floor overall of 26x28 and can be built for from $6,800 to $8,000, according to the quality and number of interior finishings desired.

Its wide board sidings are painted a warm ivory white, and its roof stained a soft French blue. It stands on a concrete foundation, with thoroughly finished basement, with precaution taken to protect the storage portion of the cellar from heat and cold.

Vegetable Storage Room.

A double partition of plaster board separates the vegetable storage room from the furnace room, and protects it from the heat. Perfect ventilation is secured by a piece of galvanized stovepipe through the wall or cellar window, dropping the inner end with an elbow down to within two to four inches of the floor. This lets the cold air in and a small opening near the ceiling lets the warm air out. The ventilated bins, boxes and barrels, raised six inches from the floor, will hold potatoes, apples, etc. Other vegetables, such as carrots, beets, turnips and parsnips, which keep best when covered with sand, are left on the floor.

The cost of such a vegetable storage room should not add more than twenty dollars to the cost of the house, and will pay for itself in one year, if a quantity of vegetables is bought in the fall, or raised in the summer in a small home garden.

There is a colonial entrance of wood, with turned urns and a picturesque knocker.

A reception hall with a guest closet adjoining opens into the large living room, 16x21, with French windows, a real fireplace of brick border and wood mantel. The living room is well proportioned, being neither too long nor too narrow, a shape always hard to furnish effectively.

New Type of Chimney.

Special attention is paid to the chimney construction. Recent bulletins from Washington are emphasizing the need for improvement in chimney construction and recommending a round flue type—that which is round inside but square outside—as extremely efficient because it offers the least resistance to gases.

Too few people when they are buying a house ready built, or when they are building one for themselves, give enough consideration to this chimney question. And yet it is an admitted fact that incorrect, poorly built chimneys are responsible for a large proportion of fires, for coal waste, and for all kinds of furnace troubles.

The kitchenette can be made into a charming spot, with its small French windows and combination kitchen features, which can be purchased in one set, refrigeration, sink, stove, and table provision. Also abundant drawer and cupboard space.

Ample Dining Room.

There is an ample dining room, which is almost a necessity if there are children, and the kitchenette equipment is space saving, labor saving, and also expense saving, when the cost per cubic foot of a large kitchen is figured against the cost per cubic foot of a small one.

There is one large master bedroom with a closet which has an outside window. Electric bulbs are installed in all the closets, managed by a pull socket instead of a knob. This is a convenience, as every housewife knows who fumbles around in the dark trying to locate her light sockets.

A French door leads from this master bedroom onto a small deck, giving added air and light in the summer months.

The entire house is finished in colonial ivory, with the colonial figured wallpaper in period design.

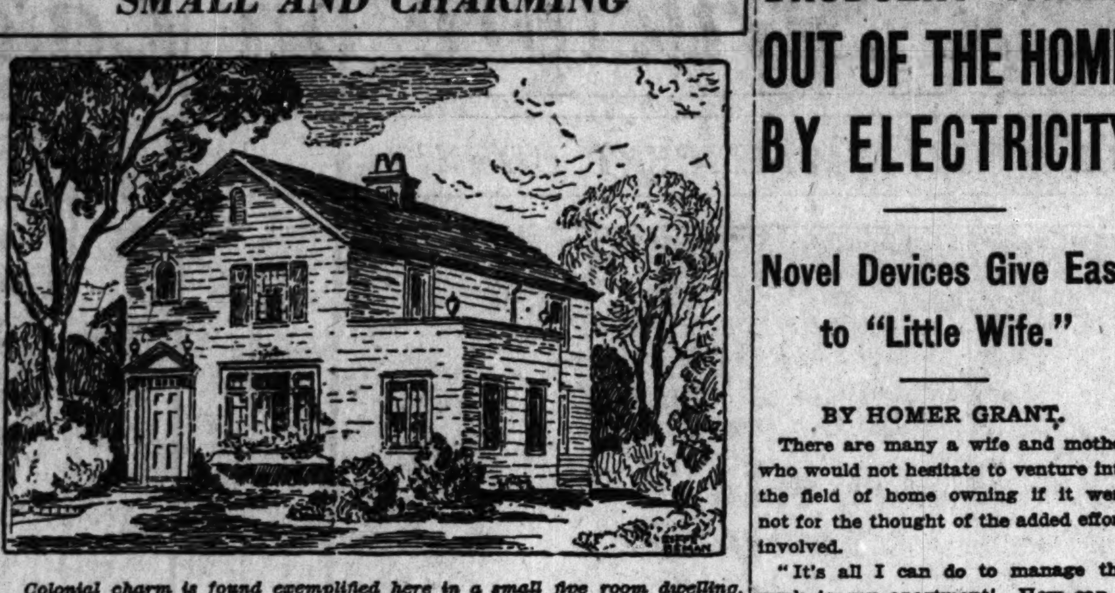
As was stated at the first of this article, the cost of this house, past the $8,000 mark, depends upon the quality of finish used and the character of the mechanical devices, the hardware, and the bathroom equipment.

One woman would rather have a fireplace in her living room, even though it cost $400, and economize on the bathroom fixtures, on the kitchen equipment. Book shelves, too, are a delight, but they run into money very quickly.

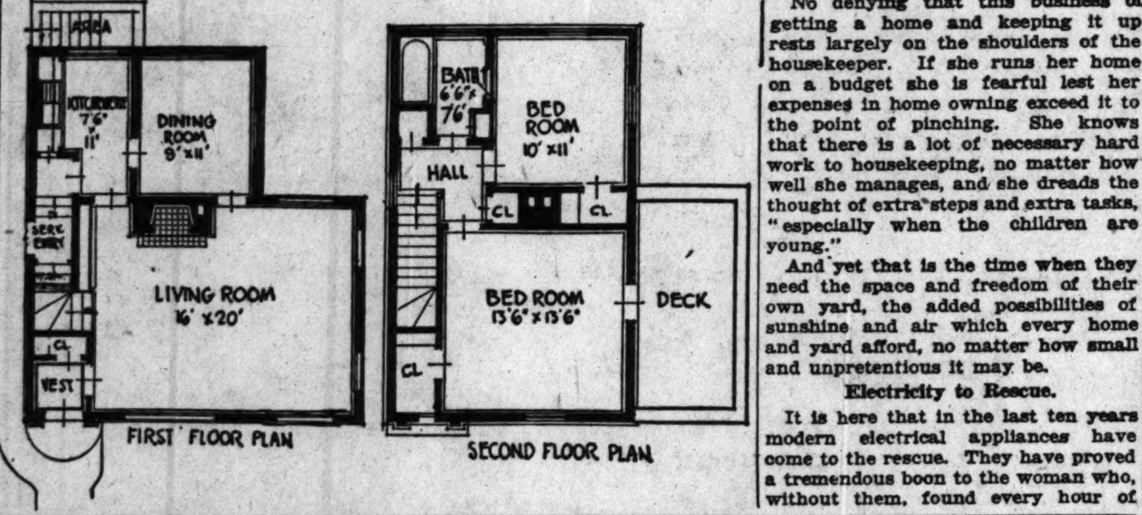
In building, every estimated cost should be carefully talked over with your architect or builder. Better do without things than skimp on such essentials as framing, lumber, heat insulations, adequate plumbing, substantial hardwood, good electric fixtures.

For the good sort is the cheapest sort, on the basis of ten year costs. If one does not plan to live in a house more than ten years, one then plans to sell it. And in either case one is anxious that no deterioration should have set in to add to the cost of upkeep or to reduce the resale price of the house.

SMALL AND CHARMING



Colonial charm is found exemplified here in a small five room dwelling. Wide board sidings are painted a warm, ivory white, and a shingle roof stained French blue. Thorough insulation keeps the rooms cool in summer and comfortable in winter. Adapted for city or suburban use, it is purposely designed for the small family. William C. Preston, architect.



HOW THEY FINANCED THEIR HOMES

Experiences of home owners, told in their own fashion, will do much to encourage others to achieve this important independence. To encourage prospective home builders The Tribune will print experiences of home owners—letters telling how the home was financed, how the initial payment was gathered, how the mortgages were paid off, how the upkeep was managed. For each letter printed The Tribune will pay $10. Letters should not exceed 300 words. Address them to Small Homes Department, Sunday Tribune, Chicago.

Here are the first letters:

Courage and Common Sense.

FREEPORT, ILL.—We married in 1916 then came war and high prices, but we eventually acquired the needed household equipment. In January, 1919, our daughter arrived and we began to plan for our own home.

We bought a small frame house—no modern conveniences—but located on a nice lot 120 feet square, on contract—terms like rent—with privilege of paying larger amounts monthly if desired. Title was to be given, with the right to remodel or rebuild, when one-half the price was paid. Almost before we knew it, we had our deed. Then we consulted contractors, having already drawn our own plans roughly.

We tried to see ahead and avoid expensive upkeep and high fire insurance rates, so desired brick veneer outside, fireproof shingles, and so on. Well, the price given was $1,000 a room—$6,000 for our bungalow of 5 rooms, bath, sun parlor and breakfast alcove. We promptly decided in family conference to do our own contracting.

After figuring approximate cost of materials and labor we invoiced our finances and found $360 in the bank, a $100 Liberty bond, and $25 in War Savings stamps. Not disheartened, we interview those who sold building materials and put our proposition over. We were to buy materials on open account, as a second mortgage might be necessary later to raise cash for labor. We went ahead fearlessly for the house and lot would cover the bills if misfortune struck us.

Due to lateness of season we obtained excavating at a reasonable price. Then the masons built the foundation, but about wiped out our cash. My salary kept coming, so we hired two carpenters and managed to pay them until the roof was on. Then came plastering and we were in a hole for money. We outlined our proposition to our bank and borrowed enough on our note to tide us over. We left the finishing to one carpenter and managed to meet his weekly wage, live and begin to pay some on other bills.

We moved in, but the hardwood floors, the shower bath, and other expensive features were not installed until a year later. With no rent—our labor bills paid—we started to pay for the materials. Each salary check saw a payment made on each bill we owed. One by one we paid them until only the balance on lumber bill remained. Then came a $400 bonus check at Christmas, and with the help of December salary, we paid the lumber bill. It was a grand and glorious feeling, and we have never accumulated as much in a given length of time as when we built our home.

Courage and common sense, coupled with a fair salary, will put any couple in their own home. Furthermore, it's lots of fun and petty thoughts and things disappear in the shadow of the common goal. May our experience help some other couple into a home of their own. F. D. S.

Sacrifices Are Worth While.

BERWYN, Ill.—We lived with my mother from the time we married—we were afraid to tackle something by ourselves—supposing—was always our excuse, than an investment of $500 we had made—an investment we thought was "A-1," fell through and we lost the money. We decided there wasn't anything safer in the world than investing in a home.

So we bought the home, with a mortgage of $3,500, and several personal loans, in note form, besides.

Foolishly I worried a whole lot the first year, the taxes looked big, there was the water bill, the fuel bill, the house needed some repairs. I was afraid we wouldn't make it and all the time we were making it and doing finely. We planted a vegetable garden. I had vegetables enough for myself and made soup greens and parsley and dill bunches for a vegetable store. I earned enough this way to pay the water bill for the year, and the food we got besides from the garden averaged the cost of a load of wood.

My husband helped people in our neighborhood paint, he earned enough for the repair of the house and got a lot of assistance besides from those who appreciated his services. We mowed our lawn and willingly carried the grass over to a woman who had chickens and she always sent back a dozen eggs. Our neighbors let us take their grass, too, so we earned the right to this dozen of eggs.

It has been that way with everything. If we need something we just find some way to earn it. We studied our furnace, in the three years we've been here we managed to save a lot on fuel. Sifting ashes and moistening coal has helped, as has our own little trick of keeping the air in circulation.

I laugh now at our fears. The notes are paid. We are now tackling the mortgage, putting away a set sum a week, toward its payment and it will get paid up all right—yet we havn't been without hard luck. Our boy was sick, I fell down the basement steps, my husband did not work for two months in a stretch. We had to ask for a month's leeway to meet the interest note due and we were courteously offered two months if necessary. However, we made it. We simply cut down on everything we could and we didn't mind depriving ourselves of these things, because our home and the pleasure we had living in it made up for these sacrifices.

I wish some of the fearful home owners could come to me direct. I would just like to tell them what I think they are missing by not owning homes of their own—the happy weekends—of working together in the garden, helping—holding this and that for your husband while he nails or saws away. Why, I even learned to mix concrete and enjoyed it, too.

Own a home of your own and you know what life is—is my slogan.

DRUDGERY TAKEN OUT OF THE HOME BY ELECTRICITY

Novel Devices Give Ease to "Little Wife."

BY HOMER GRANT.

There are many a wife and mother who would not hesitate to venture into the field of home owning if it were not for the thought of the added effort involved.

"It's all I can do to manage the work in my apartment! How can I keep up a house? All the cleaning and washing and ironing and dishes. More company when you have more room, more space to keep tidy. Wait till the children get a little older and I'll try it."

No denying that this business of getting a home and keeping it up rests largely on the shoulders of the housekeeper. If she runs her home on a budget she is fearful lest her expenses in home owning exceed it to the point of pinching. She knows that there is a lot of necessary hard work to housekeeping, no matter how well she manages, and she dreads the thought of extra steps and extra tasks, "especially when the children are young."

And yet that is the time when they need the space and freedom of their own yard, the added possibilities of sunshine and air which every home and yard afford, no matter how small and unpretentious it may be.

Electricity to Rescue.

It is here that in the last ten years modern electrical appliances have come to the rescue. They have proved a tremendous boon to the woman who, without them, found every hour of her day a busy one, and even then she would repeat with the coming of night: "Man works from sun till sun, but woman's work is never done."

In apartment life many of these electrical labor saving appliances are more or less of a luxury.

A woman in an apartment enjoys an electric washing machine and ironer, but she does not need it so tremendously as a woman in her own home. The woman in the apartment has not the added expenses of home owning to meet and she often feels she can send out her wash, "rough dry" at least. The woman in the home, with the coal bills in winter and the screens in summer, feels she must save on all that is not essential.

Again the woman in the home finds that electrical devices for cleaning are imperative. Besides the added space to keep neat, there is the tracking in of mud and dirt from outdoors. The children are out all the time. Well, that's fine for them, but they bring in a lot of work every time they step into the front hall or the kitchen.

Saves Hard Work.

Hours of hard work are saved the woman in the home if she lets an electrical machine help her with her cleaning. The cost is an item, but it saves oftentimes the need of a woman coming in to clean once a week. And also, if a woman's hours of work at home are lightened, she can take more time to shop, buy her groceries more slowly and carefully, save money in many little ways.

One of the greatest troubles with housework—at least one of its greatest hardships—is the fact that there are no hours. If a woman could say "I'll work from 9 to 12 and from 1 to 5" and know then that she was through she might tackle the problem more light-heartedly. But housework cannot be divided into any such hours, and the only way to help matters is to systematize it so that she can have some free time every day.

This is another way in which electrical saving devices have lifted many a burden in the last few years.

Take the problem of dishes three times a day. For that is what a women has who gives her children a hot lunch every noon. It's all very well to say, "Stack them up—don't do them after every meal." But the average housewife doesn't like to see stacked dishes on her sink, a perpetual reminder of "something more to be done."

Dish Washing a Pleasure.

Here is where the electrical dishwasher comes in. Dishwashing can be done once a day through its use. It is movable, much like a tea cart. The dishes can be piled into it after each meal, and then, after breakfast, the dishes for the last three meals can be quickly washed. All this time they have been covered and out of sight. Tins as well as dishes. And the kitchen is otherwise clean and in order to start the day with. At least two hours' time have been saved in this way—two hours which can be used for relaxation, reading, pleasure at a club, or any amusement the house woman may wish to indulge in.

Every hour counts to the busy mother at home. And an hour saved in the morning, two hours in the afternoon, an hour in the evening, gives her the feeling of leisure which will contribute naturally to peace and satisfaction of mind.

No woman who contemplates doing all her own work in her own home—especially after she has come from apartment life—should undertake this without some electrical help. Not unless she is very young and unusually strong and tireless. She will keep comparing the work in the home with the work in the flat, grow dissatisfied, overtired, and discouraged.

Better than Fireplace.

Include some of them at least in the home building budget, even if somewhere in the house some feature is omitted until later. Better do without a fireplace, which, if it is used, makes extra cleaning, and have a vacuum sweeper and washing machine and ironer rather than a fireplace with its extra effort and then be tired all the time.

Of course there are many other electrical conveniences for the home, but as yet they are hardly in the necessity class.

There are the electric percolators, toasters, waffle irons, egg beaters, etc. They all make it possible for a woman to enjoy breakfast with her husband at the table, waiting on the children, and keeping everyone served, without constantly jumping up.

In Luxury Class.

There are the electric ventilators, installed in the kitchen, which drive the stale air out and let the fresh air in. There are electric heating pads, which save the effort of keeping a water bottle filled with hot water in times of sickness. There are the electric hair dryers which save beauty parlor bills.

But these are still among the accessories of life, delightful if they can be afforded. They do not belong to the class of washing machines, and the ironer, the vacuum cleaner and the dishwasher. But there is no denying that next to paying more for a home than you can afford, nothing takes the joy out of it quicker than having more work to do than you can easily manage.

In mentioning the electrical accessories which add to the comfort of a home, there is the electric stove, the electric fireplace, the electric sunbowl. The sunbowl and the grate are additions to a home in the fall and spring when a furnace fire is not needed and yet when certain rooms are too cool to sit in with comfort.

The electric fan is another comfort in hot weather, and in cold also. By placing it against a radiator, it diffuses the heat and adds warmth to the room when it may otherwise be chilly.

The electric milk warmer saves a mother with a young baby many steps at night, and an extra cover permits its use as a water heater.

Electric Shaving Mug.

A shaving mug provides plenty of hot water for a shave in the early morning before the furnace has started up enough to heat the water, or before the automatic water heater has been lit.

A new automatic electric toaster has also recently been put on the market which makes the close watching of toast unnecessary. When it is brown it lifts and the current is automatically released.

It is well for a woman to learn a little something about electricity, once she has these labor saving appliances in her home. Not its technical details, but a few of the every day facts which she will find useful in running her electrical machinery.

If she understands the general layout of the wiring in her home, how to replace a fuse when it is blown, what is meant by voltage, watts, short circuits, and kilowatt hours, she will know what to do under ordinary emergencies. and can also keep track of the cost of the machinery, have an idea what to allow on her budget account for electric cost, and also will find that she can take better care of her apparatus.

FARM AND GARDEN

Thos. D. Campbell Originator of New Harvesting Plan

Claims It Can Save the Wheat Farmers $200,000,000.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

TWO hundred million dollars can be saved each year by wheat farmers of the United States if they use the new cutting and thrashing method which has been successfully worked out on the Crow Indian reservation near Harding, Mont. That is the sage and sincere opinion of Thomas D. Campbell, originator of the new harvesting plan and operator of 85,000 acres of the reservation's wheat lands.

Campbell, an agricultural engineering graduate of Cornell university and North Dakota Agricultural college, says he saved about $100,000 this year by using the new plan in the harvesting of 25,000 acres of his 38,000 acres of wheat and 7,000 acres of flax. He saved $50,000 in operating costs alone and in this season of unprecedented rainfall he saved more than $25,000 on his wheat and $20,000 on flax.

With his time and labor saving method, Mr. Campbell believes that practically every one of the grain shocks now rotting on thousands of acres of land in the grain growing sections of Illinois, Indiana and other central west states could have been safely thrashed before they were damaged by rain.

Under Campbell's simple plan, harvesters take the same machinery now commonly found on many grain farms and by combining pioneer, modern and ultra-modern harvesting and thrashing machines and principles they can cut small grain for $2.50 an acre where, under the ordinary scheme of harvesting, it costs $4.50, saving $2 on every acre. The plan, Mr. Campbell says, is even more applicable to small farms than it is to large tracts of land.

It Works Like This.

With this method the combination harvester has been made 100 per cent efficient, it is claimed. Campbell has no use for twine and patented knotters. He simply takes the head off the ordinary grain binder. With four machines hitched on a tractor he cuts a forty foot swath and puts the loose, unbound grain into windrows forty feet apart by means of extension carriers built onto the binders. The grain cures in the windrows where it is later picked up by a hay loader and elevated into a combination harvester which thrashes it and pours the grain into a wagon on the opposite side. This does away with the big job of shocking, which costs from 30 to 50 cents an acre in labor alone. Twine costs from 20 to 30 cents an acre, according to Mr. Campbell's figures.

"We realized the efficiency of the combination harvester and began several years ago to work out a machine that we could use on all our small grain crops," said Mr. Campbell. "Grain has to be dead ripe, uniformly ripe and free from weeds where the combine is used in cutting the crop. Weeds in small grain often cause heating in the grain bins within a few hours where the grain is thrashed with a combination harvester. Under our new plan the grain is safe from all weather hazards, including wind. Wind causes less damage to loose grain in windrows than it does in shocks.

"In developing the new method I went back to the cradle principle where the grain is cut and thrown into windrows. It takes great power to bind and discharge grain with the ordinary binder now in general use. Under the new method the head of the binder, which costs about $125, can be thrown away. Farmers can buy binders that would cost $275 with the head for about $150 without the head. Old binders with worn heads can be used.

Extensions Can Be Home Made.

"We use four ten foot binders with the heads removed and extension carriers built onto all but the first one. The second binder has an 8 foot extension, the third a 17 foot extension, and the fourth a 28 foot extension. The extensions can be built at home at a cost of from $5 to $10 each. With these extensions the grain is all carried and deposited in the same windrow, each layer of grain falling on the preceding one in shingle-like arrangement, so the heads can dry freely. When the field is all cut the windrows are left forty feet apart. For the average farm I recommend three eight-foot binders and a sixteen-foot combine. We use twenty-four foot combines. We use the cutter bar and revolving canvases of the ordinary binder.

All that is needed to run the outfit is a man to operate the tractor and another to look after the four binders. On the Campbell farm the binder operator uses train signals. With a bell cord extending from the binders to the tractor, he gives one ring to stop the binder train and two to go ahead. A platform is built between the binders so the operator can safely pass from one to the other while the train is running. Instead of paying four men $3.50 a day to operate the four binders and one to run the tractor, Mr. Campbell uses two skilled mechanics at $6 a day.

"With the new method we can begin cutting our wheat a day or two earlier than we do when the grain is to be shocked. The grain dries out better in the windrow than in the shock. We can begin thrashing grain in the windrows several days earlier than we can shocked grain. There is less loss from shattered grain where the grain is picked up by the hay loader from the windrows than where bundles from the shock are handled by men with pitchforks," explained Mr. Campbell.

"The great advantage of this new plan is that we are through thrashing in two or three days after the grain has been cut," he added. "Two men and a combine do the work of twenty men and twenty-four horses where the work is done in the ordinary way. The new scheme does away with the big thrashing crew that causes so much work for the farmer's wife.

"In most cases all a farmer has to buy, in addition to the machinery he has on his farm, is a combination harvester. He can make the carriers. A man with 640 acres of land could pay for the entire new outfit in one year. The binders can be drawn by horses. A small tractor or eight horses will easily pull three eight foot headless binders. Any hay loader with a double cylinder will pick up the unbound grain from the windrows. The combine can be used alone to cut the ripe grain or in thrashing the grain from the windrow. The only change that is needed is to raise the combine cutter bar in thrashing from the windrow."

The Campbell system can be used in cutting and thrashing all kinds of small grains, including wheat, oats, rye, barley, and flax. Beans are also successfully handled in this way.

Mr. Campbell claims that under his plan small grain can be put safely under shelter ten days to two weeks earlier than where it is cut, bound, shocked, and thrashed, or even with the combine harvester where grain has to be dead ripe before it can be cut. This year he saved from 30,000 to 40,000 pounds of binder twine that would have cost from 15 to 18 cents a pound.

No Strings to the Method.

There are no strings tied to Mr. Campbell's method. He is willing to give it to agriculture. Tests on his own farm have convinced him there is not a grain grower in the United States or Canada who cannot use his plan. He is trying to have the method patented, so that it cannot be commercialized, but instead turned over to agriculture free of charge.

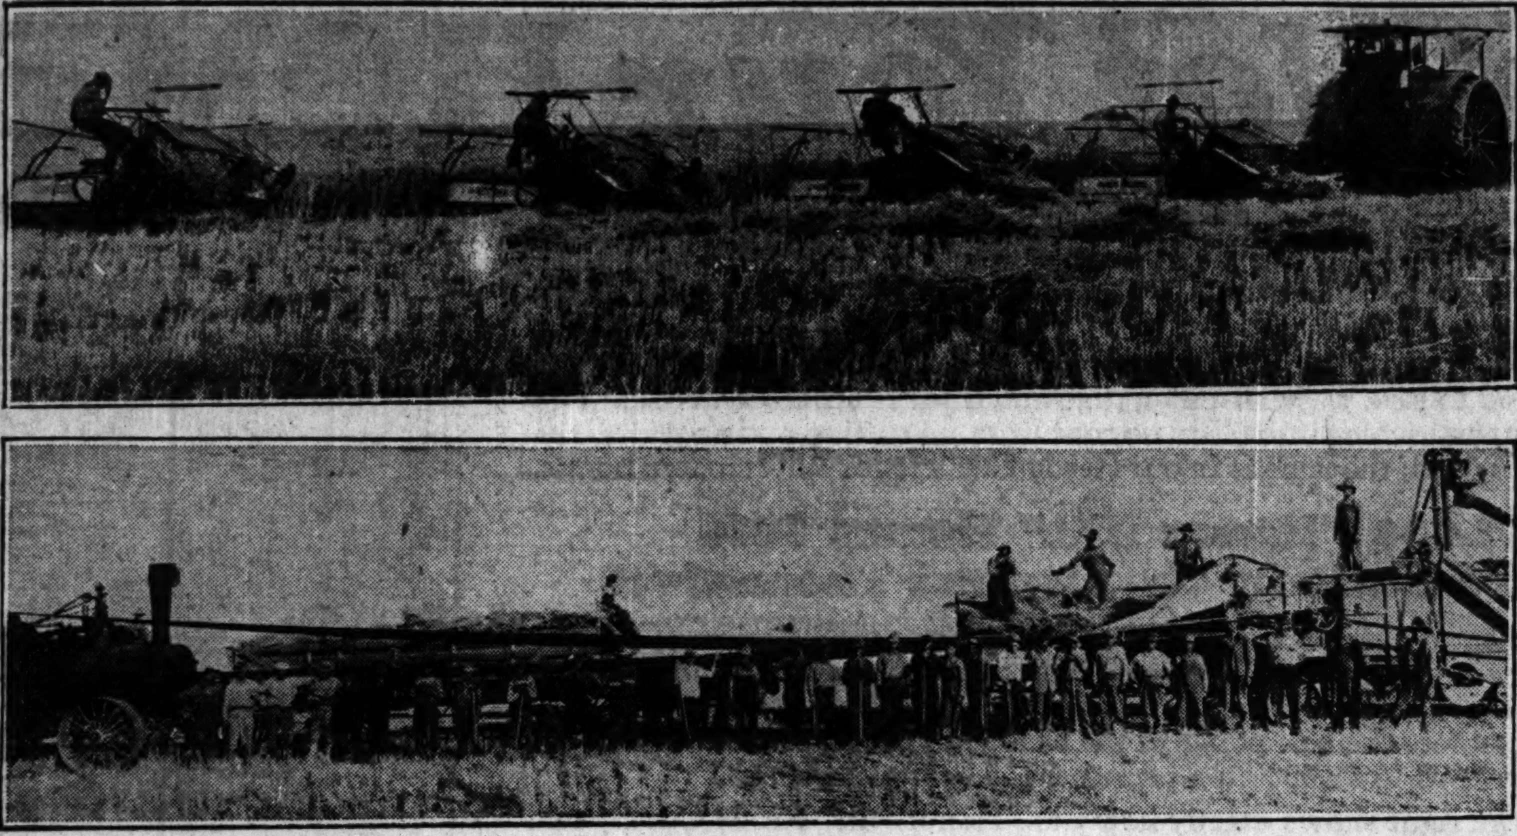
Eleven men from the United States department of agriculture went out to Montana last summer to study the Campbell method and went away satisfied that it is practicable. M. L. Wilson, head of the federal department of farm economics, says it will do more to solve the great economic problem in farm labor than anything that has been developed in the last fifty years. Agricultural economists from the universities of California and Wisconsin and Columbia university say that the Campbell scheme is the most revolutionary thing in farming since the invention of the grain binder.

Helping the Farmer.

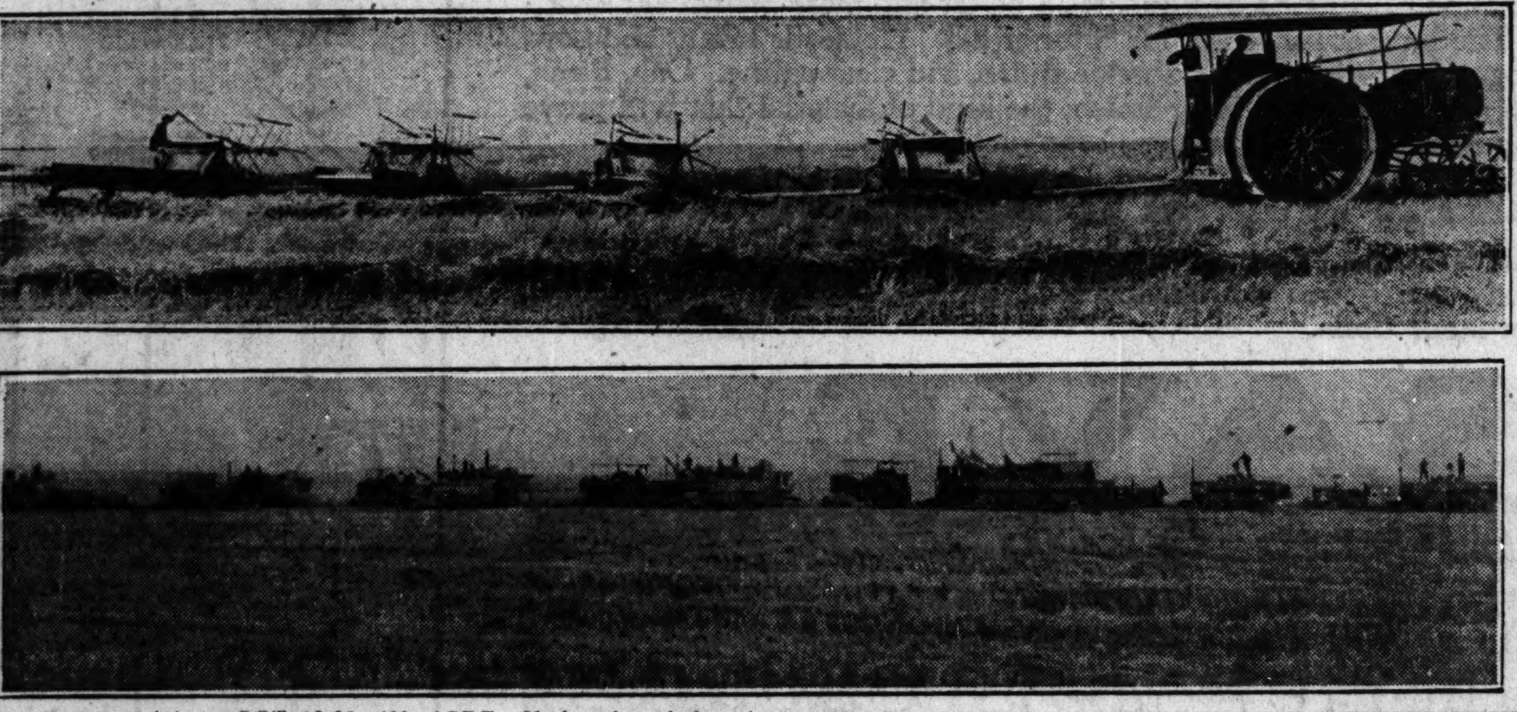
"It is evident that the only way to get farmers out of their troubles is to reduce the cost of production," said Mr. Campbell. "There is only one way to do it. Farming is ninety-five per cent engineering. Few farmers have enough equipment to do their work when it should be done. That's why I say farming is a type of contract with a time limit, a bonus, and penalty clause. Every part of our cropping operations must be done at the proper time, and if not, the farmer may have inestimable losses from weather alone. Farmers must save what they raise, and hold down their costs of production. Every manufacturer in the United States, when he has a surplus or has to meet competition in marketing, must either reduce his cost of production or ask for a tariff. He has done both."

Mr. Campbell, who owns 10,000 acres of land in addition to operating 85,000 acres on the Crowe Indian reservation, believes his time saving method of harvesting and thrashing will soon become generally used throughout this country on both large and small farms.

MAN'S LATEST TRIUMPH IN HARVESTING



OLD WAY:—COST $4.50 AN ACRE—Laborious, time-killing, dollar-eating method of cutting, binding, shocking, and thrashing grain is shown in the above pictures, taken on the 85,000 acres of Crowe Indian reservation wheat land operated by Thomas D. Campbell, Hardin, Mont. It requires a man on each binder, a tractor operator and an army of harvesters to shock and thrash the grain. The cost from the standing grain to the grain box is $2 an acre more than under Campbell's new system, told in pictures below.



NEW WAY:—COST $2.50 AN ACRE—Under the windrow method of harvesting and thrashing grain Campbell has thrown away patented knotters, twine and dozens of men, cutting costs nearly half. The two pictures above show how four ten foot, headless binders cut the grain, lay it unbound in windrows 40 feet apart to be picked up later by a hay loader that pours it into a combination harvester (shown in the bottom picture), putting grain under shelter ten days earlier than the ordinary method. One man operates the train of four binders; four men and two combines do the work of the great army of thirty-six men shown with the stationary thrasher above.

DOUBLE CAPITAL OF LABOR HOME BUILDING FIRM

Steamfitters, Plumbers' Row Waxes Hot.

BY THOMAS WREN.

CHARLES M. PAULSEN.

The business of financing home building for Chicago's army of organized wage earners is continuing at a rapid pace through the fall months and prospects are the pace will continue through the winter season if the weather is not too inclement, according to Charles M. Paulsen, president of the Illinois Federation corporation.

In little less than six months of actual operation this company financed approximately $100,000 worth of home building for Chicago trade unionists, according to Mr. Paulsen, who is also president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 134.

"We make one specific demand when a person is seeking a loan, and that requires all construction to be on a 100 per cent union basis," he explained.

"There has been such a demand for the service of the company that the authorized capital has been increased to $1,100,000, double the original figure. With labor's mortgage finance company now functioning on a well systematized basis, we now have a financial institution, formed for and by union labor, operating successfully.

An Aid to Labor.

"There is no mystery about the handling of money. The principles that govern finance and business are as standardized as the method of laying bricks. And the cardinal principle is that real estate and real estate mortgages are the safest, the best, and in the long run the most profitable of all investments.

"The Illinois Federation corporation was formed in the belief that union labor is competent to manage its own funds. We intend to build the largest and most conservative institution in this country and have it owned and operated by workers."

It is considered in labor circles—both locally and nationally—that the officialdom of local 134 of Chicago electricians is among the most capable and efficient in the nation's organized labor movement. Several of these officials are engaged in directing the activities of the Illinois Federation corporation, hence the confidence of the trade unionists in the institution.

An Old Dispute.

Dating back nearly three decades ago there arose a jurisdictional argument between the steamfitters and plumbers. The dispute of late has caused several tieups on Chicago construction. In some cases one trade would tear down the piping installed by the other and then proceed with a reinstallation of the same.

A frolicsome time was had by all with the exception of the owner, who had to foot the bill. Both plumbers and steamfitters belong to the same international organization, and as such the dispute between them is not a matter for the national board of jurisdictional awards to settle.

FRANK DE LUGACH BUYS TEN ACRES FOR SUBDIVISION

Frank De Lugach has purchased from Charles E. and Frances E. Patrick of California approximately ten acres of property in Evergreen Park for a reported price of $30,000. The property begins about two blocks west of Western avenue at 96th street and runs to California avenue on the west and one block south. This tract is partly improved and Mr. De Lugach proposes to subdivide it at once under the name of Western Avenue View subdivision.

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE

All that Insulation means

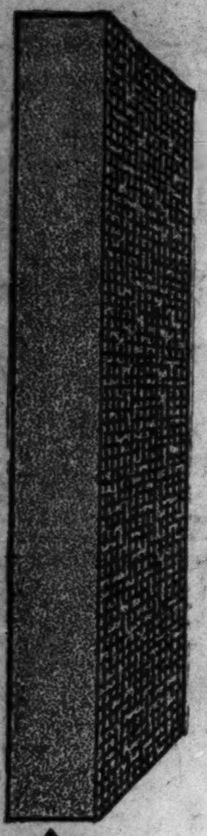
Insulite

does!



I

INSULITE is all wood—half an inch thick—and comes in beautifully finished, rigid flat boards of proper sizes for easy handling. Your labor costs are reduced with INSULITE. It takes the place of other materials, so you have its insulating value at little if any extra expense.

I

Used as plaster base, it gives you smoother walls—free from lath marks—less liable to crack than when lath is under the plaster. The plaster base is ship-lapped to insure tight joints. A burlap texture gives INSULITE great charm as a wall board where plaster is not desired—for finishing the attic, basement rooms, or other parts of the house.

The time has come to tell the facts about building insulation. There is nothing "new" about it. INSULITE is no recent discovery. For sixteen years this all-wood insulation has been proving its ability to resist heat and cold—save fuel—withstand moisture—and give buildings added strength, rigidity and comfort. So there need be no confusion as to how to get the highest efficiency of insulation, in a product that serves also as a building material.

MOST owners and builders now want insulation; they know they need it—that they must have it if their homes and other buildings are to give the comfort and economical efficiency that insulation alone will provide.

There are products used as building materials and called "insulations" that are not real insulating materials at all. There are others having some insulating value, but without strength and stability.

What was needed was a combination of high insulating value and structural strength. This double service was welcomed by builders sixteen years ago in INSULITE. Ever since, it has been successfully used as sheathing, plaster base and wall board, also giving the genuine insulating service that saves fuel—keeps houses warmer in winter and cooler in summer—prevents moisture condensation—safeguards health.

That was the solution of the building insulation problem; that was the great insulation discovery—sixteen years ago.

A Felted Wood Fibre Insulation

Wood in its natural state has some insulating qualities, but not sufficient. So the makers of INSULITE put remarkable insulation value into the natural wood by separating the fibres of sturdy spruce and then felting those long, tough fibres together in great, rigid, half-inch boards—much lighter than natural wood, therefore having the necessary insulating efficiency, and stronger than the originals.

The Bureau of Standards—highest authority of all—says that INSULITE ranks first in manufactured insulation. In addition to that, INSULITE takes the place of ordinary wood sheathing—it is used under plaster instead of lath—it is a beautiful wall board finish where plastering is not required—it is the ideal roofing insulation, whether for residences or in big industrial installations—it is a wonderful silencer for walls, ceilings, and floors—at little if any added cost.

The coming of INSULITE solved big problems sixteen years ago.

Its use as sheathing, as plaster base, as roof lining under or over the rafters, as wall board, for finishing the otherwise cold and heat-wasting attic, will actually save from one-fourth to one-third of your fuel bills.

You do not need to wait until you build to enjoy its advantages. If your present attic is open and exposed, a lot of your fuel money is escaping through the roof. Line your attic with INSULITE—make a room out of it—and your saving will be immediately noticeable.

INSULITE is sold by good lumber dealers. Ask your dealer, architect or contractor about it.

THE INSULITE COMPANY, Minneapolis, Minnesota

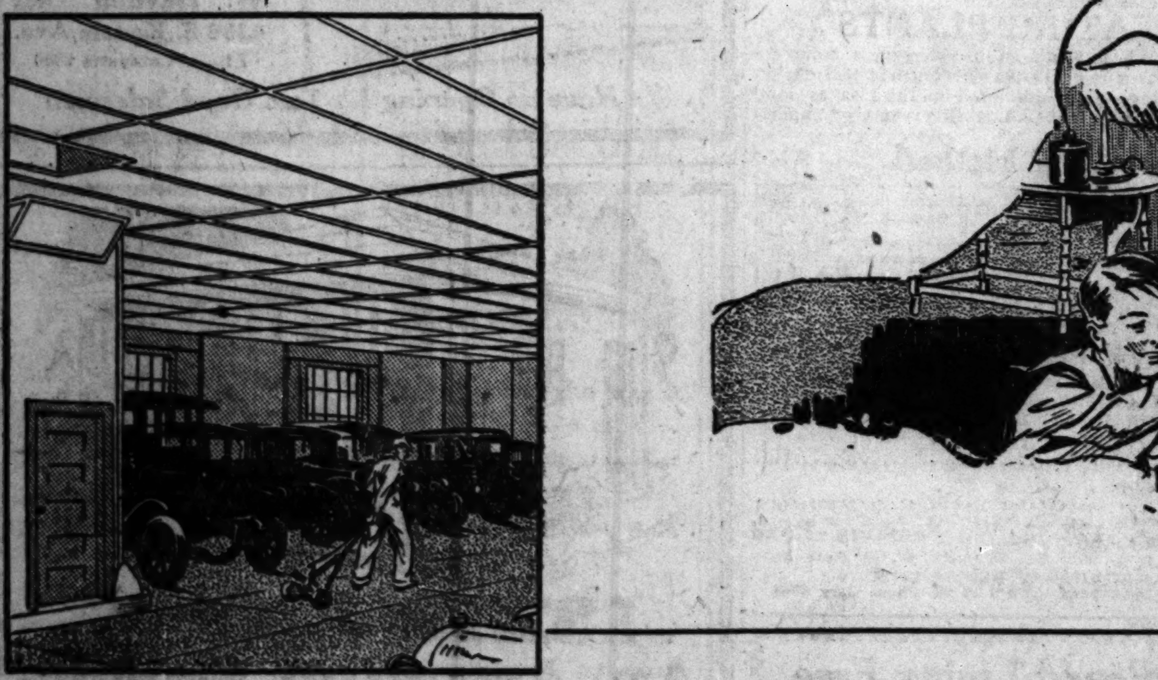
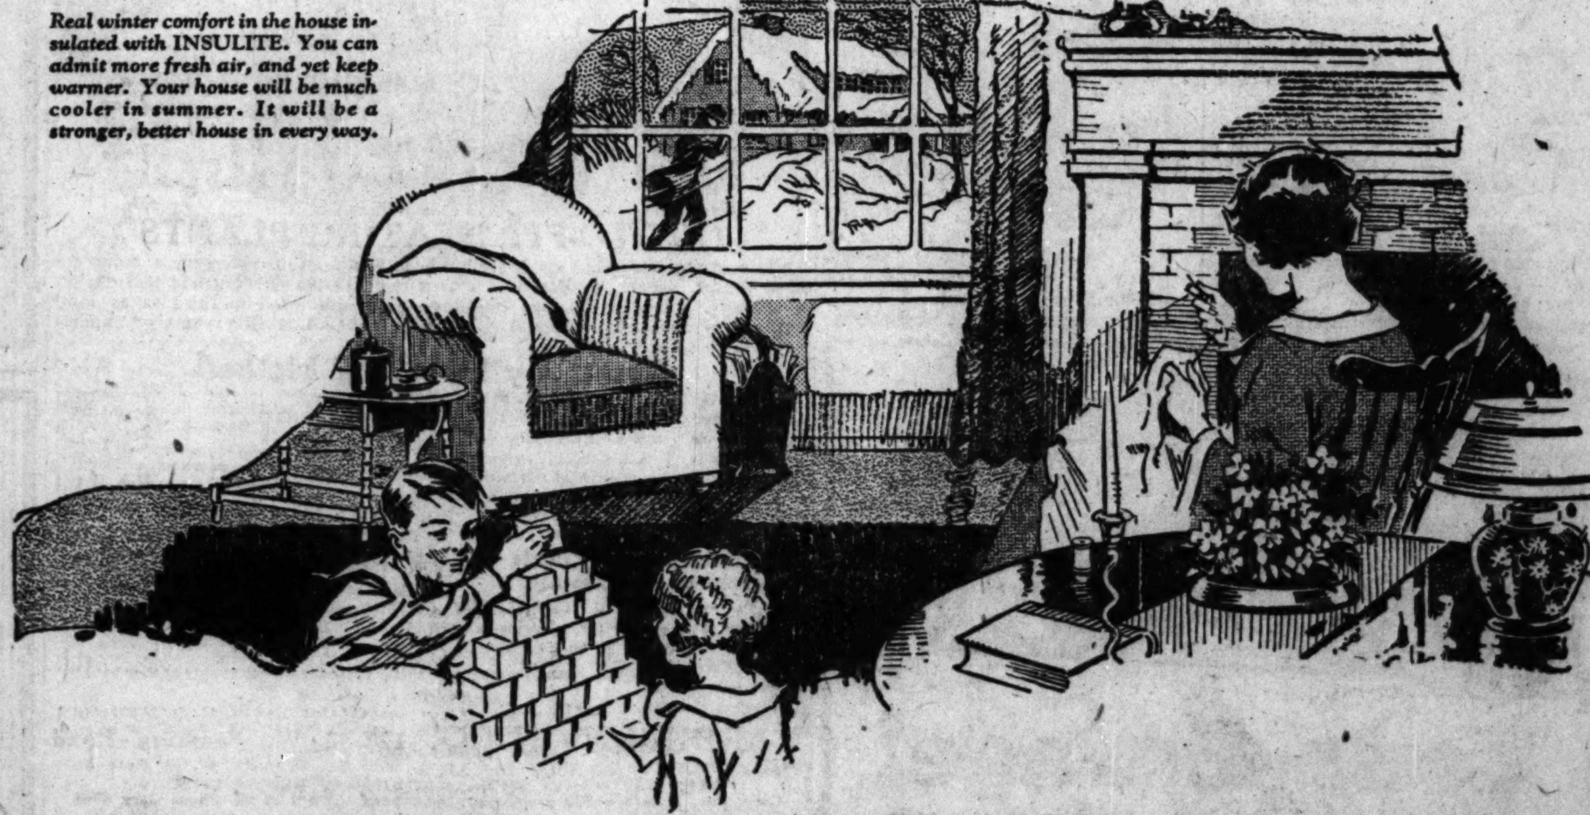
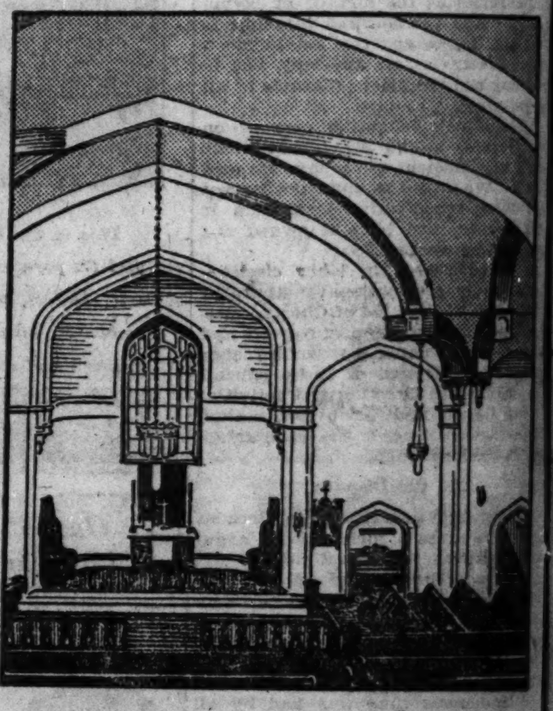
INSULITE makes better atmospheric conditions in all types of buildings. Moisture is a serious problem where there are swimming pools and baths, in dyeing and dry cleaning establishments, laundries, and many other industrial plants. INSULITE prevents condensation of moisture in such places—prevents dripping—keeps walls and ceilings in good condition.

In low buildings like garages, ceiling insulation is very important. In all types of buildings the greatest heat wastes are at the top; because hot air naturally rises. Every ceiling and roof should be insulated with INSULITE. It is a great fuel saver. Its extra cost (if any) is paid back many times over.



Real winter comfort in the house insulated with INSULITE. You can admit more fresh air, and yet keep warmer. Your house will be much cooler in summer. It will be a stronger, better house in every way.





For acoustical correction in churches, chapels, theatres, public halls, and other places where the matter of acoustics is of importance, INSULITE solves the problem. It is giving successful service in some of the finest structures. As a silencer for walls, ceilings and floors it should be used in buildings of all types.

Every city home—every farm home—should be insulated with INSULITE. There are many other uses on the farm—in the garage, stock barn, poultry and hog houses, milk rooms, fruit and vegetable rooms, etc. In all such places, it prevents excessive cold in winter, keeps out heat in summer, and insures healthier, more wholesome conditions wherever applied.

MAIDEN MEDITATIONS by Sara Moore

Excelsior.

"College women always attach themselves to the superior groups in any community." — Magazine article.

Ambition well may agitate
The girl who would be graduate
From some co-educational (nice) university.
Propinquity may oft inspire
To raise one's standards spire on spire
When fate and enterprise conspire
Toward M.R.S. degree.

In school, in a sorority,
To snub the crass majority
And be select minority
Insures futurity.
An expert statistician proves
The college woman always moves
In safe and sane, well chosen grooves
With hand-picked company.

So I shall go collegiate
And give my low brow beaux the the gate.
As M. A. or A. B.
The future, I well calculate,
Has joys one can't exaggerate
In having (I anticipate)
The RIGHT folks in to tea!

The Age of Specialization.

I never swat a golf ball for a silver trophy cup;
On tennis courts I always score in "love."
The nags I ride are gentle brutes; I own a mongrel pup;
I lack both social graces—push and shove.
But mine is popularity that lasts all through the year,
Though champions may crowd each country club.
As audience I fill a need. I lend a listening ear,
And specialize as super-expert Dub.

Experience Counts.

Young love is easy love,
One falls right through it;
First love is breezy love—
Folks hop right to it.

Next time experience
Moves one more slowly;
Love comes, with reverence,
Thoughtfully, soully.

Hard is the third affair
(One guards burnt fingers),
Faith in life's loveliness
Wistfully lingers.

But when one's fourth love
Passes so lightly,
One hopes that those to come
ALL will be sprightly.

Makeup Creates Individuality . . . by Antoinette Donnelly

The Trend of the Chic Continental Woman Is Away from the Stereotyped Pattern and Toward the Uniquely Personal

DOROTHY DULIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Keep out of a stereotyped pattern.

This is the current aim of every woman, whether born a chic Parisienne or hoping to die one. Which, undoubtedly, is the reason one sees few of the dead-white faces with vermilion lips that a season or two ago were overwhelmingly evident. One still sees this makeup, but only occasionally, and invariably on the prototype of the individual that originally launched the mode believing it made her still more deadly than the other species.

Neither does one observe so much of the "gypsy" makeup that led many a good blonde astray in other days. There simply is not one outstanding style in facial artifice, for the good reason that individuality is being striven for at the moment, whether in the flower you wear on your coat lapel or the one you wear on your face.

The shingle vogue is still in high favor, but it is softened into lovely lines in harmony with the personality of the wearer. No uncompromising fashion dictates its mode, as in other seasons. It was not so long ago that almost everybody wore the same expression of inane surprise, attained by the attenuated line of eyebrow. Following a common mode is passé. Now you wear your hair, your eyebrows, and your paint and powder as becomingly to your very own face as you and it can manage between you.

Woman in general is trying to work herself out of the phase of monotonous uniformity because of the dawning realization that much of her power and even more of her fascination lies in the free exercise of her individuality. The French woman learned that secret long ago. And she applied it not only to her dress but also to the application of her cosmetics. What if she did not look exactly natural after she had completed the eye-shading job? It wasn't nature she was trying to imitate, anyway. It was individuality she was striving for, she'd tell you. Nature at its best wouldn't serve her half so well as being just a little different.

Gaining Individuality.

The question, then, is not what color of powder or paint is she using this year, but how in the narrow circumference of a face can she acquire that individuality of which we speak.

For one thing, if she is clever and rich enough she has a color expert blend shades until she has one that is hers and hers only. Or if she is clever and has a good color sense herself, she blends her own, which is more often the case. Many of the beauty shops mix special powders for each of their important clients. Rarely is a color applied "raw," because it is almost impossible to find a skin that is "white," or "pink," or "ochre." Mixing a dash of white, another dash of pink and a sprinkling of ochre you are promised a better match for certain skins. Or, again, for a slightly different tone of skin a pale flesh, a strong rose and a tiny bit of mauve may secure the exact coloring for you.

These mixtures you cannot lay down any set rules about. With the dozen or so standard colorings there are a hundred different color combinations to be arrived at by the simple procedure of experimenting, and out of the experiment you are expected to get something peculiarly your own.

Powder wardrobes are being launched now and woman is being taught to have her complete kit for making up eyes, plus several shades of rouge, powder and lip stick, suitable for daytime and night wear. The powder wardrobe may comprise a half dozen different shades, chosen to blend in with the wearer's skin, with her particular gowns and with a different tone for different occasions. The theory is, of course, that certain shades of dress or color in a hat will alter the coloring of the skin. Say a brilliant shade of blue will throw the tone of the skin up a few shades clearer; it would not be wise to use powder that defeats the becomingness of the blue. Or there are shades of gray and pink in dress materials that give the impression of another shade to the skin. Your powder wardrobe, then, must contribute just the necessary dash of color. There are certain colors in dress that make the skin look darker, and the right cosmetic has to be used to brighten it.

Light Powders for Evening.

There is one general rule, however, about powders. For daytime wear a darker shade is advised than for wear under electric lights. If a brown-tan color is worn in the day, a light yellowish ochre is advised for showing under lights. If a deep rose is worn in the day, a bright flesh is recommended for night wear.

One thing I'm told by these cosmetic experts is that woman should use on her neck a lighter powder than she applies to her face. Few women have the identical shade of skin on their necks that they have on their faces, is one reason advanced. Another is that shadows thrown by lights affect the color, and, again, a good chin line is thrown into clearer relief with the lighter powder.

French eyes are made up more blatantly than the eyes of any other woman under the sun. Peering out from under the brim of her close fitting hat the French woman's eyes look—well, naughty, if not positively wicked. The much exploited national economy is not exercised noticeably on the "fard hindou" or whatever other eyelid shading she fancies. The color of the eye is followed in choosing this shading, but always it is applied to give depth, brilliancy, and "interest" to the eye itself.

Rouge in Salve Form.

Rouge in salve form for the hour before the dressing table appears to be most popular over here. It is advocated for the lips as well. Of course, the compact lipstick and rouge box is essential in the woman's vanity case, as the salve is not convenient to carry.

I notice many have tiny raggedy powder puffs tucked away in a flap of the small folded bags, and these are used in preference to the powder compact. Also, I see the same frankness about subduing the shine on an oily nose or cheek as we are familiar with back home. And the vanities produced for the operation are exquisite and varying from a tiny silk folder embroidered in brilliants to the most luxuriously ornate affair inlaid with diamonds and pearls.

The eyebrow line, as already remarked, has evolved from that outre and sophisticated line to something more radically becoming to every woman. The natural line is assumed to be best for the general effect of the face to which it belongs. The fuller, broader line gives mystery and depth to the eyes. If nature has played any unkind trick—for instance, given no outline at all to the eyebrow, or adorned a brow with fierce beetling brows—a little extraneous aid is advised.

The prevailing mode of wearing the hair brushed off the forehead renders the question of eyebrow culture of importance and the same care which is bestowed by the well groomed woman on her coiffure to make it smooth and symmetrical should also be extended to the brows. A moistened brush is kept handy to train the hairs to lie flat and their shape is guided into the tapering line of beauty consistent with the contour of the eyes. The old fashioned mixture, glycerin and rosewater, still is in favor for training the obstinate hairs, and the cultivated line of eyebrow is full toward the inner edge, tapering off gently to a point beyond the outer eye edge.

An eyebrow may contribute in no small way to the personality of the individual. Vivacity, thought, charm may be expressed in this feature. Also, a whimsical outlook, a kindly one, a serious viewpoint or a humorous one may be read from the line of eyebrow. A study of the character makeup of theatrical stars gives one a clew to the important part the brows play in indicating the kind of person that is being portrayed.

Sickroom Etiquette - - - - By Persis Standish

Unless They Use Discretion Friends Can Be More of a Nuisance than a Solace When You Are Ill.

Persis Standish will answer questions of all kinds on etiquette, manners, and politeness. Self-addressed, stamped envelopes must accompany each request for information. Send your letters to Persis Standish, Sunday Department Chicago Tribune.

SOME time ago it was customary for one who was ill to take to her bed, or rather to whose ever bed was in the best front room, and then have the neighbors in to talk over her illness and tell for hours on end about all the ailments flesh is heir to and how they afflicted every one in the vicinity for three-gone generations.

Some of the more kindly disposed visitors brought with them large covered dishes containing the favorite indigestible of the indisposed as an offering for the next meal. Some came in groups and exhaled carbonic acid gas into the already vitiated atmosphere (for, mind you, windows were kept down lest a cold be added to other miseries). The more social remained to talk to the doctor when he should appear and maybe tell him how Uncle Pete was cured of the same ailment by a home remedy after medical aid had failed.

The family vied with the friends to make illness enjoyable by crowding about the bedside and rubbing the sufferer's head with eau de Cologne, or by fanning the flies away. O, it was a gay life and once you were down every kindly soul did his best to keep you there! Even the doctors helped, for they, too, had inherited the superstitions of darkly sentimental Victorian days.

How much better it is now—how infinitely more enlightened is the course that sends the sufferer to a hospital, where she can have adequate care, scientific diet, and rest.

That Illusive Thing—Rest.

Rest, did you say? Alas, for your illusions! The day is indeed more enlightened. Almost all doctors are free minded, almost all nurses are well trained, almost all hospital food is at least well balanced (however unappetizing), but human nature is unchangeable. Unless the nurse on the case is a good policeman the patient is still being gassed with carbonic acid and treated to gruesome recitals of illness and death.

Look at the little story that happened to a sweet friend of mine who lately was put in the hospital for a rest cure.

She was not, you see, in any particular pain; she had no definite diet, and her doctor, fearing she would become bored before he had rested her sufficiently, allowed her to have her friends visit her. She did not need a nurse, of course, and the only thing she had to do on schedule was to eat her meals and take a tepid bath lasting at least twenty minutes. The doctor told her mother she might bring the daughter delicacies from home and the mother spread the news!

So far, so good! But my young friend is young and fascinating and popular. She has a host of friends. One day her bridge club met and in the kindness of the members' hearts they resolved to entertain her. They went in groups of threes to give her the pleasure of a bridge game every afternoon, and not only that but they brought refreshments. My friend told me the tepid bath was taken as late as 11 o'clock at night and that her meals were never eaten because "everybody brings so much to eat." About the third time the bridgers came they were fortunately apprehended by the doctor. He grew wrathy and evicted them. Several of them are still miffed about the matter, and my friend says they are displaying a certain coldness to her.

Policing a Sick Room.

My sympathies are with the doctor. A member of my family was ordered to the hospital with extreme suddenness once and for several days we could not get a nurse. I had to be the policeman and I know what a job it is. All sorts of well intentioned people, including the floor nurse, came in and told about people who had lost their life and limb from just the same infection the patient was suffering from. In desperation I got a "Do Not Disturb" sign and hung it on the door. It did not work and before I was through I wished I could have moved my patient into a ward where the visiting hours are strict and he would only have ten or twelve, instead of fifty or sixty people to annoy him.

I know some one else who is in the hospital for observation. Her wise doctor said, "Now, you needn't tell your friends where you are. You may not be here long, and I want you to get the benefit of the rest as well as the diagnosis."

I suppose you are about ready after reading this far (if you have had so much patience) to say, "But this woman forgets that visiting the sick is one of the real works of mercy." Indeed I do not forget it. No one knows better than I how welcome is a bright beloved face at the door of a sick room. I've been there, you see, but also I had to stay in hospital a week longer because of a flighty woman who got into an argument with another at my bedside. Up went the pulse and the doctor didn't know why and I couldn't tell him for certain that excitment had done the trick.

Visiting the sick is a beautiful and a noble and happy work, but it must be done with discretion and the best intentioned visitors are aften the most harmful. That is why I want to tell you here what common sense and etiquette have to say about visiting the sick.

Employing Discretion.

First of all, never visit any one who is ill, before noon, unless you are especially invited, because in the morning the patient is extremely busy. First there is the face washing and teeth washing. Then breakfast, and then any number of things like the x-ray room, the floroscope, the metabolism test and so on, not to mention the bath and the cleaning of the room, during which, of course, visitors are not welcome.

Next, never go in the early after noon because that is the time that is quietest and most conducive to a nap. Two-thirty or three o'clock are the earliest possible hours for visiting. Next, do not say long. Even when the patient is feeling chipper, do not chance tiring him out. From half to three quarters of an hour is long enough unless you are told by the doctor you may stay longer. Remember you are not the only visitor and if every one who came stayed even that long the day would soon be lined with visiting. Should the doctor appear while you are in the patient's room, arise immediately and take your leave. If another visitor comes while you are there do not stay more than five or ten minutes after his arrival.

Do not bring food unless you have ascertained that it is on the diet list and will be welcome. It is needless to say that no one should ever sit on a sick bed. Do not talk of illness, death or any depressing subjects. Of course, never ask for any details of the patient's condition unless they are given you. Then make no comments on the greater skill of your favorite doctor. It is an unpardonable sick room sin to criticize the physician in charge of a case and there is probably nothing you could do that would be worse for the patient.

Do not go to visit the sick in groups. Two at a time is the limit of processions.

Pollyannas Are Taboo.

Do not be a Pollyanna. The patient is not half witted just because he is in bed. If you tell him he looks as well as he ever did he will not believe you and he is apt to think he must look very badly and that you are trying to cheer him unduly. Of course, never talk in a loud voice or laugh loudly in a sick room.

If you go at night you may go as early as seven thirty because the evening meal [I refrain from that good word "dinner"] is served before six in hospitals and the early evening is long and lonesome in consequence. Never stay later than nine thirty, and when you go out go as softly as possible, for to one ill, all sound is exaggerated and a step in the hall can be as annoying as an explosion to a well person.

If your devotion to the sufferer suggests that you go every day, do not stay more than fifteen minutes at each visit. Follow these rules and your visits to the sick will be the blessings they should be.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well-known authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and logy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. Drink lots of soft water.

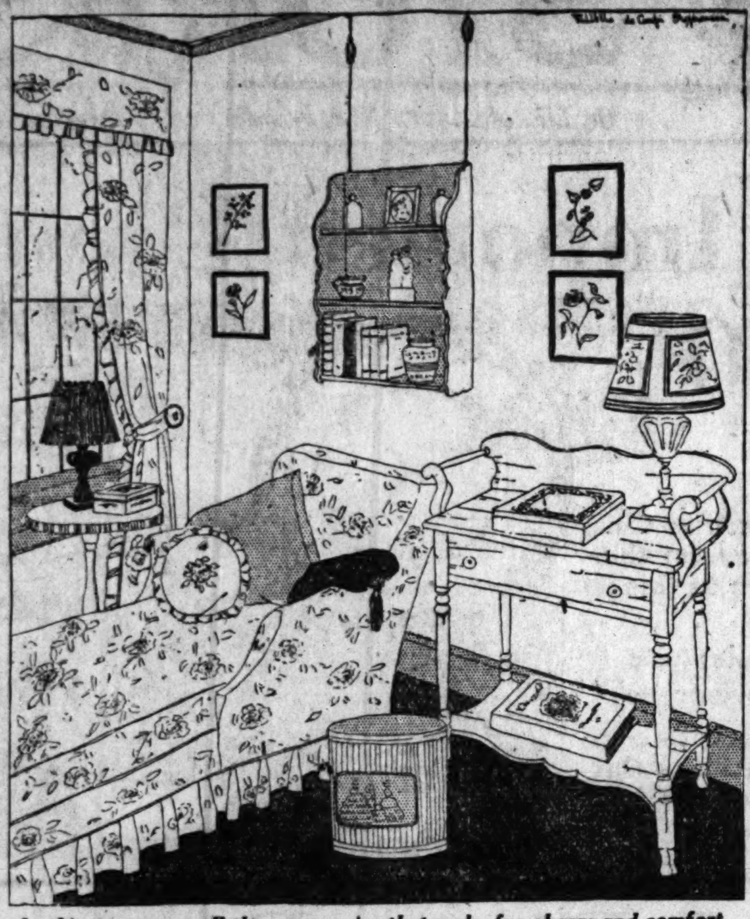
The HOME HARMONIOUS

By Anita de Campi

Clever Fingers Can Fashion a Lamp Shade, a Taffeta or Lace Pillow, or a Robe for a Chaise Longue—Any One of Which Would Make an Acceptable Christmas Gift

Nearly 2,500 architects and draftsmen, representing every state in the union, have entered The Tribune's Small Homes competition. This project has been launched to interest the best of architects in the beautifying of small homes. Rich prizes will be awarded for the best designs, and the prize efforts of the contestants will be available for Tribune readers who wish to incorporate the best architectural ideas in homes of modest price. The complete program of the competition will be sent to any architect or architectural draftsman upon application to The Tribune Small Homes Competition, Tribune Tower, Chicago.



In this corner are all the accessories that make for charm and comfort.

NEVER before has such a great number of varied accessories been offered for the decoration of the home. Many of them, in addition to being wonderfully effective, are delightfully easy to make. With Christmas drawing near, it is none too soon to be getting gift plans into definite order. Those of us who are a bit clever with our fingers may make no end of lovely things. Friends always doubly appreciate gifts which have been created especially for them. Then, too, it is such fun to play with the scraps of paper, dabs of paint, etc., which may be evolved into fascinating gifts. Any decorative touch to add to the enjoyment of the home simply cannot go amiss as a Christmas present.

Lamp shades make useful as well as ornamental gifts. Every one has lamps, and there is hardly one who would not welcome the change effected by a new and decorative shade. Taking a trip through a specialty shop recently I noted many interesting shades which the industrious woman might easily make at home. One which was particularly chic was cubical in shape, the four sides made of four fantastical French fashion plates, parchmentized so that the light shines through the colors clearly. The top of the cube is filled in with a piece of plain white parchment, and the corners and edges of the shade are bound with narrow, flat, black and gold braid. The shade fits on a delicate, carved wooden table lamp, which is stained black and touched with gold. A similar shade could be made of four Godey fashion plates, or four old flower prints, their measurement taken, and a wire shape or frame, ordered from any art supply house, or the untrimmed shade section of almost any large department store. Completed, it is sure to make that "different" gift which every one loves to give and to receive.

Somewhat easier to make, in that they are partially made to begin with, are parchment shades on which decorative motifs may be applied. Round parchment shades, in conical or drum shape, may be bought in almost any size. These are of plain parchment, attached to a wire frame by means of passepartout, or flat braid binding. They may be left white, or stained a rich, brownish yellow tone. And then for the decoration! First of all, of course, they may be painted with decorative designs. But those of us who cannot paint may resort to other means. We may have an interesting panel, an old color print, a copy of an antique map, a quaint oval silhouette, or a few floral motifs cut from wall paper. Any one of these should light up well. They may be placed against a parchment shade, a fine pencil line drawn around the edge, and then the parchment inside the line cut away, allowing about a quarter of an inch all the way around, to which the decoration may be firmly glued after the parchment beneath has been cut out. In applying wall paper motifs the parchment need not first be cut away. A band or two of color, matching those in the decoration may be painted around the top and bottom. If a glazed finish is desired, the whole may be shellacked with one or two coats, the second coat resulting in a higher gloss than that given by the first.

For a change from parchment, marbleized paper, tinted pink, light green or yellow, makes interesting shades, especially for use in formal hallways, on marble topped console tables. Appropriate, too for a pewter or tôle lamp, on a man's table desk are drum shaped shades made of tin. Some of these are painted plain, bright enamel, repeating one of the colors in the room, and others are enameled black and decorated with dignified, formal designs.

Extra cushions for living or bedroom use are acceptable gifts which are easy to make at home. The scrap bag fills the need here, with its bits of bright silks and other odds and ends. Delightful for use in the living room are small, triangular cushions which may be tucked into the corners of chairs or davenport. They are just the right size to snuggle under the head for a moment's relaxation or during the enjoyment of the latest good book. Black taffeta or satin, piped with some bright color, will fit in with practically any color scheme. The scrap bag, of course, is sure to afford many pleasing combinations.

All sorts of tiny cushions may be made for the chaise longue, which is so inevitable in bedrooms today. Light and lacey bits of fluff, they look for all the world like a heap of luscious bonbons. Pastel shades of silk, under allover lace, with a lacey frill around the edge, cover cushions in round, oval, oblong, or heart shape. Taffeta, quilted, flowered, in soft toned stripes or in plain colors, bound with shirred ribbon, makes many small cushions interesting. Others are done in lace dyed to match some of the colors of the room. Another lovely accessory for chaise longue use is the couvre-pied. One fascinating one which I have seen is used on a rose colored chaise longue. It is made of two thicknesses of deep, rich rose silk rep with a lightweight wool interlining, which gives it just the right heft. About two inches in from the edge a three-quarter inch turquoise blue and silver ribbon is sewed. Narrow ecru lace is shirred on at each side of the ribbon, making a lovely border all around.

In today's illustration several interesting accessories are shown. The chaise longue has a slip cover of chintz matching the window draperies. One little round cushion, made of mauve rep, with a turquoise blue ruffled edge, is decorated with flowers embroidered in worsteds. The large, square cushion is of rose rep, piped with mauve, and black sateen makes the third one, which is finished with a gay, many colored worsted tassel at each end.

On the little round table beside the chaise longue is a brass lamp with an accordion plaited, glazed chintz shade. A wooden box is painted old blue and decorated with decalcomania flowers. Unfinished hanging shelves may be bought and painted in a color to harmonize with the scheme of the room. The one shown today is mauve on the outside, with turquoise blue inside. It is a happy convenience for holding a few chosen books and bits of colorful pottery. Flower prints, framed in plain black frames, make an interesting set. On the glass lamp is a white parchment shade, with bands of color and nicely proportioned floral panels.

A large flat box, decorated with a motif cut from wall paper, is neatly effective in keeping together all sorts of small odds and ends. Turquoise blue oilcloth, with a painted design on the front, makes a convenient folio for a group of magazines. The wastepaper basket is made of heavy pasteboard covered with striped wallpaper. An old fashioned plate gives it a finishing touch of interest, and the whole piece is shellacked.

Strange Weddings

Have you ever seen a wedding so outlandish that it upset all your ideas of the traditional ceremony? Some marriages are foreign and quaint in their adherence to ancient customs; others are ultra modern in their haphazard speed and unconventionality. The Tribune would like to know the story of the strangest wedding you've ever seen. We will pay $1 for every letter published. Address: Strange Weddings, Chicago Tribune.

Bordering on Tragedy.

The strangest wedding I ever saw was, to me, a bit more of a tragedy than romance.

I was introduced to a man one night that set my heart a-flutter. That was quickly squelched, for he was soon telling me all about his fiancée.

We became the best of pals. We went hiking, swimming, dancing, and picnicking together, everything being strictly platonic.

I soon realized he was the "one and only" for me, but never let him know.

He faithfully wrote his girl about me and called me a "splendid pal." She wrote me a sweet letter, asking me to be her bridesmaid, as she was an orphan, and he liked me.

He was so pleased and there was no reason for refusing—so I traveled with him to her aunt's home up north.

I helped her with last minute preparations. I watched them repeat the vows that made them man and wife, and I sent them on their honeymoon with kisses.

I am regarded as their best friend. Their tiny baby girl is named for me—and they've never guessed. I'm still single, for it is a sort of tragedy to be a bridesmaid to the girl who is marrying the only man you've ever loved.

Eye Language.

Passing through a small town one day, I noticed an open church and stopped in to see what was going on. It happened to be a wedding and the minutes before the wedding, was at the pulpit, not caring whether his bride came or not. Fifteen minutes after the times set for the wedding the bride came straggling in. The ceremony was performed, the bride and the bridegroom taking it all as a huge joke.

A few days later I found out from a friend that the bride and the bridegroom had been married about two minister was in a quandary.

The couple had come to him unexpectedly and they did not speak his language nor he theirs. Even the bride and groom spoke different languages and found it hard to understand each other.

Luckily, I knew a little of all three—English, German, and Norwegian—so I offered my services, and the ceremony was finally performed.

Later on I cornered the groom and asked him how he had managed to propose, under the circumstances, and how he had made sure that wife loved him.

"O," he said, "that was easy; I look at Katerina and Katerina look at me and VE know."

C. G. P.

To Please Father.

I attended a strange wedding indeed last week. The bridegroom, fifteen months before, and at Crown Point. On their return the bridegroom's father decided the bridegroom must go through the ceremony again. The latter, not wanting to displease his father, did as ordered, only he didn't do it quite so ceremoniously as he should have.

M. S.

On a Station Platform.

The strangest wedding I ever saw happened some years ago in Florida on a station platform. The bride was in her night dress covered with a coat; the groom in overalls holding a red lantern for light. All arrangements had been made, as the train had only a stop of a few minutes.

The girl did not have time to dress, as she was being watched closely by her father, as she was only 16. She had been made to retire early, so all she could do was to grab her coat, jump out the window and run for the station, making it just in time.

The groom continued on his "run." The bride went back to bed.

MRS. C. S.

Kept Her Word.

One night, on the impulse of an oft regretted moment, Mary Green promised her semi-invalid mother that she'd never marry any man on the face of the earth.

She did marry the man of her choice, nevertheless, only about a year later—not on the face of the earth, however. They had a lovely wedding among the stalactites and stalagmites' way down in the depths of Mammoth cave, over a hundred feet beneath the surface of the earth.

Brimful of Health

Wide-awake Children Brought up on Father John's Medicine

BECAUSE her mother used it when she was a little girl, Mrs. J. J. Whitney, Melrose, Mass., knows the value of Father John's Medicine and has always used it for her own children now that she is responsible for the health and happiness of a growing family. Mrs. Whitney, like thousands of mothers, has learned to depend on Father John's Medicine when any of the family has a cold or a cough, or has become weak or run down. Its pure food elements build new strength to throw off disease. Its healing properties soothe the throat irritation and it helps to drive out impurities. And do not forget it is guaranteed free from alcohol and dangerous drugs.

Work for the Woman at Home

By Georgia Bayne

The Same Business Sense She Uses in Managing Household Expenses May Be Converted Into Building Up a Profitable Trade by the Stay-at-Home.

THERE are many women in the home with a decided slant for business. If they were thrown upon their own resources through some unexpected turn of adversity and had to go out to earn a living they could do it very creditably, indeed.

This same business faculty is evidenced in hundreds of homes where the wife manages exceptionally well in the disbursement of the family funds among the myriad family needs. It takes judgment and a keen sense of values to superintend the spending of any salary, small or large, so that there is sufficient for needs, a surplus for pleasures, and a definite amount for savings.

The woman who can do this has every right to anticipate returns for any money making enterprise she may start at home. This same business sense with which she manages, or helps to manage, the family budget, will enable her to conduct her own private business conscientiously and wisely.

She will know without being told that she must not charge too much for her services or her wares, because she is competing in most cases with business houses. Nor will she be led into quite as serious an error of charging too little, so that when she comes to count up her gains and her expenses, the latter far outweighs the former.

Again, she will know she must not be ashamed of her private enterprise, whatever it is, for the first essential is the enlightening of her neighbors, and friends, and strangers in the community as to what she is undertaking. They will be her first customers and her best ones, in that they will serve as an excellent advertising medium through which she can eventually widen out into broader fields.

The Home Circulating Library.

One woman I know who was determined to earn some extra money at home, gave over her living room to start a small library. She lived in a suburb which was comparatively new and which had no public or private library of any sort.

She had a children's shelf, and a shelf for used novels which she had at home. She also had a table with current magazines, and she furthermore invested in 25 of the latest novels.

Membership in the library cost 50 cents for grown-ups and 25 cents for children, and 3 cents a day for the use of the books. In this way she did not charge the usual price of such modern circulating libraries, but she figured that she was at no expense for overhead. She would have to heat her living room and light it just the same, if she had no library, and all that she made was clear profit.

Employment Agency.

Securing help in a small town or a suburb is a difficult matter and there are always women who want various kinds of housekeeping aids, either mothers' helpers, or cleaners by the day, permanent maids, or emergency ones.

One woman made it known through cards she had printed and distributed that she would help find jobs for women and girls who wanted to work, and women for housewives who wanted help. This necessitated she get in touch with every available woman in the community who had days in which she could work out. She also unearthed men who would tend furnaces, put on storm windows in winter and screens in summer, wash windows, do small carpentering jobs, etc.

By managing to put the ones who wanted work in touch with those who wanted work done, she built up for herself quite a profitable little agency. She drove her own car so that she could always get in touch with those who had no telephones and who must get messages quickly if they were to secure the available position.

Christmas Card Soliciting.

There is always a field for this in the fall, when so many people are "in the market" for Christmas cards of all kinds.

Here the small town woman has an advantage, for she has numerous acquaintances and friends and people to whom she is known more or less indirectly. She secures a book of sample cards and takes orders, receiving a certain commission for each order from the firm for which she is working.

There are also other articles which sell well before the holidays, such as silk hosiery for men and women and silk underwear of different sorts.

This is a time when every one is buying, and many women are glad to order through some one who comes to their home and saves them the trouble of shopping. A few hours' work a day for a couple of months frequently insures a woman extremely good profits.

Instructor in Artistic Needlework.

If a woman has a knack for making artistic novelties—the sort for which instruction is given at large department stores—she can gather a class for making them in her own home, acting as instructor.

Lamp shades of all kinds are always popular. So are fancy pillows, waste baskets, embroidered bridge sets, satin covered bridge tables, favors for parties and luncheons.

Appeal to the desire of many women to make art novelties, but who have not the time to go to the city to learn there. Offer to buy the materials for them, if they wish, and let them do the work in your own home.

The woman who attempts this kind of work must be deft with the needle, have plenty of ideas—which she can obtain by studying the methods followed in the department stores. Assuming that she has this knack she will naturally have many examples of her ability in her own home which she can use as samples.

Charges for this service will have to be made according to the community and the financial status of the women.

Typewriting at Home.

This is no new line, but it is one which can always be done, especially by the wife who has a stenographic training and was employed before she was married.

Of course, you have to advertise your work among the people of the town where you live. The ever popular medium of the card comes in here. Print or typewrite your cards and distribute them in all the stores and public offices of the town.

Often it happens that different firms do not need the services of a regular stenographer, but have use for a trained worker a few hours a day or a week. The only way to find out what chances there are for your services is to let people know what you can do. It is often amazing how many demands for work of this kind rise up from sources entirely unexpected.

Automobile Driving.

For the woman who drives her own car, and can drive it well—this capacity for anything you do being necessary, as getting money for any service involves the fact that you are more than ordinarily skilled in that line—there are a number of ways she can count on as money producing.

Driving children to school, taking women to clubs, or to trains on rainy days are some of them. Teaching women with new cars to drive, or driving with them the first two or three weeks until they have become accustomed to the wheel and are no longer imbued with that natural fear which is the bogus of so many beginners, are others.

A woman who uses her car as a type of domestic taxi cannot expect to receive or ask regular taxi rates, but by advertising what she wishes to do, and by making her price reasonable and low enough to be afforded by women who do not think they can afford regular taxis as often as they would like, she will find she has quite a few demands for her services.

Study Community in which You Live.

Communities vary so greatly that the demand for services in one place might not exist at all in another. One town may have a woman's exchange, so that home cooking, "on her own" would not pay a woman. Another town might not have a sign of a spot where one could buy home cooking and the woman who started in on a small scale might soon find she had more to do than she could manage.

Right here is a point for the home woman to remember who is starting out to market her services or her wares. She must keep the quality up. Often you find people who start in throwing all their best energies into their work and achieving creditable results. After while, however, when they get really started, they slacken up and lower their standards. They try to get along by doing less work or making more profit out of what they sell. Needless to say, the public is remarkably quick to sense this deterioration—and there is a corresponding depreciation in sales or in the demand for work.

A detailed record should always be kept of your expenses and your earnings. Keep it accurately, as if you were working for someone else, and you will find you can earn some profitable lessons, re-reading it at the end of the year. Besides this you will always know "where you are." You won't have to guess at your expense or your earnings.

Bring Out the Hidden Beauty

Do you know that just beneath that soiled, discolored, faded or wrinkled complexion is one fair to look upon? Mercolized Wax will gradually and gently peel off the devitalized surface skin, revealing a new, fresh, white, beautiful skin underneath. The new complexion is a perfectly natural one, therefore in no way to be compared with a make-up. The wax leaves no trace but that of increased loveliness.

A New Skin—Your Own!—at small expense and effort. Simply apply Mercolized Wax at bedtime as you apply cold cream; wash it off in the morning. Fine, almost invisible skin particles are flecked off with the wax. No harm possible. No detention indoors. The lively young, healthy underskin is brought gradually to view—you have the exquisite complexion of robust girlhood—and every one will tell you.

You Look Years Younger—Assist Nature if she needs your help. Obtain an ounce of Mercolized Wax from your druggist or department store, use as directed—and you will bless the day that you made the acquaintance of this wonder working product.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, for only 75 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair as it, does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

Don't Squeeze Blackheads—Dissolve Them

Squeezing out blackheads makes large, ugly pores. The safe and sane way to get rid of these blemishes is to dissolve them. Get two ounces of Calonite powder from your drug store, sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth, rub over the blackheads, and every one big or little will disappear at once. A Tiny Silk Label Bearing the Name of the Maker Marks Each Model

THE social season is astir with the advent of the opera. And every woman realizes it is time to choose appropriate gowns for the various functions to which she will inevitably be invited.

These French gowns, created, styled and made by the skilled fingers of world-famous designers, prove delightfully invaluable to the wearer, and give distinctive slimness and grace to the silhouette as only beaded gowns can do.

For the "dashing type"—for the conservative woman—for the one with dainty charm—fascinating frocks for smartly-dressed women.

The TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

Your Soup May Be Thin or Solid, Fat or Lean, a Meal or an Appetizer, a Mere Convention, or Real Food

All recipes have been scientifically tested by Miss Eddington with current market materials and are indorsed by her.

By Jane Eddington

A FEW of the other things besides thin—it is perhaps a little higher class to say "clear" for this type of soup which may also and humbly be called broth—thick, solid, and so forth, that soups may be, are that they may also be "rich," which is much the same thing as saying they are "fat," and they may be slowly or quickly made, or well or poorly. Also, from the cooking side, they may be fine, good, bad, or indifferent. They have to be fine to be used as a true appetizer. When poor they are but an excuse for a dinner course, and sometimes an unpardonable one.

A bowl of soup may be the best symbol of food or nourishment, whereas soups lose prestige and place in the family menu when the cooking of them has been either poor or indifferent. Besides this there are some adjectives of most disagreeable suggestions applied to unappetizing soups. The bowl of soup, prepared in quite simple cookery, may have all the qualities of a meal, except a sweet part, and be a fair means of getting all the fine vegetable qualities into the diet of those who may not take to a plain vegetable, or reject it entirely, often because it is not beautifully cooked and is served but hatefully.

The bouillon and consomme are at the other extreme, and they are even more worthless than the bowl types of soup, if they are poor. The bouillon is merely the broth from slowly simmered or boiled beef, strained. The consomme is also just a meat stock, but generally it is dressed up with a garnish or is given some superior flavor, or aroma, by additions of other essences. A high class chef may have at his command scores of consommes, at base being all the same, but varying in finish. There are, however, a variety of bases. It is the most conventional of all soups even when it is drunk from a cup, as at suppers or when served cold as a jelly.

The thick soup is usually a puree, but there are others of famous mixtures like that of chicken okra, and the Italian minestra, and the fish chowders. The bowl soups are thick, with a variety of vegetables like the universal cabbage soup of Russia or the plain soup bone soups, thick with potato and onions, of our own early America. In old New England these made a meal—plus some bread and a piece of pie. The Scotch broth was often made thick with barley and vegetables, and the Scotch oatmeal soups were of much the same sort. Such mixtures would be strained in France, to make the puree, just as plain cooked beans or peas are strained in that country, which perhaps gave the real tammy to the world.

In the practices of the world there have been various types of solid soups. In early American days a solid soup was made for overland travel. This soup was hardly anything else than bouillon cubes. In early New England days, when men went into the woods in the winter to cut the year's supply of fuel, they took a bowl—without the bowl—of thick and frozen pea soup with a string frozen into it to handle it by, and this was melted for luncheon. The Italians in some cases call their dishes of macaroni—in endless variety—dry soups.

The Fat Soups.

Fat soups may mean at least two different things. An ancient meaning is that it is the opposite of the meatless or "maigre" soup of the Lenten period. In practice these were often the bean or pea purees. Today the fasting world uses the milk or cream soups, which are not quite so strictly "maigre" because milk is an animal product, as is the butter we use in them, usually.

The other sort of fat soup is one containing much true fat, and so more calories than any other soup whatsoever. This fat may be disguised with a thickening, or it may be served in an actual layer or in "eyes of fat," on the surface of the soup. When hungry people can be but scantly fed, they welcome that layer of fat, because they know the soup which has it will stand by them longer than any other sort, as it literally does.

One of the late war facts that was likely to stick in the memory was that when the Belgians were fed by Mr. Hoover they looked particularly at the bowls of soup they received to see if there was a good layer of fat on top. When people are to be fed in great numbers and at small expense a good cook can do more in providing satisfactory hot nourishment with soups than in any other way.

But under normal conditions a soup with a layer of chicken fat on it may be anything but appetizing, yet chicken soup is no more appetizing when, in order to disguise that fat, a great deal of flour is used to make a soup which is a thick paste and repulsive. Plain beef fat on top of a soup may be just as hateful, or more so unless it is what is called a savory fat—one flavored with many different vegetables. But in good cookery a combination of fats will give a more palatable product than one alone, and when these are flavored with the essence of vegetables the fats of your soup will be as easy to eat as butter on broad.

A Quick and Fat Soup for Two.

The following recipe is for those who have no success in making a good meat soup by means of slow and long cooking of a "soup bone." Half the time the failure is due to the fact that the bone was not made immaculate in every way, by removing dried skin over it, scraping a weathered end of bone, etc. It was more or less an accident that the following soup was found to have much fat on top, and yet be palatable enough for anybody. Directions for making a quick soup, with a slight variation from the ordinary were given.

The ingredients were one-half pound of round steak, put through the food chopper, to be cooked in three cups of water put over it cold, slowly brought to a boiling point—skimmed at this point—then simmered gently for an hour. After this strain off the liquor and add the mixture of vegetables cooked separately. Cook the two together for ten or fifteen minutes. The one cooking this made the mistake of thinking that a quarter of a pound of streaky salt pork was to go through the meat chopper with the piece of steak, and be cooked with it and that was how it came about that plates of soup were served with a decided layer of fat on top which, if it had been plain beef fat, would not have been palatable. But there had been but a bit of fat on the small piece of steak, and the total fat product in the soup got flavored with the vegetables, which had been stewed in butter. The latter fat was also a flavoring ingredient. The vegetables consisted of a sliced onion, a little turnip cut exceedingly fine and one green pepper in threads.

Butter Fat Soups.

Into the milk soups we may put considerable butter, or just a little as we choose. Two tablespoons per cup of milk, with one to two level tablespoons of flour for thickening are common proportions, but after the characteristic ingredient like cooked celery, corn, turnip, potato, salsify, spinach, cress, beet, parsnips, peas or beans or tomatoes or almonds—some of which thicken the soup so much that the amount of flour thickening must be but scant, or not used at all—are added and the whole is cooked to a blend, some fresh butter may be stirred in at the last minute. Whipped cream is also used, but in general anything but a tiny bit of it for a garnish is objectionable, because it cools the soup too much. If we use a tapioca thickening—one teaspoon of tapioca to each cup of milk and the two cooked together till the thickening agent is transparent—we need not cook any butter into the soup, but may stir some well in at the last. The idea is to give a soup of as many calories as possible to the child or to anybody who is building body or using up energy which must be constantly renewed because of but a small amount in store.

Standard Chicken Broth.

In American cookery, chicken soups stand high. They may be exceedingly poor if the chicken is not immaculate when put to cook, and certainly disjointing carefully as compared to chopping the meat up into chunks, is one of the bits of work that makes for excellence. When disjointed, truly, and the chicken is immaculate, we may have two products. The cooked chicken and some of the broth, thickened, may be served as chicken fricassee, and the rest of the liquid used for a soup, although, of course, some people like to have a scanter amount, and use it all for the gravy part of the fricassee.

For a good standard chicken broth we need one pound of raw material for each pint of finished liquid, so we can see that in cooking a four or five pound hen we do not need all the liquid for a gravy, for that amount of meat two quarts for four pounds. As to how much water to use at the start depends on the kind of cooks we are. The poor cook may need to have a quart at the start, for each pint at the finish, while the good cook will need little more than a pint for a pint.

In preparing the meat we may take away most of the fat, or we may leave considerable on. In many cases it may be a mistake to have the ideal for the invalid of a fatless broth and surely the fatter the broth, within limits, the better for us strong people if we know the wherefore of it and plan accordingly.

Old meat is good broth meat, you will find stated in the writings of the greatest cooks the world has known, although there is an exception to this in the veal knuckle used for its gelatinous qualities. At any rate, the old hen is the best for the broth pot. And instead of disjointing the meat we may cook the hen or chicken whole, and get a good liquid for broth, if we do not use too much. The cooking must never be an actual boiling, although the water may be at boiling temperature, while the method is the simmering one. A well cooked chicken may then have a little sweet hot butter pored over it and be browned in the oven to finish, when it may be almost, or quite, as palatable as a roast chicken, which with poor work, is too dry. In trying to tell how to do this there must always be gaps in the description. The one who can do it finds it difficult to put herself or himself completely in the place of the one untrained or undisciplined in such work.

Of Milk Soups in Particular.

In no end of cases soups, especially the milk soups, may be counted not only as valuable nourishment but as true healing foods as well. And healing foods outdistance the irritating foods—foods which the digestion has to work extra hard with for one reason or another—in their total yield of nourishment, as the hare outdistanced the turtle in speed. They are entirely positive in their effects, or as near so as we can hope any foods to be.

One may, if interested, find the milk soups almost but not quite a universal panacea, and allow them the first place among all liquid foods, and among medicines or curative agents as well. They rest the fatigued. Used as one of the important agents for that purpose, they may cure a cold. The drinking of a great deal of cold water may be the only other curative agent needed. Their supreme worth in "bowel troubles" is well known. When, for any reason, the digestive powers are weakened, they furnish the best type of nourishment. And one may go on with the enumeration—enough for pages in a book—just as one requires a treatise space to tell all the ways of making milk soups, although the principle is to add to some thickened milk the cooked vegetable, preferably sieved, which will give palatableness and character. But in our final statement we must reiterate the fact that milk is the first of protective foods. Of course, it has other values and not a few of them—and for that reason any efficient way of getting it into the menu—and the soups are such a way—is worth our profound attention.

Answers to Beauty Queries

By Antoinette Donnelly

What's your beauty ill? Too fat? Too thin? Shy on hair? Oily hair, oily skin, freckles, pimples, or blackheads? Flat chested or flat footed? Write to me. I have a tonic, a diet, or a set of exercises for what ails you, and you're welcome to them and to all the advice I can give you. If you wish a personal reply, send a stamped, addressed envelope. Address Antoinette Donnelly, The Tribune, Chicago.

L. V.: DEPILATORIES DO NOT claim to remove superfluous hair permanently. They are merely used as a relief measure. It is possible to make the hair less noticeable by application of peroxide of hydrogen. It keeps the hair light and dry and tends to diminish the growth. A stronger formula is a tablespoonful of peroxide to which several drops of ammonia have been added. Send stamped, addressed envelope for my leaflet on "Superfluous Hair."

E. W. H.: LEMON JUICE IS AN excellent skin bleach for eliminating a light summer tan and summer freckles. It is the citric acid in the lemon juice which bleaches. It may be applied to the hands and arms without diluting, but when used on the face it is well to dilute it with distilled water.

J. S.: FOR WARTS ON THE hands try this lotion: One dram of salicylic acid, one ounce of flexible collodion. Mix well. Apply with a tiny camel's hair brush for four nights. Then soak in hot water. This takes away part of the horney substance. Repeat until the wart has disappeared.

ETHEL H.: SOFT TISSUES ARE responsible for the fine lines which have formed under your eyes. To harden the tissues apply pieces of absorbent cotton which have been dipped in cold salt water. Let the water be quite salty and allow the cotton to remain on ten minutes. Repeat several times daily.

MRS. P. O'B.: TOEING IN IS A condition frequently found in children. It is corrected by toeing out. If it is very marked, have your little girl fitted to a straight-lasted shoe, with a lift of one-fourth of an inch under the outside of the sole. The heel will wear out on one side, but have it repaired.

T. W. F.: AN OFFENSIVE breath may be due to catarrhal trouble, enlarged tonsils, or a digestive disturbance. Tablets for the breath may cover up the condition, but not overcome it. Get at the cause and remedy it. The condition of your teeth may be responsible.

MRS. K. McK.: LACK OF IRON in the system may result in anemia, so if you wish to increase the amount of iron in your system it may be found in eggs, green vegetables, particularly spinach and lettuce, dried fruits, such as raisins, figs, and dates, and also in whole grain cereals.

MABEL T.: DIETING WILL NOT reduce hips which are too prominent. It calls for exercise in addition. Exercise must be done systematically every day, otherwise they are of no avail. I have in printed form exercises for this purpose. Send me a stamped addressed envelope and you'll receive them.

H. C.: IF TIRED, ONE SHOULD rest before eating, or eat lightly. It is essential, tooo, that one should be in a cheerful state of mind, as anxiety or mental strain of any kind greatly delays gastric digestion. Choose a quiet attractive dining room, as an atmosphere of peace and quiet aids digestion.

MRS. H. J. McL.: COMMON SALT and sea salt are frequently added to the bath but are of no value for the skin. Unless your skin is tough, salt is liable to chap and inflame it. The easiest way to soften water is to boil it. Bran makes water less drying to the skin. For the ordinary bath about a half gallon of bran may be used. Put it in a gauze bag.

K. B. H.: THE COLD BATH IS sometimes found irritating to persons with naturally dry skin. It is well for such persons occasionally to grease the skin with olive oil. Bathing too often in warm water relaxes the skin, making it flabby and loose. The cold water stimulates it, keeping it firm.

K. E. M.: A HOT BATH LASTING just a few minutes or a hot foot bath is found restful when one is fatigued, but a tepid bath is the most restful of all because of the nervous relaxation induced. A cold shower is healthful, but is not sufficient for cleanliness. It tones up the skin and wards off colds.

ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN

AGNES H.: AN OFFENSIVE breath should be given immediate attention. It may be due to catarrhal trouble, enlarged tonsils, or a stomach condition. Don't use tablets, but get at the root of the trouble and overcome it. If your digestion is at fault, eat the proper kinds of food—fresh vegetables and fruits, drink plenty of water, and get sufficient rest and sleep. The condition of your teeth may be responsible.

MISS B.: THE QUESTION OF EXercise for one in a sedentary occupation is a most important one. Any one sitting all day should get as much exercise during the noon hour as possible and should walk part of the way to and from business. It would eliminate much of the nervousness which such people are subject to. "My Youth Preservers"—twelve exercises to be done on arising—are excellent for the business girl. They may be had, in illustrated form, for a stamped, addressed envelope.

MRS. H. F.: VIGOROUS EXERcises of the arms and shoulders are necessary if you wish to reduce the bust. Rowing, bag punching, and swinging Indian clubs, if done systematically, will bring results.

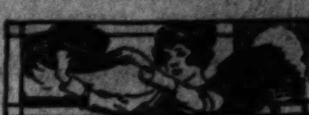
The Last Word in Paris Fashions



The Sunny Skies of Biarritz Look Down on a Gay Crowd of Cosmopolites Who Cloak Their Sophistication in Garments of Extreme Simplicity.

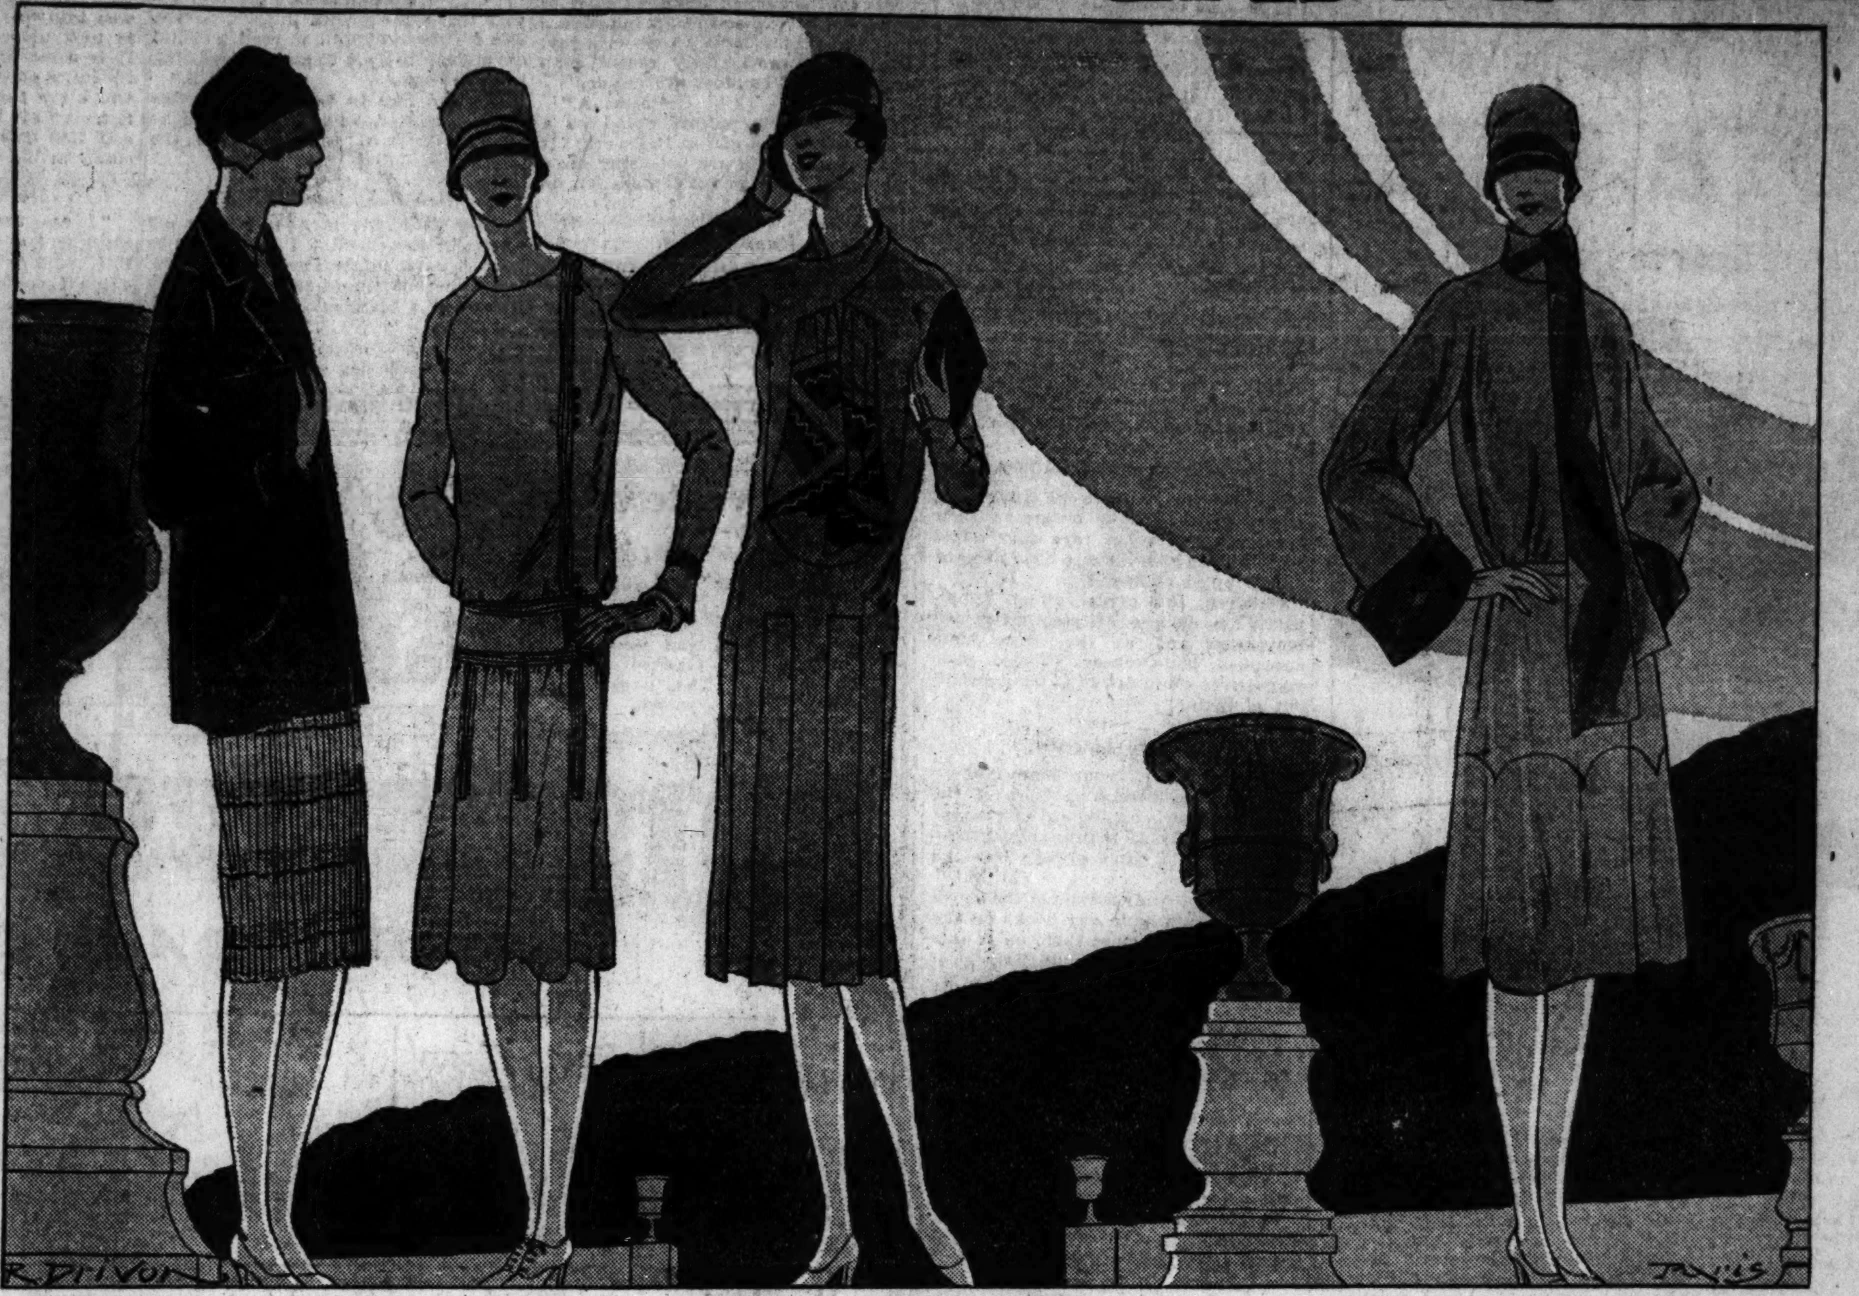
BETTINA BEDWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—(Special Correspondence.)—The fashion zone of Paris is no longer a hurricane center. Tornado changes that demolish known silhouettes entirely in a single season are a thing of the past. Skirts—that is, hemlines—neither move up nor down at an alarming speed, nor can any one, honestly, announce bizarre changes of line, or undue alterations of known fashions—of sleeves, waistlines, hiplines, and such significant items. The variations are there, but they spring them gently nowadays. The great masses of oppressed women who have squeezed or expanded themselves into outrageous shapes, to suit the dictates of fanciful couturiers, have rebelled, and are now manipulating the handle-end of the whip to which fashion creators jump. This is one of the great improvements in making the world free for democracy.

Reporters can no longer eke out any scare head captions within shouting distance of reality, and silly women who want to "knock 'm dead" with something startlingly new in the way of style, have to let out this urge in mother of pearl scaled bathing suits, as I have seen them do down in Biarritz, recently. This, however, has nothing to do with styles. It gets a line or two in the daily papers, and is forgotten tomorrow, while the simple costumes worn by such women as Princesse Paley, Grand Duchesse Boris, Madame Ganna Walska, and other social leaders, with their infinite and really smart novelties of exquisite detail, become features of the new mode, which is now forming for the late fall and winter season. In fact, if any one is interested in fashions for the months ahead there is only one place to find them at the moment, and that is at Biarritz. Paris is marking "time out" after the August openings, and all of the smart world is choosing its costumes from the transported Paris collections that are now showing in Biarritz.

Yes, and they are beginning to wear these new things, too. Naturally, with the Prince of Wales, King Alphonso, and Monsieur Andre de Fouquieres amongst those present. Probably, mostly on account of the last named, who is a regular private king, and who knows more about what constitutes elegance than any man in France. He is a kindly person, whose standard is one of simplicity and taste, always, in the matter of dress, and they are the two reigning qualities of the new autumn styles as shown in Biarritz. Days are long down there, where the sun is still lingering until a late hour over the Basque Cote, so I want to tell you today about the daytime clothes I saw there.



The newest tailleurs combine two colors and two fabrics, as this one with a jacket of brown velveteen dnd skirt of beige, brown and black plaid zibla-kasha, sketched at the extreme left.

The smart daytime frock is often made of jersey, in beige, and corded for trimming as is this one second from the left.

Drecoll gives distinction to the next frock of gray velour de Smyrne by a scarf collar that is different, a yoke, sleeves and gilet cut in one, and an irregular waist line.

The popular winter coat of fur or suede has a normal waistline, a scarf collar and wide sleeves a la Russe, as shown at the extreme right.

I noticed right away that tailleurs are a part of the fashion program at Biarritz. They are, however, chastened tailored suits, that have given up the imitation of the boy friends in their freshman year. These tailleurs are, well, feminine, even though they follow the rule of perfection of cut, simple lines, and severity. One color tailleurs are seen, and they are smart, but, it seems to me, judging by the imposing galaxy of important women who wear them, that the two-color, two-fabric tailleurs have put something over on their monotone sisters.

Our first model shows you without wasted conversation the kind of suit I mean. Worn by Malame la Comtesse de la Rochefoucault, it has everything the smart Parisienne prefers in the way of a tailleur. The jacket is of marron, or chestnut colored velveteen, banded with tiny strips of the plaid that forms the skirt. The straight, hip-length jacket is nicely tailored, but not closely fitted. With this jacket goes a skirt of ziblakasha in beige, brown, and black and a simple jumper waist of beige crepe de chine. There is a turban with a visor of beige felt and a crown of draped marron velveteen, laid in folds just like the old southern mammy drapes her bandanna, only without the knot in the back. One of the smartest daytime outfits, this, for times when the weather exercises a decent amount of clemency.

For wear with or without a coat the season at Biarritz reveals quantities of frocks like our second and third models. They offer, it is true, no startling changes at first view, but they have novelty, which I shall, presently, point out. The hemlines are decidedly below the lowest point of the knee cap. Paris is not going to have any traffic with the knee-short skirt, if one can judge by what fashion leaders are wearing and what Paris couturiers are showing.

The first frock (model No. 2) has, however, a number of new fashion items worth noting: the bloused waist, which is extensively worn, the raglan sleeves, the almost normal waistline and its trimming of cord, which bears an intimate resemblance to the stout twine with which hardware merchants tie up their unpliable wares. Chantal signs this frock, which she has made of jersey, called "djersa" by Rodier, because, I suppose, it is a very fine quality with a sort of angora nap. The Parisienne loves jersey. It is quite an aristocratic fabric over here, where its suppleness and tendency to drape in beautiful lines are considered more important than its lack of expensiveness. The cording is in keeping with the fabric, and follows the lines of the side blouse closing, the wide girdle, and forms the quadruple lines half way to the knees on the skirt, which is softly shirred at the girdle.

Our third model, also a dress for a number of coats, would get over as a novelty on the originality of its collar alone, in addition to which its sleeves, yoke, and vestee cut in one piece with the collar, and the box plaits of the skirt that end irregularly at the top, are further news items. Drecoll created this model, and made it of a new material called Argenta, a velour de Smyrne of Myer, which is ribbed like serge, and is almost as light weight as georgette. The velvety surface of the material is beautifully shown in its clear gray color, set off by the embroidery on the scarf which forms the double collar crossed at the back of the neck.

This frock was admired a lot in Biarritz, and when I first saw it was worn with the coat shown in our fourth sketch. This coat has already made its impression on Biarritz, and will be seen a lot in Paris later on, in velvet, in fur, and in cloth. I saw this model first some time ago, but at that time it wasn't anything to speak extensively about, as it is now. You have noticed that it is Russian in spirit, and that it has a distinctly normal waistline, decidedly indicated. It doesn't really fit anywhere but at the waistline. It comes from Fourrures Max, and this particular one is made of gray suede, lined with gray kasha. The scarf collar and the wide cuffs are made of one of the new novelty kashas. The lower half of the so-called coat skirt is set on with a scalloped top, just to make the cut appear more complicated. This is in keeping with the last fall styles that are getting more and more away from simplicity of cut without losing a simple appearance.

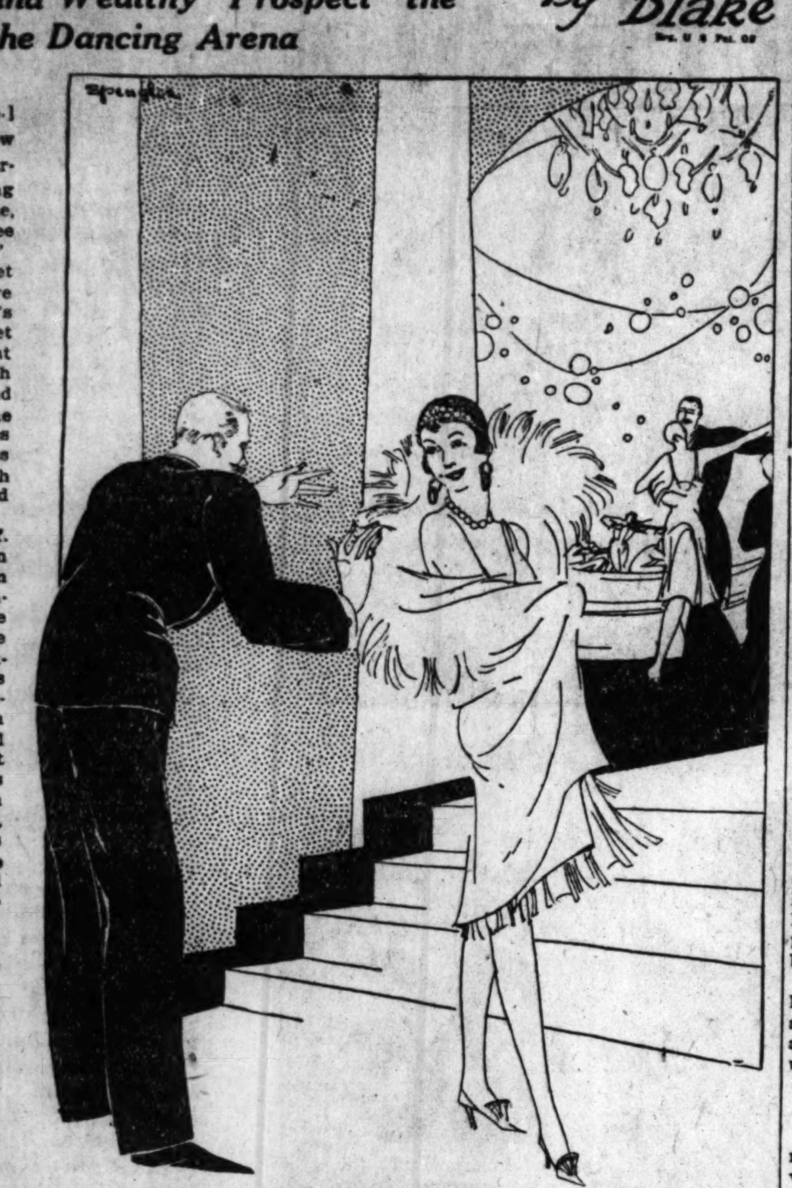
THE AMERICAN WOMAN AND THE GIGOLO

The Male Parasite, Whose Native Heath Is Paris, Can Tell a Gullible and Wealthy "Prospect" the Moment She Enters the Dancing Arena

by Doris Blake



[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—She had sailed away from New York with $3,000 and her generous American husband's parting admonition to "Have a good time, darling, and come back in three months and tell me all about Paris."

Only two months had elapsed. Yet here she was—this silly, helpless, naive American wife—in her Paris banker's office begging to borrow $200 to get her home again. Where had she spent that $3,000 that had looked like such unlimited wealth when her husband kissed her good-by and handed her the letter of credit? Had she gone clothes crazy? Had she bought that generous husband a gold watch incrusted with diamonds, on the Rue de la Paix? Had a thief stolen her money?

Well—er—no, not exactly a thief. And then the foolish little wife began to cry. In Paris they called them "gigolos" and lonely American women with more money than knowledge of how to spend it could engage these handsome, shiny-haired, smooth-talking young men to act as their escorts about Paris. This gigolo was a professional dancer at a smart cabaret in Montmartre. For fifty francs he would give a client quite a "rush"—of at least ten dances. Everybody in Paris did it, she had been told, even women accompanied by their own husbands, if the latter didn't care to dance. This gigolo later had served as her guide and escort all over Paris. She had turned over the bulk of her money to him.

And there were more tears.

The banker saw to it that the foolish wife got enough money to get home. But that was not the end of the story. Several weeks after her departure, the gigolo appeared at the bank. He demanded payment on a check for $100 signed by the foolish one. It had been returned to him stamped "No Funds" and he threatened to make trouble. Knowing that the threat could be made good back in America where "everybody" didn't do it, the banker again came to the rescue, marveling that any woman who had lived to be forty-five could be so unsophisticated as to put such a means of blackmail as a signed check in the hands of such a fellow.

Too Many "Counts."

The Paris police are continually warning American women visiting France against intrusting money or valuables to the professional swindlers who never seem to have much difficulty in finding willing victims. The bogus counts, barons, marquises, etc., who infest not only Paris but Monte Carlo, Deauville and other famous resorts are continually walking off with the money and jewelry of some unsuspecting American woman, usually old enough to know better. Sometimes the "nobleman" poses as a man of wealth and invites the rich widow, divorcee or lonely wife to several elegant parties before he reverts to type and leaves her with not a sou for boat fare back to the U. S. A.

"Comte de Belonnet" was recently arrested at Monte Carlo after stealing a purse filled with the money and jewels of an American woman, for whom he had acted as escort to the races of Chantilly. Often the hypnotized ladies allow these professional escorts or new-found "noble" friends to act as hosts at champagne parties at the most expensive Parisian restaurants. The women foot the bills. And there are those, like the lady of the erstwhile three thousand, who turn over their checking accounts to unscrupulous rascals who prey on the unworldliness of the sheltered American woman out for a little fling.

There is something pathetic about even the most exasperatingly stupid of these cases. Usually the woman is in her late thirties or early forties. Sometimes she is older. Perhaps she has led a humdrum life for years in a small American city, raising her family and dreaming of a distant day when she will get away and have a look at the world. Carefully protected by her husband, she is dependent to an alarming extent on his companionship and that of her family and friends. Her husband dies and leaves her a fair sized fortune. Or, too busy or indifferent to take her on a trip, he gives her the money to go to Europe, confident, of course, that his wife can look out for herself.

The widow or wife comes to Paris, finds herself in a strange but attractive environment, a city made for pleasure. But she is alone. She is unaccustomed to loneliness and a few nights spent in her stuffy hotel room drives her frantic. Why come to Paris, she asks, if she can't see the night life?

Explaining the Custom.

Then other women tell her that the hotels and restaurants of Paris look out for ladies in just her emergency. Through them it is possible to engage escorts for the evening, men who will act as their guides. It is also considered correct, she is told, for two or three women to go, unescorted, to fashionable restaurants and cabarets where professional dancers are supplied in return for a pourboire. The maitre d'hotel asks you if you care to dance. If you give an affirmative answer, he sends over one of the professionals. If it is your first visit to this particular establishment, he will dance with you numerous times during the evening. Before leaving you give him 100 francs. For fewer dances fifty francs is sufficient. Often women who come to certain dancing places regularly pay the professional a set sum every week to give them a certain number of dances and to give the guest a good time. The custom, she hears, is also a boon to the American man who cannot, or does not care to dance.

So the delighted American woman determines to do as the Romans do and have her fling, even if she must pay for it in cold francs. Properly speaking, the professional dancer is not a gigolo, a slang word reserved by the French for the man who lives off women without working. The best Parisian restaurants look into the references offered by professional dancers applying for the position. It is safe enough to dance with them any number of times any number of evenings without dire results to one's finances or self-respect. For years French women have been accustomed to avail themselves of the convenience of a good looking, first rate dancer, even when there are several men in their own party, for the average Frenchman is not a good dancer and does not usually like to dance.

It is when the casual acquaintance, contracted at the restaurant, is extended to outside engagements with the professional that the American woman runs into danger. Naturally, the management is not responsible for what their employés do after hours. The fact that many foreigners in France swell the number of professionals increases the difficulties of surveillance, and, of course, no woman, though she be fleeced outrageously, is anxious to give herself away by revealing the sad finale of the excursions about Paris with her paid guide.

A Business Affair.

"We notice that Frenchmen who act as professionals for us treat the matter in a most businesslike and fair manner," declared the manager of one Paris hotel whose tea dances are world famous. "To begin with, we pay our dancers a salary, so they are not dependent on pourboires. And our French dancers, I notice, are always ready to dance with any woman who asks for their services. But the Italians, Russians, and Spaniards who work for us are often of a different class. They always choose elderly women covered with jewelry because they know the tips will be bigger. And they will choose a fat, matronly woman in preference to a young girl for the same reason. I have known foreign professionals here who had several fine rings on their fingers by the end of the season, all gifts from rich elderly clients."

No matter what the nationality, my advice would be to leave them with the silver exactly where you found them.

Interviews with various hotel managers brought out the fact that to the American it usually seems so degrading to earn money by selling dances that few apply and fewer remain at the job. Among Europeans, with their tradition of the respectability of leisure, it seems less humiliating. In fact, indigent members of the nobility of those countries that have suffered political upheavals often find this is their only means of earning a living. The fact that some of these gentlemen have been born for better days may explain why certain American clients complain that "my paid escort orders dinner and champagne without bothering to ask my opinion. He orders tickets for a play without inquiring if I've seen it. And he takes my purse to pay the bills as scornfully as if he were doing me a favor by acting as my guide."

A distressingly sordid phase of the "gigolo" problem is the unsuspecting, unsophisticated boy trapped by the worldly woman. Appalling tales of rich, middle aged women prostituting struggling young artists or musicians are going the rounds in Paris these days. The almost devilish determination of these vain and heartless Americans, minds set upon becoming the patron of some promising young boy in his early twenties, is reminiscent of the shadowy tales of the Renaissance or of decadent French court life. By buying the marble busts or the latest landscapes of her "protégé" the would be patron wins the confidence of the young man. In return she asks that he act as her escort in the fashionable life of Paris and nearby gambling resorts. A studio is often fitted up for the young artist as recompense, perhaps a car placed at his disposal. But genius is not nourished on luxuries. When the exhibitions of the various salons take place it is generally evident that genius and "gigolo" are irreconcilable.

Doris Blake's Answers to Love Problems

Have you a perplexing love affair on which you need the counsel of a friend? Write to Doris Blake, care The Tribune, Chicago. If you wish a personal reply please send a stamped addressed envelope.

Wants to Start Over.

"Dear Miss Blake: About six months ago my girl friend and I had a quarrel. Recently I received a New Years greeting from her. Do you think she cares to renew our friendship?

"LEW."

She wants to start the New Year well, so why not join her in her good resolutions, Lew?

Much Ado About Nothing.

"Dear Miss Blake: I have been going out with a girl for seven months and lately she does not speak to me just because I don't speak first. She once said that if I didn't speak first she would get mad. I told her it was her place to speak first. Now she is mad at me. Please advise.

"DICKIE."

Where you are such good friends the greeting is usually simultaneous, but if she insists upon being so formal, she is the one to speak first, Dickie. If she doubts your word suggest she refer to a book of etiquette.

Tell Him Why.

"Dear Miss Blake: Is it correct for a girl to refuse to go out with a boy because he wears a cap when she thinks it would show more respect if he wore a hat? PUZZLED."

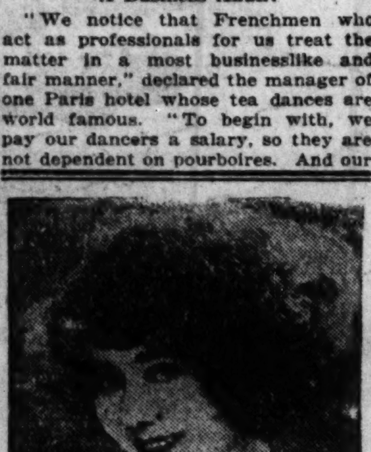
'Twould be better to tell him she dislikes a cap than to refuse, point blank, don't you think?

Heavy on Her Feet.

"Dear Miss Blake: I have plenty of gentlemen friends, but lose most of them whenever we go dancing. Have been told I dance fairly well, but am too heavy on my feet. Please advise.

"JEAN."

Improve your dancing, Jean. Take a few private lessons until you acquire the lightness of feet that makes for good dancing.



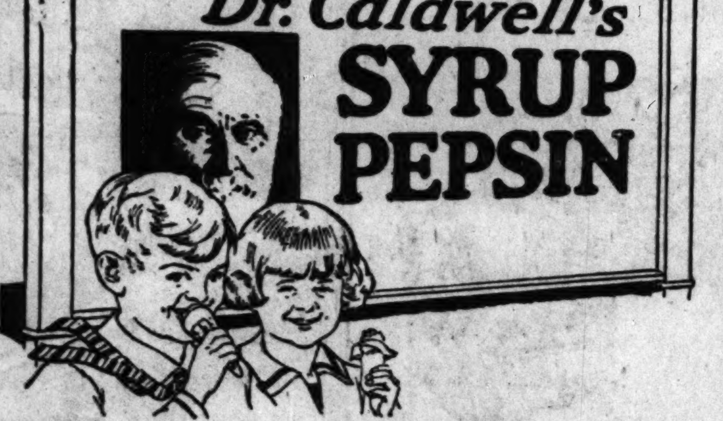
Keep Hair Tidy, Keep It Curly

By Edna Wallace Hopper

Summer and winter my hair is ever curly. It is tidy, but fluffy. It has a glow. Yet I never visit a hairdresser, never have a Marcel wave.

Those results are due to a hair dress which great experts made especially for me. I apply it twice a week. It doubles the beauty of my hair in an hour. And that wave and sheen remain.

Now you can obtain the same product. All toilet counters supply it as Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. The price is 75c. My guarantee comes with each bottle, so you take no risk. This is a delight—one of the best things I've found for keeping hair tidy, especially [illegible]. Go to it, now.



Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

How to Keep a Child Healthy

A GENERATION ago parents thought that sickness was a part of a child's life, but we know better now. The secret is in the mother watching that elimination occurs regularly two or three times a day.

A Substitute for Physics

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a scientific compound of Egyptian Senna with pepsin and suitable aromatics. The formula is on every package. You will find you do not have to force children to take it, and it is much better for them than castor oil, calomel or coal tar drugs like phenolphthalein even if covered with sugar or chocolate. Syrup Pepsin is mild and gentle in action and your child will have an easy passage without griping or straining. It does not contain narcotics, and you can give it with absolute safety to a nursing infant.

"Magic" in a Teaspoonful

Every store that sells medicines sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. Give half a teaspoonful to any ailing baby or child at night when you put it to bed and you will find a happy, laughing youngster in the morning. Take Syrup Pepsin yourself when constipated, and give it to any member of the family, young or old, for any ailment due to constipation, such as biliousness, headache, lack of appetite, sleeplessness, bad breath, cankers, fever sores, indigestion, and to break up fevers and colds. Stop that first sneeze or sniffle and you will have a healthy winter.

Write "Syrup Pepsin," 523 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois, for a free sample bottle.

A FRIEND IN NEED

by Sally Joy Brown

I want to be the medium through which the friends in deed and the friends in need may be brought together. It may be you have some discarded article which has not outgrown its usefulness that will make some less fortunate one happy and you would gladly give it if you knew how to go about it. Write to me and I shall be happy to be of service to you. Please write on one side of the paper.

When information is wanted by mail, a stamped, addressed envelope should accompany the request. Please do not send article to The Tribune but write for the address of the applicant and send direct.

A Sad Case.

"I have a baby one month old. We are badly in debt, as my husband has been sick, and I have hardly anything for the baby to wear. I am in need of a winter coat also. I wear size 46. We would appreciate anything your readers might have for us.

"MRS. C. W. C."

Your discarded clothing will help this unfortunate family in their struggle and keep them warm this winter.

Joy for Crippled Children.

"I wonder if there is some one whose children have outgrown their kiddie cars or other toys who would be willing to give them to convalescent and crippled children? G. T."

Children, this gives you an opportunity to dispose of your outgrown playthings and at the same time spread a little cheer. These poor youngsters could get so much pleasure out of them.

Aspiring Linguist.

"Won't one of your kind readers send me a self-teaching book of the Italian, Spanish or Indian languages? I want to learn as many languages as possible, but I can't always buy the books. M. M."

If you've already mastered the above languages and have any books on the subject, why not pass them on to this aspiring linguist? She could make good use of them.

Cannot Afford a Violin.

"The daughter of a tenant of a farm near here has a decided talent for the violin and loves good music, but the family circumstances make the purchase of such an instrument impossible. If a reader would be kind enough to give her one, I would gladly pay postage on it. N. M."

Surely this appeal will not go unanswered. We will be glad to give you the address of the applicant.

Entertainment Offer.

"I have one year's Good Housekeeping, Cosmopolitan, and Ladies' Home Journal magazines and some phonograph records for some shut-in or anyone who wants them.

"MRS. J. B. P."

Here's a store of good reading and entertainment for any one who'd like to take advantage of this splendid offer. These magazines and records would shorten the hours for some one who has to stay indoors.

To Help a Student.

"A young woman taking a course in physical culture is anxious to get some books on the subject. She is unable to buy them herself and would appreciate any you might have to give away. Books of comparatively recent publication would be most acceptable.

"MRS. A."

Books of this nature would be a great help to the girl in her work. If you have any you are not using, we'd appreciate your passing them on to her.

Handicapped.

"One of the deserving young boys at our school is in need of a 16 instrument mechanical drawing set. He is interested in the course and the lack of an instrument set is a great handicap. I. F. K."

This appeal comes from a junior school here in the city. Will those of our readers who have taken such a course and who still have their sets please help this lad to attain his goal?

Reading Matter to Give.

"I have a number of Christian papers and leaflets with interesting stories for some shut-in to read which I am willing to send to any one wishing to have them. MRS. P. B."

If you'd like to have some of this reading matter, let me know. I'll be glad to forward your name to the donor.

Sick Baby Needs Help.

"My little one is five months old and is in poor health. I would love to keep her out in the fresh air, but she has no warm bonnet or coat. If I had these and a blanket I could take her out more. MRS. K. M. G."

If the baby is warmly clothed a little fresh air each day should soon make her strong and healthy. The things your child has outgrown would help a great deal.

For a Paralytic.

"This is a request for a wheel chair for a man of 35 who is an invalid with paralysis and cannot walk. He was injured about six years ago and is now able to get out in a chair. It is necessary for this chair to be a reclining one and preferably one that will allow the feet to be elevated. He is trying his best to be self-supporting and this can be brought about more easily with a wheel chair. R. H. B."

Mother Needs Help.

"I am the mother of four small children and find it hard to get along. If I could get a stocking knitting machine I could do work at home and earn some extra money. MRS. K."

Can you help this mother fill the family coffers? If you have a knitting machine you do not use it would help a great deal.

To End Severe Cough Quickly, Try This

For real results, this old home-made remedy beats them all. Easily prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous home-made remedy. The prompt relief is almost magical. It is easily prepared, and there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a pint bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon the phlegm thins out and disappears. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

How to Order Clotilde Patterns.

Write your name and address plainly on dotted lines, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Inclose 10 cents in stamps or coin [coin preferred]; wrap it carefully for each number, and address your order to Clotilde, Chicago Daily Tribune.

HOW TO USE THE PATTERNS

A COAT frock made by pattern No. 2849 will be both smart and comfortable for general wear during the cold months that are ahead of us. The dress is cut in two pieces—front and back—the front closing in surplice fashion. The right fullness is given to the skirt by the clever arrangement of plaits at the left side of the skirt only. The sleeves are long and made close fitting by means of a dart seam up the outside. Tiny shoulder tucks on the shoulders on the front of the dress give a becoming fullness over the bust. The belt, after it is made, is fastened to the right side of the front, then brought across the back and fastened with small snaps to the left side, coving the top of the plaited section.

A few sugestions as to the materials that would be pretty for this design are a navy blue twill—using a soft woolen plaid for the collar, cuffs, and belt; a black crêpe satin, a soft shade of red moire, or a claret colored crêpe satin, using a metal brocade for collar, cuffs, and belt.

Perforations on the plaited section show just how the plaits are laid, and these should first be pinned, then basted from top to bottom—never forgetting to see that the under fold of each plait lies as smooth as the outside one. This section can be pressed after the plaits are basted down, but leave the bastings in until the dress is finished. When the hem is laid around the bottom the bastings will have to be loosened in place, but after the hem has been put in, baste the plaits to the bottom again, pressing the plaits in the hem before removing.

After the collar is made and basted to the dress, cut a bias facing of the dress material and use it as a finish for the opening, basting it in a wrong side seam from the top of the plaited section on one side, up over the collar seam and so on down to the end on the left side. Stich in a half inch seam, and hem or tack invisibly, except over the collar seam, where it can be hemmed down.

Pattern No. 2861, is an excellent design for a dress for business or school wear. The lines are trim and the dress, made well, will be smart looking. Kasha, canton crêpe and velveteen are suitable materials, and so are silk and wool jersey, and crêpe satin. If this last material is chosen it will be lovely in black, with the dull side of the satin used for the collar, cuffs and applied band down the front. If you want to make it especially attractive looking, wear with it a narrow belt of gold kid, and make a detachable collar of flesh colored crêpe romaine to wear over the collar on the dress.

The saddle or epaulet shoulders and front shoulder tucks are both becoming features, and the inverted plaits at the side of the dress give freedom in walking without taking away from the straight line effect.

Pattern No. 2845, is designed especially for the large figure. It is a dress that should be easy to make, if one takes pains to lay the plaits perfectly. These plaited sections are cut and made separately and set in the front of the skirt, and rather large patch pockets are set on over the tops of these sections.

A dart on the front at each shoulder gives the right fullness over the bust. The dress is slashed down from the neck in the center front, underfaced and rolled with the collar. Then, if you choose, a scarf tie may be made of the collar material and tied in a four-in-hand knot at the end of the opening. Full length sleeves gathered into narrow wristbands and a narrow belt complete the dress.

Results of Jealousy

We're all acquainted with jealousy, the monster that smashes love affairs, wrecks homes, causes business quarrels, and generally plays havoc with us mortals. We'd like to know your most notable experience with a jealous person or persons. If you have encountered a situation where jealousy led to a tragic or ridiculous climax, tell us about it. The Tribune will pay $1 for every story published. Address Jealous Editor, Chicago Tribune.

A Jealous Aunt.

The most jealous person I ever saw is my own aunt. She did not want my sister to go to California. She was so jealous that she kept saying she would stop my other aunt from taking my sister to California. But my sister went just the same. C. S.

Hasty Action.

The most absurd result of jealousy occurred when the unreasonable young husband found a handsome photograph of a man reposing on the library table. Never having seen the photo or the person before, he at once jumped at the conclusion it was some friend of his wife's. Without waiting for the explanation that his wife had decided to do some tinting of photos for a business house, he tore the photograph in pieces. R. E. A.

All Because of a Fish.

The most childish example of jealousy in my experience occurred during a reunion of my husband's family. The men of the party went fishing, and my husband caught a rainbow trout. I don't remember how much it weighed, but it made just one nice small portion when cleaned and dressed. As I had never before seen or tasted trout, my husband took great pleasure in preparing it especially for me.

There were sixteen of us present at the reunion, and as it was out of the question to divide anything so small among so many, I felt no selfishness in eating it alone.

Imagine my chagrin when I learned that my husband's little courtesy to me had made one of his sisters so jealous that she packed her clothes and went to the home of another sister, where she stayed three or four days, refusing either to see or to speak to any of us. Mrs. B. T. G.

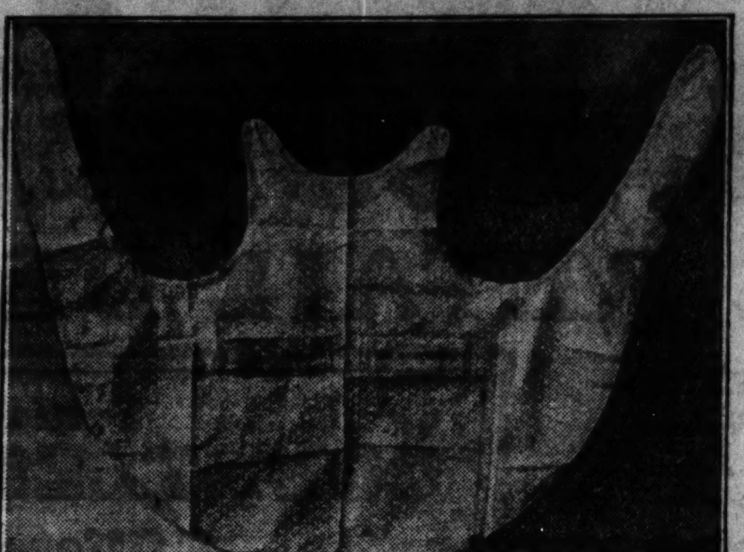
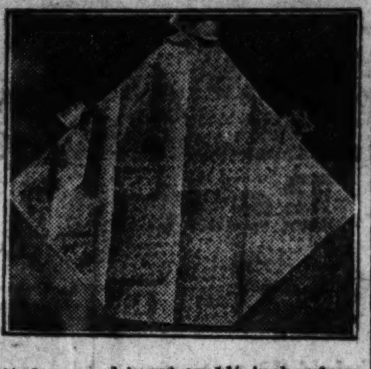
Practical and Fancy Needlework . . . By Clotilde

Old English Cotton Prints Make Delightful Aprons Which Would Be Acceptable as Bridge Prizes or as Gifts.

What is your sewing problem? Do you have trouble in following a pattern? Do you find difficulty in making a skirt hang evenly or making a sleeve that doesn't twist? If there is anything you would like to know about these or other problems of needlework write to Clotilde, The Tribune, Chicago, inclosing a stamped, addressed envelope, if a personal reply is desired.





PRETTY aprons are often acceptable gifts, and these are especially good looking made of one of the old English cotton prints.

One yard for an apron, and the bias binding to finish with are all the materials required. The woman's apron shown is made of white chintz with lavender and orange design, and the banding is lavender. You should have no difficulty in cutting, using the picture as a guide, and with the measurements given.

Fold the material on the length through the middle, and beginning at the fold, cut straight across four inches. Then, measure down on the fold 36 inches and cut straight across eight inches. This will make the apron when opened eight inches across the top and sixteen across the bottom.

Measure up from the bottom on the fold 15 inches, and mark. Then lay your tape measure or a rule straight across the material from this point and mark clearly. Connect the top and bottom points each with a straight line. The edges of the apron are turned up towards the right side all around, the bias banding basted and stitched in place. Then as you can see from the picture there are two strips of the banding stitched across. The pocket is 7 inches wide and the same in depth. The strap that goes over the neck is 18 inches long, and 1¼ inches wide, finished; and the tie strings are set onto the apron 12 inches down from the top.

The child's apron has an orange ground with small blue and white design. The material for this one should also be laid on a fold lengthwise, through the center. From the top of the shoulder straps to the bottom in the front is 25 inches. From here straps curve down toward the fold about 3½ inches. The armhole is cut down 10 inches at the deepest point. The apron measures 5½ inches across from the fold to the armhole at the neck—and the widest part of the apron (which is across on a line from the bottom of the armhole) measures 16½ inches.

From this widest point the straps for the back go up about 15 inches, curving slightly as they go and measuring 3 inches across near the top. As you can see, the apron rounds up toward the sides at the bottom. All edges are finished as in the other apron, and buttonholes are worked on the back straps, and buttons set on the front.

The pocket measures 5½ wide by 4½ deep, and is set on 1½ inches from the middle fold of the material, and the top of the pocket is 10 inches down from the neck line.

In cutting these aprons, mark all measurements on the material and draw connecting lines before cutting the bottom for trimming. The first one is 4 inches up from the bottom, the second one 8. The length of the first one is 14 inches, and the second 8.

The Cheekiest Person I Ever Met

Send us a short, to the point, reminiscence of the cheekiest person you ever met, and we'll pay you $1 for it if we print it. All letters must be addressed to the Cheekiest Person Editor, The Tribune, Chicago.

Hard to Beat.

I have the misfortune to live next door to a "borrower." She borrows stew pans and keeps them for weeks; she borrows my kitchen pepper shaker and returns it sans pepper; but the funniest and surely the cheekiest of happenings occurred the other day.

The back door bell rang and, on opening the door, I found my next door neighbor with a good sized bowl in her hand. She wanted some flour to finish making noodles, which, she said, were already started. I filled her bowl.

In about half an hour the doorbell again rang, and there was my neighbor with half a bowl of coarse scrapings from the molding board.

"My noodles didn't take up all the flour, so here is some left," she said. A. C.

A Silent Reception.

The cheekiest person I have ever met crossed my path the other morning. In the midst of dictation from one of our executives a woman entered our office, unannounced, interrupting us with the inquiry as to whether we had a stenographer.

I wonder what she thought I was, but Mr. H. replied "Yes," with a quizzical look.

She answered rather bluntly that she wanted an envelope addressed and would pay for it. I addressed the envelope, but I believe the "silent reception" she received will keep her from bursting into offices for some time. F. D. L.

Hard Up.

About the most cheekiest man I know of is a switch engineer, who gets about $8 or $9 per day, because he picks the job with the long hours. He goes around the yard and picks up empty milk bottles and peddles them some place.

A few days ago I was eating my lunch and had a bottle of milk. I walked out of the caboose for a few minutes leaving my bottle about half empty. This bozo comes along, takes the milk and puts it in an empty tin can and goes south with the milk bottle. Can you beat it? R. H. M.

Using Them Again.

The cheekiest person I ever saw was running a small hardware store in a newly developed district, and we wholesale dealers found him backward in payment of his accounts. We sent him letter after letter, all of them polite, but each more threatening than the last. Finally we sent our representative down to give him a sporting chance.

"Now," said the caller, "we must have a settlement. Why haven't you sent us anything? Are things going badly?"

"No, everything's going fine. My bankers will guarantee me all right."

"Then why haven't you paid up?"

"Well, you see, those threatening letters of yours were so well got up that I've been copying them and sending them out to some customers of mine who won't pay up, and I've collected nearly all outstanding debts. I was only holding back because I felt sure there must be a final letter, and I wanted to get the series complete." R. B.

Poor Marie!

When our three children were small we had a sick relative living with us and I was obliged to keep a maid to help with the work. My good neighbor across the way felt greatly burdened with keeping house for herself and husband and leading a social life.

One morning after I had been up most of the night with a sick child, her husband came to the door to ask if I would go over and knead Marie's bread, as they had overslept and she had an engagement to have her hair bobbed at nine o'clock! M. G. G.

Favors.

I had to go for a ride with a friend of mine to learn just what CHEEK with a capitol "C" was. She stopped at a drug store to use the phone, then wanted a glass of water. That wasn't all. She bought some stamps. When she got into the car and tried to start it, she couldn't and she had the cheek to ask the drug clerk to see what the trouble was. G. W. C. B.

Bright Sayings of Husbands and Wives

The snappy comeback of the better half when cornered has often been a source of wonder to husbands and wives! The husband or the wife has come across with a bright saying that will never be forgotten by the other half of the matrimonial sketch. What was that bright saying, Mr.? Mrs.? Send it to us, and we'll pay you $1 for it if we print it. Address Bright Sayings of Husbands and Wives, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago.

To Please Her.

After joking about all the scrubbing and cleaning I must do to consume a large amount of laundry soap, Hubby said, "I certainly know I am going to make you happy when you die, because I promise to have you laid out with a couple of bars of soap alongside you. I know heaven will never be clean enough to suit you." H. G. G.

Too Early.

A neighbor went early one morning to have her husband, a barber, cut her hair.

"Have you heard any news this morning?" she asked him.

"No!" he answered. "You're the first woman that's been in." E. M. B.

All's Fair in Love and Politics.

"Before we were married you promised to dry the dishes every evening for me!"

"O, well, that was a campaign promise." A. L. L.

A Monologue.

The tired professor settled himself comfortably for an evening of study.

Wifey, alone all day, chattered away undisturbed at receiving no comments.

After fifteen or twenty minutes the professor looked up, a twinkle in his eye, and said, "Deary, I wish you would stop talking, because every once in a while I find myself stopping my work to listen." L. J. R.

She Had Reached It.

Hubby, who had always been thin, envied fat people, so he told wifey shortly after their marriage, "Dearie, the fatter you get the more I'll love you!"

A few years later wifey weighed 200 pounds and hubby was lamenting the fact. Wifey reminded him of his words of long ago whereupon he replied, "Yes, but my gosh, there is a limit!" D. J. M.

Ouch!

We were at dinner with the Ls. Mrs. L. said: "Before we were married Mr. L. called me from Boston on the long distance. He said he just wanted to hear the sound of my voice. He afterwards told me it cost him $3.85."

"There's been lots of times since then," L. said, "when I would have given $3.85 not to hear the sound of your voice." M. A.

Learned Something.

I had been gone a whole month and when I came home, I asked my husband if he missed me much.

"A little, dear," he replied, "but do you know I learned to be efficient. I can put on my socks from either end, now." L. F.

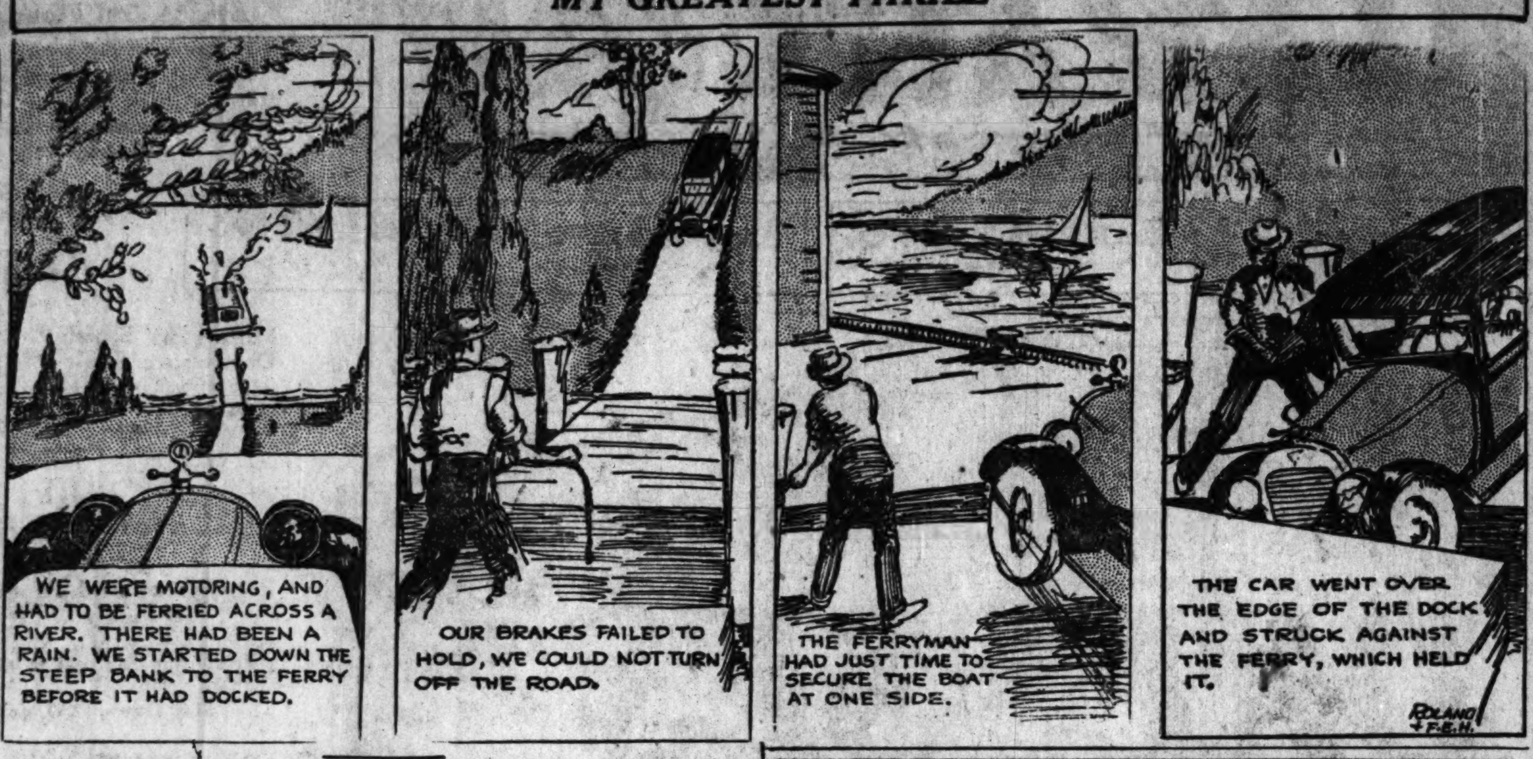
MY GREATEST THRILL



WE WERE MOTORING, AND HAD TO BE FERRIED ACROSS A RIVER. THERE HAD BEEN A RAIN. WE STARTED DOWN THE STEEP BANK TO THE FERRY BEFORE IT HAD DOCKED.
OUR BRAKES FAILED TO HOLD, WE COULD NOT TURN OFF THE ROAD.
THE FERRYMAN HAD JUST TIME TO SECURE THE BOAT AT ONE SIDE.
THE CAR WENT OVER THE EDGE OF THE DOCK AND STRUCK AGAINST THE FERRY, WHICH HELD IT.
ROLAND + F.E.H.

Frightened.

The greatest thrill I ever experienced came to me while I was attending a wedding in a country home at which over seventy-five guests were present, many of them being from out of town. Hardly able to accommodate all of her guests, the hostess was compelled to ask us to double up in our sleeping quarters. I slept with an aunt and her 2 year old baby.

I had been asleep for several hours when suddenly I felt a strong grip on both my shoulders The faint glimmer of moonlight, peering through the window, enabled me to see more clearly a large, dark form leaning over the bed and grappling with my shoulders. For a second I was frozen stiff with fear, then I let out such a scream that I awoke practically all of the guests in adjoining rooms! In a second, however, I heard my aunt's voice, "Don't be afraid, Esther, I was just trying to move you over; you were almost crushing the baby!"

I had little sleep the rest of that night. My fright was so intense it almost made me ill. E. H. W.

Passing the Cemetery.

When I was a small lad I used to go to my aunt's house every summer. She lived in the country near a small church.

One summer evening she took sick, and so my cousin and I were awakened and were sent to the next farm to get a friend to come.

We got up and dressed to go. On the way we had to go past the church, and this church had its little cemetery. We tried to act brave, and we were just turning the corner when something caught on my cousin's shoe. Of course, we were frightened to death and started to run. Soon after we passed the cemetery the thing let go and we got enough courage to look back. We found it was only a small twig.

O, what a relief! A. N.

His First Ride.

I was on my vacation in the country, staying with some people who had two boys younger than I.

Their cousin had a pony and cart and as he lived about a mile from them he always rode over on the pony.

One day I decided to ride the pony back. I rode around the barnyard and out to the road, when to my surprise he started on a fast trot, and as I had never been on a horse's back I did not know how to make him behave and of course lost my head, let loose of the lines and fell off his back.

I was dragged about twenty feet when all of a sudden the pony came to a sudden stop.

I was not hurt much, but that is what I call a real thrill. J. F.

Thrill of Terror.

I had my greatest thrill some weeks ago when Georgie, 4, came to me, saying Dickie, 2½, was on the porch of the second floor.

I thought nothing of it, but went slowly upstairs.

Because we thought it would freeze during the night, the flowers were taken off the home made stand, which was standing up against the bannister on the porch. Dickie had climbed upon it and was leaning over to the waistline above the bannister, calling joyfully to his bigger brother downstairs.

The terrible thrill of this sight still lingers with me, but I lost no time in getting him to safety. The flower stand was taken to the basement the same day. J. S.

Feeding a Snake.

I got an awful thrill one day. I gave my baby a bowl of milk and bread by the doorstep, and went about my work. Pretty soon I heard my baby repeating, "You eat too much." Curious, I went to the door and there was a huge black snake eating baby's bread and milk and my small angry daughter ready to strike it with her spoon.

Thrill, and then some. A. N.

Only Joking.

One evening we had driven from the United States across the Mexican border. As we returned our car was inspected for booze as well as foreigners, which is the custom at the border. The officer looked us all over and settled his vision on my husband. The latter had a rather dark complexion and had a peculiar slant to his eyes.

My heart stood still when the officer remarked, "Can't let Japs across the border; car will have to go back."

Just then I recognized a little twinkle in the officer's eyes, and he motioned us on. J. W.

$5 Apiece for Bright Sayings

After the arrival of her baby sister, Sally was transferred from her crib to another bed and she was not at all pleased over the newcomer's usurping of her former sleeping quarters.

One day when her mother went into the nursery to put the baby to bed she found the crib in a state of upheaval. As she approached, a small but firm voice from beneath the covers announced: "This bed is alweady occapied." H. H.

I am staying at a house where there is a little girl, aged 6. When my boy friend comes to see me he usually brings a box of candy. Little Doris always manages to express her appreciation in a simple, childlike way.

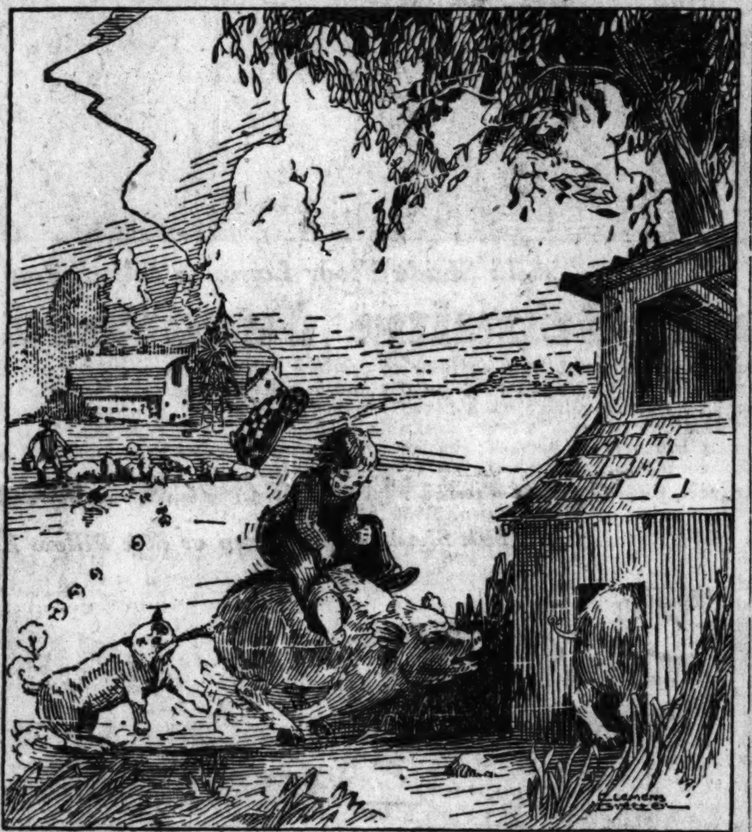
One evening as I passed her the box she said: "I'm awful glad you live with us, 'cause I think you come in handy around here." D. G. W.

Fred and Eleanore had been promised a party on George Washington's birthday. Fred, who was 6, listened attentively to his teacher's discussion of the life of this great national hero.

On his return from school that afternoon, several days before the party, he said, "Mother, is George Washington dead now?"

At his mother's affirmative reply, he cried out in a disappointed tone of voice, "O, shucks, then we can't have the party, can we?" I. L. F.

Hippity SKip Puzzle



ISN'T IT ODD

by William Atherton Du Puy

ISN'T it odd that so dignified a person as Uncle Samuel himself should be a party to a scheme of spying on the family lives of giddy little house wrens and establishing the fact that, after all, Jennie and Johnnie are not true to each other!

For generations those who have bird houses have woven for themselves a happy romance which conceived the same couple returning always to the same nest to rear one brood after another. But now it has been shown that this is not the fact. The same group of birds does return year after year to the same garden. That has now been proven. But individuals swap wives and husbands in a way that is little less than scandalous.

It is only during the last decade that a method of keeping tab on birds has been devised which results in accurate information where before there was but surmise. The basis of this scheme is a tiny metal band with a number on it that can be put on the leg of a given bird and will stay there. This gives the bird a permanent identity.

Many people in the north in the summer put these bands on birds. They send the numbers and certain facts to the biological survey in Washington. There a card is filed for each. Many people in the south in the winter capture these banded birds. They send the band numbers and the facts of when and where they were taken also to Washington. Thus it may be found that a blue goose travels all the way from the arctic to Louisiana, and that the mallard duck summers along the 50th degree of latitude and winters along the 30th.

But the information about wrens is more intimate. It can mostly be worked out in any man's garden. One has but to arrange a trap door in his wren houses and a ledger for his records to begin his experiments. He can capture the Jennies and Johnnies and band them. Maybe he has a half dozen pairs of them in his garden. He knows which couples are mated and in which houses they live for the hatching of the first brood in the spring.

These young ones fly away and the mature birds set busily about preparations for the second brood. Each merry couple makes a new nest. When they are safely at home the bird lover snaps down the trap doors and makes his record of the numbers on the legs of the individuals that are in each nest.

He is horrified to learn that they are all swapped around. The group of birds is the same but, barring accidents, no two are together that mated for the spring brood. The idyllic myth of wren constancy has been exploded.

Feeding the Pigs Down on the Farm

By Clem

HOOO-WE-E! H-o-o-o-o-w-e-e! H-o-o-o-w-i!

"Listen, what's that?

Hippity was sitting up and staring wonderingly.

"H-o-o-o-w-e-e! H-o-o-o-w-i!"

"Can you hear it, Skip?" On the second outburst, which sounded like the war cry of a savage—or perhaps a warning, Skip jumped up from the bed of straw and a horse blanket which the farmer gave the two to share for the night, and slowly crept to the window, his ears back ready to spring.

Reaching the window, his attitude changed. First his stubby tail gave a little jerk, then another, and finally a whole lot of little jerks. Why, of course, the farmer was feeding the pigs, and when any one eats, even if it is pigs, Skip's tail begins to wag; it says, "Gimme!"

In a short time the two were running to help, or to help themselves, since Skip looked at it that way. And when Hippity asked to carry a pail the farmer readily consented, for he was trying to carry three pails at a time.

Everything went smoothly until Hippity began pouring the oats. An old sow in her eagerness to be the first to get the grain, squeezed in and Hippity found himself upon her back. A second later he was flying across the pasture in leaps and bounds, deafened by the shrill squeal of the pig.

And so you see him in the picture. Now use your imagination and picture what follows. Can you see the farmer's wife, his horse, and the pitchfork? They are all in the picture.

Music Mountain Moves to Uptown Mohamet

By Edward Moore.

IT was only about two years ago that some people on that part of the north side centering around Wilson avenue made a remarkable discovery. They conceived the idea that if they would bring music to the public instead of forcing the public to travel several miles to hear music, more of the public would go to hear music.

CARL FRIEDBERG
In piano recital at the Goodman today.

With that thesis as a focal point of operations, they organized themselves into what is now called the Uptown Civic concerts, hired the Arcadia auditorium on Broadway near Wilson avenue for a series of six Sunday afternoons, engaged six major musical attractions, and paused to observe what would happen.

Plenty happened. So much happened that they continued the same plan of activities the next winter. They learned conclusively what they had imagined before, that many people regard a trip down to the loop district as a bit of a chore, to be undertaken in the course of necessary business, but to be avoided if anything more amusing presents itself as a substitute, also that they are willing to regard music with high approval when that music is brought close to them.

This, then, is a prelude to the announcement that the Uptown Civic concerts will begin a third season of concerts at Arcadia auditorium this afternoon. This first program will be presented by a music making assemblage that is making its first visit to Chicago. It is the Russian Symphonic choir, directed by Basil Kibalchich, who used to be a conductor of Russian choral music under the czarist régime.

Advance reports relay the information that it is a different sort of organization from the customary chorus, which has its soprano, contralto, tenor, and bass sections. This one is a choir of twenty-two, wherein each individual voice bears its own part in the general scheme.

Organizing a "Human Orchestra."

Mr. Kibalchich is said to select his choir members with the care a conductor of a symphony orchestra uses in the selection of each member of his orchestra. He gives particular care to the timbre of each voice, to the range, to the quality of the voice and finally to the solo abilities of each singer, with the result that the Russian choir is really a body of solo singers joined together under the leadership of a master musician in order to produce this organization, which its admirers call a human orchestra.

Mr. Kibalchich has a long musical history of achievement. He was born in Tchernigoff, Southern Russia, in the center of a region rich in folk lore, folk songs and choral singing. He studied in the class of Rimsky-Korsakoff, one of Russia's greatest composers since Tschaikowsky. He perfected himself on the cello as his instrument, but choral conducting still occupied his mind.

In 1906 he was invited to lead the most famous of Russian choral organizations, the Archangelsky choir of Petrograd. Six years later he made a two years' tour of Russia as conductor of the choir of the Petrograd conservatory of music and gained a national reputation for his original ideas in scoring for choral bodies. In 1912 he became choir conductor at the Russian cathedral of Geneva, Switzerland, and later became choir conductor at the Russian cathedral in Paris.

It was at this time that he organized the Russian Symphonic choir. He toured Europe with it, and two seasons ago presented it for the first time to a New York audience. Not only are folk songs and church music a conspicuous part of its repertoire, but it also gives arrangements of popular light classics, originally written for the piano and known to every music lover.

A Busy Week for the Symphony.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra is facing one of its ordinary weeks of activity. Tomorrow night it will go to Milwaukee for a concert, Tuesday afternoon another at Mandel hall, Thursday afternoon the first of the children's concerts, Friday afternoon and Saturday night, the regular weekly concerts. Apart from these and a few rehearsals fitted in here and there as the case may be, it will probably not have a thing to do.

The children's concert Thursday afternoon will be the first of the eighth season. Like the "pops," the children's series have become institutions that other orchestras about the land look at with interest, some imitate, and a few proceed to claim as their own invention. On this program the orchestra will play Mozart's "Turkish March," the slow movement from Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, Weber's "Invitation to the Dance" in the Weingartner arrangement, and three shorter numbers. Mr. Stock will explain the numbers and illustrate them with stereopticon slides and individual orchestral instruments. It is a music lesson de luxe, education administered without the slightest distress to the recipient.

The Friday afternoon and Saturday night programs will have a novelty. It is a set of concert selections from John Alden Carpenter's "Skyscrapers." This is the ballet that Mr. Carpenter wrote and which the New York Metropolitan Opera company accepted and produced with much energy, but over which the Chicago organization, which might have gone further and done much worse, declined to become excited. Other numbers on the program will be Bach's Fourth Suite and Brahm's Second Symphony.

"The Wets and Drys."

Mr. Sousa's annual humorous piece, which he and his band will play at the Auditorium next Sunday, is called "The Wets and the Drys." It has a somewhat more definite program than some of the others of the same kind. This is Mr. Sousa's own explanation:

"'Have a Little Drink,' says the Wet to his friend, the Dry, who has been singing 'How Dry I Am.' 'I don't care if I do,' says the Dry. 'How about "Tea for Two?"' So they go off to a Thé Dansant, where the orchestra is playing 'How Dry I Am' as a Spanish dance. Refreshed by the cup that cheers but does not inebriate, the Wet and the Dry take a walk 'Down Where the Wurtzburger Flows.'

"'I know something better than that,' says the Dry. 'Let's get a drink out of "The Old Oaken Bucket".' They march to the well, singing 'The Soldiers' Chorus.' 'What a drink!' exclaim Wet and Dry in unison as they quaff deep from the well. 'We Won't Go Home 'Till Morning,' and they stay at the well until dawn, finally parting to the tune of 'Auld Lang Syne' as they think of the good old days before prohibition when people drank water."

Odds and Ends from the Opera.

Mme. Eide Norena, the Norwegian coloratura soprano, who joins the Chicago Civic Opera company shortly, will make her first appearance in America tomorrow evening at Carnegie hall, New York, in a reception recital arranged by her countrymen of the eastern metropolis.

Toti Dal Monte has arrived in America to join the opera company after a concert season in the antipodes. The Italian coloratura soprano sang fifty concerts in Australia and New Zealand during the summer and fall, and as she does not make her appearance with the Civic Opera until the closing performance of the first week, she is taking advantage of the situation to make a series of phonograph records in the east.

AUTUMN DAYS SAW SOME GOOD FILMS

OCTOBER'S SIX BEST PHOTOPLAYS.

MEN OF STEEL	SUBWAY SADIE
GIGOLO	MY OFFICIAL WIFE
UPSTAGE	SO'S YOUR OLD MAN

By Mae Tinee.

GOOD MORNING!

Where were you when you should have been writing Oct. 1 leads for me? Am I going to have to BRIBE you to start me off on my "Six Best" the first of every month? Is that nize for you to be so cagey? You write me snappy symposiums about other things—why so coy about the "Six Best"? Not scolding, you understand. Just cut to the core by your indifference. Bleeding at the heart. Stunned. Shaken. Torn by disappointment. (Call a surgeon.) AND, while waiting——

MILTON SILLS
[G. Maillard Kesslere Photo.]

"MEN OF STEEL" is the new Milton Sills melodrama, and O, what a melodrama is it! Strong meat for strong movie 'mirers, grilled over the fiery furnaces of real steel mills. May I quote: "There's no faking to the background of this picture. Scenes requiring the glare and stress of the infernos where steel is made were taken in and around real mills. Steel workers were commandeered and became actors at times when the action called for manipulation of machinery that no layman would dare take a chance at operating or no owner permit a layman to touch

"Perfectly fascinating, these glimpses into the steel mills . . ." and so on.

Mr. Sills wrote the story himself, giving credit for its suggestion to a story, "United States Flavor," by R. G. Kirk. As filmed, it is exciting and well done—beautifully photographed. There's a little low comedy in it that will be objectionable to some, but the rank and file, I think, will consider "Men of Steel" a great movie.

"GIGOLO" made a great impression on me. Rod La Rocque, you know, starring in an Edna Ferber story, which was in the main the character study of a decent young fellow with whom Fate played cat and mouse. The result of much water running under the bridge is a Paris dancing man, "as sleek and oily and polished as his own greased hair." This the fine, clean cut lad of the earlier part of the film.

The picture, finely directed, holds you tense as it tells the story of the fall and rise of Gideon Gory. Mr. La Rocque was supported by an A1 cast, headed by Louise Dresser. You will think, as I do, that "Gigolo" is a brilliant and honest bit of screen literature.

"UPSTAGE" is a fascinating film, guaranteed to please everybody who likes to see a splendid story dished up attractively for film fare.

It is the story of a little girl with a big head who finds, backstage, that it doesn't pay in this life to be upstage. She discovers what most of us do, that the wheels we thought could only be greased by our presence, keep right on running, be we ever so far away, and that there isn't a job in the world that somebody else can't fill quite as satisfactorily as ourselves.

The saying that "the thing simply couldn't go on without him—or her"—is words, idle words—as Dolly finds out. It can and does and—well, you'd better see "Upstage" for the story of "Upstage," but I want to remind you that what I said in the review about the picture still holds good.

"It is beautifully acted. Norma Shearer has a chance here to show what she can do and she proves her ability beyond any question of a doubt . . . stunning to look at . . . costumes are gorgeous . . . and you'll love Oscar Shaw. . . . He's a 'regular.' . . . Everybody else in the cast is splendid. . . . The picture isn't too long. 'S matter of fact, it's so interesting that a couple of reels more would have gone all right. No they wouldn't. But that "Upstage" is pretty much as it should be is proved by the fact that you THINK you would have liked to see a couple of reels more."

"SUBWAY SADIE" is another winner. Dorothy Mackaill, Jack Mulhall, Charlie Murray, and some other clever folks officiated at the helm. (Laugh, Captain, laugh!)

The story is of a girl who lives "where the Bronx express comes up for air." She falls in love, much against her wishes, with a subway guard. She fights her fatal affection as long as she can, but at last gives in and agrees to marry the irresistible fellow WHEN

The chance to go to Paris for her firm, that she has always longed for, arrives. And there is a handsome salesman who wants to keep her company over there and make life interesting for her.

It's too much for Sadie. And

She jilts her subway guard. And

Yes, he takes it vurr' vurr' hard. AND

She is just about to board the ship where is awaiting her the salesman bearing orchids when——

A telegram arrives and—yes, you've guessed it. There's been a wreck on the subway AND——

Perhaps you think you know the rest. You don't, though —and as far as I, personally, am concerned, won't untill you see the picture. WHICH

You really must see, for you'll like it a lot. It had good direction, was smartly staged, dressed, and subtitled, was generous with its punches and smiles, and didn't grudge you a tear.

(I told you most of that in the review.)

"MY OFFICIAL WIFE" is quite a thriller. It is the photoplay, brought up to date, in which Clara Kimball Young, Harry Morey, and Earl Williams appeared a number of years ago.

The plot concerns a young Russian noblewoman who is wronged by the drunken son of an archduke whose face she does not see. She vows vengeance and years later tells the man she loves and whom she wants to marry that the marriage cannot take place—and she tells him why, not knowing that the one to whom she's speaking is, in fact, the criminal of that awful night.

Since the commission of the act he has suffered agonies of regret. Discovering that there is no way of shaking her determination, he finally reveals himself as the betrayer. She, of course, spurns, but does not kill. The world war changes many things and the picture has an ending that will satisfy many, though I thought it terribly weak, considering the general excellence of the film.

"My Official Wife" has been intelligently directed and is well acted. It is exciting entertainment. NOT a film for the children.

"SO'S YOUR OLD MAN" presents W. C. Fields at his funniest. HOW you are going to laugh at him.

The picture was adapted from Julian Street's story, "Mr. Bisbee's Princess," and is, I think, one of the funniest cinemas of the year.

No need to tell you the plot. Let the picture do that. You will know without being told that Mr. Fields gets into a peck of trouble and gets out of it again. The getting in and out are what make the film the scream it is.

It's well done from every angle.

If you're wondering why "Men of Purpose" isn't listed, I'll tell you. It isn't a "movie." It's life.

And if you have any other remarks to make—here sit we all ready to receive them.

Them, AND—let's have a guessing contest. What else besides remarks do you think we would like to receive by the Wednesday preceding the FIRST SUNDAY OF NOVEMBER?

See you tomorrow!

The Prohibition Buffoonery

By H. L. Mencken.

UNLESS all signs fail, the advocates of Law Enforcement are doomed to get some bumps in Tuesday's plebiscite. Things have been going badly with them, indeed, for the last two years, and more and more professional politicians, having seen a great light, are becoming wet. This is especially true in the northeastern states, where the devil, as every one knows, has his American G. H. Q. In some of those states both of the opposing candidates for this or that salient office are wet, so the prohibitionists are bound to lose, no matter what happens on election day.

The fact, of course, will not be admitted in their literature, which now swamps every American newspaper office. I turn to the official press sheet of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition (note the antithesis!) and Public Morals, and find a gloating paragraph upon the defeat of the Hon. John Philip Hill at the recent Republican primary in the Maryland free state. What is the truth? The truth is that Hill was beaten in a factional fight that had little, if anything, to do with prohibition, and that both his successful Republican opponent, the Hon. O. E. Weller, U. S. N., ret., and the Hon. Mr. Weller's Democratic opponent, the Hon. Millard E. Tydings, D. S. M., are as wet as Hill is.

So, in many other places, the prohibitionists, like all other zealots, are great frauds. Their statistics are always dubious, and often deliberately manufactured. They long ago filled the public schools with gaudy nonsense about the effects of alcohol upon the vital organs—nonsense that every competent pathologist laughs at. And now they devote themselves to claiming incessantly that they have all the scofflaws on the run, and that prohibition, after six years of vain sweating and fuming, is about to be enforced at last. Who believes it? To my knowledge, no one. Even the more rational prohibitionists of my acquaintance begin to admit sadly that the holy crusade has come a cropper. And the fanatical ones, though they continue to bawl bravely, are plainly uneasy.

When the retired cavalryman, Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, was appointed boss of the prohibition snoopers and blacklegs, in April, 1925, in succession to the preposterous Roy Asa Haynes of the Anti-Saloon league, it was officially announced that the whole country would be made dry in one year. To this end Gen. Andrews was given such forces, afloat and ashore, as had never been assembled to enforce a federal statute since reconstruction days in the south. His good faith I assume without question. Cavalrymen have too little imagination to lack it. But what has he accomplished? In the prohibition press sheets, wonders. In reality, nothing.

The supply of contraband booze, in fact, at least along the eastern seaboard, the chief theater of his efforts, is larger and more dependable today than it was when he began, and the prices it brings in the open market have shown a steady decline. There are, to be sure, occasional famines. There are weeks when sound Scotch is scarce and the price rises a bit; there are weeks when decent brandy is almost unobtainable; at all times it is hard to obtain drinkable wines, save only champagne. But there is never any time when booze of some sort or other, perfectly fit to drink, is not on the market, and at reasonable prices. Not once during the year, so far as I know, have the bootleggers actually had to turn their clients away dry.

Moreover, the supply of certain kinds of booze, and certainly not the worst, shows a tendency to increase steadily. There is, for example, beer. It was almost unobtainable in the great Sodoms and Ninevehs of the Atlantic littoral for the first two years after prohibition, but now it seems to be on draft in every saloon. Also, there is gin. I started out in 1920 with such a store that I have never had to buy any, but I have often sampled the current boughten brands in the homes of Christian friends. I hear that the price has been going down as the supply has increased, and I can testify that the quality, far from falling off, has been constantly growing better. Gin is as much an article of daily commerce in New York today as ginger ale, and it is almost as cheap.

I know nothing by personal experience of the situation in the middle west, where the survival of politicians who moan and mourn for law enforcement indicates that the peasants still believe in prohibition, at least as a theory. If they didn't these same politicians would all be coming out for referendums, as their brethren have already done in the wicked east. But the testimony of impartial observers, well fitted to report, is that the practice of the yokels does not follow their theory. Take Kansas, for example, the natural home of all moral crazes. Two of its most distinguished sons, the Hon. E. W. Howe and the Hon. Jay E. House, spread the news that it is dripping wet. So, I hear, is Iowa, where there are more cows than men. So is Nebraska.

Of the south, the other stronghold of malignant morality, it is not necessary to speak The rich, taproom scent of its communal breath is smellable as far away as Nova Scotia. Its woods are full of stills, and its towns swarm with booticians, white and black. Every few weeks it is rocked by another scandal, with prohibition agents taken in flagrante and the trail of moonshine leading to high toned doors. Twice its fevered guzzling has brought down the celestial wrath, first in the form of the Scopes trial, which ruined Tennessee, and then in the form of the Miami hurricane, which came near ruining Florida, the land of vision. Of late its more enlightened states have taken to heaving their dry politicians out of office: the case of the Hon. Willie Upshaw, hireling of the Anti-Saloon league, will be recalled.

North of the Potomac and east of the Ohio it is now positively dangerous for a politician to be suspected of having truck with the wowsers. The very frauds who, five years ago, were cultivating the W. C. T. U. are now denouncing one another as not wet enough. Even when law enforcement is put into party platforms, to placate and bamboozle the rural Methodists, the candidates who stand upon those platforms are wet. Nay, even when the candidates are dry they are wet—as any experimenter will discover who offers one of them a drink.

Thus prohibition is in collapse everywhere, and it seems plain that the peak of the law enforcement frenzy has been passed. Andrews will probably blunder along, his spurs jingling, for another year or so, and then quietly retire to the shades of the Army and Navy club. If he fails during this second year as he has failed during his first, he will be a public joke, even among prohibitionists. If, on the contrary, he manages to tighten the screws, there will be such an uproar that Dr. Coolidge, facing the 1928 campaign, will have to throw him out in self-defense. In either case he is doomed.

But prohibition itself, I believe, will continue to adorn the books for many years. Getting rid of it, in fact, will be next to a constitutional impossibility so long as the half million people of so measly a state as Idaho have the same two votes in the senate that belong to the eleven million of New York. Pennsylvania, with 8,720,017 population in 1920 and overwhelmingly wet, is checkmated by its neighbor, Delaware, with 223,003, mainly flea bitten rustics. Even modifying the Volstead act, in the face of this stacking of the cards, will be extremely difficult. The Anti-Saloon league will remain in business so long as it can keep upon its pay roll the chief job seekers of the more backward states, which will probably be forever. It is strongest precisely where population is thinnest and common decency is rarest.

But to keep prohibition on the books is one thing, and to enforce it is quite another. As I say, I believe that it has seen its best days among us. Year by year the eighteenth amendment will retreat into the shadows, following the fourteenth and fifteenth. The fourteenth was proclaimed in 1868 and the fifteenth in 1870, and thereafter the full military and naval power of the federal union was thrown into the effort to enforce them. So late as 1890, indeed, the Lodge Force bill showed that this effort was a live issue. The struggle lasted twenty years—and then both amendments were quietly put on ice. The eighteenth, after less than seven years, is already headed for the refrigerator.

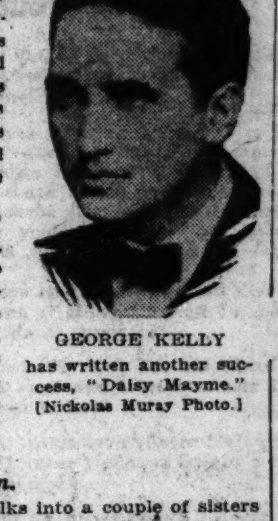
GEORGE KELLY'S PEN IS DIPPED IN TRUTH

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—In "Daisy Mayme," which is George Kelly's first play this year, last year's Pulitzer prize winner continues his ruthless exposure of the American home. The new play is a kind of combined "Craig's Wife" and "Show-Off." Daisy, the heroine, is a wholesome sort of egotist with a rollicking laugh that shatters gloom and confuses the opposition. And she is opposed to just such another unlovely feminine as was Mrs. Craig. The new play revels in its character exposures, and though it has less comedy than "The Show-Off" and less incisive drama than "Craig's Wife," it follows old Dr. Munsey's idea of retaining the best features of each, and in popular acclaim will probably land somewhere between the two.



GEORGE KELLY
has written another success, "Daisy Mayme."
[Nickolas Muray Photo.]

The heroine of "Daisy Mayme" is a Harrisburg, Pa., spinster of 40, who refuses to permit middle age to wither her or custom and conventions to stale her wholesome variety. Meeting Cliff Mettinger, a 43 year old bachelor, and his niece at Atlantic City, Daisy accepts their invitation to go home with them for a week's visit.

Victory Because of Opposition.

In the Mettinger home she walks into a couple of sisters who do not purpose seeing their well-to-do brother caught in the net of any conspiring female, and especially one who giggles happily at every excuse. They want what he has for themselves and their children.

Daisy does not want to marry Cliff, but she feels a call to rescue him from this depressing home atmosphere. The more the sisters seek to belittle her influence the stronger she grows with Cliff, and the more deliberate their attacks the more conclusive their defeat. In the end she has outwitted, outlaughed, and outpointed the family, and gazes a little sadly but also a little happily about her new kingdom. She has lost the freedom of Harrisburg and her notion shop, but she has gained the sort of home and the type of man she has always dreamed about.

Jessie Burley has come back from a far off past to play Daisy with her old rippling laugh and a fine spirit. Alma Kruger is the unlovely opposition. Josephine Hull scores again as a talkative but well meaning stylish stout person, as she did in the Craig play. Carlton Brickert is the husband.

A Tragi-Comedy of the Great American Dub.

When the curtain rises on J. P. McEvoy's "God Loves Us," the audience looks into the skeletonized frame of a big building. It is the interior of a motto factory, the home of Dawson & Co., "publishers of greeting cards for all occasions."

Off stage a bell rings. Immediately the scene becomes alive. Seemingly, hundreds of clerks begin walking up and down miles of steel stairways and across open platforms set with office furniture. It is luncheon hour, and the boys and girls are chattily on their way to the succulent banana split and the malted chocolate.

When we settle to the story we discover Hector McInerney Midge, assistant sales manager of Dawson & Co., and the author of the bit of verse from which the play takes its title. The cards bearing Mr. Midge's discovery of the Lord's interest in humanity are among the firm's best sellers, but they have not helped Mr. Midge to a position of any security. He is just about able to scratch out a living for himself and his family, keeping no more than a short jump ahead of his pursuing creditors. But he looks forward to the day when he will be made sales manager. It is Mr. Midge's intention, we gather, to do more or less stepping out when that happens. The fact that he has served Dawson & Co. faithfully for twenty-five years has taken the edge off Mr. Midge's enthusiasm, but he is still eager.

And then Mr. Dawson names his son, Dawson Jr., as sales manager, and Dawson Jr. threatens to can Mr. Midge if he does not look smart and keep his wits about him.

"God Loves Us," in other words, is again the tragi-comedy of the great American dub, the plodding human whose neck is scarred with the heelprints of the oppressor. It is a keen and observant satire of American business life and character somewhat in the spirit of "Beggar on Horseback," and it has its happy moments.

One of these vividly pictures a go-getters' dinner with all the get together trimmings. The cheer leader gives everybody a hand, even that grand old go-getter of another day, Saul of Tarsus. Mr. Dawson, on behalf of the employers, makes a speech for the people, by the people conceived in liberty and these United States. Mr. Midge welcomes the new members and keeps the boys pepped up.

The Defeat of Midge.

In another scene the employés' association of Dawson & Co. gives a fancy dress ball, which Mr. Midge attends as a knight in shining armor and gets a little bit tight. Which does not prevent the other employés from electing him president.

But none of these adventurous interludes can affect the turns of fate. Mr. Midge, smarting under the brutalities of Dawson Jr., speaks his mind in a last effort to retain his self-respect and is fired. For three months thereafter he seeks work and can't find it. Nobody wants a middle aged man, especially a middle aged poet who writes greeting cards.

In the end, worn down by Mrs. Midge's nagging, lacking in courage to try anything new, Midge goes back to work for Dawson & Co. at his old salary.

The play leaves him sticking pins in a map of the United States. The pins follow the sales of the Dawson cards. At the moment there appears to be a run on "God couldn't be everywhere, so he made mothers," but "Cheer up, little girl, you're a long time dead; besides, when you cry, your nose gets red," is going very well, too.

In the old days McEvoy wrote cards for a Minneapolis firm, and some of his acquaintances insist his "God Loves Us" is sufficiently close to his own experiences to warrant the assumption that he is getting even with somebody. It is an amusing entertainment, but a little bitter, and there is not much life to it. I doubt its commercial value. The drama of frustration that strikes unerringly close to home is not often the play the people want to buy.

J. C. Nugent, father of the Nugents of "Kempy" and "The Poor Nut," is playing Midge and making him acceptably true to type and kind. Helen Lowell is his wife, Malcolm Williams the elder Dawson, and Dorothy Peterson a stenographic blonde.

Aged Stuff, but Good.

Willard Mack, whose theater sense is as good as that of any man of his time, has brought in a new melodrama called "The Noose," which he has taken from a short story H. H. Van Loan wrote for the magazines. And as I watched an audience being gripped and held by its quite frankly theatrical plot, I was convinced again that there probably is no more satisfying experience in the theater for the average playgoer than that of coming unexpectedly upon a well written, well played melodrama that grips his interest and stirs his emotions.

"The Noose" opens in the office of a western governor. It is early evening, and some time after midnight a boy named Nickie Elkins is to be hanged. For weeks the boy has mysteriously refused to talk, either about himself or the murder. He had killed the leader of a band of bootleggers with whom he had associated for years. And when they ask him why, he merely repeats over and over, "He was no good!"

The situation is not dissimilar to that with which the H. B. Warner drama of last year, "Silence," was started, and

This Thing and That Thing of the Theater

By Frederick Donaghey.

MRS. INSULL'S experiment files a claim to being not only the most interesting event of the new week (and that isn't much of a claim), but also to being one of the most interesting events of the stage-season in the United States. That a person of sufficient private means should be able to rent a handsome and adequate theater and conduct therein a resident company for the making-known of new plays and the revival of old ones has long been a formula insisted upon by the doctrinaires of the drama as the one true process of bettering the theater as an institution in this country; a process, most of them admit, that is to be preferred without question to having an institution subsidized by government. Nobody is engaged elsewhere in a like enterprise, so far as I know. Miss Le Gallienne's venture in New-York as an actor-manager is something quite unlike Mrs. Insull's: the former's avowed interest is in plays without general appeal or widespread interest, and her notions are distressingly art-y and, as she likes to believe, "revolutionary."

ARTHUR BYRON
He's in "The Shelf," and is making a minor rôle appear important.

When, more than a year ago, Mrs. Insull talked to me of her project, she was in deadly earnest, and of the belief that the theater lost something of great value in the breaking-up and dissolution of the respective companies maintained for years in New-York by Augustin Daly, A. M. Palmer, Daniel Frohman, and Charles Frohman. And she made the good point that, while the roster of those companies contained the names of many players who rank in memory as celebrities, those players were not celebrities then. "What a cast that was!" we hear the antiquarians exclaim as they talk of this or that piece given by the players of Daly's or the Madison-Square or the Lyceum or the Empire, followed by the rhetorical question, "Where are there such actors today?" The old boys are defiant as they hurl the inquiry: they just dare you to answer. And the easy way is not to give the answer, which is obviously (a) that there are always enough actors for the task of the moment, and (b) that much of the acting admired in retrospect would classify as ham if we had to sit under it in the conditions of the present.

The play was as important then as the play is now: those storied casts didn't attract the ticket-buyers to what the ticket-buyers didn't care for. Plays failed with a cast including Henry Miller, William Faversham, Miss Viola Allen, Miss Ida Conquest, Robert Edeson, J. E. Dodson, Miss May Robson, and William Thompson: they were at one time of Charles Frohman's company—an enterprise which, by name, outlasted the three others. Plays failed for Mr. Daly when he had Miss Ada Rehan, John Drew, Mrs. Gilbert, and James Lewis in them. The combined graces and gifts of Herbert Kelcey, Miss Georgia Cayvan, Nelson Wheatcroft, Mr. and Mrs. Whiffin, Mr. and Mrs. Walcott, Fritz Williams, W. J. Lemoyne, and Miss Effie Shannon were as nothing in some of the pieces staged by Daniel Frohman. And Mr. Palmer knew weeks and weeks and weeks when he was compelled to look elsewhere than in the till for the wages of Maurice Barrymore, Mrs. Agnes Booth, E. M. Holland, Miss Maud Harrison, Harry Woodruff, J. H. Stoddart, Reuben Fax, and others with "names" whom he carried in a single pay-roll. . . .

Nor does the argument lean toward the value of players rather than of plays when I add that there are actors today in the American theater whose individual weekly income would have paid off any of the four companies whose personnel I have indicated above.

As to a Queen's Entrepreneuse.

Although Miss Loie Fuller has published two autobiographies, the reporters specializing in the Queen of Rumania's touring barbecue are a bit errant in data when they seek to invest her with an American past. She was an ambitious and radical little somebody of the stage here in her day, and possessed the interest of critics and of general playgoers long before she devised what was known as the Serpentine. She was for a season the late N. C. Goodwin's leading-woman, and made a name for herself in the title-part of "Little Jack Sheppard," an old-time burlesque from the London Gaiety in which Goodwin, as Jonathan Wild, was at his best. It was in that piece I, as a kid in knickers, first saw her; and thereafter I saw but one soubrette in burlesque to be compared with her—the famed Nellie Farren. Miss Fuller shied at nothing; she acted Shakspere, gave song-recitals, played in farces from the French, and hired herself out as a danseuse.

The Serpentine, as she did it, had a definite loveliness; but it was less a dance than a demonstration of her acute sense of rhythm and her feeling for movement and color. Its mechanics were so easy of achievement that within a year there were dancers of the Serpentine by the hundred on the American stage;—and there wasn't one of the counterfeits who didn't use the music selected by Miss Fuller for her first disclosure of the dance: a light, feathery little composition by Gillert called, I think, "Recollections of the Ball."

It is my belief that Miss Fuller worked out and patented a device for simulating live flame that is still in use in theaters the world over, and still a source of revenue to her because of her patents. It consists of throwing colored lights on scalloped and tongued bits of thin cloth kept in motion by fans. It is used in an episode in the current issue of the Greenwich Village Follies; and, like so many of the devices of the stage, is more nearly like the real thing than the real thing itself would be. Her sister, Miss Ida Fuller, was for many years a headliner in the varieties, using the lightings and colorings of her celebrated kinswoman; and to her producers of plays had to go for license and terms for the use of the flame-effect.

Miscellany.

An eager note from Mr. Woods is to the effect that "Hymn to Venus" is in the vein of "The Captive," the French play about a sex-invert now among the box-office successes in New York. . . . And it is the same Mr. Woods, it turns out, who has persuaded Mr. and Mrs. Guitry to come to this country to act.

Noël Coward, in whose "This Was a Man!" Miss Francine Larrimore and A. E. Matthews are preparing to perform, has another piece ready. It is called "Semi-Monde," and is said to be one of the plays regarded by Mr. Coward as unfit for production in England because of what he regards as the stupidity of the censor.

The London reporters don't think much of "Sunny" as a matter of words and music, but believe that it will be immensely prosperous there, where Miss Dorothy Dickson has the rôle wherein Miss Marilyn Miller has been dancing the last year in New-York, and Jack Buchanan that played by Jack Donohue. The reporters seem deeply impressed with the dancing of Miss Ula Sherman, a pretty sprite who has been in Chicago in two issues of the Greenwich Village Follies.

"Ned McCobb's Daughter" is the name of something new by Sidney Howard, author of "They Knew What They Wanted." . . . Stanley Lupino, here last season with Mitzi in "Naughty Riquette," is to be with Miss Peggy Wood in "The Nightingale," an operetta whereof Jenny Lind is the heroine.

the grip of it is practically as holding.

They bring the boy in and he again refuses even to support his attorney's plea for a reprieve, and they send him back to the death house. Then the action goes back eight weeks to the commission of the crime. Young Elkins, having lived all his life with crooks particularly with Buck Gordon, suddenly feels an urge to know something about his parentage and to quit bootlegging. He has met a gal, a nice gal and there is a faint hope that perhaps if he could polish his ways a little and clean up his family record he would be justified in letting her interest in him grow.

When he demands this information from Gordon the latter not only sneeringly tells him of his illegitimacy but boasts that he (Gordon) is about to turn the story to account.

Nicky's mother, it happens, is now the wife of the governor of the state, and the governor is in no position to invite scandal. Therefore Buck Gordon and his gang can take all the chances in the world without fear of being jailed. As neat a setting for a little swell blackmail as any Gordon had ever known. Whereupon they fall to fighting, and the boy, losing his head under the sting of Gordon's taunts, shoots him dead and gives himself up.

An Excited Crowd.

That is pretty bald theater, but you would be amazed the hold it takes upon the crowd. The concluding act, played back in the governor's home early next morning after a reprieve of three days has been granted, is almost as taut and tearful as that of "An American Tragedy."

Here the boy and his mother face each other, he knowing who she is, she knowing no more than that he curiously commands her greatest pity. There is a letter he has written which she is to read after he has been hanged, and now he is afraid they are not going to hang him and his secret will be found out through the letter.

Finally the boy goes back to prison, the promise being that his sentence will be commuted and that the governor will later find a way to pardon him.

Sousa Gets Another Birthday-Party Here

The birthday anniversaries of John Philip Sousa have a delightful tendency to show up in his personal calendar on or near the day of his annual visit to Chicago with his band. The actual date is November 6 of each year, and has been no other date for the last seventy-two years. His visit here is next Sunday, November 7. He celebrated his seventieth anniversary here two years ago, when a special dinner was given for him by the musical elect of the city. He was in Chicago for his sixty-fourth anniversary; but there was no special celebration. For one reason, he was sick abed; for another, the country was still at war, with the signing of the Armistice still some days off. Lieutenant Sousa, ordered to take the battalion band he had organized at Great Lakes to Toronto and participate in a celebration there, left his bed and carried out orders. He gave a concert in the open air in the Ontario capital of a Sunday. In the first hours of the next day the Armistice was signed; and later that Monday morning Sousa was carried from his hotel on a stretcher to the train and sent home, where he was desperately ill for months. No: the March-King had no birthday-party in 1918.

He is to have one, however, between the afternoon and evening concerts next Sunday, when, it is expected, the guest-list will be in the main a duplicate of that prepared in 1924. Tributes of the kind to Sousa ought to have a special significance in Chicago because of the work he did here in the war. So also should his annual visit have something of special meaning and appeal; for, in the nature of life as it is, even great bandmasters, when they have counted off seventy-two years, have fewer visits to look forward to than to look back upon.

Up in Milwaukee, where he will be Saturday, the plan is said to be to have for the centre-piece of a dinner not a cake with seventy-two candles, but seventy-two cakes each with one candle,—meaning, maybe, among other meanings, that each year of his life has had its own especial illumination.

"'Princess Flavia' is a thing of beauty to the eye. A brave, a rousing, a handsome, and tuneful show." Frederick Donaghey—Tribune.

'Princess Flavia,' another of those grand and great operettas from the house of Shubert, and like 'Blossom Time' and 'The Student Prince,' is a beautiful sight for the eyes and sound for the ears. Stirring music, handsomely sung, opulent settings and costumes, romance and adventure—large choruses well sung, danced and marched. There doesn't seem to be anything lacking." —John Joseph, Herald-Examiner.

"It dazzles with the brilliance of its score, with the beauty and extravagance of its settings. It is an elaborate operetta. Margaret Mann Crolius—News.

"Romantic, handsome and gay. 'Princess Flavia' triumphs. Go to it by all means even if you have to drive there in a flivver." Fred McQuigg—American.

"A royal thing right royally performed. A lavish production, fine music and a capital company make this one of the season's best." Virginia Dale—Journal.

"Here is a musical comedy with all the essentials of the real thing—romance, personal pulchritude, vocal excellence thruout. Long may it stay." H. Campbell Duncan—Post

Odds-and-Ends of Stage-News

INDICATIONS are that the Princess will be closed for at least a week after the taking-off, Saturday next, of "Kongo"; while, as stated in THE TRIBUNE of Thursday last, the next attraction will probably be "The Leap," by Edward Locke, with Louis Wolheim at the head of the cast. . . . "The Great Temptation," which is now on view in the New-York Winter-Garden, will, it is thought, be sent to Chicago in succession to the Greenwich Village Follies in the Apollo.

Miss Charlotte Learn goes into the cast of "The Shelf," succeeding Miss Thelma Ritter as Miss Batterson, a starved little spinster who permits herself a moment of purple enthusiasm while she silently applauds the life led by the foot-loose Miss Amaranth, who refuses to be shelved. Miss Ritter moves into the part of the ingénue, vacated by Miss Lee Patrick. . . . And Miss Jessie Ralph is out of the servant's rôle in the piece, and Miss [illegible] Earl is in it.

Le Maire's Affairs nears the end of its Chicago activity, although the actual date of its withdrawal is not made known. . . . It is not likely that the Woods will be used again for an articulate show until late in the spring: the second in the series of Vitaphone entertainments is to be put in there after Mr. Le Maire takes his show away.

The tentative booking in the Playhouse for "The Open Door" is for [illegible] weeks, starting November 28. . . . Mrs. Insull intimates that the second play to be put on by her in the Studebaker will be Clyde Fitch's "The Truth," first acted here by the late Clara Bloodgood, and later by Miss Grace George.

The current issue of Variety reports that about sixty-five per cent of all the plays and shows now to be observed in New-York have tickets on sale in the cut-rate agencies. Theaters there are in excess of things to put into them, although the season of theatergoing may be regarded as in its flush from October 15 onward until the start of Lent. . . . Nothing else among the non-musical novelties is reported as being within sight of "Broadway" as a success; while George White's Scandals, which in other issues had petered out by October 1, is still checked off each week-end as the best of all the song-and-dance shows at the box-office.

Due in Manhattan.

These are the new plays listed for this week in the New-York theaters:

"Loose-Ends," by Dion Titheradge, with himself, Miss Violet Heming, and Miss Molly Kerr. . . . The play has been acted in London. Mr. Titheradge is a well-known English player.

"Seed of the Brute," by Knowles Entrekin, with Robert Ames, Miss Doris Rankin, Miss Hilda Vaughan, and Claude Cooper. . . . The management is disposed to pound on the fact that the play is what is called "strong." It is not Mr. Entrekin's first: he wrote a comic piece, "The Small-Timers," which some reviewers in New-York regarded as clever.

"The Pearl of Great Price," by Robert McLaughlin, with Miss Amelia Bingham, Miss Effie Shannon, Miss [illegible] Hoyt, Miss Claudette Colbert, Miss Margot Kelly, Mrs. William Farnham, and Miss Marion Kirby. . . . The author, a theater-manager in Cleveland, wrote "The Eternal Magdalene," acted early in 1916 in what was then the Grand Opera-House by Miss Julia Arthur. He has had other plays staged, including one named "Decameron Nights," which was admired in London, although not yet put on in this country. "The Pearl of Great Price" has been the subject of annual announcements, by one manager or another, for the last five or six years; and it has had a hearing in Cleveland.

"The Play's the Thing!" by Ferenc Molnar, with Holbrook Blinn, Miss Catherine Dale Owen, Hubert Druce, and Reginald Owen. . . . P. C. Wodehouse has made the adaptation: the German title is "Spiel im Schloss."

Revivals there this week include one of "The Master-Builder," by Miss Le Gallienne, who continues "Saturday Night" and "Three Sisters," and one of "The Little Clay Cart" by the company of the Neighborhood Playhouse, which is said to have found the piece successful last season.

Shifting Playbills

Tonight:

"Alias the Deacon" in the Playhouse.—Transfer from the Studebaker after [illegible] weeks of a piece possessing its merits as popular entertainment.

Tomorrow Night:

"The Runaway Road," with Mrs. Insull, in the Studebaker.—A comedy by Mrs. Gretchen Damrosch Finletter that will be used to open Mrs. Insull's personal tenancy of this theater, which is now under her management. The play was tried out last week in South Bend.

Miss Florence Moore in "She Couldn't Say No" in the Olympic.—The well-known cut-up in a farce by B. M. Kaye that has been on view in New-York.

November 8:

"Hymn to Venus" in the Adelphi.—A new piece by William Hurlbut, with Robert Warwick, Miss Isabel Elsom, H. Reeves-Smith, and Miss Gladys Loyd in the cast.

Otis Skinner in "The Honor of the Family" in the Blackstone.—Return to Chicago, after an absence of more than two years, of the popular actor in his second revival of a piece based on Balzac that was first shown in Chicago, in the Grand Opera-House, in 1908. Mr. Skinner has in this what has been regarded for nearly twenty years as one of his best rôles.

November 10:

"The Game of Love and Death" in the Goodman Memorial.—First time in Chicago of one of a cycle of plays by Romain Rolland with the French Revolution as background: to be acted by the "professional" performers of the theater.

November 22:

"Young Woodley," with Glenn Hunter, in the Blackstone.—An English play about the awakening of biologic consciousness in a schoolboy, with Mr. Hunter here for the first time since his engagement, in 1923, in "Merton of the Movies." The play had a long run last season in New-York.

R. D.

ONE'S HERE, AND ONE'S ON THE WAY

MISS FELICIA DRENOVA

MISS FLORENCE MOORE

MISS DRENOVA is the handsome actress of the sultry and vengeful Antoinette de Maubin in "Princess Flavia." If you are among those who have not yet heard the operetta, the character may be identified to you, if a reader of "The Prisoner of Zenda" (a novel which has been a play and a movie, also), as that of the mistaken lady who loves Black Michael, and turns on him when she learns that his real ambition is to take Flavia to wife. . . . Miss Drenova, it seems, started her stage-career in this city as a member of a band of earnest Poles who acted in their native tongue for the benefit of their impoverished compatriots back home.

Miss Moore is one of the clown-ladies high in favor with American playgoers in recent years. She won notice when the century was younger as a member of the two-a-day "team" of Montgomery and Moore. She's been here in revues, including two of the Music-Box issues, and in a "straight" farce, "Parlor, Bedroom, and Bath." . . . Miss Moore returns tomorrow night in a new farce, "She Couldn't Say No."

BITS OF CHAT ABOUT ART AND ARTISTS

The research classes established by the school of the Art institute in connection with the Field museum have proved extremely satisfactory and extremely popular. The classes are filled to each one's limit. John G. Wilkins has charge of this department, and under his instruction the classes have so developed the art of drawing and designing straight from nature that their standard of work has been adopted by other schools. Mr. Wilkins will teach classes in the Cleveland School of Art, under Henry Turner Bailey, Tuesday and Wednesday of each week, during the coming season.

The first Saturday matinée for children to be given in the Goodman theater this fall is planned for November, and the drama presented will deal with the deeds of Robin Hood. An admission price of 50 cents has been agreed upon, with members admitted at half price.

Dudley Crafts Watson is giving an interesting series of lectures on "Modern Schools of Art" in Fullerton hall every Friday at 2:30 o'clock. Next Friday his special topic will be "Contemporary Schools of Spain."

At the end of its first week of the fall term, the school of the Art institute showed an enrollment of 2,325 students. A waiting list of over one hundred was established for the lower school.

Douglas Chander, who, so it is said, was commanded to paint the first portrait ever made of the prince of Wales, will be a visitor to Chicago in the near future. He is a brilliant young British artist and has a charming wife, and their advent will be an addition to the already delightful ranks of Chicago artists.

J. Jeffrey Grant is leaving soon on a six month trip to Europe, with the intention of making Munich and Vienna two of his chief stopping places.

The Palette and Chisel club bulletin bears the announcement of a prize of $200 offered by Charles H. Worcester for the best work done entirely in the club studio. An exhibition of studio work is planned by the club some time in the near future.

The annual sketch show and bidding sale held at the Palette and Chisel club each fall is announced for next month. It will open Nov. 7 and close Dec. 4. It will be followed by an exhibit of water colors, etchings, block prints, and drawings which will continue until Christmas.

The Chicago Galleries announce the opening last Wednesday of an exhibition of recent paintings by Susan Ricker Knox. It will be on view until Nov. 10.

'Our Mary' Charms New York Once More

By Joan King.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—Chicago recently loaned a star from its operatic firmament to our musical metropolis for a brief glimmer—a star which shone as brightly as ever after an absence of five years from the New York zenith.

Mary Garden it was, in the opening recital of the 1926-'27 Roosevelt series—a 118 pound Mary, arrayed in velvet gown and scarlet turban—with the flash of jewels and the well remembered smile. The voice, with its crisp diction, the same, unchanged by the long absence—the same vivaciousness, inscrutable eyes, shrugging shoulders—all the mannerisms of the old Garden, back once more and welcomed by the anticipated vast crowd with their flowers and their plaudits.

The diva was assisted by Geza de Kresz, Toronto cellist, in two groups of familiar selections from Brahms, Kreisler, Sinigaglia, Dvorak, and Tschaikowsky. M. Jean Densereau accompanied.

One Choir Follows Another.

Gotham, it seems, is to receive a thorough grounding in choir singing this season, if conclusions may be drawn from the number and variety of organizations specializing in this branch of music already offered. First there came Hugh Roberton and his Glasgow choir. Then the Russian symphonic organization and the Ukrainian chorus, and, most recently, the English singers. Incidentally, the first named gave Gotham another performance Sunday afternoon by way of farewell to this country.

Last season Mrs. E. S. Coolidge brought to America a sextet composed of Flora Mann, Nellie Carson, Lillian Berger, Norman Stone, Norman Notley, and Cuthbert Kelly, which called itself the English Singers, for the Washington music festival. The organization visited for one week, singing in various colleges in New York and Washington.

Sunday afternoon the singers returned to the town hall in the first of eighty concerts which they are scheduled to give throughout the country this year. The page was turned back to the sixteenth century and the listener transported to that time when religious faith had simplicity and life a grace and color. Motets by William Byrd and Jan Pieterszoon Sweelinck (1543-1623) opened the program, followed by groups of folk songs by R. Vaughan Williams; French chansons, Italian street cries, madrigals, ballet, and cazonet.

Chicago Pianist Pleases.

The English singers are to be heard in Chicago on Feb. 13 at the Studebaker in a program substantially the same as that given here.

Chicago also gave a pianist to the entertainment of New York's musical public recently. Rudolph Reuter, who has been a Chicagoan for a number of years, although he was born in New York, gave his first recital of the season at Æolian hall. His program comprised much that is new and modern. Three numbers from the 1922 suite of Paul Hindemith, heard for the first time in this city, were the closing group.

"Uncle Tom" Jinx Clings to Harry Pollard's Trail

By Rosalind Shaffer.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special Correspondence.]—There is an old stage tradition that a production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is always attended by some sort of calamity.

In the case of the movie production Harry Pollard, the director, is the victim of the jinx. Last year he suffered a broken jaw while filming scenes in the east for the film version of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Last week he sustained another injury to his jaw.

Margaretta Fischer, his wife, who is playing in the film as Eliza, was considerably worried about it. During the excitement of an intense scene Pollard strained the scarcely mended fracture and an X-ray showed a new cleavage along the newly knit bones. The results were not utterly serious and Pollard was able to take his company away for further locations south and east.

The sets built at the Universal lot for "Uncle Tom's Cabin" are most complete. The huge Shelby mansion is lavishly equipped with genuine antiques, including gorgeous wool hooked rugs, samplers, plush whiskbroom holders, massive mahoganies, laden walnut whatnots, family portraits, old glassware and decanters with cold tea representing wines. The cold tea was the only unsouthern and nonaccurate touch.

Outside were the broad verandas with the mounting block across the gravelled drive. The formal garden at the side had dusty miller and fern borders around the weeping willows and large moss hung trees.

Slave Quarters Realistic.

To the rear slave quarters have been accurately reproduced. There are seventeen complete Negro cabins with a large community oven in the clearing and the hoes on which the hoe cake was baked in the fire. A wooden block similar to a butcher's chopping block stands for the darkies to beat out biscuits on.

A large cotton weighing house stands at the end of the quarters with its scale and the rough log walls hung with tufts of the blown cotton.

A river with a wharf is nearby, the latter stacked with baled cotton, and beyond that on the river, the Universal City creek, a huge sidewheeler waits for the cotton to be loaded.

The baying of bloodhounds comes ominously from across the water. In this case, however, the bloodhounds are confined safely in the walls of the Universal zoo. There are eight of them with large eyes and ears like hot water bottles and a bay that makes the night horrible to residents nearby.

Virginia Grey, aged 9, with dark brown hair and two front teeth missing, after the manner of children acquiring their second set of incisors, has been chosen for Little Eva in "Uncle Tom's Cabin." She is the daughter of a woman employé on the Universal City lot. She probably will go through the picture with brown curls, instead of wearing the blonde wig that would make her look like the Little Eva of the stage.

Billie Dove Is Cooing Again.

"Everything is hotsy-totsy now," Irvin Willat and Billie Dove pantomimed as they received their guests at a dinner party this week.

The party was accepted as a gesture of reassurance to the Hollywood gossips that all again is well in the Willat home, and just to put over the idea with the general public the dinner was staged at the Montmartre and the assembled guests included Jane Winton and Charles Kenyon, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Brown, Mr. and Mrs. John Patrick and Jack White, comedy producer.

The story concerning the difficulties of the beautiful Billie and her search for romance proved quite an ear tickler. Recently, while Willat was in New York, Billie was escorted to parties by the fascinating and wealthy Jerry Miley, redoubtable at sheiking both on and off screen.

Every day for two weeks floral tributes arrived for Billie. There were orchids, lilies of the valley, rare roses, violets, and other expensive blooms.

One evening Billie attended a party given by some Pasadena society folk. In the party was a young debutante wearing a corsage the twin of Billie's own. Drawn by curiosity, Billie and the bud conversed. Finally the subject of the two identical corsages came up. The debutante said, "My bouquet is from my fiancé, Mr. Miley," and showed astonished Billie a large diamond engagement ring she was wearing.

Mr. Willat came home from New York not long after the Pasadena party. He did not like the idea of Mrs. Willat's daily bouquets. A short separation ensued, so runs this story of the Hollywood Scheherazade and finally Irvin relented and Billie came back home again. That's the story of the fluttering dove as they tell it and the reconciliation scene seemed most convincing.

Janet Gaynor, Fox star, announces she will marry Herbert Moulton, local newspaper man, next June. Olive Borden, her sister player at Fox's, is suffering from a relapse after an operation for appendicitis.

PROFICIENT

MISS DOROTHY HUMPHREYS

She's in "Tip-Toes," doing her bit in the effort to make it remembered for its dancing. Among Miss Humphreys' contributions is a demonstration of the Black Bottom, which is for some reason held to be a devilish diversion; and she seems to do it as well as any of the many other young women who have undertaken it hereabout.

Recording the Voice of the Movie Fan

It's in the Dictionary.

Dear Mae Tinée: This is the first time I have written to you this week.

The reason is because you were calling for love this Sunday morning, like Marie. And, like Marie, you want us all to love you. Just looked in my dictionary and saw this: "Lovable, worthy to be loved." So, reading you over every day, except Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, I came to the conclusion that you are worthy.

Sunday seems to be your best day—the worthiest, anyway. Especially last Sunday in your review of Upstage." Well, I laughed and laughed at your quaint remarks. (Just love you for that.)

I didn't get that remark, "She appears clad in imperturbability." It's not in my dictionary. I'll have to imagine just what she was clad in. (I love you for making me glance over my dictionary.)

Winding up, I will say that your article was as it should be, proved by the fact that I thought I would have liked to read a couple of paragraphs more. Sincerely, FRANK A. A.

Editor's Note: What a perfectly lovely letter, Mr. A.! Well, what she was clad in is in MY dictionary. (I just looked it up again.)

"Men of Purpose."

"Dear Miss Tinée: If every one in the U. S. could see 'Men of Purpose,' not once but several times, and put those experiences end to end, their insight into war even then would be merely a bun scramble in comparison with war's actualities. Of course, I am a sloppy old sentimentalist because I gulped down sobs at the sight of human 'cannon fodder' marching—marching—marching—to what end?

"That dainty picture—hand painted for fear of hurting nice people's feelings who do not know what lice, mud, rats, stenches [ugh], mustard gas [and its horrible sequelae] and mutilating wounds are—is the best argument against war, pestilence and famine that I have ever seen on this side of the water, having been and seen from the beginning on the other side.

"This, as you may surmise, is my first fan letter, which doubtless explains a lot to you. I have nobly refrained from mentioning the woman who sat behind me and talked in a loud voice about the lack of music. Of course, all the battles were fought to the accompaniment of an orchestra!

"I enjoy your lively reviews, Miss Tinée—maybe some time you'll wish your job on to me for a day or two!

"Very sincerely yours,

"Ex. Q. M. A. A. C."

Getting It Right.

Dear Mae Tinée: We were having a discussion about how Lois Wilson's name should be pronounced. Will you tell us whether it is pronounced Lo-is or Lois—pronounced Loyes.

Thanking you, we are.

TWO STENOGS.

Editor's note: Lo-is, is the preferred pronunciation.

Too Good Looking, in Fact.

"The new patient in ward B is so good looking," said the nurse.

"Yes," agreed the matron, "but don't wash his face. He's had that done by four nurses this morning." M. L. M.

Brains Needed.

"Young man," said the boss, pompously and pointedly, "what we need in this business is brains—b-r-a-i-n-s—brains!"

"Well," agreed the youthful applicant for a job, "that does seem to be about what's lacking." M. L. M.

Following Suit.

A woman who was living in a hotel at San Francisco hired a Chinese boy. She said, "What's your name?"

"Fu You Tsin Mei," said he.

"Your name is too long. I'll call you John."

"What's your name?" said he.

"Mrs. Elmer Edward MacDonald."

"Your name too long. I call you Charlie. P. E. W.

And Paying Heavily.

A Negro minister discovered two men playing cards on Sunday, and for money.

"Rastus," said the minister, "don't you all know it am a sin to play cards on de Sabbath?"

"Yes, sah; yes, sah, parson," answered Rastus, ruefully, "but, believe me, Ah's paying for mah sins." E. B.

Music Mountain Moves to Uptown Mohamet

By Edward Moore.

and preparation of its physical trappings is under way, but it has not gone into preliminary rehearsal. That event awaits the coming of Miss Garden, who will sing the name rôle and it. Two of the other novelties of the season, "La Cena delle Beffe" and "Tiefland" are now subjects of seemingly endless rehearsals and are scheduled for presentation during the early weeks of the season.

Cesare Formichi, baritone, has arrived from Paris by way of Italy to report for the season and is taking advantage of the intervening days to fill a number of out of town recital engagements. Formichi had a crowded opera season in South America during the summer, then jumped to Europe for a series of concerts, one of which, at Albert hall, London, attracted an audience of 8,000 music lovers.

"Home," instead of the monotony of hotel life, seems to have taken a strong hold upon the artist colony this year. Charles Hackett and his family are due to arrive and already have secured apartments. Maestro Polacco and Edith Mason are ensconced in a Walton place ménage, Charles Marshall and his family are keeping house, Henry G. Weber lives at home, Charles Lauwers and his wife, Mme. D'Hermanoy, have a housekeeping apartment. The same is true of the new stage director, Charles Moor, who has established a home near Jackson park. Cyrena Van Gordon is among the north shore hostesses who can entertain at home. Lorna Doone Jackson does likewise on the south side. Irene Pavloska has a north side apartment. Vittorio Trevisan enjoys a commodious home in Highland Park, and Lindi, Curtis, and Rappaport are among the possessors of apartments.

Only Garden, Muzio, Raisa, Macbeth, Norena, Dal Monte, Alsen, Hamlin, Loring, Lenska, Misgen, and Schipa, Formichi, Rimini, Cotreuil, Ansseau, Lazzari, Ritch, Polese, Kipnis, and Defrere still adhere to hotel life.

Mostly About Music.

Though it has all been printed before, the music department is besought to announce to a palpitating world the fact that another concert series will shortly be made audible at Orchestra hall. Sophie Braslau, contralto, and Alfred Cortot, pianist, will open it Nov. 10. Other artists on the list will be Claire Dux, Efrem Zimbalist, Guiomar Novaes, Ruth St. Denis, Ted Shawn, and the Denishawn dancers, and finally the Philadelphia orchestra. The series is under the same management as that of the Blackstone Tuesday morning list, which will begin Nov. 9 with a joint recital by Lucrezia Bori and Nikolai Orloff, the morning after the opera season opens.

Georges Baklanoff, for a number of years one of the glowing personalities of the opera company, will appear in recital at Orchestra hall Thursday night, and his announcements say that it will be his only Chicago appearance this season. He has just come back from singing in opera in Los Angeles, wherein I have the printed word of several newspapers and the personal word of Conductor Richard Hageman that he was immense. In other words, he has completely recovered from the serious illness that pursued him last summer. He will be assisted by Irene Pavloska, mezzo-soprano of the opera company, and Amy Neill, violinist, both of whom are also artists well worth your while.

Luella Melius, the Chicago soprano, is up for two concert appearances here this fall. Both will be at Orchestra hall. The first will come Nov. 19 in a recital for the benefit of the Martha Washington home for crippled children. In the second she will be the guest artist in a lieder concert by the Chicago Singverein.

The Society for the Publication of American Music has stepped out this year from chamber music to orchestral scores. It has selected the "Northland Suite," by Leo Sowerby of here, and "Lux Æterna," by Howard Hanson of Rochester, and it announces that they will be published "seriatim as speedily as is possible."

The joint tour of Maurice Dumesnil and the piano upon which Chopin played and composed will be for the benefit of distressed European musicians.

Arthur Honegger, who wrote the railway music which he called "Pacific 231," and some other better music, including Mary Garden's latest enthusiasm, "Judith," is said to be at work on a symphony inspired by an American football match.

CORONETS AND CHORISTERS

RUSSIAN SYMPHONIC CHOIR.

THE lowest, or masculine, figure is Basil Kibalchich, who does the conducting; the upper, or feminine, ones are three of those who do the singing in the Russian Symphonic choir. It will make its first Chicago appearance at Arcadia auditorium this afternoon.

FROM THE MOVIE STUDIOS

Hollywood, Cal.

A recent divorce suit filed by Virginia Roye, the actress, reveals that a Hollywood publicity man can earn $1,000 a week. Mrs. Roye's husband of seven months, Jimmy Fidler, is not the only Hollywood publicity man who commands the princely income of $50,000 a year for words and ideas.

Dolores Del Rio, the Mexican beauty, has been signed by Edwin Carewe to play the leading feminine rôle in "Ressurection" being made from Count Leo Tolstoi's famous novel. Rod La Roque is to be the leading man if studio gossip is to be believed. Count Ilya Tolstoi is acting as adviser to Carewe during the making of his father's story.

New York Music Notes

NEW YORK.—First among the band of orchestral visitors to the metropolis this season was the Philadelphia orchestra, under the baton, as usual, of Leopold Stowkowski. There was nothing startling in the musical results of the occasion, but that could not be said of the lighting effects. Seeking, according to his written explanation which accompanied each program, to keep the attention of the audience centered upon the music instead of the interpreter, Mr. Stowkowski ordered the lights lowered to the minimum with the exception of the small white bulbs on the players' stands and the great yellow globe above his own head. This latter cast a strange golden gleam upon that august individual's hair, making of it a beacon in the gloaming and succeeded in centering the undivided attention of the listeners upon the conductorial locks.

New York's own symphony orchestras have also been welcomed back for their 1926-'27 music era. The Philharmonic, which Willem Mengelberg led in the first program about two weeks since, having finished a short tour, returned to its subscription audiences at Carnegie hall Thursday night and Friday afternoon, while the New York Symphony, under Walter Damrosch, opened the year's schedule Friday evening to the promised strains of Mozart's Symphony in D.

Among notables of the operatic world to return of late from summering abroad was Mme. Elde-Norena, young Norwegian coloratura soprano, who is to sing with the Chicago Opera company this winter as well as in concert here.

Her American concert debut will be made Monday evening at Carnegie hall.

WITH SOUSA

MISS MARJORIE MOODY

She's to take part a week from today in the two concerts by the March-King and his famous band in the Auditorium. . . . Miss Moody, a soprano with coloratura inclinations and a répertoire that takes in most of the celebrated bravura arias, has been here with Lieutenant Sousa in other seasons.

The Nemo-Flex for Figure Grooming

——Third Floor—Dearborn Street——

The Fall season with its changed silhouettes makes some sort of a restraining garment indispensable. The average woman needs control—the Nemo-Flex is essentially correcting, and, to make over a woman's figure who has allowed it to spread and become ill shaped, only well designed garments tailored and made from good materials are capable of accomplishing satisfactory results.

Nemo-Flex, style 50-501, as illustrated, is a wonderful two-in-one garment. It makes exactly the right foundation for the fall gown because it holds and slenderizes the entire figure. The gown without lining needs a foundation. The special feature that appeals to nearly every woman is the inner bandlet that takes care of and reduces the abdomen. Sizes to 48 bust measure, at........................ $5

ART

American Show Has Conservative Trend

By Eleanor Jewett.

THERE opened on Thursday in the east wing galleries of the Art institute the first impressive exhibition of the year, the thirty-ninth annual exhibition of American Paintings and Sculpture. At first glance a rather curious impression is made upon the visitor by the comparative relations of landscapes and figure paintings. There are so few of the former and so many of the latter.

It is a conservative exhibit. You will find nothing to revolt you and extremely little to startle you, either into an exclamation of sheer delight or into one of disgruntled impatience. There are a great many pictures which afford one moments of keen pleasure. Such a picture is the "A Bit of Old Italy," by Oliver Dennett Grover. The composition is simple: an arch with mountains behind it, a glimpse of a street lined with faded houses, and in the foreground a peasant woman with a basket on her head and a child running by her side. The key to its charm is found in the coloring and in the sympathetic manner in which Mr. Grover has imbued this bit from an age-old land with eternal, romantic youth.

There is another painting which will arrest your attention almost immediately and keep you lingering in front of it. It again is a simple subject, simply presented. It is Malcolm Parcell's "Old Man of the Hills," one of the most satisfactorily handled canvases in the exhibit. There is power to be found in the painting, and beauty and sincerity, and the innate vigor of virility which flourishes in those people and those countrysides that, by their limitations, walk with God.

A Distinguished Portrait.

Abram Poole gives us a typical Poole portrait in his severe and distinguished painting of "Mercedes De Acosta," a slender, aristocratic lady with tapering fingers and an expression of almost royal disdain. In Robert Spencer's "Mansions of Yesterday" there is warm coloring and a strong feeling for beauty. Paul Trebilcock shows a striking portrait of Dr. David Kinley, president of the University of Illinois.

There are a great many more paintings and painters which should be made mention of, but space forbids. The important business at present is to give the list of prize winners, the prizes offered in the American exhibition being among the most impressive of the year.

The Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan medal, carrying with it $1,500, was awarded to "The Player," by George Luks. The Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan medal, carrying with it $1,000, went to Charles Hopkinson for his "Family Group." The Potter Palmer gold medal, with its $1,000, was won by the "Nude" of Eugene Speicher. The Mrs. Keith Spalding prize of $1,000 went to a piece of sculpture, "Mask of Nubian Girl," by Benjamin T. Kurtz.

Prizes and Honorable Mentions.

The Norman Wait Harris silver medal, with $500, was awarded to "Bohemienne," by Clifford Adams. The Norman Wait Harris bronze medal and $300 was awarded to "Nude," by John Norton. The Mr. and Mrs Augustus S. Peabody prize of $200 went to "Lumberville, Bucks County, Pennsylvania," by Clarence R. Johnson. The William M. R. French memorial gold medal was given to a work in sculpture, "Romanza," by John David Brcin.

Honorable mentions were given to "Summertime in the Catskills," by Carl Wuermer; "Bridge Pier, Brooklyn," by Robert K. Ryland; "Paper Flowers," by Ivan L. Albright, and "Still Life," by Kenneth Bates.

In the division of sculpture name must be given to the three studies of animal life by John L. Clarke, his "Big Horn Sheep," "Grizzly Bear," and "Rocky Mountain Goat." They are splendid. On the other hand, equally effective, though in a different way, are the gleaming brass "Cocks" by George Biddle, splendid.

Arthur B. Davies is represented by four charming reliefs, and in the division of painting he has a delicate panel, "Four o'Clock Ladies," which has the subtle beauty of a Dresden china group of shepherdesses. Albin Polasek is represented by the portrait bust of John Kralovic, and Kathleen Wheeler, who is each year adding to her fame as a sculptress of horses, by a stunning model of "Burgoright." The solitary effort at pure humorous effect has been attempted and achieved by Carl Hallstahammar with his group of choristers in black and white, the "Singing Brothers."

The exhibition will remain on view until Dec. 12.

To those who are lovers of Japanese color prints it will come as a note of interest to announce the opening on Nov. 1 of two galleries in the Art institute hung with the choicest works of Suzuki Harunobu (1756-1770). The exhibition includes prints of actors and of historical, mythological, landscape, and floral subjects, each an illustration of the delicacy of treatment and beauty of coloring which characterize the art of this great Japanese enthusiast. The exhibition will remain on view until Jan. 1.

COOLIDGE TALKS TO FANS, BUT MIKE IS DEAD

Care to Be Taken to Prevent Repetition.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—As a result of the rather embarrassing experience of President Coolidge, who talked some time ago into a dead microphone under the impression he was being heard by millions of listeners, considerably more care will be taken in the future in supervising the telegraph or telephone wires carrying speeches of such importance from the hall to the broadcasting station. In this case, it was the failure of a lone telegraph wire which caused the trouble.

President Coolidge spoke from the Washington auditorium at the international oratorical contest. Wire was strung to carry his voice to WRC, where it was to be relayed to a great chain of stations throughout the country.

President Oblivious of It.

Seated on the platform was a distinguished group of officials, including three cabinet officers, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior Work, and Attorney General Sargent, and Everett Sanders, secretary to the President. John Hays Hammond introduced President Coolidge, who carefully took his position in front of the microphone and, as far as any one knew, everything was going nicely and the whole country was listening in. About that time, to the consternation of the broadcasting crew, it was discovered that the telegraph wire which had been tested out a half hour previous was now dead.

Mr. Coolidge, however, continued to the end of his speech entirely oblivious of the fact that he had been cut off. Immediately all sorts of rumors spread as to what had caused the telegraph wire to go bad. One was that it had been affected by the aurora borealis, which was reported to have been on the worst rampage that day in about eleven years.

Short Circuit Blamed.

F. P. Guthrie, district manager of the Radio corporation in Washington, said the telegraph company had reported to him that the wire had been short circuited by the accidental moving of a piece of scenery on the stage. Whatever the cause of the breakdown, it is certain hereafter when a speech of the President of the United States is relayed over wire lines that they will be more closely supervised and that a second or third wire may be strung along in case enything should happen to the others.

DR. HENRY VAN DYKE TONIGHT'S SPEAKER AT SUNDAY EVENING CLUB

An address and a poem by Dr. Henry van Dyke, the latter set to music by Brockway, will be broadcast by KYW from the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall tonight. E. J. Buffington, a trustee of the club, will read the scripture, and Clifford W. Barnes will give the informal bible talk at seven on the subject "Tales of Friendship." A duet by Mabel Sharp Herdien and Rose Gannon will be a part of this early program.

Dr. van Dyke is an annual speaker before the club, and although he has been in frail health for a number of years, he makes it a point to come to Chicago each season to give an address in Orchestra hall.

SENATOR REED WILL CLOSE WGN'S SERIES TONIGHT

Senator James A. Reed of Missouri will close the big political show staged by W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel, during the last four days, when he will be heard in a talk on notional issues from the standpoint of the Democratic party at 7 o'clock tonight. The senator's talk will be broadcast direct from his hotel room in Kansas City, Mo.

Last night listeners heard Senator James E. Watson of Indiana in a presentation of the Republican side of national questions. On the three preceding nights, the three contestants for the Illinois senatorship, George Brennan, Frank L. Smith, and Hugh Magill, addressed the voters over W-G-N.

HOLD U. S. RADIO LAW MUST GUARD PRIORITY RIGHT

Bills Do Not Protect the Station Owners.

BY FRANK HINMAN.

Two weeks from tomorrow eight men, five representatives and three senators, will convene in Washington in an effort to work out a compromise radio measure for submission to congress which meets early in December. Before them they will have the two bills adopted at the last session, the one introduced by Senator C. C. Dill, which was passed by the senate and the one introduced by Congressman Wallace H. White, which the house passed.

According to radio manufacturers, broadcasters and fans acquainted with the provisions of the two measures there is little hope of the compromise bill solving the troubles of the radio industry, as neither considers the question of priority in the matter of wave lengths, and as the conferences are prohibited from considering anything not already in the bills its priority cannot be taken up.

Wave Length Is Asset.

A desirable wave length or channel to carry its programs to the listening public is the chief asset of a broadcasting station, and experts point out that the passage of a bill which does not recognize the priority rights of established stations will be worse than no legislation at all.

On this question of priority, Radio Retailing, a magazine devoted to radio subjects, points out that under the Dill bill "established and familiar broadcast stations like KDKA, WEAF, WLW, WCCO, and KFI will have no more standing in applying for licenses or time on the air than the newest and tawdriest publicity seeking stations. For shortly some 1,000 stations will have to "split time" on the 89 available wave lengths, without any legislative basis on which selection is to be made and with no protection whatever to the millions of dollars broadcasters have already invested."

No Basis for Selection.

The magazine's comment on the same question under the White bill is that "no legal basis is defined or suggested to guide either the secretary of commerce or the advisory radio commission in making selection of broadcasting stations in the interest of the listening public. As every radio man knows, there are only 89 possible channels in the broadcasting bands, but some 1,000 broadcasting applicants will be demanding assignments this winter. Hence either some applicants must be refused or the time of stations really rendering a public service in superior programs must be cut down to about five minutes for each present hour of operation and the public's enjoyment thus seriously interfered with."

Listeners can readily see that broadcasters are not going to invest large sums of money in broadcasting unless they know that their money is safe. They will want some assurance, before any large sums are spent, that when their licenses expire they can be renewed without loss of any rights.

Industry Favors White Bill.

Aside from the question of priority, the White bill seems to be the more favorable of the two measures to the radio industry. The Dill bill calls for the appointment of a federal radio commission of five members at a salary of $10,000 a year each, a secretary at $5,000, a clerk for each commissioner at $3,600, and other technical and clerical assistants—a $125,000 a year organization which would be answerable only to the President.

The White bill leaves the control of radio in the hands of the department of commerce and creates an advisory and appellate radio commission of five members, to which the secretary of commerce could refer radio questions for decision and to which appeals from the secretary's rulings could be taken. This commission would meet only on call, and, as it is prohibited from being in session more than 120 days in a year and as the commissioners are limited to $25 a day for each day of service, the cost could not exceed $15,000 a year.

Both measures bar from membership on the commissions proposed any persons interested in radio. The White bill bars persons who have any financial interest in radio, while the Dill bill bars persons who during the preceding year have had any financial interest in any radio company or station. Both, consequently, bar from the control of radio qualified radio men and create positions for men who have no real knowledge of it.

WHQ at Spokane to Observe Anniversary

MEDICAL HELP TO SHIPS AT SEA GIVEN BY RADIO

Those traveling in ships in southern waters not carrying a doctor will breathe easier with the announcement of the United Fruit company that the free medical radio service which it inaugurated some time ago from its hospitals in the various countries of Central America and from the passenger ships in its service will now be available to all ships at sea.

Through an additional number of stations, which include WBF, Boston; WAX, Miami; WNU, New Orleans; WBW, Burrwood, La.; WIO and WNN, at Fort Logan and Mobile, Ala., respectively, and about nine stations in Central America, this service is now available. All passenger ships of the fruit company carry doctors and free medical service may henceforth be secured by radio from any of them by addressing a radiogram to the ship's doctor, followed by the name of the steamship.

Calls Have Preference.

It is explained that this free medical service is maintained for ships at sea which do not carry physicians. Should occasion require, however, the doctors of other ships may hold consultation by radio with the United Fruit company's hospital staffs or with doctors on steamships in its service.

Radiograms requesting medical advice must be signed by the captain of the ship and should state briefly but clearly the symptoms of the person afflicted. Such radiograms will be given preference over all others, except S. O. S. calls, throughout the service of the Tropical Radio company and the fruit company.

All Risks Disclaimed.

In view of the fact, however, that this radio medical service to ships at sea is free and is given without opportunity for a personal examination of the patients, no responsibility whatsoever will be assumed by the United Fruit company or by the physicians and surgeons giving the advice, nor shall any responsibility attach for errors or delays in the receipt of transmission of any radiogram sent or received in connection with this service.

MAY PLAY PHONOGRAPH RECORDS.

As the regulations stand now, there is nothing to prohibit the playing of phonograph records or other mechanical music. Neither does the pending legislation make any stipulations regarding this.

U. S. HAS 14,902 HAMS AS RADIO RESERVE FORCE

Youths Ready to Serve in Peace or War.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—Called by Chief Radio Supervisor W. D. Terrell our greatest radio reserve force in time of peace and war, government figures just available show that there are now 14,902 radio amateurs in the United States. This is slightly below the number given for last year, which was 15,111, but because of the two-year period of licenses, with renewals yet to come, it is believed there are actually more now than then.

"We draw upon these amateurs for army, navy, and ship operators," said Mr. Terrell. "It is our largest training school for radio men and radio engineers. They were the first to use short waves and will continue to be pioneers in future developments. As a rule, their ages are from 16 to 18 years, although some range up to 60 and 70 years old. Young boys, successful business men, bankers, in fact men in all ranks of life are represented. There are amateurs in every state and city in the Union.

Build up Friendships.

"The youthful amateurs seem to be especially interested in communicating with foreign countries. Thus they are building up certain friendships the world over among those who will be the men of tomorrow. Repeatedly these amateurs have kept up communications and carried on during hurricanes or storms when railroad and other wires have gone down. They gave good account of themselves at the time of the Florida hurricane and other disasters, when everything else failed.

"Their names are all set forth by city and state in the list of 'Amateur Radio Stations of the United States' [Edition of June 30, 1926], just issued, and which may be secured from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., for twenty-five cents a copy.

Amateur Helps Blind Man.

"I recall the case of an old blind man writing in from the middle west, complaining of some interference. Our nearest inspector was at Chicago, but we were not able to send him. I wrote to Hiram Percy Maxim of the American Radio Relay league at Hartford, asking if one of his boys in that poor old man's vicinity couldn't help him out. Later I heard from Mr. Maxim that an amateur had shown the man how to work his set and eliminate the trouble.

"An amateur, a student in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, applied to me for three licenses, one for Boston, the second in the middle west, and the third on the Pacific coast. He explained he wanted to send standard frequency signals, just like the government does for broadcasting stations, so that amateurs might check their frequencies and thus be assured they were on the wave lengths assigned them. The voluntary action of this amateur indicated that amateurs desired to stay where they were put."

Cities Full of Them.

A glance over the new list referred to by Chief Supervisor Terrell reveals the amateur in a number of cities, as follows:

New York City	717	Indianapolis	53
Philadelphia	335	Hartford	44
Baltimore	136	St. Paul	43
Seattle	107	Springfield, Mass	27
Pittsburgh	81	Louisville, Ky	19

Oakland, Cal.	274	Newark	43
Detroit	123	Schenectady	34

Rochester	64	Pawtucket	13
Los Angeles	383	Dayton	49

Portland, Ore	111	Tacoma	32
St. Louis	89	Oklahoma City	23
Milwaukee	67	Terre Haute	15
Boston	57	Kansas City, Mo.	11

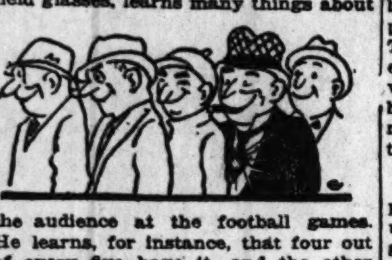
It is pointed out that some of the most famous men in radio began as young amateurs. This was true of Hiram Percy Maxim; Maj. Lawrence Mott, Catalina Island, Cal.; Maj. Edwin H. Armstrong, radio inventor, and John Hays Hammond Jr., who has hundreds of inventions to his credit, and attracted world-wide attention by his direction of boats by wireless. Numerous other inventors began in this way.

Inside the Loud Speaker

By Quin A. Ryan, W-G-N Announcer

THE loud speakers now being installed at the football games, through which men on the sidelines call the names of players prominent in plays, while they are an aid to the fans at the game, are raising gobs of havoc with the radio men who are broadcasting the contest. The noise of the loud speaking horns "feeds back" into the radio microphones and causes quite a rumpus. At the University of Illinois yesterday this announcer had to coop himself up in a small glass inclosed booth to get away from the bellowing of the horns. It has the advantage, anyway, of shielding us from the tempests and snowstorms we encountered at every game last year.

THE RADIO announcer, through his field glasses, learns many things about the audience at the football games. He learns, for instance, that four out of every five have it—and the other one sells it.



LAST WEEK we received a little scrawled note, which read: "Would you please sing me a birthday song on Saturday. I'll be 5 years old and am having a birthday party. Any costs will send.' And attached thereto was a nickel!

TODAY WE offer the first exclusive story of the life work of one of radio's most successful artists, Mr. Curtis Sweels, the tenor, whose voice has advertised fifty-seven varieties of products on the air.

"I owe it all to the marvelous miracle, radio, and to my great invisible audience, which has been my best pal and severest static.

"My first bit of training was in finger exercises, which I accomplished on dial telephones. My early talents were recognized by the Victor company, who made me one of their artists, but I later learned it was for the Victor adding machines.

"I was gaining quite a reputation singing at wakes when my voice came to the attention of Mervin Mucilage, the president of the Kringle Khristmas Tree company. His trees were not selling on the hoof except at Christmas time, and he had decided to put an advertising program on the radio. I was announced as the "Kringle Kristmas Tree Tenor"—"Christmas Won't Be Christmas for You Unless Lit Up." My work brought a lot of orders to the firm, but the orders all were for shoe trees. It was just one of those whimsical errors on the part of the public.

"I was next engaged to sing for the Long Shot Elevator company. They introduced me as Dick Long Shot, with the slogan, "An elevator in every office building of twenty stories or more." The organization got a bunch of new leads through my radio singing, a lot of buildings we hadn't seen before. I was immensely popular with the radio listeners, who declared that my voice typified the product excellently.

"My crowning advertising radio effort was for the Beetlesmith Buzzaw Corporation, Inc and Ltd., who insisted that my singing was just the thing to portray their product. For this company I sang by radio before all the crowned heads of Europe and the Elks of Virginia, Minnesota.

"I can put over any product. I have made a great success of my work, and now own a bungalow in East Chicago, with running water, two back porches and a lightning rod."

BECAUSE SO MANY PEOPLE inquire about such things, we are quoting from an article in the American magazine which treats of New York radio announcers [and what magazine article on announcers treats of any but the New York variety?]: "In one of the big city stations, even a star announcer can scarcely hope to receive more than seventy-five dollars a week. A beginner at one of these stations receives about forty-five dollars a week. These salaries seem low, compared with those paid to men who are successful in other lines of work."

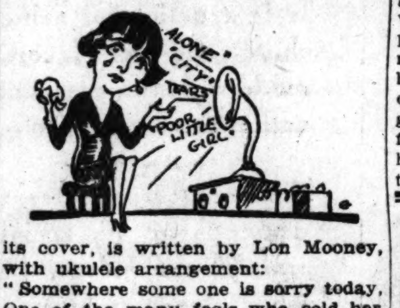
But it should be remembered that most radio announcers are young, and, being young, they are delighted to hold positions of such seeming importance. To be known! And to be in the public eye! Calloo, callay! It is the same vanity that urges boys in colleges to be cheer leaders. And to meet so many prominent people! Goodness, they'd almost do it for nothing!

THIS WEEK'S TWO prizes of two pairs of army pants for the two most unforgettable songs heard on the radio go to "Just for You and I" and "I'm All Alone in a Palace of Stone."

The first was written and published by S. G. Smith, all rights reserved:

"First the dawn comes a-stealing the dark blue sky,
Then the sun comes a-peeping with his big yellow eye.
Every flower upturns its sweet face to the sun,
Each small bird comes cheeping out one by one,
Then each dewdrop sparkles and shines in the sun—
The day has begun, dear, just for you and I.
Chorus—
"Just for you and I every morning,
Just for you and I day is dawning,
Just for you and I flowers bloom and die.
Clouds float in the sky, my dearie,
Just for you and I; I'm a-dreaming
Just for you and I; I'm scheming
Just for you and I; building castles high
Just for you and I."

AND THE SECOND SONG, which has "Peaches" Browning's picture on its cover, is written by Lon Mooney, with ukulele arrangement:



"Somewhere some one is sorry today,
One of the many fools who sold her love for jewels;
Somewhere some one is pining away,
And if you were there tonight you'd hear her say:
Chorus—
"I'm all alone in a Palace of Stone,
Down in the city of tears,
Trying to care for an old millionaire,
Wasting the best of my years;
I'm just a poor little girl,
Holding gold money bags,
Silks on my back while my heart is in rags;
I'm all alone in a Palace of Stone,
Down in the city of tears."

JOIN THE RADIO and see the world! Yesterday afternoon we were announcing a football game in Champaign, Ill., and tonight we'll be introducing Senator Reed to a microphone in his hotel room in Kansas City.

POOR IN HOVELS OF PARIS HAVE BALM OF RADIO

Crystal Sets Bring Joy to Suburban Huts.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 30.—The poorer classes who live in hovels on the outskirts of Paris are the most ardent radio fans in the French capital, where interest in the richer classes has never been manifested, according to figures just made public. In little huts in the Paris suburbs can be seen wire strung from the roof, while inside the entire family gathers round in the evening, listening in to crystal sets, the parts of which have mostly been picked up in the streets.

Broadcasting Discouraged.

Here in these squalid districts can be seen whole rows of houses, each one possessing its own radio set, while in the wealthier parts of the city only seldom are two houses seen in a row with each possessing an aerial. Broadcast interest in France, on the whole, is practically less than in any other country. This is due to the government, which in a sense discourages broadcast listening. There has been a fear of propaganda from Germany which can be picked up on a long distance receiver.

Popularize Poets by Radio.

Character studies from the works of the great poets, authors, and dramatists, produced in the form of short scenes, are included in the current scheme of educational transmission to Glasgow schools. In its six public symphony concerts to be given during the coming winter months the Glasgow station orchestra will be conducted by Sir George Henschel, Percy Pitt, and Gustav Holtz. Church and religious broadcasts on Sunday in the west of Scotland are becoming more popular. Nearly all the principal denominations are now giving their hearty support to the British Broadcasting company and a strong religious advisory committee has been formed, the clerical members of which have been appointed by their respective presbyteries.

W-G-N Gives Fifth of Broadcasting Time to Educational Activities

With the addition of a class in Spanish to its educational activities and the formation of new classes for the rebroadcast of its popular series of piano lessons, W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel, is now devoting more than one-fifth of its time on the air to subjects of an educational nature.

The first lesson in Spanish was broadcast Tuesday afternoon, and the station now has four organized classes with a total of over 2,000 listener-students. Nine hundred and forty-three students are registered in the piano class, and 527 in the English class. The French class has drawn 486 pupils, while the new Spanish course has an enrollment of 197 to date, with new applications for admission to the radio school coming in daily.

W-G-N, with its twenty hours of educational broadcasting each week, is offering listeners almost a complete liberal education. An extensive range of subjects is covered, including civics and political science, home economics and household administration, hygiene, literature, philosophy and current events, history and social service, in addition to the subjects taught in class.

Instead of following textbook methods in presenting these latter items, W-G-N makes them interesting and entertaining through suggestions and lectures. For instance, historical items of interest are constantly being presented in an attractive manner during the "Old Fashioned Almanack" broadcast each evening at 7:15 o'clock.

An impressive teaching and lecturing staff contributes to this mighty educational program. Prof. H. Croizard of the Chicago public schools is in charge of the French lessons; Spanish instruction is handled by Prof. Angel Braschi of De Paul university; Colletta Deignan, also of the Chicago public schools, gives the weekly lesson in correct English. Home economics and household administration are the work of Laura Lee Randall, a graduate of the University of Chicago, and an expert in this field. Edward Barry, an accomplished young pianist, often heard on W-G-N's evening programs, is responsible for the series of piano lessons which W-G-N is resuming on Nov. 12.

The Illinois State Medical association, the Infant Welfare society, the Parent-Teacher association, the Chicago Tuberculosis institute, and the Chicago Dietic association contribute speakers and lecturers weekly.

CANADA KEEPS LEAD IN RADIO TRADE WITH U. S.

Having led all other countries in imports of radio apparatus from the United States the previous month, with a total of $37,365, Canada quadrupled the amount during September, purchasing $154,516. Australia was next with $42,044 and New Zealand third with $39,926. Australia proved a good market for tubes, $21,356 worth having been shipped there. Japan was next with $15,635 and Canada third with $12,803.

Receiving set components were bought by Canada to the amount of $44,987, followed by Australia with $37,062, and Argentina with $18,168. Receiving set accessories were also in demand by the Canadians, $104,292 leading the list. Australia was second with $26,719.

The total amounts exported were as follows: Receiving sets, $303,732; tubes, $81,698; receiving set components, $159,097, and receiving set accessories, $206,423.

STATIONS are placed around the Grebe S-L-F tuning dials at equal intervals; station selection is thus made very easy, whereas on the average set low-wave stations are so crowded together that it is difficult to separate them, even by "microscopic" tuning.

Sports Claim an Autumn Interest

By Mme. X.

OCT. 25 is pretty early for the first snow to fall in this region. Of course, it has come fluttering in other years down from gray skies much earlier, but these angels up there are molting much too soon, according to many lovers of the late autumn who have been lingering on in their country estates. Nature is a contrary dame and probably, after having shooed many of her devotees into their city dwellings, will turn around and provide some of that delicious weather which makes autumn the choicest, most desirable of the four seasons in this part of the world.

The folk devoted to horseback riding are still staying out in the country. A merry set went from Lake Forest ten days ago to Detroit and were the guests of the hunting set there. In the Lake Forest crowd were Mr. and Mrs. Austin Niblack, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Wheeler, Mrs. William Swift, the Misses Abby and Janet Chase, Miss Alicia Patterson, Steve Jennings, Capt. Van Vlissingen, Nick Bowen, and Robert Jennings. Mr. Behr's famous Burgoright, ridden by Robert Sabatin of Philadelphia, won the race. The Chicagoans stayed at the Gross Point Country club and had a cross country run at Bloomfield Hills after a real live fox, a much more sprightly object for a hunt than even the best and gamiest anise seed bag. There was also a hunt ball.

Among the Best.

The Detroit hunting outfit are among the most sporting of their ilk in the land, competing with such well known and competent devotees of the horse as the Baltimoreans and the Long Island hunting teams. Nor should I omit to compare them to the hunt club in Duchess county, N. Y., which is a smart outfit.

In those older communities, riding to the hounds has been in vogue longer than it has in the middle west and is therefore less exotic than it is hereabouts. Of course, its real habitat is in merrie old England where it is a part of the very tissue of country life, not the sport of the rich and fashionable set. There a hunt includes every one who can sit on a horse and make the animal jump a wall or a ditch. Many a stout countryman and horse loving farmer can be seen speeding across the country, coat tails flying and good steed snorting, in company with lords and ladies and the smartest social leaders of English society. Also, not a few of our country folk, who have been denied entrance to London's exclusive sets, have, so to speak, ridden in on horseback, by pursuing the nimble fox in a hunting shire. Acquaintances made under these equine auspices are continued in London, as a true Britisher loves a good and fearless rider and will take him to his heart when he would refuse such access to a multimillionaire. It is not infrequently that Americans, whose charms have not been appreciated by their own countrymen, are to be found comfortably established in the very heart of London's smartest set, having arrived there via good horse and difficult cross country runs.

A Close-up of Boxing.

Apropos things sporty and snappy, there is an institution up at the Great Lakes Naval Training station that it is a pity isn't open to more of our lovers of really good and classic sport. It is the fortnightly boxing matches gotten up with, by and for the sailor lads there. These take place at one end of the big armory. There is a high barricade of seats between this arena and the rest of the huge hall. The strains of a smart naval band resounded through the cavernous interior as we came in, setting the pulses beating faster as martial music always does. There is a good sized raised and roped-in platform in the center of this space. The first row of spectators is right under this platform. These are the desirable seats from the expert's point of view, quite regardless of the very patent fact that the combatants might easily topple over the ropes into the laps of the onlookers.

As we were guests of the commandant of the station we had seats right under the various sets of combatants and what might be called "a close-up" view of the nine bouts and the somewhat gory combatants. That is, they got a little bloody during the bouts and there was frequently a glare in their eyes which showed what our remote ancestors must have looked like most of the time, but these dancing, hitting, ducking, and punching lads really are good pals and are merely practicing the manly art of self-defense and learning the rules of the game. It is splendid training.

It would also be splendid training for some women to look on at one of these matches. It would give them a slight idea of what a grim and grisly business it is, at times, to be a man. We, in our soft, protected lives are apt to live in a fool's paradise and forget that there is outside of it and under it and behind it a world of brute force against which mankind has been struggling for uncounted ages and that the manly art of self-defense has been as necessary as the noble spirit and unselfish devotion to ideals which many consider have been the moving force in our rise from the primeval ooze.

Bantamweights.

There were on that evening's program bantamweights, middleweights, welterweights, featherweights, and lightweights. Sitting in the seats of the important, the writer felt almost as if she were under the nimble, fleet feet of the young gladiators. The floor of the platform seemed strewn with a light brown powdered glass, with some rather large chunks of it near the edge of the enclosure. Timidly inquiring whether the ground glass didn't hurt the feet of the agile youths who danced so blithely over it, elicited the information that it was rosin, not glass. I was glad I asked.

A pair of bantamweights, Tony Lee and Cannon Ball McCammeron, opened the ball. The latter was a genuine Scot, long, lean, bony, with sandy hair and a pugnacious expression. He had a longer reach than Tony, for which I was sorry, as I liked Tony's nice, clean cut face and good, straight nose. Also, I liked his pleasant brown eyes and the half smile which stayed on even under the somewhat rude blows of the Cannon Ball, though the quality of the smile grew a bit grim and the eyes a bit hard as the match progressed. When at the end it was declared a draw and the two youngsters went off arm in arm, at least one spectator was relieved and glad. Even the blood that sprayed Tony's good looking face and the red bruises that spattered the Scot did not seem so distressing as both did at first.

A boxing match is said by connoisseurs to seem much worse than it really is, which is some slight comfort to amateurs and to folk, like the writer, to whom the sight of the good red fluid that flows through us all is always a painful shock.

Receiving a Shock.

The program continued. The second match gave many of us softies a shock. It was a middleweight class and was between Doc Coke and Kid Bwiczy. Both were amazingly light on their feet. No Ziegfeld Follies girl ever danced so softly, so swiftly, so delicately as these two boxers. You almost forgot their rude punches while watching their nimble, silent feet. Then suddenly one of them fell forward on his face and lay there quite still. The referee stood over him and counted slowly the classic ten and still he didn't stir. The referee held up the arm of the other boxer as sign of his victory. The crowd roared. Then two men came and lifted the senseless one up. Half carrying, half hauling, they got him off the stage. A glimmer of consciousness returned to him before he disappeared. It was merely a buffet neatly landed on the point of the chin which had knocked him out. Nobody, with the exception of one, insignificant, inexperienced mortal, seemed to think anything of it.

Other boxers came and went. A new and dramatic referee came on the stage. He was almost as active as the principals in the boxing matches and most intense in his concentration on the business in hand. When blood seemed to flow too freely, or the contestants to glare too fiercely, the writer would gaze only on this referee and get the essence of the fight in hand from him without being a victim of the somewhat gory details.

Reminiscent of Rome.

I was especially interested in watching the women spectators. They were, for the most part, friends of the men at the station, so perhaps they were accustomed to the Roman contests. They took it all in " nor batted an eye," as far as I could see. The roar from the onlookers that greeted each pair of boxers and any particularly hard thump (I'm afraid I am not using technical language) was quite gorgeous. The onlooker had only to close the eyes and believe it was the Roman Coliseum in ages gone by. Even so must that famous populace have bellowed when a particularly skillful gladiator or net caster won his contest.

Yes, it was an excellent experience for any woman to watch those nimble, likely lads, and to learn how skill can dominate brute force, and how a man can like another and yet give him and take from him skin splitting whacks all in the name of the manly art of self-defense.

Laurance Binyon to Lecture.

Let's take a long leap from the m. a. s. d. into the ultra esthetic, the two lectures which the American Friends of China are presenting to their members and to others interested in the subject of oriental art and which are to be given the afternoons of Nov. 4 and 8 at 4 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick. The lecturer, Laurance Binyon, is one of the greatest living authorities on Chinese art.

This society was founded here in 1922, largely through the energy and enthusiasm of Mrs. William H. Bush. The name was given to it before that ancient and unhappy country, China, had been torn to pieces as it now is, but the members hold to the appellation because the society has to do with the real China, the China of great art, of thousands of years of civilization, of the oldest and profoundest philosophy, of a literature that antedates ours by countless centuries, of customs and manners whose origin is lost in the midst of antiquity.

It is this China that this association of cultivated people would cherish and honor. The society started at a dinner given for that delightful and witty Chinese gentleman, Admiral Tsai Tingkan. Other distinguished Chinese have been its guests since then and never without real pleasure to the Chicago hosts. There is a polish, a serenity, a simplicity and a savoir faire about a high class Chinese man or woman hard to match anywhere else in the world.

The society has had many a noted authority on matters Chinese to speak before it. It also has about 200 Chinese university students as members. These have, on various occasions, gotten up charming entertainments for the rest of the association, rare, spectacular, and unforgettable. A few years ago a concert of Chinese music was given by Chinese performers. Another year an elaborate Chinese wedding was staged.

Three Chief Objects.

The association has three principal objects: to promote a friendly understanding between us and them, to bring before Chicagoans expert lecturers on Chinese art and literature, to acquire genuinely rare and valuable works of oriental art for the Field museum. Members are invited to these two lectures; nonmembers who would like to attend are also cordially urged to come, but they are asked to pay three dollars for the two lectures.

His excellency Alfred Sze, Chinese minister at Washington, is honorary president of the society; Ransom H. Calkins is president, Harry Pratt Judson, Mrs. William H. Bush and Mrs. Robert H. Gregory are vice presidents, Dr. Berthold Laufer is secretary, Mrs. Charles W. Hubbard is assistant secretary, George Woodruff is treasurer, and Admiral Tsai is Peking adviser. Others on the board of governors and interested in the welfare of the society are Mesdames Watson Blair, E. C. Dudley, Russell Matthias, Arthur Ryerson, Paul Shorey, George T. Smith, Leverett Thompson, Joseph Valentine, Paul Welling, and the Messrs. Stanley Field, George B. Haines, S. C. Ho, Theodore A. Shaw Jr., Carroll Sudler, Dr. Pei Chiu Chu, Dr. Walter Lichtenstein, and Dr. Ralph B. Seem.

Dr. Binyon is chief of the department of oriental prints and drawings at the British museum and he comes entirely under the auspices of the Friends of China, although he will give a few lectures elsewhere. He has published many authoritative books on Chinese art, has produced twenty books of poetry, and four of his plays were staged in London and two in Oxford, so he is a man of parts.

Planning the Charity Ball.

Next Friday evening is the date for the fourth annual charity ball given by the women of the social service department of the woman's board of St. Luke's hospital. It is to be given in the gold ballroom of the Congress hotel. The social service work was founded some years ago by Mrs. Stanley Field. The woman's board finances and runs the work of this department, which includes the clinic, visiting of out patients and those who have been discharged from the hospital as cured, and also handles much work in the hospital of an infinite variety, valuable both to patients and doctors.

Mrs. Watson Armour is in charge of the sale of tickets. Mrs. Clifford Rodman is selling boxes. Mrs. William Mitchell and Mrs. Lester Armour are co-chairmen of the entertainment committee. Mrs. William E. Casselberry Jr. is looking after the supper arrangements. Mrs. Waller Borden is organizing the group of debutantes who will sell flowers and cigarets, and Paul Gardner is head of the floor committee. With such an array of prominent folk, not to mention the imposing list of patrons and patronesses, which includes 112 of our best known citizens, the ball promises to be a brilliant success. May it bring much good money into the coffers of the social service committee to help along their good work!

Willing Workers to Raise Charity Funds

By Kate Webber.

NOVEMBER'S first crisp days, ushering in what is known as the gayest season on everybody's calendar, is showing its annual harvest of theatrical benefits—one of the favorite methods of women's clubs to make money, and certainly one of the most pleasant charity pills the public is asked to swallow.

Tomorrow evening, for instance, the Willing Workers Woman's club, a large organization of long standing, will sponsor a performance of "Bubbling Over" at the Selwyn, when it is hoped the coffers of the club's philanthropy fund will overflow with moneys with which to carry on the work among those afflicted with tuberculosis. Mrs. Hugo King is chairman of the affair.

Since its organization in 1903 the Willing Workers club has enlarged its activities along the lines described above until the undernourished and ill persons in their care have increased to almost 200. In every case the patients and their families are taught to help themselves; they are given proper diet lists, hygienic sleeping arrangements and other aids to healthy living.

A great deal of the club's work is done at the Winfield sanitarium, outside the city. An addition, this year, to the X-ray room equipment of the dental offices and the maintenance of a diet kitchen are among the major achievements there.

Visiting nurses from the social service department and dispensary care for cases recommended to the club, and doctors give medical examinations to those who stand so in need of proper instructions for their own care. Thus many of those who would have to be given sanitarium care can be brought back to health at home.

Equipment for sleeping porches, warm yet light clothing, thousands of quarts of milk and cases of fresh eggs are among the staples of life that go to these needy cases, all of which are investigated by social service workers. Visiting housekeepers are sent into the homes also, teaching the need of properly cooked food, cleanliness and ventilation.

Officers of the club are Mrs. Raymond E. Simons, president; Mrs. Hugo Muncer and Mrs. Harry Strysower, vice presidents; Mrs. Alex J. Brinkman, recording secretary; Mrs. Joseph Orris, financial secretary; Mrs. J. B. Shapiro, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Henry Pitzele, treasurer.

CLUB ETHICS

By Maude Swalm Evans

"I WAS talking to Mrs. Helm yesterday," said the active member. "Had lunch with her. I never realized before of what practical benefit the training we get in our women's clubs can be."

"I haven't seen Mrs. Helm at the club for ages," observed the associate member.

"She had to drop out when her husband had a breakdown last year," answered the active member. "He's in a sanitarium and Mrs. Helm is working to keep up with the expense of it."

"What is she doing?" inquired the nonresident member, who was also of the group. "It isn't so easy for a woman who has been in the home for twenty or twenty-five years to get into the business world."

"That's where Mrs. Helm's club work stood her in good stead," rejoined the active member. "You remember her wonderful work as chairman of our welfare department? Through that she got a position as assistant to the head of the welfare work in a large business firm. The head stepped out last week and Mrs. Helm was given her place."

"Good work," voiced the associate member.

"She told me that when she was trying for the job she had to compete with younger women and with college graduates," added the active member. "She didn't finish high school."

"She's worked hard and deserves every bit of success she's getting," opined the associate member.

"The nice thing about it is that she credits the club with her success," continued the active member. "She says that without her club training she'd probably have had to take a job at cooking or start a boarding house. It makes our club work show up pretty well."

"As to the practical benefit of club training," remarked the nonresident member, "in our city we have any number of women in well paid public and private positions who got their start in club work—doing the little job well and working up—and I guess it's the same all over the country."

Question.

"The faculty advisor of our club is inclined to dictate our policies and she tries to influence our choice of officers. Shouldn't we run our own club?

"HETTY A."

Reply.

To get the most development out of your club you should run it yourself. You may make mistakes, but with the right attitude toward them they will help you to grow.

Question.

"Our hospitality chairman often asks her sister, who is not a member of our club, to pour at our meetings. Shouldn't this honor be passed around among our own members?

"M. H. L."

Reply.

Yes, and as a rule no member should be asked to pour the second time until the membership list has been exhausted.

Embarrassing Moments

The Tribune will pay $1 for every letter published on "The Most Embarrassing Moment of My Life." Address Embarrassing Moment, The Tribune, Chicago. Write on one side of the paper. No manuscripts returned.

Right Across the Knuckles.

The boys at our office have a most obnoxious habit of reaching across our desks and confiscating our pencils, but not until they are freshly sharpened.

Threats and pleading were of no avail, so I finally conceived a plan which I though would put an end to their pilfering habits.

The next time a hairy fist with its glittering wrist watch decoration stole from behind me, across my desk, I gleefully reached for my heavy brass edged ruler, and with malice aforethought brought it down with a resounding whack on bony knuckles, incidentally breaking the crystal of the wrist watch.

With the tinkle of breaking glass came a grunt of pain and grunted in an unfamiliar voice—as the offending party snatched away his smarting fingers, minus the pencils.

The glad light in my eyes died, however, as I glanced up into the red and angry countenance of son Bill, the spoiled darling of the big boss, who was just home from school and condescendingly paying the office a visit so that the entire force might revel in the glory of seeing a real college slicker.

M. D.

Taking a Fall.

Just as I was coming down from the top section of the bus my girl friend, who was down already, called to me to hurry on. I called back saying, "What do you want me to do, fall?"

The conductor on hearing that said, "Go ahead, I'll catch you. I bet you can't fall."

"I certainly can," I answered.

When I was off of the bus entirely, I ran across the street to catch the other one, and not noticing a board in front of me I tripped and fell flat on my face. Four busses had to stop for me, a crowd came running towards me and I jumped up as quick as I could and ran. I suppose the conductor thought I fell on purpose. He called back saying, "O, how nice!"

P. M. H.

Overheard.

I was walking down the street with two of my chums and we were having a regular gossip.

I said: "I think Ruth is the worst talker I ever listened to. She can talk a person to death and it isn't as if she had anything much to say."

Just then who should pass us but Ruth, with a cold stare. I believe I turned every color there is and my chums didn't help matters by nearly strangling themselves laughing.

W. R.

Correcting Him.

My most embarrassing moment arose from my profession, that of school teacher. I had decided to work during the summer, and my brand new and dignified boss was showing me the ropes.

"The best way to slip this paper through the roller," he said, "is to put it in so the edge lays along the side——"

"Lies, not lays! Please repeat correctly," I said absent-mindedly, from force of habit.

He glared and the dozen other girls in the shop snickered, while I awakened to realities, looked for a hole to crawl into. Incidentally, he has never gotten over it.

S. S.

No More Gum.

I started to school one morning chewing gum, and did not take it out when I got there. The first period I had gym and we were all in line, with the instructor standing in front of me.

I was chewing my gum when she suddenly turned her head toward me, and not wanting her to catch me, I stopped so suddenly that my gum popped right out and fell at her feet.

Maybe I didn't blush when the girls laughed at me and the instructor glared. I resolved right there, "No more gum in classes for me."

The Beauty of My Teeth

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I am always smiling, so countless women consider my glistening teeth the chief item in my beauty.

I have consulted on teeth, as on everything else, the greatest experts I could find. They advised me to brush my teeth with Quindent twice a day.

Quindent is a recent development. Some 59 able experts collaborated on it. It has 16 ingredients, and is made to combine all the major helps in one.

It contains cleansers and polishers of the highest order. Then antacids, antiseptics, iodides and deodorants. They have aimed to combine in Quindent all the best helps known to science.

Quindent is not an Edna Wallace Hopper product. It is made by Quindent Laboratories, and sold by druggists everywhere. But the makers supply me with samples and I gladly mail a ten-day tube to anyone who asks.

Send the coupon for it. It will bring to you the gleaming teeth it brings to me, have yet developed. And if it brings to you the gleamy teeth it brings to me, you will always be glad you know it.

NEWS OF THE RELIGIOUS WORLD

Bach Chorus Will Sing This Evening

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

The Chicago Bach chorus of 250 voices will sing this evening at the 80th anniversary of First St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church, Missouri synod, 1301 North La Salle street. A special stage has been erected for the occasion. Prof. William Boeppler, director of the Chicago Singverein, is also director of the Bach chorus. The Rev. Paul Sauer is president of the chorus, which has been working for the last year to present adequately the music of Bach as preëminently expressive of divine worship.

The service at St. Paul's will be not only the celebration of its own 80th anniversary but will be a part of the general celebration of Lutherans of Reformation Sunday in honor of Martin Luther. The Rev. Henry Kowert, pastor of St. Paul's since 1917, will be in charge of the day's celebration. A service will be held in German at 9:30 and one in English at 11 a. m., at both of which Dr. W. H. T. Dau, president of Valparaiso university, Ind., will speak. In the evening at 8 Dr. F. Pfotenhauer, president of the Missouri synod, will speak in German, and the Rev. V. J. Lankenau, vice president of the synod, will speak in English. Arrangements have been made for the use of the Sunday school room as well as the main auditorium.

First St. Paul's church was organized in 1846, when the population of Chicago was 12,000. Since its founding its ministers have conducted 18,200 baptisms, 6,499 weddings, and 6,939 funerals.

The golden jubilee of the parish of St. Vincent de Paul will be held today. His eminence Cardinal Mundelein will bless the new addition to the school at 2135 Osgood avenue at 10:30 a. m., after which he will be present at the pontifical high mass at the church, which will be celebrated by the Rt. Rev. E. F. Hoban. The sermon will be preached by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. William D. O'Brien, LL.D., president of the church extension society.

Tomorrow evening a parish homecoming will be held at the De Paul auditorium, 2219 Sheffield avenue. John F. O'Connell, former judge and for many years a member of St. Vincent's, will preside. Robert M. Sweitzer, K. S. G., clerk of Cook county, will be one of the speakers. The Very Rev. Thomas F. Levan, C.M., pastor of the church, will be assisted by a large number of clergy.

Tomorrow being All Saints day in the church calendar, his holiness, Pope Pius XI., has designated today as the Feast of Christ the Universal King. The pope will personally celebrate mass in St. Peter's, Rome, and will, it is announced, consecrate the entire human race to the sacred heart of Jesus.

The Baptist social union will meet at Hotel La Salle Tuesday evening. Dr. J. C. Massee, pastor of Tremont temple, Boston, will speak. The reception will be at 6, dinner at 6:30, the program at 8:15, closing at 9:30. The Baptist social union will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary next February.

The Chicago Church Federation has issued a placard which all good citizens of every political belief, men and women, will heed next Tuesday. It reads: "President Coolidge declares: 'Failure to vote is to be disloyal to our whole system of self-government.'"

The fifty-eighth annual meeting of the Woman's Board of Missions of the Interior will be held in the First Congregational church, Oak Park, Ill., Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday. There will be conferences of board, branch, and auxiliary officers in the parish house Tuesday morning and the first public meeting at 4 p. m. in the parish house auditorium. At 7:30 there will be a reception with introduction of missionaries. Mrs. James H. Moore, president of the woman's board, will preside Wednesday morning. Mrs. E. A. Osbornson will preside Wednesday afternoon. A luncheon will be served in the First Baptist church, Oak Park, Thursday noon, and Thursday evening the fifty-eight years of the women's work will be told in story and picture. Wednesday afternoon Dr. Rockwell Harmon Potter, president of the American board, will speak on "The Far Reach of the Great Gospel." Dr. Potter recently made a world tour in the study of missions. Beginning with Jan. 1 next the women's board will be merged with the American board and one-third of the governing board will be women.

Lectures in religion and leadership training classes will begin Tuesday evening at 7:20 at the University of Chicago and will continue Tuesday evenings until Dec. 7. The lectures will be given in the Joseph Bond chapel on the general subject, "Christian Doctrine in Modern Thought," and will be by Dean Shailer Mathews and Dr. Gerald B. Smith. Training classes will meet in Swift hall at 8:30 p. m. Talks will be given on "The Old Testament in the Light of Today," by Prof. H. L. Willett, and "Religion and the Education of the American Child," by Prof. W. C. Bower.

The third annual bazaar for St. Mary's home for children under Episcopal auspices will be held at the New Palmer House Thursday. Mrs. Carl A. Gowdy and Mrs. John Oliphant are co-chairmen.

The second season of the Chicago Forum will begin this afternoon at 3 at the Erlanger, formerly the Palace theater, Clark street near Randolph street. Alva W. Taylor, Indianapolis, will give the Protestant view of the religious situation in Mexico and Prof. Charles Phillips of Notre Dame university will speak from the Roman Catholic viewpoint. Fred A. Moore is the chairman.

Grace Evangelical Lutheran church, 2751 South Karlov avenue, with 1,738 souls and 1,248 communicant members, will celebrate today its 25th anniversary. The Rev. Theodore Kohn, St. Paul, will speak at 9:30; Prof. J. C. Anderson, Luther institute, at 11 a. m., and President W. H. T. Dau, Valparaiso, at 7:45 p. m.

A massmeeting will be held this evening in the Wendell Phillips High school, 39th street and Prairie avenue, in the interest of better interracial conditions. The Chicago Church federation is coöperating with the Metropolitan church in the meeting. Dean Shailer Mathews and the Rev. Harold M. Kingsley will be the speakers.

The Rev. A. A. McCracken is pastor of the Wesley Methodist Episcopal church at Diversey boulevard and Seminary avenue, and is now leading in an advance spiritual and physical improvement program for the church. Wesley church is the result of a merger of the former Wesley church located on North Halsted street near Belden avenue, and the Diversey Boulevard church, the building of which is now being occupied and improved.

The former Wesley church was purchased by the Belden Avenue Baptist church and is being used as a Sunday school and social center. Of the $47,500 received from the sale $20,000 has been placed in an endowment fund, $5,000 given to the Chicago Missionary and Church Extension society, of which Dr. John Thompson of the Chicago temple is the head, and the remainder is being used for the benefit of the new Wesley.

One of these improvements is a new pipe organ, which will be dedicated Nov. 28.

A farewell reception will be given this evening by the Congregation Anshei Sholem, Independence boulevard and West Polk street, to its retiring cantor, Albert Rappaport, who resigns to join the Chicago Civic Opera company.

Dr. Henry Van Dyke, poet, essayist, minister to the Netherlands in the Woodrow Wilson administration, will speak this evening at 8 at the Sunday Evening club at Orchestra hall. Clifford W. Barnes will speak at 7.

Old St. John's Roman Catholic church, 18th and South Clark streets, Monsignor W. D. O'Brien, pastor, will hold four noonday services tomorrow, All Saints day, 11:45 to 12:30, especially for the benefit of working people who cannot attend early masses.

Happy Sunday evenings will be inaugurated this evening at Grace Evangelical church, Kimball and Wrightwood avenues. Prof. E. N. Himmel will lecture and there will be a special musical program led by the men's chorus of the church.

Miss Herma Menth, a graduate of the Imperial Conservatory of Music, Vienna, will be the special soloist this evening at the Thoburn Methodist Episcopal church, 64th and South Paulina streets, Dr. J. H. De Lacy, pastor.

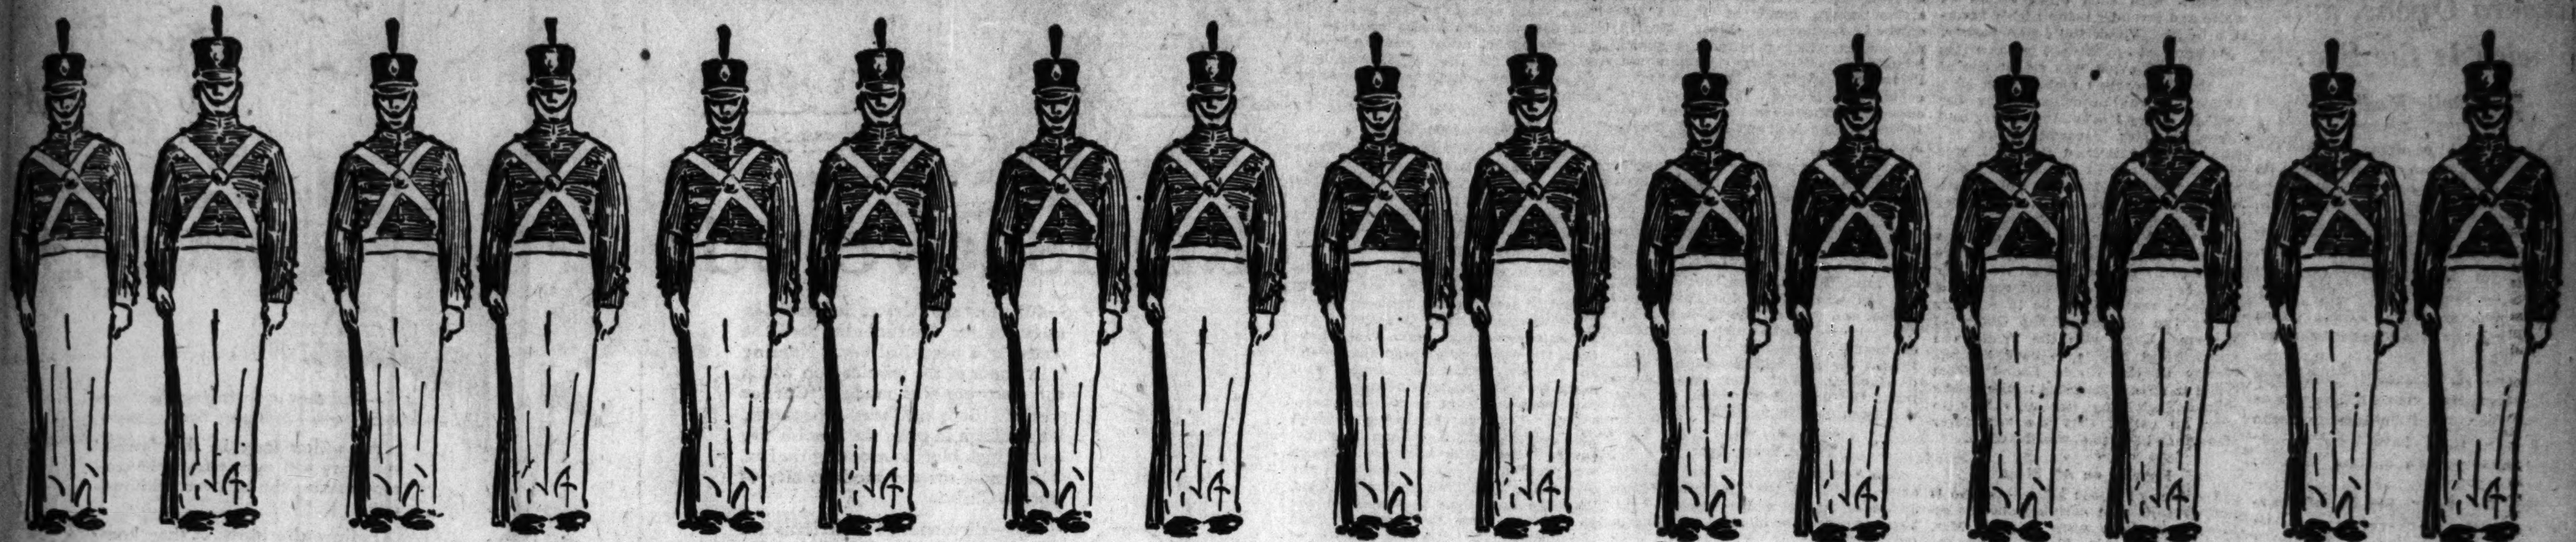
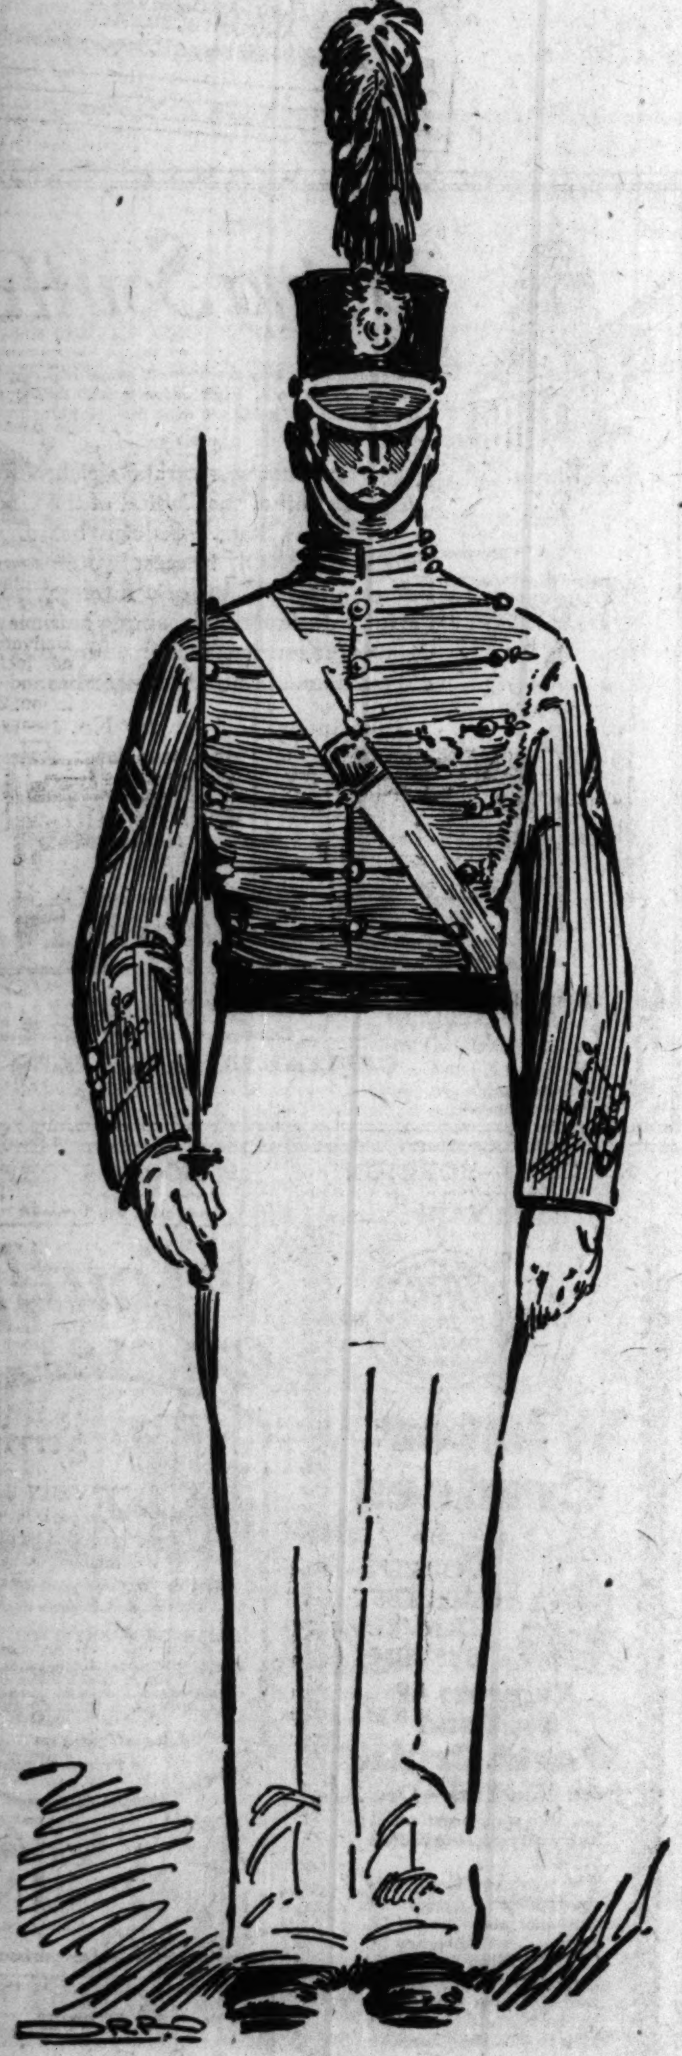
Announcing a wonderful new serial story of love, and war, and youth!



BORROWED GLORY

Written and Illustrated by

Carey Orr



HERE'S a brand new, half-page serial written and illustrated by Carey Orr, famous Chicago Tribune cartoonist, whose work has won international recognition.

"BORROWED GLORY" is a corking good title for this spirited, romantic war story. The action—and there's plenty of it in every installment—swings around the experiences of two adventurous American boys. The story carries them through their West Point days into the bloody fields of France. Their trials and achievements in the field of battle, their romances and manly affection for each other make this story unusually appealing.

Orr's ability as a cartoonist has been recognized for years. This serial proves he can tell as powerful a story in words as he can in pictures. "Borrowed Glory" is one of the most fascinating features ever published in The Chicago Tribune.

CAREY ORR

"There is really nothing finer than a cartoon that makes people smile," says Carey Orr. "If the American citizen begins the morning smiling, the American cartoonist has done a big thing."

Carey Orr commenced drawing before he learned to write, and has been at it ever since. It came naturally to him to draw, and he made a hobby of it while attending school out in Washington. (At the age of 19 he played professional baseball and earned enough money to go to college.) After college he attended the Academy of Fine Arts in Chicago and then received an opportunity as sketch artist with the Chicago Examiner. From here he went to work on the Nashville Tennesseean and remained there four years, then came to Chicago, where he has been ever since.

Watch for the first installment in next Sunday's Tribune!

NEWS OF NEW YORK SOCIETY

Opera Opens, and with It the Season

By Dolly Madison.

NEW YORK.—Tomorrow night is the night of nights, for then the Metropolitan throws open its doors for the season, and society will make its annual display of wealth and beauty, with, alas, the former predominating altogether too noticeably.

However, the gathering that will greet "La Vestale" will be indeed brilliant. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ogden Bacon will have the Frasier Jelke box; J. J. Watson Jr. will entertain in the Iselin box, 15; Clarence H. Mackay will bring his party to box 27. The odds as to whether Mrs. Ellin Mackay Berlin will be present have been already quoted, very high against, with no takers.

Mrs. Vanderbilt's box, 31, will have as youthful a contingent as any when Mr. and Mrs. William H. Vanderbilt and Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Cushing III. represent the Vanderbilt family. The dowager Mrs. Vanderbilt at present is abroad with her daughter, Countess Szechenyi.

Others who will entertain at the opening include Mrs. Robert C. Gardner, Mrs. John Aspegren, Charles E. F. McCann, Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, Mrs. Payne Whitney, and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney. The grand tier and stall boxes will naturally have their annual devotees, while the corridors will see the parade, that, as I have said, spells disillusionment to the young man seeking romance and beauty in that most natural of hiding places, the opera.

Like Father, Like Son.

Speaking of young William Vanderbilt reminds me that at the forthcoming horse show, to be held in Madison Square Garden, he will drive a coach and four in an effort to revive interest in coaching. I recall that Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, the father of the young benedict, was an enthusiastic horseman, with a penchant for coaching parties.

His coaches—the Venture, Vagrant, Vixen—were famous in those days, when one of the chief points of interest to a party was a huge hamper carried much in view, containing, among such delicacies as caviar and paté de foie gras, such extinct delights as Mumm, extra sec.; Pol Roger, Heidsieck, et al.

Mrs. Vanderbilt Returns.

In all the hullabaloo attendant upon the arrival of Queen Marie, no one seems to have noticed that among the other more or less distinguished voyagers on the huge Leviathan was none other than Mrs. Reginal Claypool Vanderbilt.

Society is divided into two camps (a state not unnatural to New York's elect) over the arrival of the former Gloria Morgan. The feline contingent insists that Gloria voyaged via the Leviathan since she could not resist such an opportunity to be close to royalty for a period closely approaching a week.

On the other hand, the more charitably inclined point out that with her sister Thelma, now Lady Furness, it would be, and will be, no hard matter for Mrs. Reggie to make her bow before a far more imposing member of royalty than the queen of Roumania. Furthermore, they quite definitely state that Gloria came on the Leviathan because, with the queen on board, she knew her own entry would make little impression on the ripples of publicity attendant upon the Great Visit.

Living the Quiet Life.

However that may be, and who shall decide, it is a fact that the dark Morgan's lucky child is again among those present in New York, after having spent almost the entire first year of her widowhood abroad. She still wears semi-mourning, the combination of black with such other colors as white and lavender being highly favorable to Mrs. Vanderbilt's slim beauty.

At her first appearance in town this week, which event was set at one of the town's smartest night clubs, Mrs. Vanderbilt was accompanied by her brother, Harry Hayes Morgan Jr., and her sister, Mrs. Benjamin Thaw Jr., who, being christened Consuelo, was named in honor of Consuelo Vanderbilt, erstwhile Duchess of Marlborough, and present Mrs. Jacques Balsan.

Socially, Mrs. Reggie Vanderbilt has not been a howling success. There seems to be no doubt at all that after what happened in her first season at Newport, she will not be in a hurry to try the delights of the Queen of Resorts. Even with the genial and mustachioed Reggie to back her up, society at the Rhode Island resort failed to open wide arms to the young matron, blighting her ambitions to such an extent that she has never since gone back to storm the cliffs.

Royalty on All Sides.

Speaking of Queen Marie—as who is not?—recalls that arriving shortly before her majesty were Mr. and Mrs. Raoul Alevra, Mr. Alevra being engaged in the Roumanian diplomatic service. Last week the Alevras gave a luncheon in honor of Prince Hohenlohe-Langenburg, Queen Marie's nephew, at which function the guests included Prince Serge Romanofski, Prince Matchabelli and his actress princess, Count Edward Oppersdorf, Baroness Rose Marie von Hoffmanns, Maj. Iremesco, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Theus Munds.

However, an amusing fact concerning the Alevras is that Mrs. Alevra was Dorothy Norris, daughter of the one time Mrs. Alfred E. Norris, who, upon divorcing Mr. Norris, married one Gustav von Hasperg, not von Hapsberg. Mrs. Norris, or, rather, I should say Mrs. Von Hasperg, decided that the von was entirely too Teutonic to please, and with all the aplomb of the American lady with much savoir faire, changed the prefix to de, and is now known far and wide as Mrs. Gustav de Hasperg. With what ease can one make the difficult transition (at present) from Teuton to Gaul!

Three Years Ago.

Again in reference to her majesty arises the fact that Madame Marie Jonnesco, about whom society has been inquiring for months, is hiding in our midst.

It was Madame Jonnesco, she of the heavy accent, who came first, some three years ago, to advise New York that Queen Marie would soon be in the metropolis' midst, and made arrangements for the royal reception, which was guaranteed to be necessary that very year.

A Mysterious Affair.

However, as we know, Queen Marie failed to materialize that particular season, and Madame Jonnesco, after being very much present at social activities, both semi-public and private, departed with many good wishes for herself and her royal mistress.

When it was announced that the queen was coming this year society looked to see Madame Jonnesco arriving with much clamor to make all the preliminary arrangements. When, however, the queen came accompanied by an entirely strange entourage, with never a sign of Madame Jonnesco, people asked pointedly as to her whereabouts. Yesterday I saw her at lunch with several other women and discovered that while Madame Jonnesco was reputed to have arrived with the queen, the ship lists of another boat than the Leviathan had reported her as arriving some two days prior to the queen. What it all portends is, of course, beyond guessing at.

ENTRANCE TO THE TERRACE GARDEN, MORRISON HOTEL, CHICAGO

A LIST of history's famous staircases should include Jacob's Ladder, the steps of the Washington Capitol, and the Madison Street entrance to the Morrison Hotel's Terrace Garden.

"The Garden"—A National Institution

It is hard to estimate how many thousands of pleasure seekers in a twelvemonth descend the celebrated stairway pictured above. For years this location has been known throughout America as Chicago's "busiest 24-hour corner."

The Boston Oyster House

The vivacity and color of the Terrace Garden's dance-and-dine entertainments are well balanced by the carefree Bohemian character of the Boston Oyster House—a national favorite with bon-vivants for half a century.

The New Morrison, when completed, will be the world's largest and tallest hotel, 46 stories high, with 3,400 rooms

1,944 Guest Rooms, $2.50 Up

The Morrison has 1,944 rooms, all outside, with bath, running ice-water, bed-head reading lamp, and Servidor. Every floor has its own housekeeper; all guests have garage privileges. The location, at Chicago's very center, so enhances subrental-values that they pay all the ground rent, enabling the hotel to charge $2.50 to $5 for rooms that would cost $5 to $8 in any other leading hotel.

Every Saturday night the Terrace Garden is open till 2 A. M.

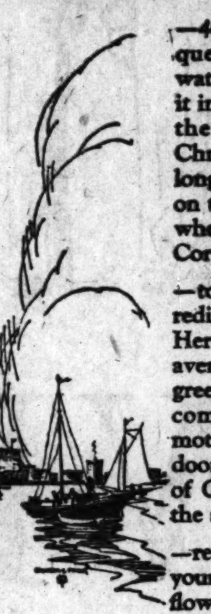
Rediscovered!



—407 years ago Alvarez de Pineda, in quest of the Pacific, glimpsed the waters of a beautiful bay. Naming it in honor of the feast day on which the discovery was made—"Corpus Christi" (Body of Christ)—he tarried long enough to plant the Spanish flag on the high bluff overlooking the bay, where now sits the modern city of Corpus Christi.

—today thousands of Americans are rediscovering Corpus Christi annually. Here they find a balmy climate—an average winter temperature of 59 degrees, with no rainy season. They come to hunt, fish, sail, play golf, motor and revel in the joy of life outdoors. They rejoice in the romance of Old Mexico, only a few hours to the south.

—rediscover health and happiness for yourself, in this land of sunshine and flowers. Mail the coupon today. It will bring you more information.

Live in this Pleasant Thriving Land

Rare enjoyments await you in this great natural playground of hills, lakes and forests—"The Solid Central Section of Florida." Here you may hunt, fish, swim, motor, golf—yes, or farm, where Nature lavishes "growing days" with an unstinting hand.

Mildness of climate and beauty of environment are perpetual attractions. A fertile soil yields 2 to 3 crops annually on the same land, and fruits, vegetables, poultry and dairy products afford excellent profits.

Such attractions as these brought to Central Florida an ambitious, enterprising citizenship. We invite you to come, as we did, to this land of agricultural richness, progressive cities, and permanent stability—where enjoyment in work or play awaits you.

KRAKAUER PIANOS

232 Krakauer Pianos—93 Grands—139 Uprights—have been purchased within the last 3 years by the New York City Board of Education for use in the New York Schools.

100 Krakauer Pianos are in use in Pittsburgh Public and Private Schools, and nearly the same number in Buffalo.

The leading music schools and musicians in every city from coast to coast who can afford the best and who DO NOT use certain makes on a "deal" to advertise and sell on a commission basis, purchase Krakauers because the KRAKAUER TONE is the best for studio and home use, and the Krakauer retains its tone for 40 years or more.

PARCEL POST AND EXPRESS.

THIS IS BIG VALUE.
We actually sell you an article for $2.00, express prepaid, that ordinarily would cost you $12.00. In fact, we save you $10.00 on a $2.00 purchase. We manufacture Fosterene and distribute it in one-half gallon glass jugs.

Fosterene is a highly concentrated, reliable Antiseptic—a great household remedy and a superior Mouth Wash.

The Ideal Antiseptic Mouth Wash contains 25% alcohol and a certain amount of healing antiseptic ingredients.

Fosterene contains 75% alcohol and three times the quantity of antiseptic ingredients used in the Ideal Mouth Wash. Fosterene containing three times the medicinal ingredients of the Ideal Antiseptic Mouth Wash, it stands to reason that if you add one gallon of water to one-half gallon of Fosterene, you will have twelve full pints of the Ideal Antiseptic Mouth Wash, containing 25% alcohol, generally sold at $1.00 a pint. Instead of paying $2.00 a quart for water, you add the water yourself and the Ideal Mouth Wash costs you less than seventeen cents a pint.

Diluted Fosterene, used according to directions, will help prevent and relieve Colds, Sore Throat, Catarrh of the Throat and Nose, Eczema, Tonsilitis, Hay Fever, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Chronic Cough and Unpleasant Breath or Halitosis.

Diluted Fosterene will also prevent and check Dandruff. It is invaluable as a mouth wash and gargle. It should be used as first aid for cuts and scratches to prevent infection. It is unsurpassed as a lotion for use after shaving. It is an excellent deodorant for the sick room and removes the disagreeable odors of perspiration.

No home should be without one-half gallon of Fosterene.

Fosterene can only be purchased through the mail or at our laboratory. Send your order today. The price of Fosterene is $2.00 for one-half gallon container, express prepaid to any point in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Iowa, and Wisconsin. To all other points in the United States $2.50, express prepaid.

Satisfaction guaranteed or purchase price returned.

We have more than $15,000,000 worth of wonderful land.

The men who can qualify for these positions and who can deliver sales can establish permanent and profitable connections with a house known throughout Chicago for its reliable methods—and for the character of its properties.

This is an especially good proposition for men of real executive ability—who can bring their own men with them.

If you are at present employed and want to "do better than you ever have done"—write us in STRICT CONFIDENCE. Character is a necessary qualification—and so are sales and managing ability. WRITE NOW. Address B Y 77, Tribune.

1120
Lake Shore Drive
CORNER OF ELM-ST.
The apartments in this building are spacious, exceptionally well lighted and ventilated, and have every modern convenience for enjoyable living.
The total monthly operating cost of a five room apartment under our 100% co-operative plan is as low as $117.84; and in the seven room apartment as low as $169.40.
There is only one Lake Shore-dr., and it is unquestionably is the finest location for residential purposes in Chicago. Its convenience and beauty have made it Chicago's fashion center and one of Chicago's most attractive real estate investments.

THINK THIS OVER.
1. THE BUILDING IS ON A CORNER. There is no other lot on Lake Shore-dr. available unless one wrecks an expensive mansion.
2. THE LAND VALUE of the lot at 1120 Lake Shore-dr. HAS INCREASED 30% since we first offered these apartments to the public, but we are still offering them at the original price.
3. OVER 80% OF THE APARTMENTS ARE SOLD. The building is a thoroughly successful 100% co-operative project right now.
4. ASK THE MAN WHO OWNS ONE. The names of the group of owners who will be your neighbors are available to you.
5. THE BUILDING IS CONSERVATIVELY FINANCED. It has only one loan owned by the New York Life Insurance company.
6. A FEW APARTMENTS ARE STILL AVAILABLE.

The equities range from $12,800 up. You may purchase an apartment in this building with as little as $4,500, paying the remainder out of income rather than capital. This is the time to take advantage of this exceptional opportunity.
PLANS, SPECIFICATIONS, AND SCHEDULED PRICES WILL BE SUPPLIED UPON REQUEST.
Why not come with your family to the building and see these delightful apartments? There is no urge to buy—just courteous attention when you require it.

Live on Chicago's Gold Coast
Goethe Shore
Kitchenette Apartments
$85 to $145 Monthly

The Goethe Shore is set in the heart of Chicago's Gold Coast, in that narrow strip bordering Lake Shore-dr., between Lincoln Park and the Michigan-av. bridge.

World Famous Location

Diagonally across a vacant lot or two lies the world famous Potter Palmer mansion—within a stone's throw a little to the south is the Edith Rockefeller McCormick residence—catercorner across the street is the world renowned Drake Hotel.

Lake Michigan lies at the foot of Goethe-st., almost at the feet of the guests of the Goethe Shore.

Just far enough away to isolate our guests from its traffic noises is Chicago's most pretentious boulevard—Lake Shore-dr. The Wrigley building and The Tribune Tower are within easy walking distance. 35c cab fare to loop.

No other residential district in the world, not even the magnificent Park-av. section of New York City, can compare with the wonderful possibilities of 61 E. Goethe-st.

Prices
Extraordinarily Low

Now, for probably the first time in Chicago's history, it will be possible for the citizen of moderate means to live on the Gold Coast, within walking distance of his desk in Chicago's loop.

Until the Goethe Shore opened its doors, the family not prepared to pay a monthly rental of from $400 to $1,000 could not live in this marvelous location.

Goethe Shore apartment are offered at a monthly rental ranging from $85 to $145 a month—surely amazing value for furnished apartments of the better class—when one thinks of his neighbors as the business and social leaders of America—all within the sacred confines of this Gold Coast neighborhood.

Ten Minutes' Walk to Business

There is a growing demand for residence close to our business center. The business man of today desires to return as nearly as possible to the conditions of his boyhood, when he walked to work.

Chicago's streets are probably more crowded with automobile traffic than those of any other city in the world. This congestion on our boulevards with its consequent delay to the business man's trip from his home to his office has made it necessary for him to move in closer to business.

No Apartments
Furnished Like These

Smartly furnished in the newest mode, complete in every detail, including linen, silver, glassware, china, electrical appliances, bric-a-brac, and all that goes to make up the comfortable, fashionable, and homey abode.

Waiting List
Occupancy Soon

The Goethe Shore offers for popular demand Gold Coast Apartments almost within a stone's throw of Chicago's most pretentious hostelry—The Drake—at prices you would expect to pay in outlying neighborhoods.

It is a foregone conclusion that we will have a waiting list occupancy.

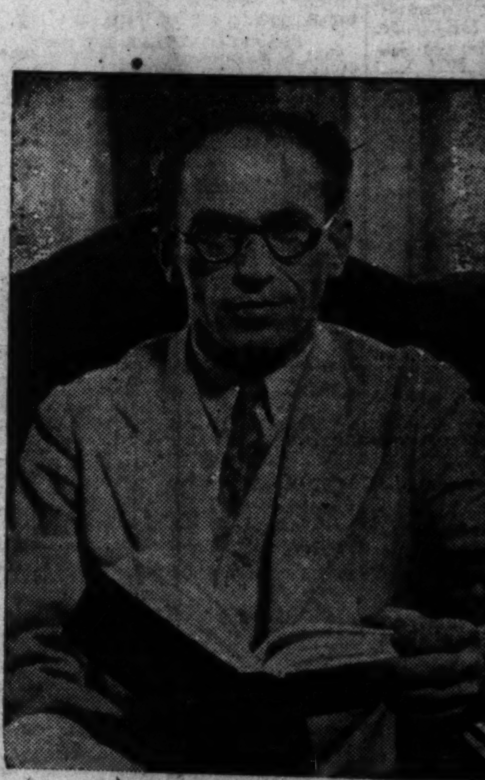
$1,000 in Cash Prizes for "What I Did with Tribune Want Ads"

IF you had just about decided that selling your radio set was impossible and then had 20 potential buyers turn up the day a Tribune Want Ad announced it for sale—how would you feel toward this sales medium? Mr. Taman says he was "more than surprised"; and Mrs. Morrison, who had seventeen calls for her furnished apartment, expresses a high regard for Tribune Want Ads. Have you ever used Tribune Want Ads to satisfy a want? If so, write us at once telling what they accomplished for you. If your letter is published you will receive $5 . . . and if your letter is among the seventeen best you will be the winner of one of the following prizes:

1st prize	$500
2nd prize	$200
3rd prize	$100
4 prizes of	$25 each
10 prizes of	$10 each

$5 for every letter published



"20 CALLS FOR RADIO"

"I advertised a radio set in all the other local papers and got no results. I inserted my ad in The Tribune and got 20 calls the first day. I was more than surprised with the results."—O. Taman, 5601 South Loomis Street.

The conditions are very simple: Your story, which must be an actual experience with Tribune Want Ads, should not contain more than 500 words. The Contest closes December 15th. Address the Want Ad Contest, Tribune Tower.

"COULD HAVE RENTED SEVERAL TIMES—"

"I wished to rent my furnished four room apartment and inserted a Want Ad in The Tribune. I rented it the first day, having 17 calls, and could have rented it several times over. You can certainly get real results from a Tribune Want Ad."—Mrs. G. S. Morrison, 7718 South Shore Drive.

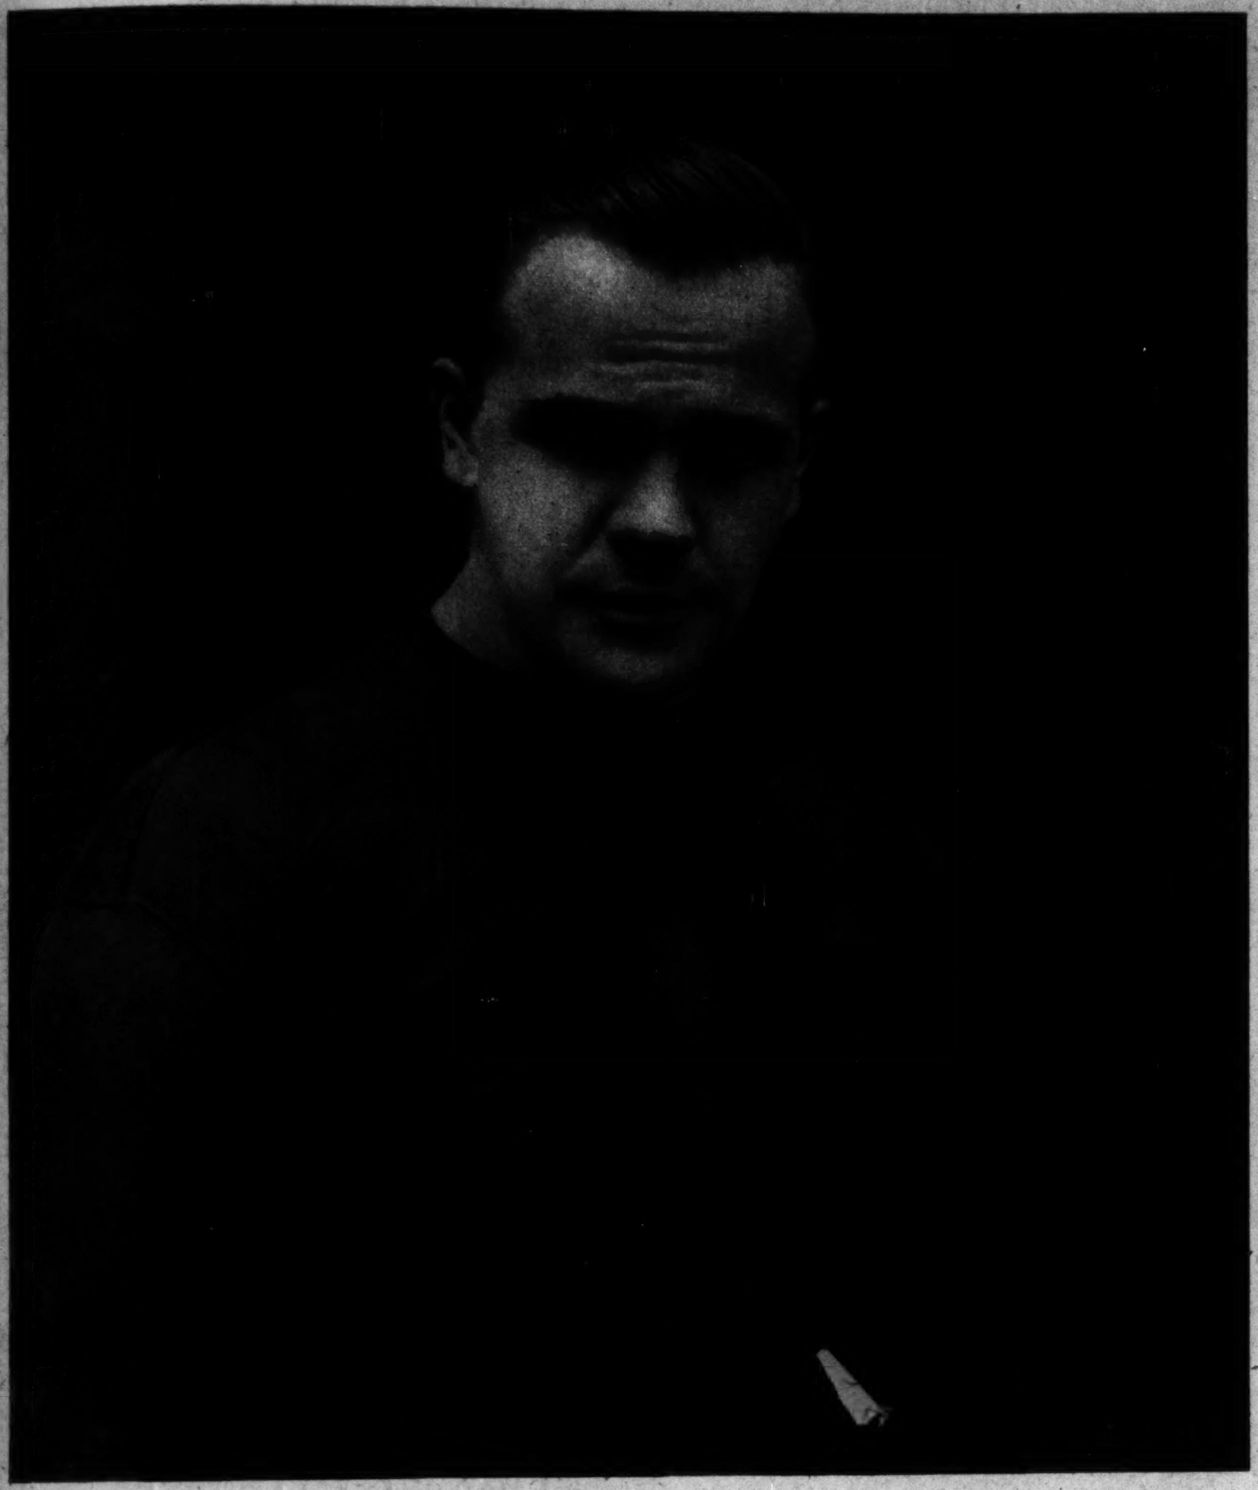
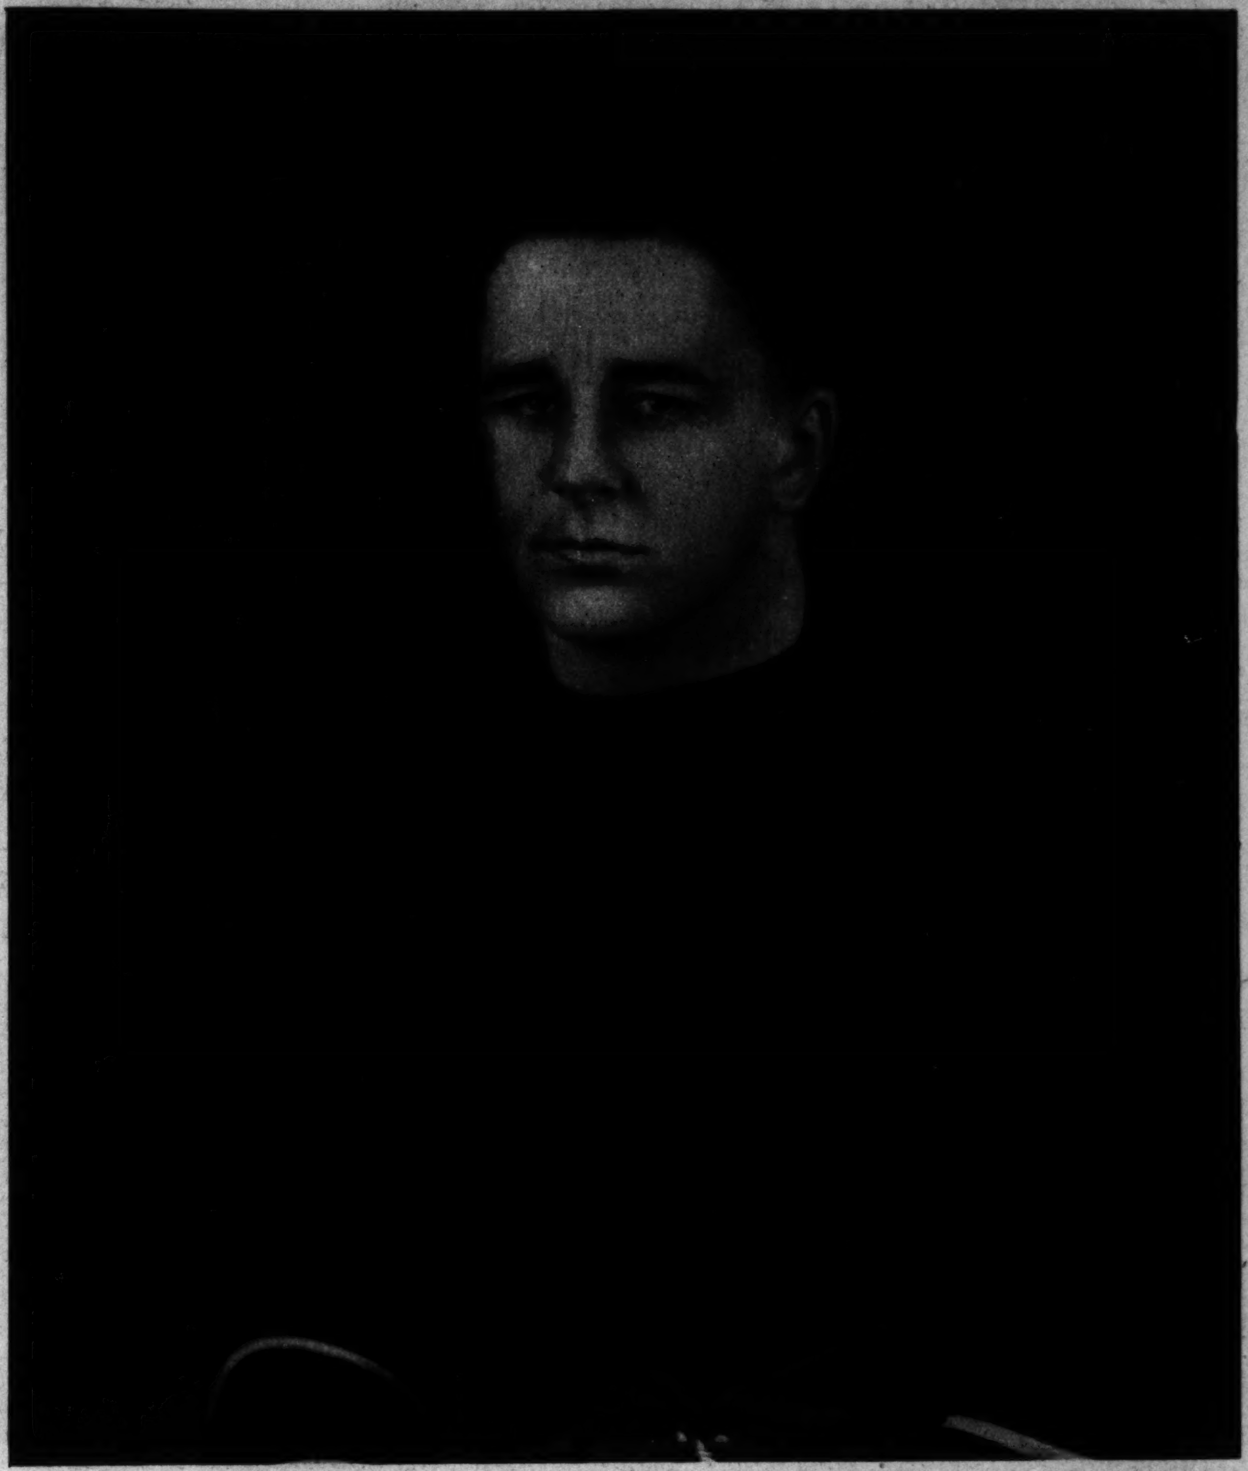
Chicago Sunday Tribune.
THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

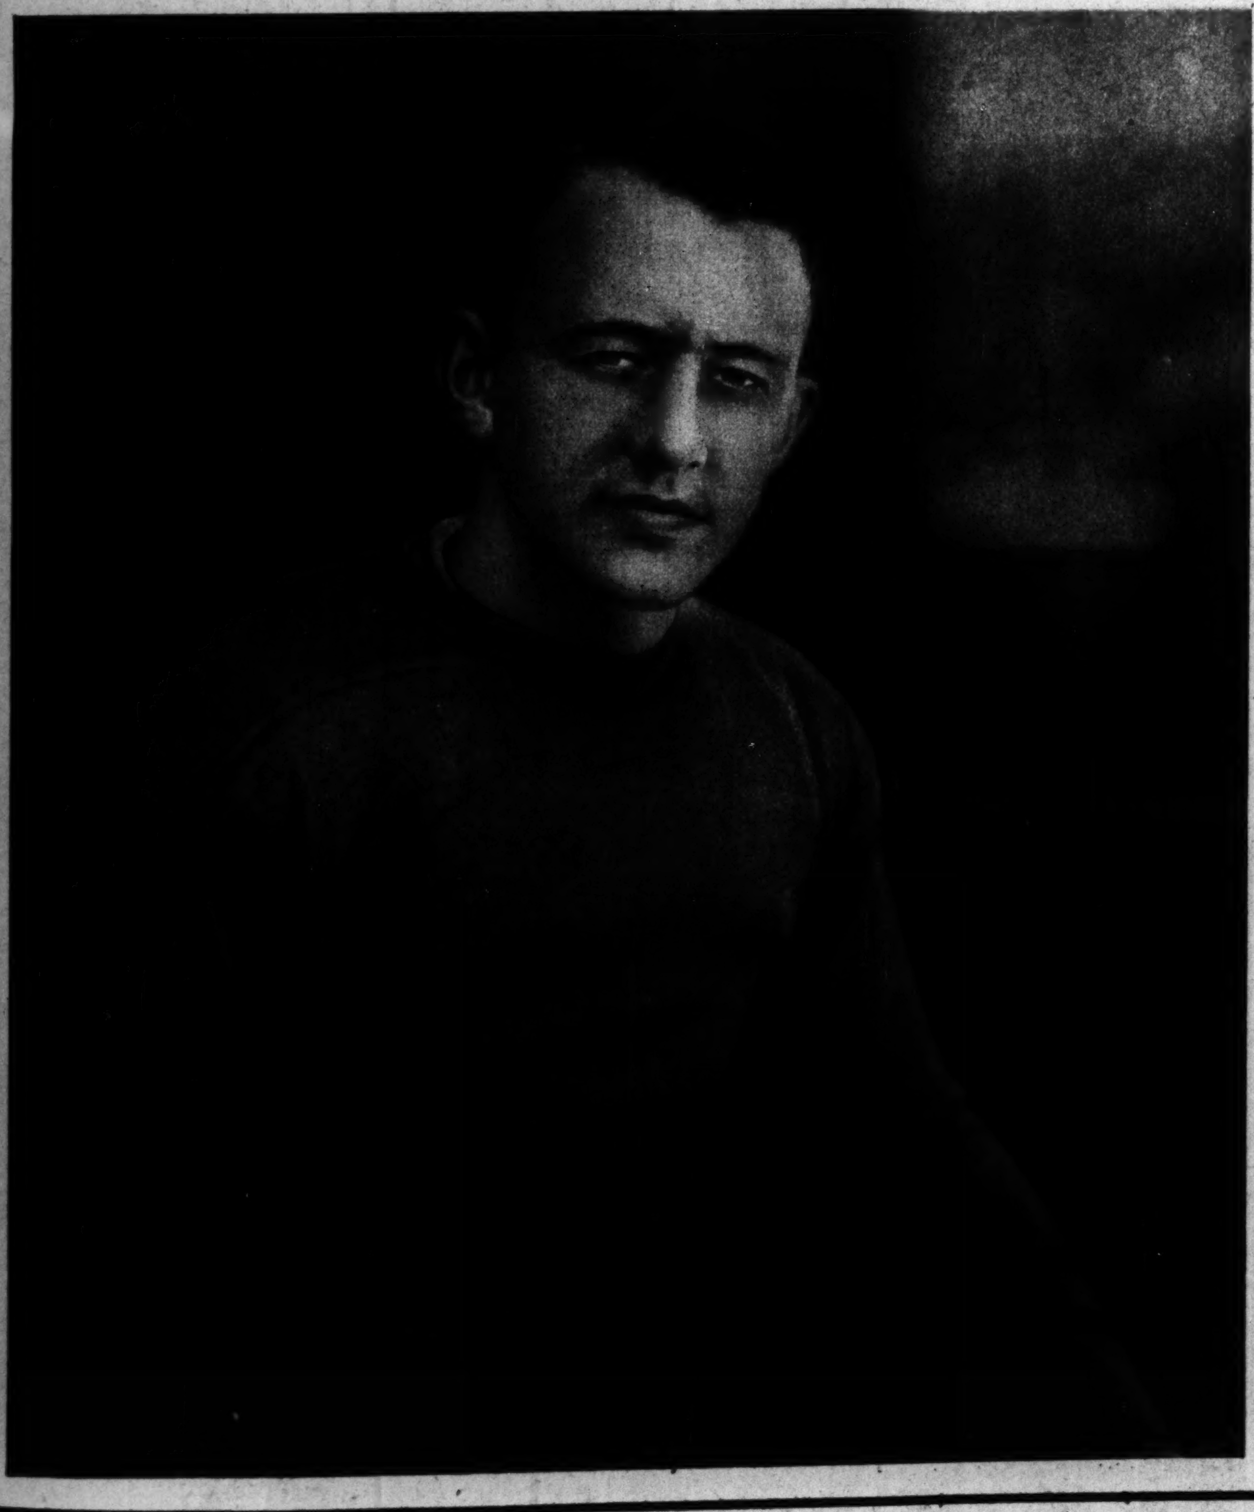
October 31, 1926



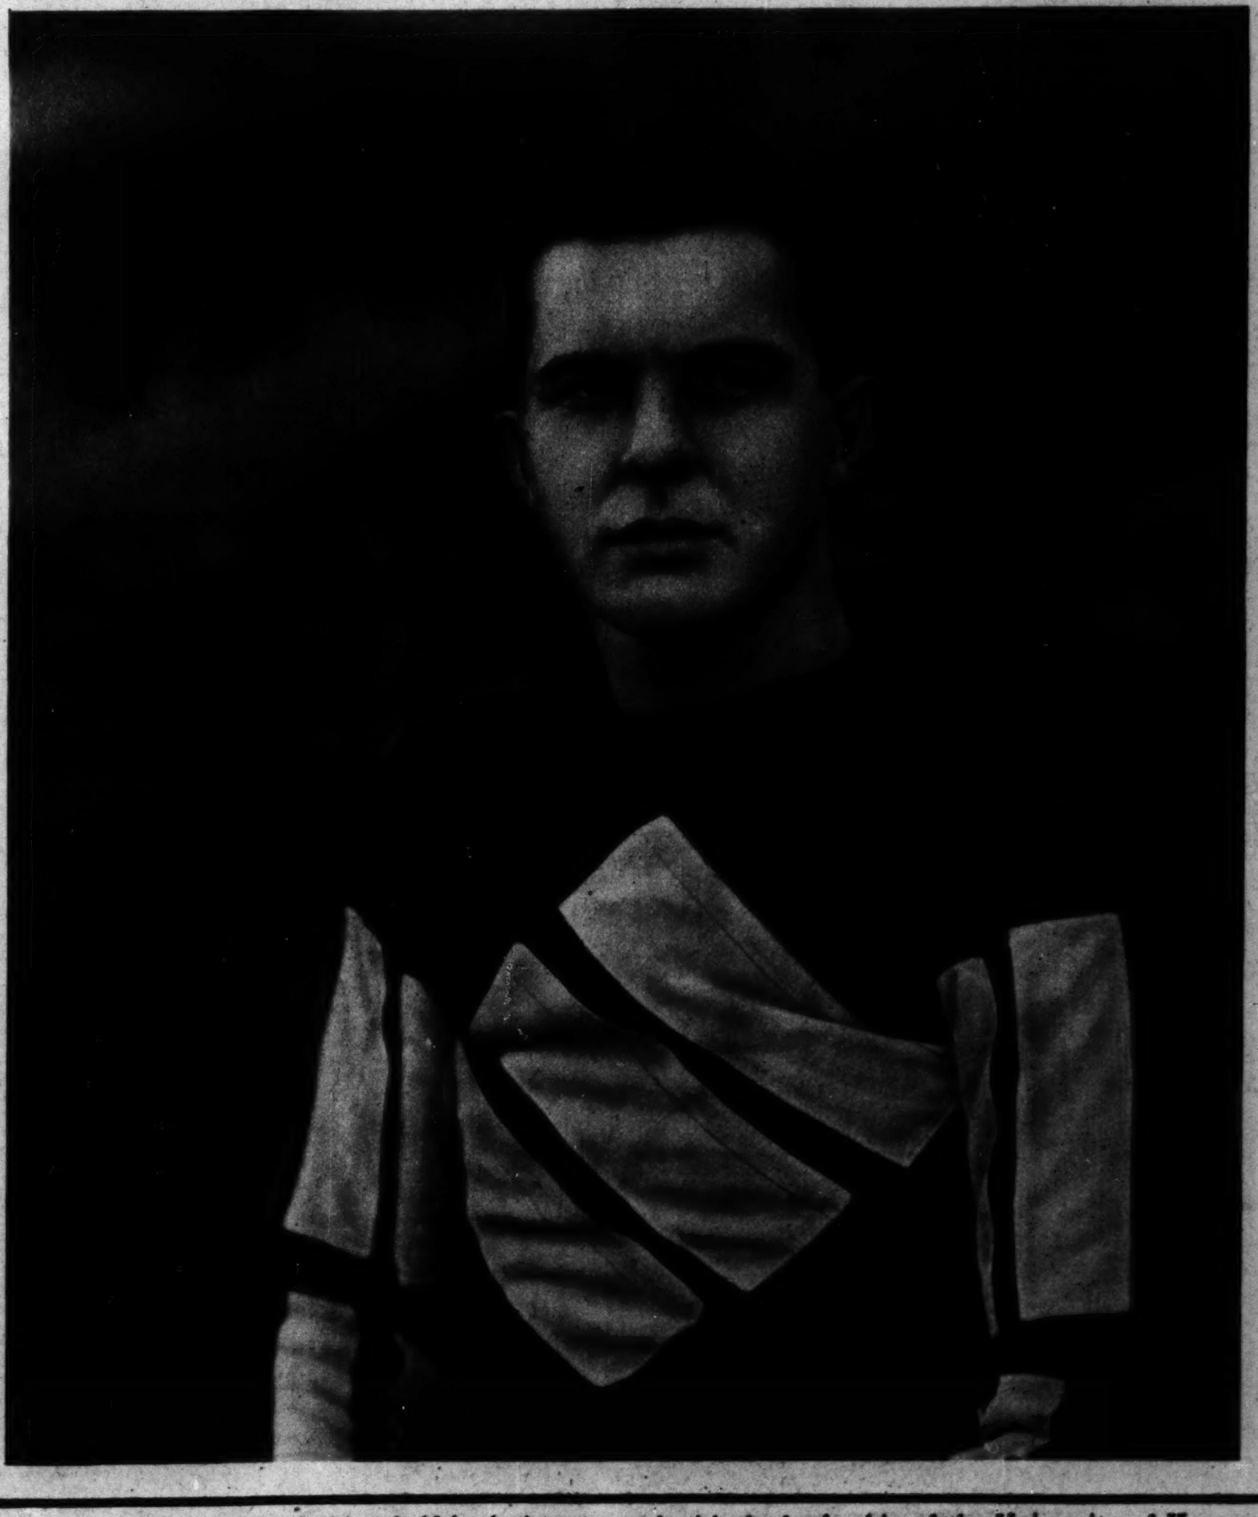
L. E. YODER, a tackle, will lead Carnegie Tech on the gridiron this fall. Tech is coached by Judge Walter E. Steffen of Chicago, once a famous Maroon football hero.



THE BIG RED TEAM at Cornell has Emerson Carey, a guard, for its captain. Carey is expected to be one of the best forwards in the east this fall.



R. CRAINE, a capable center, is given the responsibility of leading the Marquette university eleven of Milwaukee in this season's campaigning.



HAROLD ZUBER, slashing half back, is entrusted with the leadership of the University of Kansas eleven. The Jayhawkers are being coached by Franklin Cappon, formerly of Michigan.

JOHN T. McCUTCHEON'S FAMOUS CARTOON OF WAR, "The Colors," will be reproduced in colors on this page next Sunday, as a timely feature for Armistice day, Nov. 11. The series of leading varsity football captains in natural color photographs will be resumed the following Sunday, Nov. 14, when this page will be devoted to pictures of the captains of Yale, Harvard, Princeton and Brown universities.

Gray, Pongee

The new Fall style with wide-stitched seams

THIS week in Chicago and nearby cities, stores are showing this new glove for Fall street wear. The Hansen Baronet.

It is specially priced—an early season offering to start you out this year with Hansen Gloves.

The style is English. Wide sport-stitched seams of pure dye silk. The last word in Fall gloves.

The Baronet is made of genuine imported cape leather. Soft and durable. It feels and wears as well as it looks. Always keeps its shape. Slips on or off without a struggle, yet always fits smoothly.

There is no smarter, or more comfortable glove than the Hansen Baronet at this special price—$3.50 unlined. Also made with fleece and knit linings.

Here Are the Simple Rules!

1—This offer is open to every girl—unmarried or widow—residing anywhere in the States of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin, excepting professional beauties, such as stage girls or artists' models, and excepting employes of The Tribune and members of their families. It is free. There is no charge of any kind.

2—The Chicago Tribune will pay cash prizes ranging from $50.00 to $10,000.00 each and totaling $20,000.00 to the 56 most beautiful peaches themselves. See prize list herewith.

3—Peaches may be nominated by any relative or friend. To nominate a peach, simply send in her name and address. A Nomination Coupon will appear in The Chicago Tribune each Sunday. You may use this or write on a separate sheet of paper.

4—Send a photograph of your peach nominee if you can. Otherwise The Tribune will endeavor to obtain one by writing your nominee direct.

If you wish to enter this peach search personally, send in your photograph. Any kind of photograph will do—a small snapshot, a cabinet photo or a postcard picture. Style of photograph will not count, as standard photographs of the peaches selected by the judges will be made later at The Tribune's expense. From these standard photographs the 56 prize winners will be chosen. Therefore, do not hesitate to send in any photograph you have.

5—A Nomination Coupon should be pasted on the back of each photograph submitted, or the same information should be written on the photograph. All entries should be addressed "Peaches," The Chicago Tribune, Postoffice Box 1539, Chicago, Ill. The Tribune cannot be responsible for photographs, but will try to return all photographs that are accompanied by sufficient postage to cover their return.

6—A new group of photographs of peaches will be published each Sunday in the Picture Section of The Chicago Sunday Tribune. Photographs of the six sectional first prize winners will be published in The Tribune's Natural Color Photography.

7—This contest is now open. Peaches should be nominated at once. No entries will be accepted after midnight, December 7th.

8—The judges will be a committee of three well known and reputable artists and writers. Their decision will be final and not open to question.

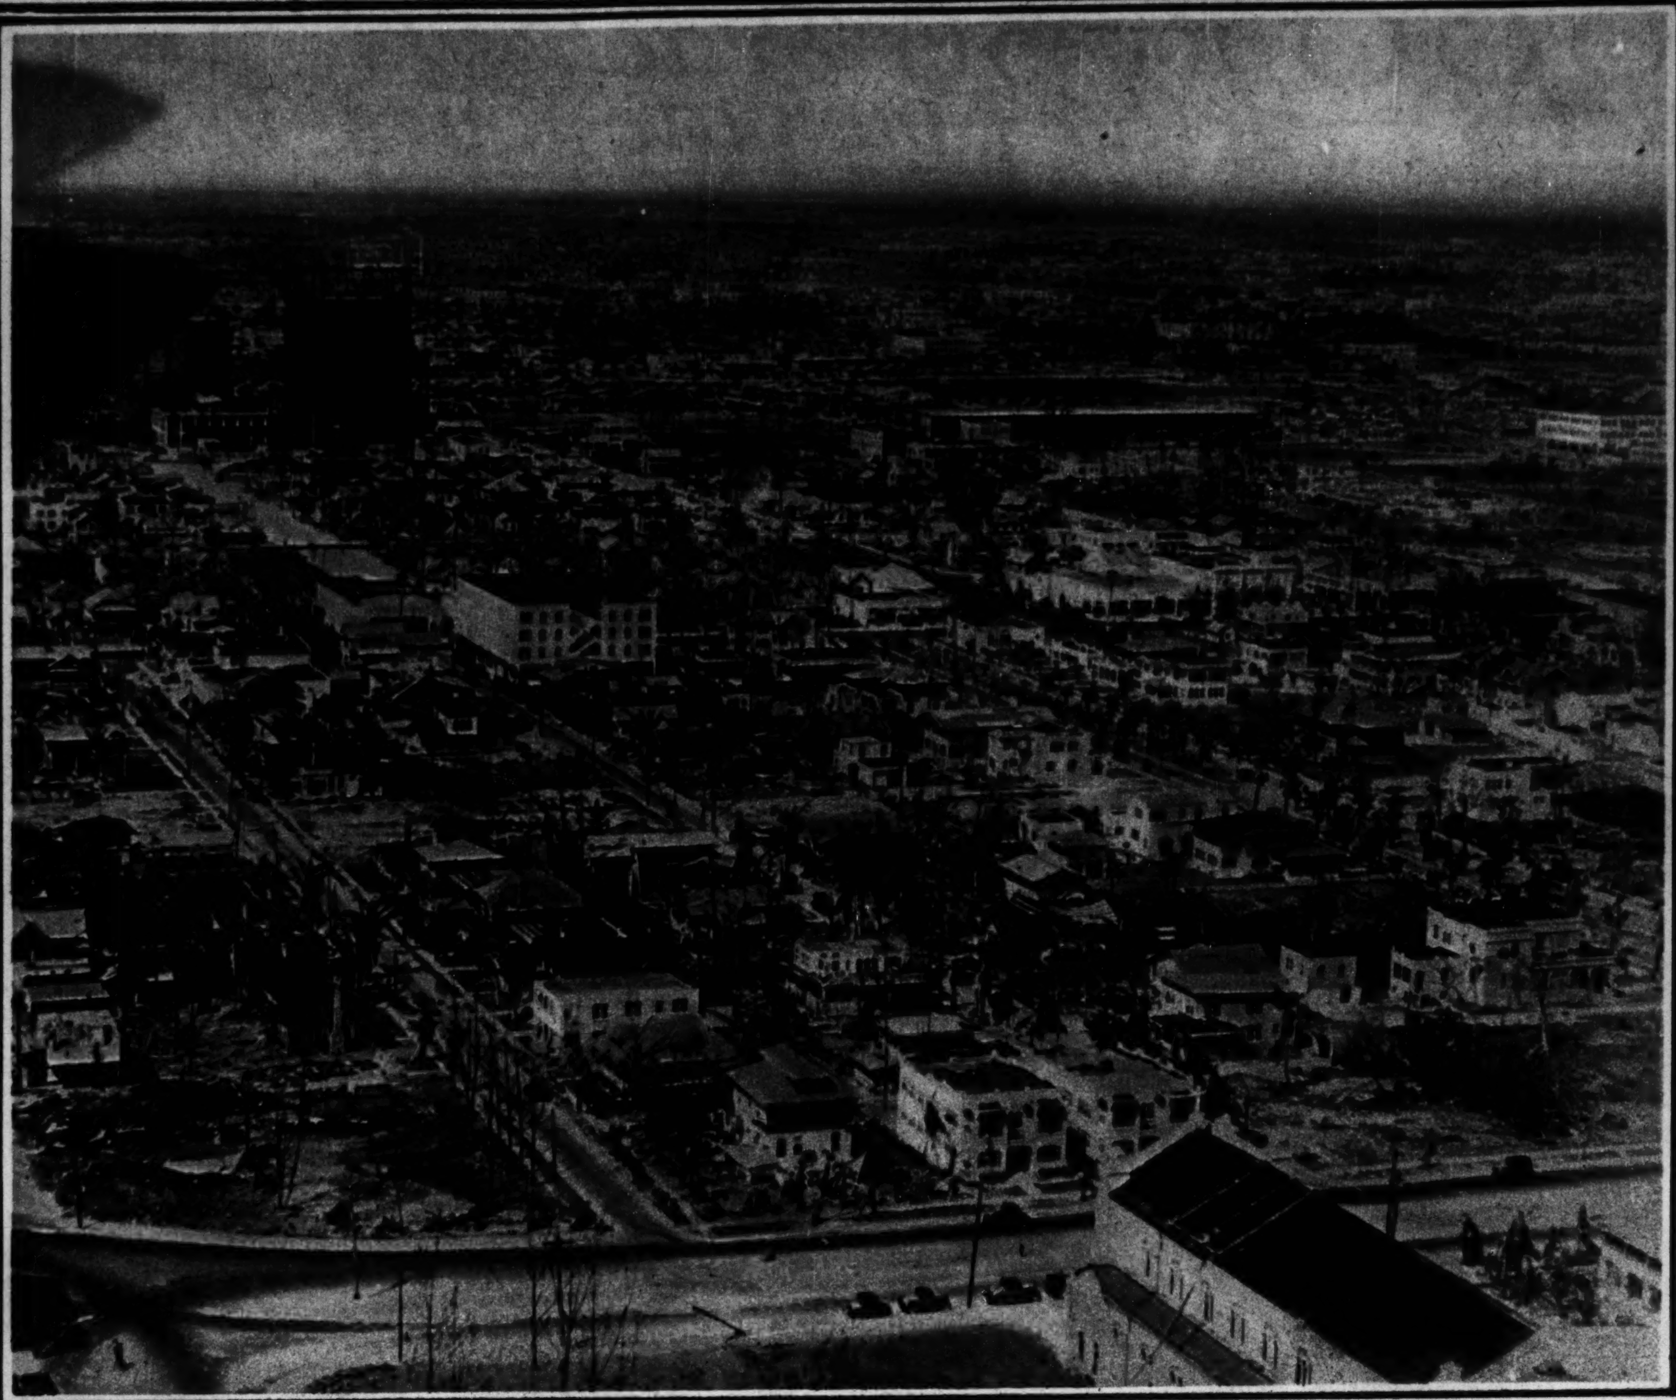
Another Page of Pretty Peaches in Next Sunday's Tribune!



AFTER THE FLORIDA HURRICANE an aviator flying above Miami found a city coming back. Palms uprooted by the storm had not been removed in some cases, and other trees denuded of foliage revealed injury that only time can repair. Among the homes, however, roofs were going back upon houses not too seriously damaged, and there was an aspect of recovery everywhere.

THE HEART OF HISTORIC PARIS throbs here at the Arc de Triomphe, at the head of the Champs Elysees, photographed from the air. Planned by Napoleon in 1806 to commemorate his victories, it was brought to completion thirty years later. Beneath the arch lies the unknown soldier of France, his tomb guarded by an eternal light.

VIRGINIA BROWN FAIRE brushed her hair high, put on her white satin gown and her necklace of pearls, and "sat" for her photograph. This is the highly satisfactory result.

ERICH POMMER and POLA NEGRI were snapped thus during a discussion regarding "Hotel Imperial," in which Mr. Pommer directed Madame Negri. The actress is just ready to start work in a scene in which—we surmise—she is to do the family washing.

JANET GAYNOR is one of the Baby Wampas stars. She has done herself proud in a number of pictures. Old-fashioned, sunny sort of a looking little thing, isn't she?

MISS ANNE MORGAN

is one of the most prominent women of America. Handsome, and distinguished, her personality is marked by great vitality and enthusiasm. She displays the same genius for organization which was the gift of her celebrated father, the late J. P. Morgan.

MISS ANNE MORGAN
gives these Creams a new importance

MISS Anne Morgan's life has been largely devoted to the interests of women. This distinguished daughter of a great American financier, is now devoting her energies to the erection of a new club house for business and professional women—to be the largest and finest of its kind.

"The women who are my friends," says Miss Morgan, "whether their interests be in business, professional or social activities, desire always that their complexions be clear and vigorous. So many achieve this end by following the Pond's method that I should like to see the dressing-rooms of our new Club House of the American Woman's Association equipped with Pond's Two Creams."

ACCORDINGLY, when the new club house opens, jars of Pond's Cold and Vanishing Creams will be part of the equipment of the dressing-rooms for the use of guests and members.

Pond's Cold Cream is light, fragrant, and effectual for deep cleansing of the skin's delicate tissues. Pond's Vanishing Cream adds a new and softer finish, serves as a smooth base for powder and protects the skin from soot and weather.

Try these two delightful creams for the care of your own skin. The Pond's Extract Company, 131 Hudson Street, New York City.

In the new club house of the American Woman's Association to be erected on West 57th Street, New York, will be a score of dressing-rooms. To illustrate the style of their furnishing, a room in the club's present headquarters has been fitted up, where this photograph was taken, showing POND'S TWO CREAMS

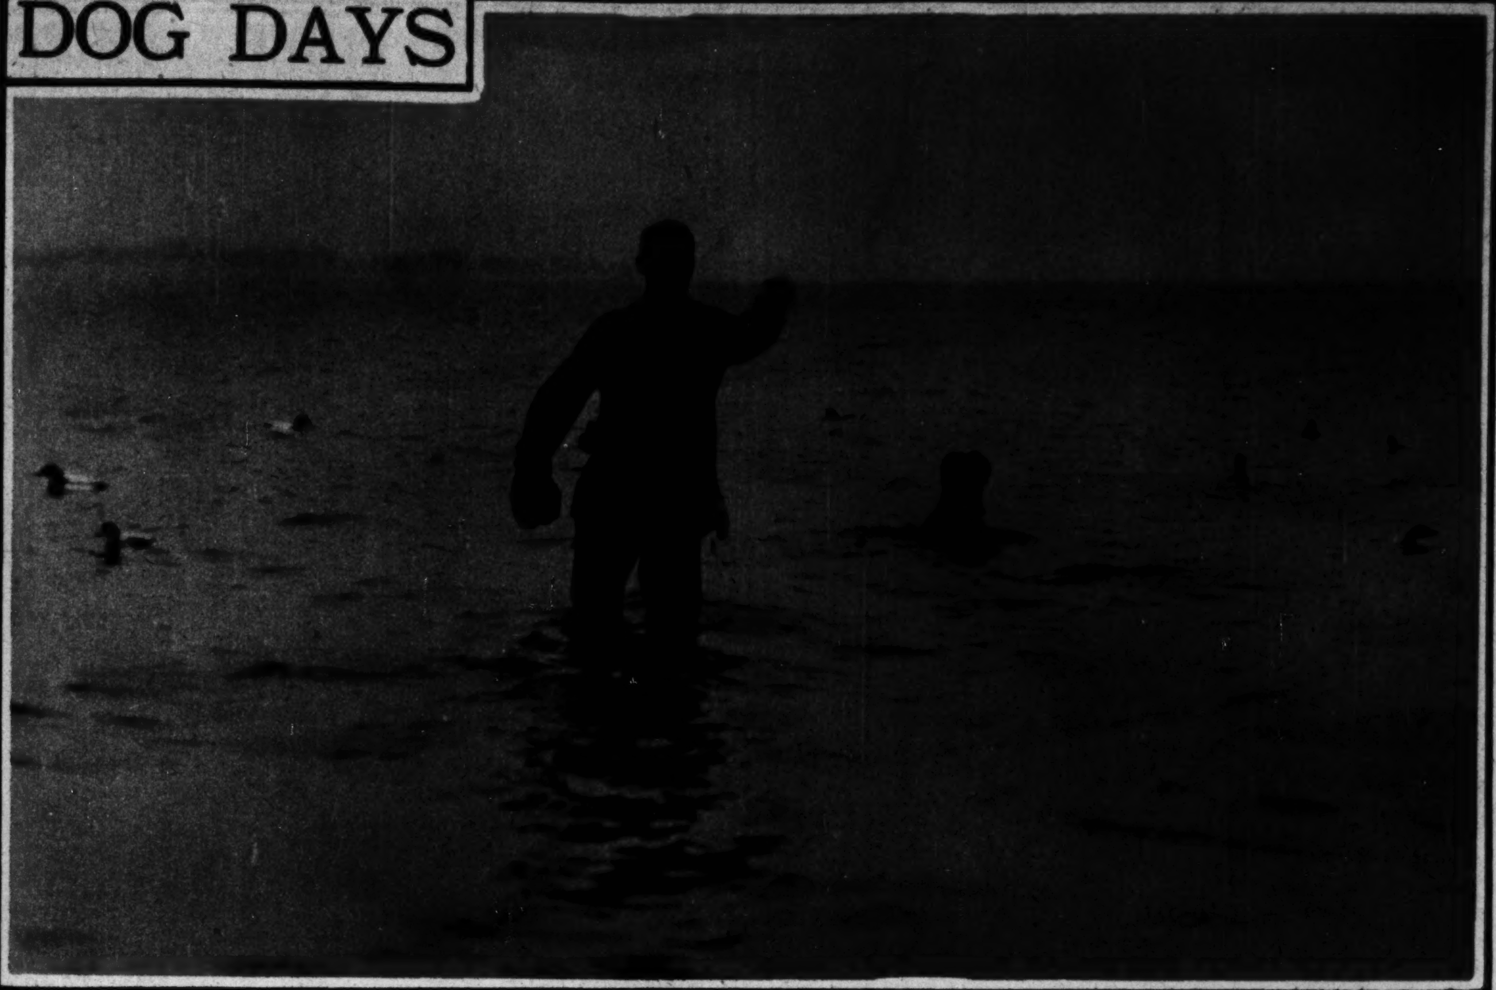
DOG DAYS

HERE'S YOUR DUCK, BOSS!—Downton Bob, springer spaniel field trial champion, is delivering a mallard duck retrieved from Lake Koshkonong to his master, Dean Swift of Edgerton, Wis.

HE'S NO LANDLUBBER—Here's a springer spaniel bringing in a duck after a long swim to retrieve the bird shot over decoys. This picture was made during the special water event of the field trials at Edgerton, Wis.

HOLD 'EM, BELLE!—Clem Thomas of Columbia, Tenn., calls the sharp command as his smart pointer dog strikes a statuesque pose. She has located a covey of quail in a Tennessee cornfield.

(All photographs from Bob Becker)



GO FETCH, DAN!—Beverly Dan, a big Chesapeake bay retriever, starts on command to retrieve a dead mallard duck from Lake Koshkonong. James Menhall of Edgerton, Wis., owner of Dan, is in the water handling him. The picture was made at the field trial recently held at Edgerton. Those are wooden decoys in the water. And in the picture below—

COMING IN—Beverly Dan comes in with the bacon—in this case, the duck. And then Dan's reward—

NICE BOY!—Closeup of Dan coming up to his master with the duck he has retrieved.

NORTHWESTERN HOLDS NOTRE DAME TO 6 TO 0 SCORE IN BATTLE OF GIANTS—A remarkable panorama of the throng of 41,000 that packed the new Evanston stadium for this gridiron classic, and of the contending teams in the shadow of Notre Dame's goal. The picture was shot shortly after the opening of the second quarter, when the Wildcats had reached highwater mark in their threat to score. "Tiny" Lewis of Northwestern plunged four yards to the Indianans' ten yard line. There Hearden of Notre Dame intercepted a pass by Capt. Baker, and the course of battle changed.

A NOTRE DAME COMET ECLIPSES THE MOON—Dahman, Rockne half back, stops Capt. "Moon" Baker in Notre Dame's secondary defense zone with the assistance of a teammate. "Tiny" Lewis of the Purple is at the right. Baker, Northwestern's hero of the day, had launched out on one of the sizzling dashes that frequently put the Wildcats in striking distance of victory.

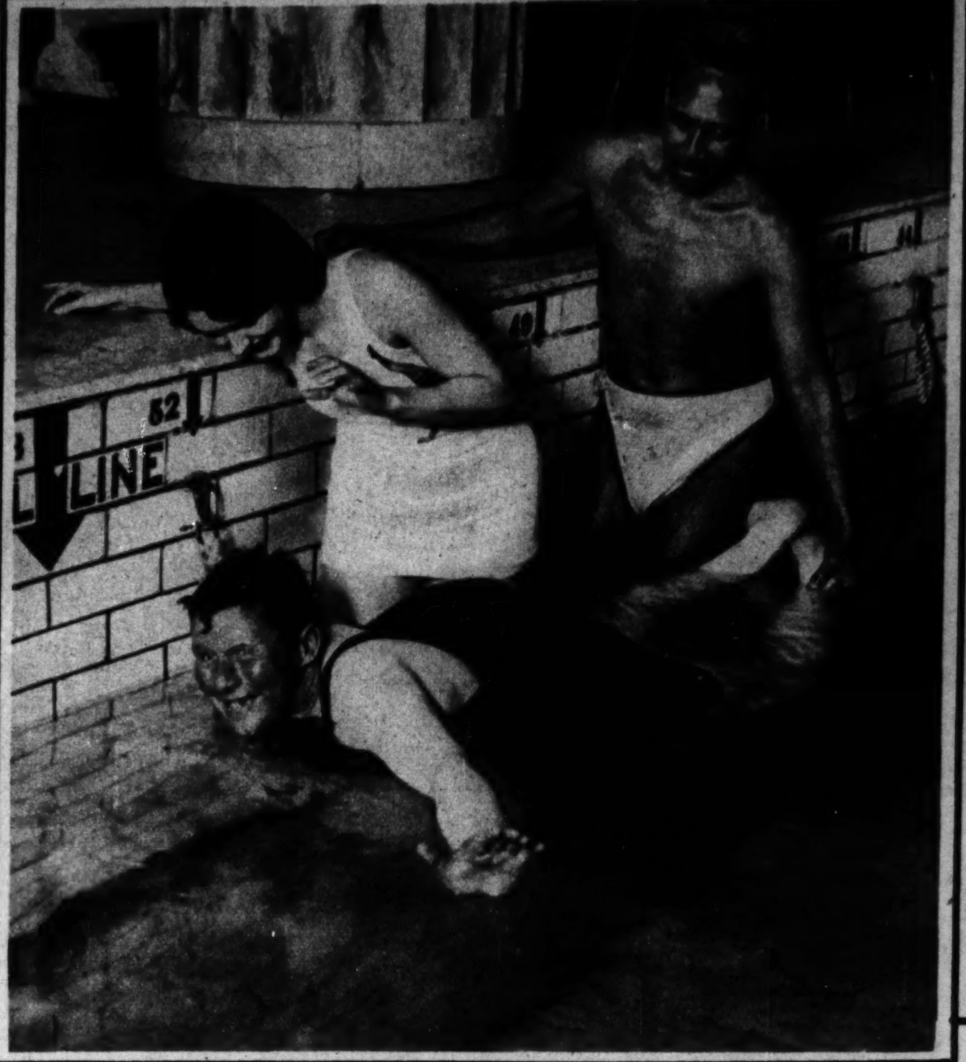
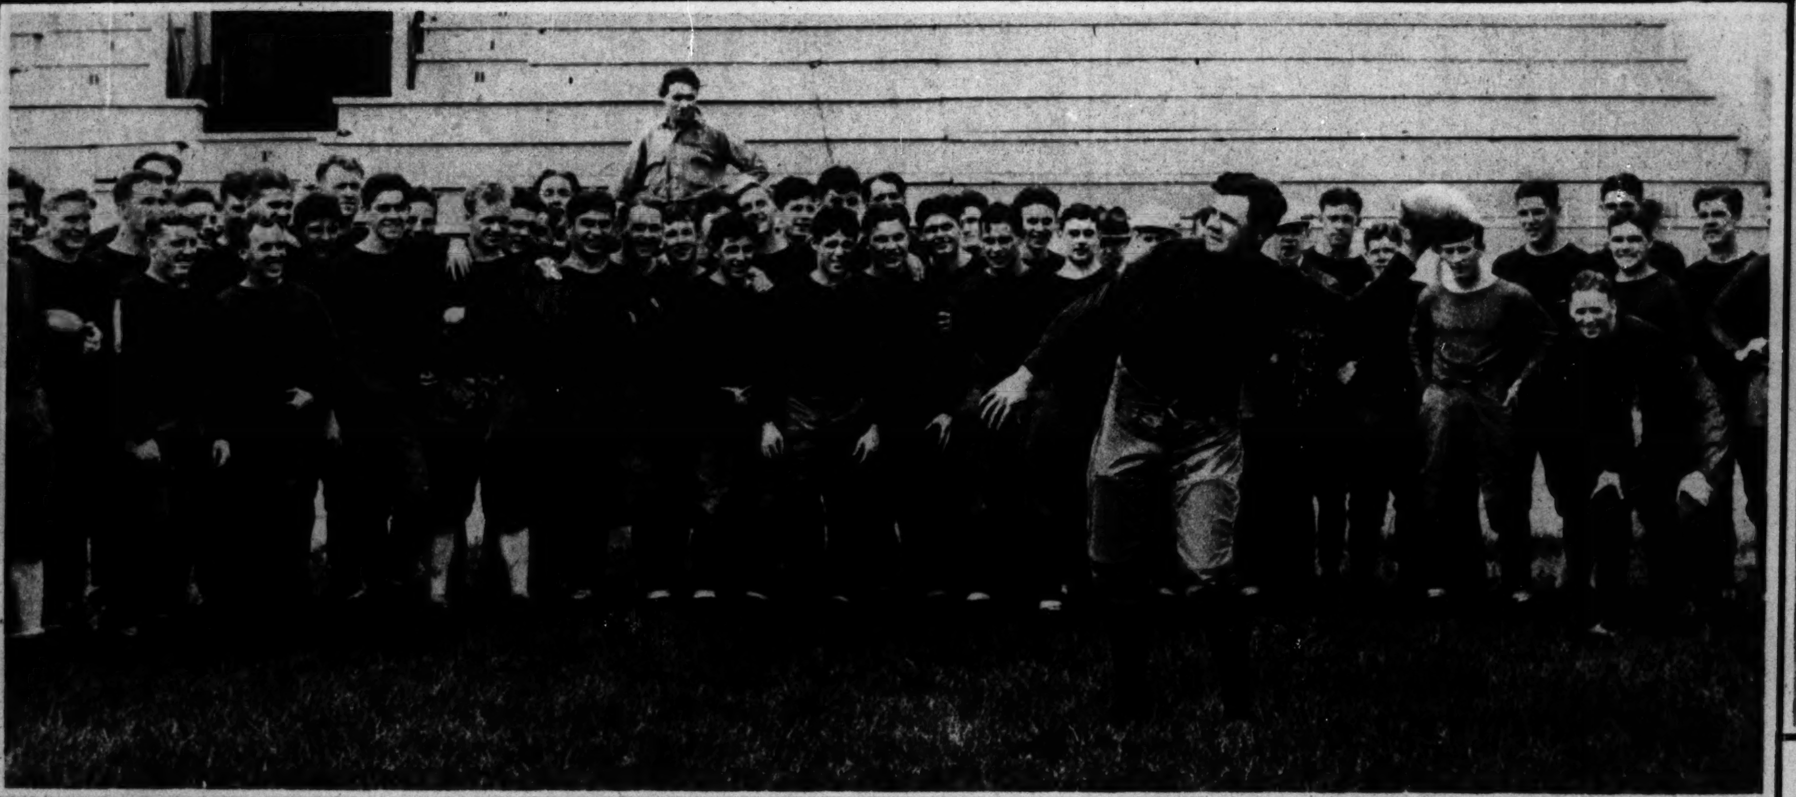
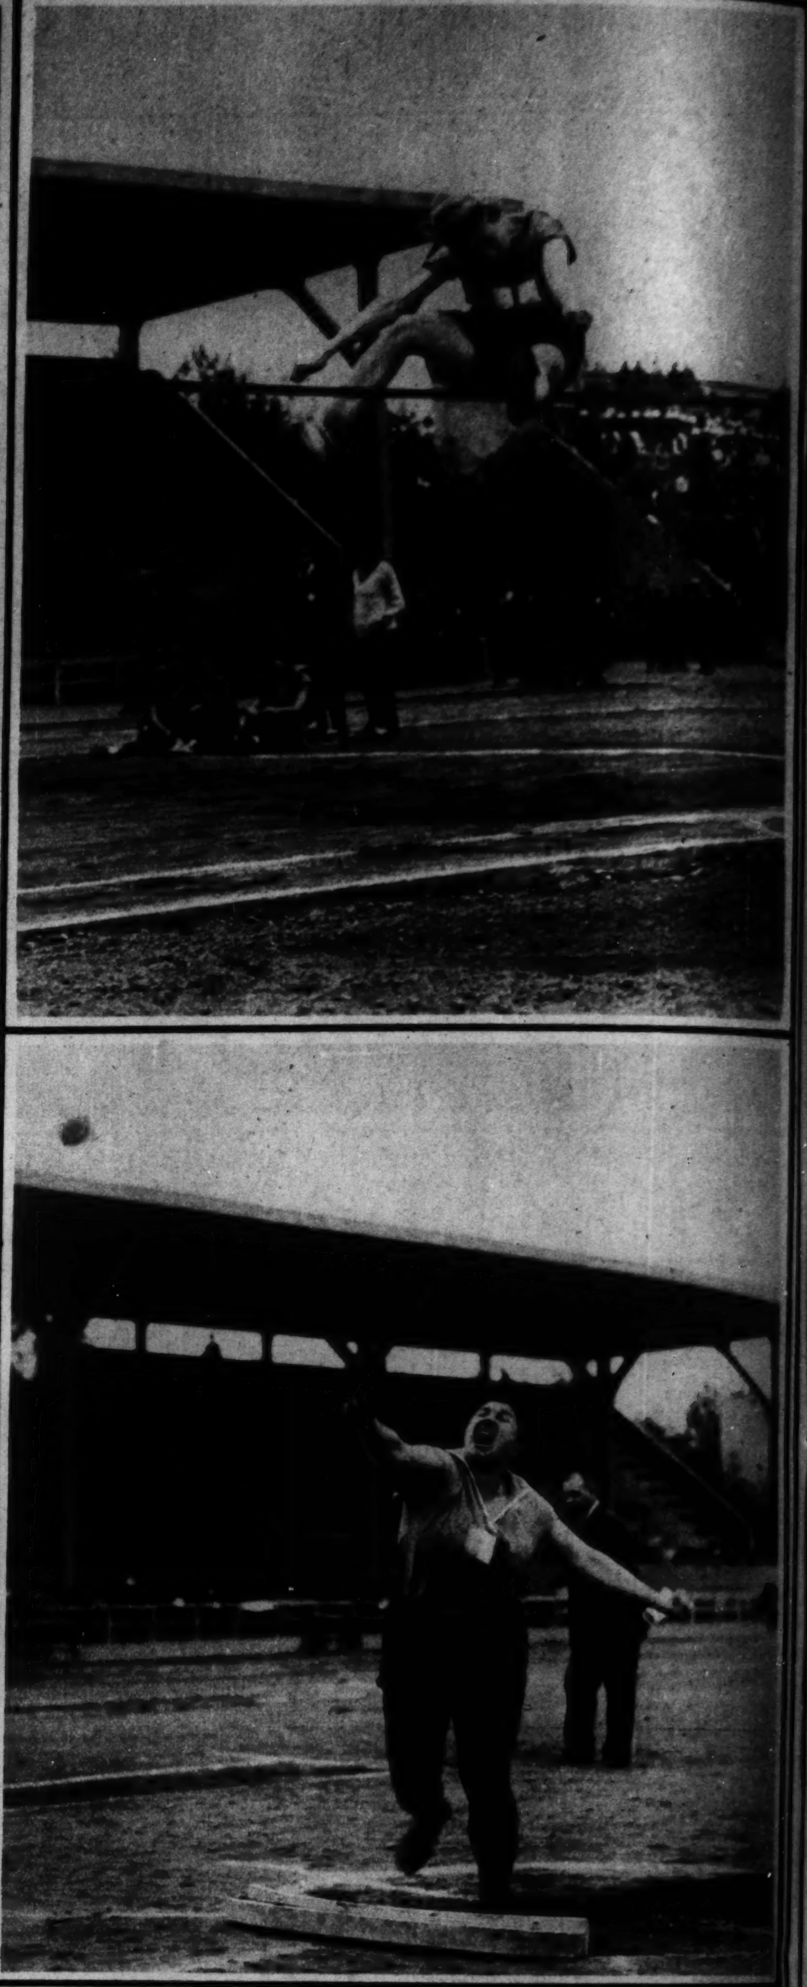
GIRL JOCKEY RIDES TO VICTORY—For the first time since King Charles II. inaugurated the Newmarket Town Plate, nearly 300 years ago, the first two places in the famous race went to women riders recently. Miss Iris Rickaby, the winner, is shown with Stephania, her mount. The only man in the race was a poor third. (Photograph from Pacific and Atlantic.)



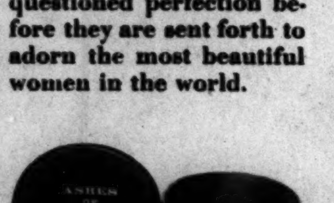
HIS IGLOO WAS NEVER LIKE THIS, but Abie Bloomfield, the Labrador Eskimo interpreter for Commander Donald B. MacMillan on his Arctic expeditions, seemed to like his introduction to the Illinois Athletic club pool in Chicago. Deloras Conrad, who is "Miss Denver," and Chief Amituauai gave the visitor his first lesson. (Photograph from Underwood & Underwood.)



THE BAMBINO ON THE GRIDIRON—Babe Ruth, the Great What Ho of the baseball bat, visited an old friend at South Bend, Ind. The friend, Coach Knute Rockne of Notre Dame, put the Babe in the costume he had once worn in scholastic football, and Ruth had a workout with the "Thundering Herd." What do you gridiron fans think of his form? (Photograph from International.)



WOMAN HERCULES breaks the feminine shotput record. Mme. Morris of France made a distance of more than ten meters in the French international feminine sports meet in Pershing stadium at Paris. Fraulein V. Bredow, pictured above making a strong pull for height, won the high jump. (Both Photographs from International.)



French Handmade ROUGES

Ladies who like to be looked at are never careless in choosing their rouges.

Bourjois' rouges are made by hand with patient care—in Paris—like Paris gowns. They have individuality and brilliancy that machine methods cannot possibly impart. They are exquisitely soft and fine; their blended edge-lines are imperceptible. Their fragrance is that of French perfumes, blended to the perfect bouquet. Bourjois' rouges are brought to unquestioned perfection before they are sent forth to adorn the most beautiful women in the world.

ASHES-OF-ROSES* Rouge, either dark or medium, or especially brilliant for the blonde. ROUGE MANDARINE*, frankly orange, preferred for evening wear. Rouge VELVET-OF-PEACHES*, a warm and tender pink with a ruddy tinge. Rouge CORAL-ROSE*—a brilliant and dashing rose-and-tan. Rouge FEMINA* and Rouge CURRANT-ROSE* are also modern, and full of the colors of sunlight.

EACH nail looks longer, better shaped, when every Half Moon shows and a curve of smooth skin frames the nail base.

America Greets a Queen

"AND SHE WORE" has been said almost as many times of Princess Ileana as of her regal mother. Here she is as Washington saw her, richly turned out in the dernier cri from the establishments of Paris. (Photograph from Pacific and Atlantic.)

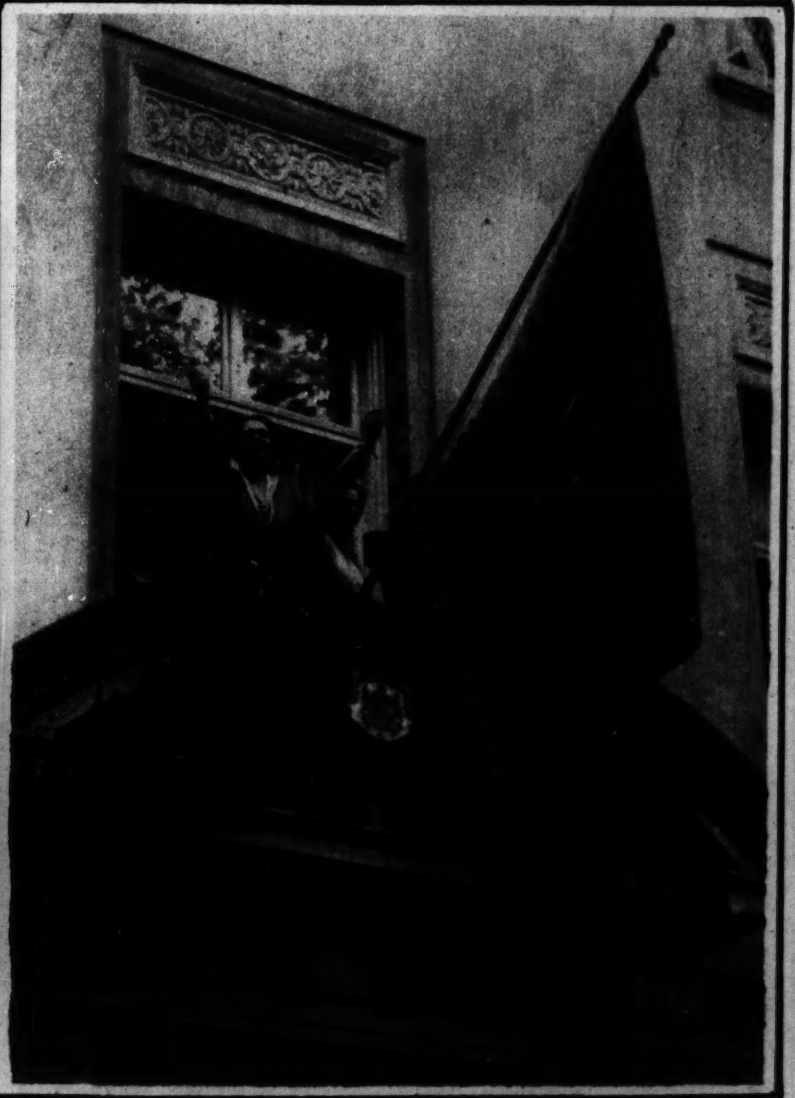
NEW YORK'S WELCOME TO THE QUEEN—Broadway indulged itself in a typical reception, with flying flags and ticker tape and masses of humanity that braved a downpour. Officialdom in high hats and many society women helped voice the city's formal greeting. (Photograph from Pacific and Atlantic.)

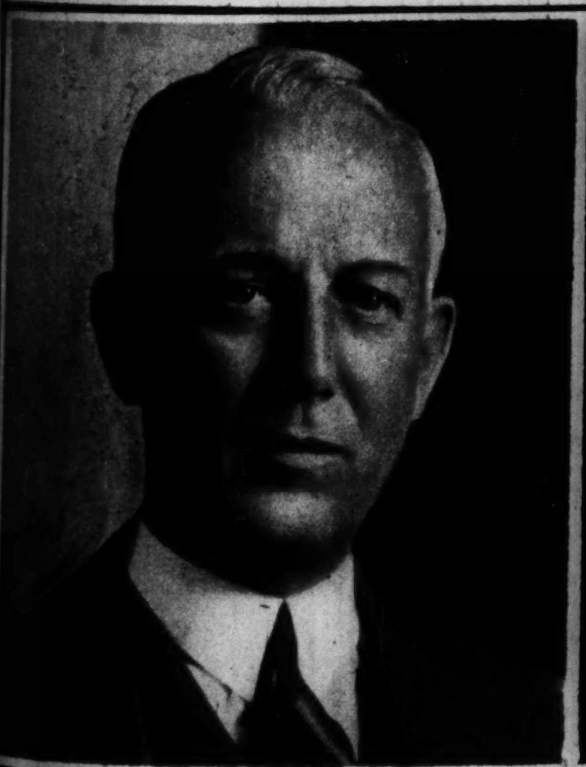
ROUMANIA'S TRIBUTE TO AMERICA'S UNKNOWN DEAD was thus paid by Queen Marie laying a wreath upon the tomb at Arlington. For the beauties of the amphitheater and the national cemetery there she had enthusiastic praise. (Photograph from Pacific and Atlantic.)

A ROYAL SMILE FOR AMERICA—Vivacious and untiring, Europe's queenliest queen presented a gracious countenance to the national capital. And what did she think of it all? "Splendid!" (Photograph from Pacific and Atlantic.)

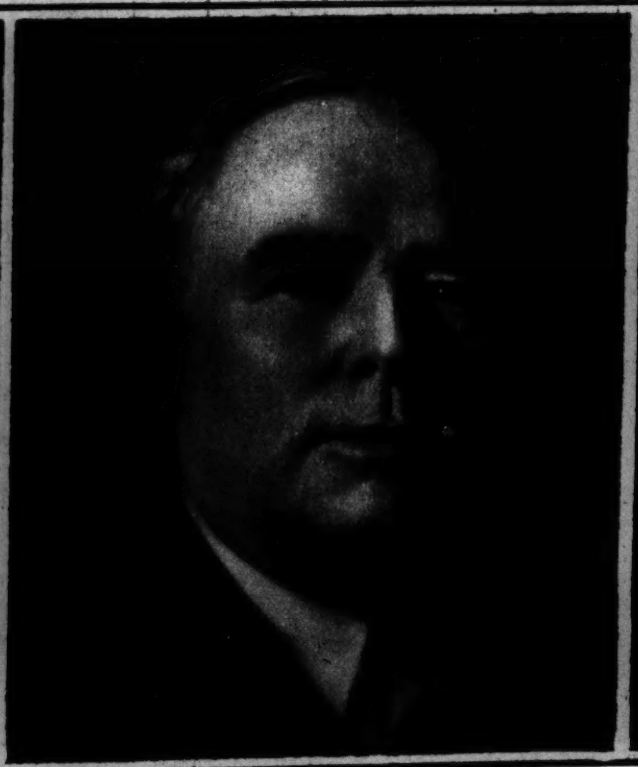


FOR THE CAPITAL'S POPULACE Queen Marie and Princess Ileana made a dramatic appearance, waving appreciation to the cheers that arose. And blase Washington did cheer, they say, more heartily for these royal visitors than for any other personages of the generation. (Photograph from Pacific and Atlantic.)

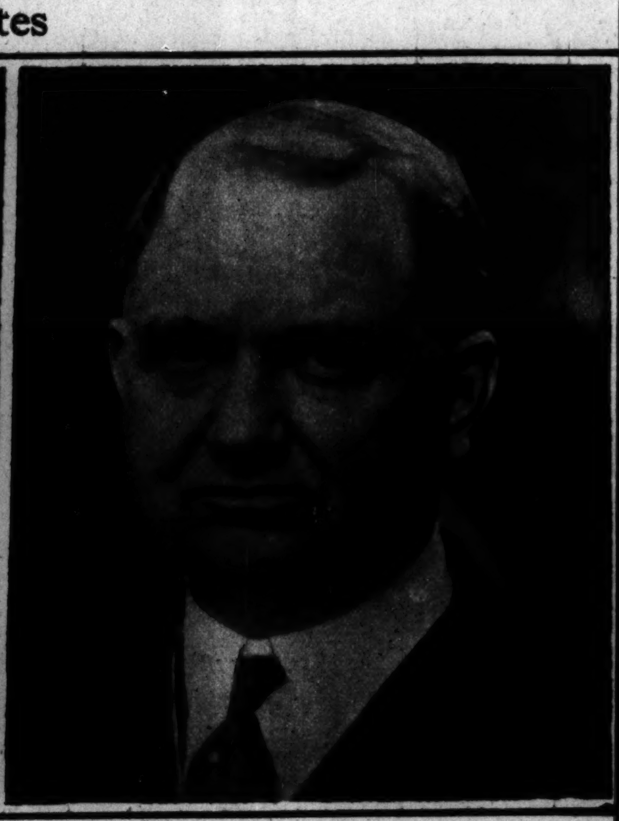
The Illinois Senatorial Candidates



FRANK L. SMITH of Dwight is the regular Republican nominee for the United States senate in the election to be decided on Tuesday. Mr. Smith is a farmer and banker. He has served in Congress, and until recently was chairman of the Illinois commerce commission. He lines up as a dry. In the primaries he defeated Senator William B. McKinley for the Republican nomination. (Photograph from Blank-Stoller.)



GEORGE E. BRENNAN of Chicago is the Democratic candidate. He has based his fight almost entirely on the Volstead act, promising to do his utmost to legalize light wines and beers if elected. He is opposed to the saloon. Mr. Brennan is the undisputed Democratic chief in Illinois, and is a national party leader. (Photograph from Harris & Ewing.)



HUGH S. MAGILL, independent Republican candidate, was injected into the fight when it was revealed that public utilities corporations had contributed a vast sum to the Smith campaign. Mr. Magill is known as an educator and a former reform leader in the state senate. He is a thorough dry. At present he is secretary of the National Council of Religious Education. FRENCH CHATEAU MOVING TO AMERICA—This "Castle of Courcelles," near Le Mans, Normandy, is being dismantled and packed in huge cases stone by stone for removal to the United States. It was bought by an American millionaire, who will set it up again on his estate near New York. The chateau was begun in 1640 and completed twenty years later by Louis de Champlais, who spent his entire fortune building and furnishing it.

How Magnesia Helps at Any Age to KEEP FIT!

Eighty-eight years old, and relishes his daily game of golf—and you must play golf to beat him! That's the condition Mr. S. is in, and largely due—so he says—to his system getting sufficient magnesia. It cannot be denied that pure milk of magnesia has done remarkable things for a remarkable number of people.

A PROTEST from the stomach, like pangs of indigestion, sour risings, or simply a laden breath—is Nature's distress signal from over-acidity. When a person merely gulps a glass of bicarbonate of soda, he or she only postpones trouble the physician or dentist must eventually deal with. What a blessing milk of magnesia is to those who have over-indulged—eating—drinking—smoking! What liquid purity! Have you ever seen it—tasted it?

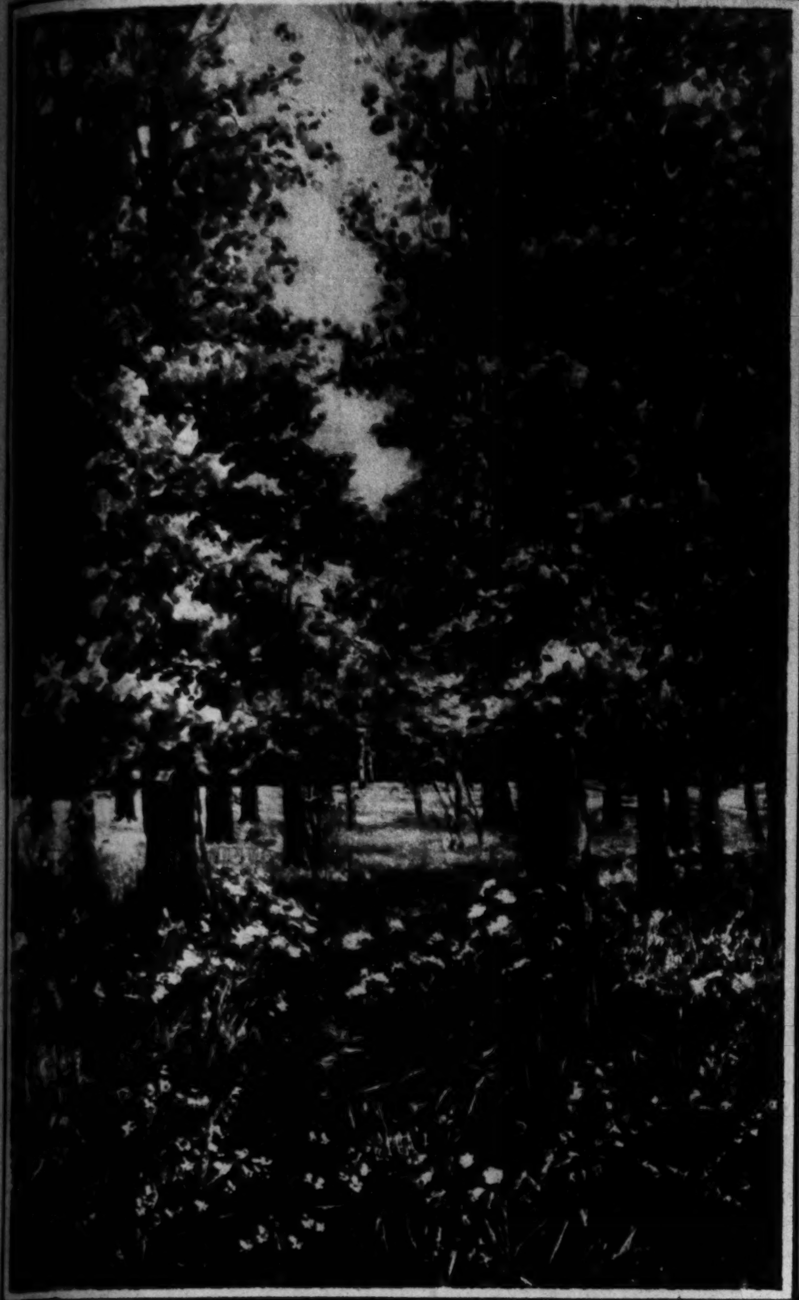
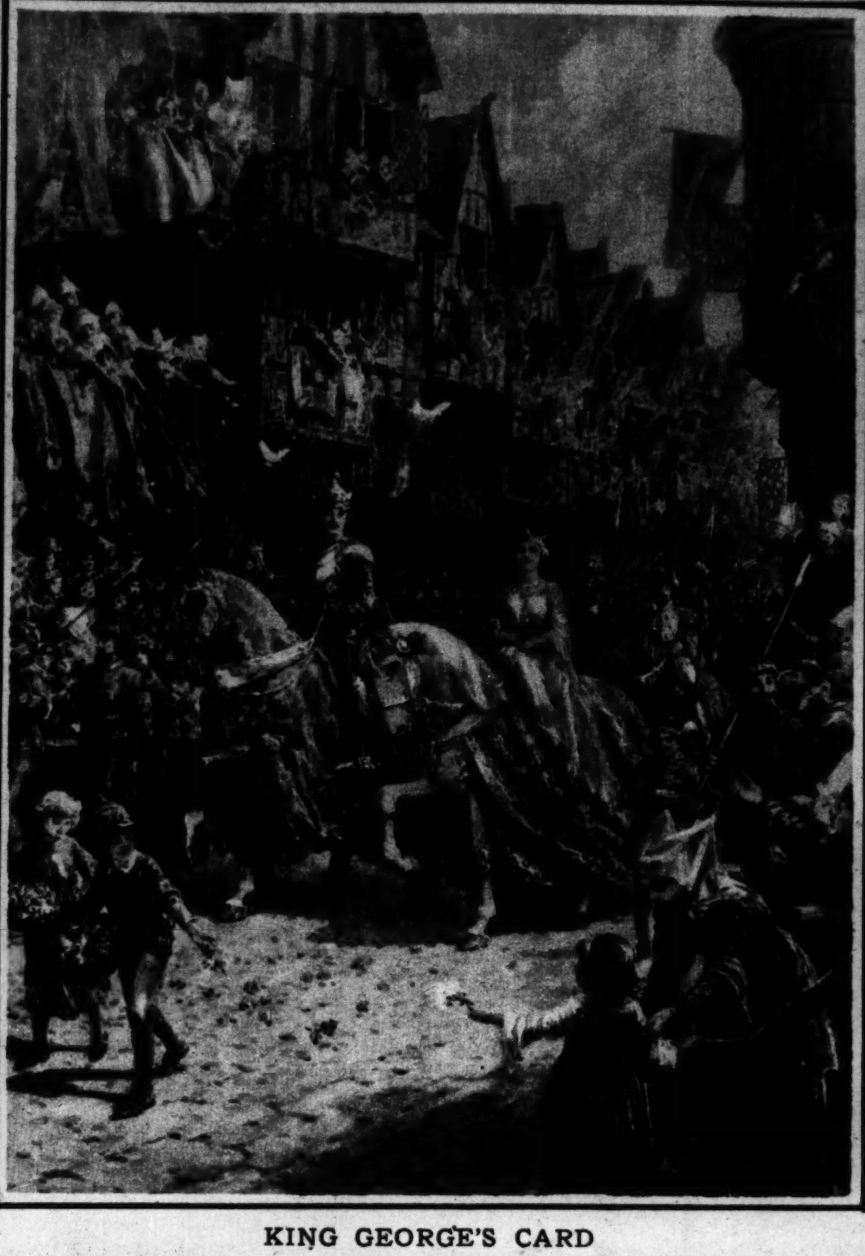
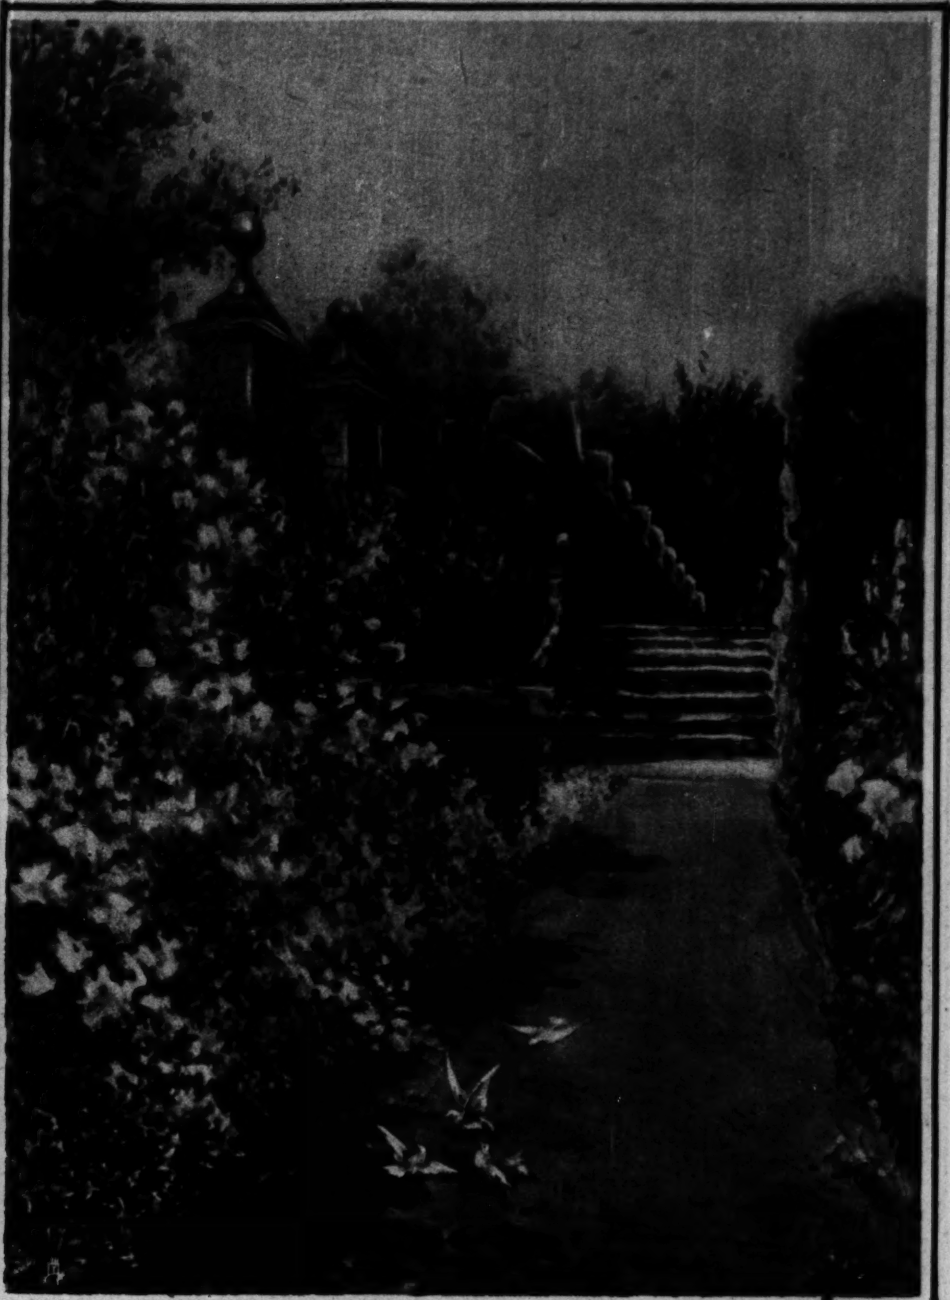
Royal Christmas Cards



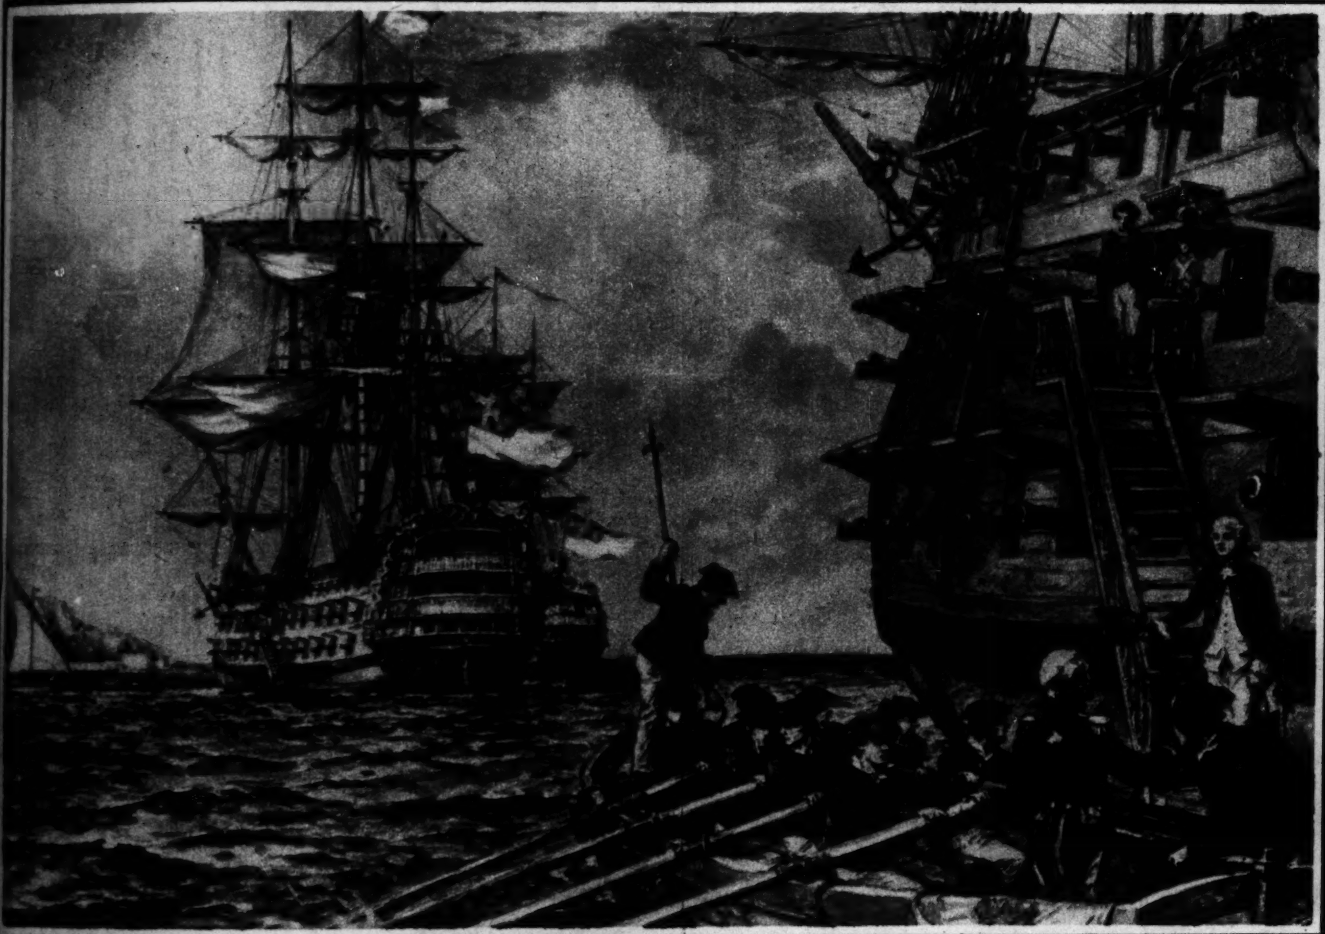
QUEEN MARY'S CARD



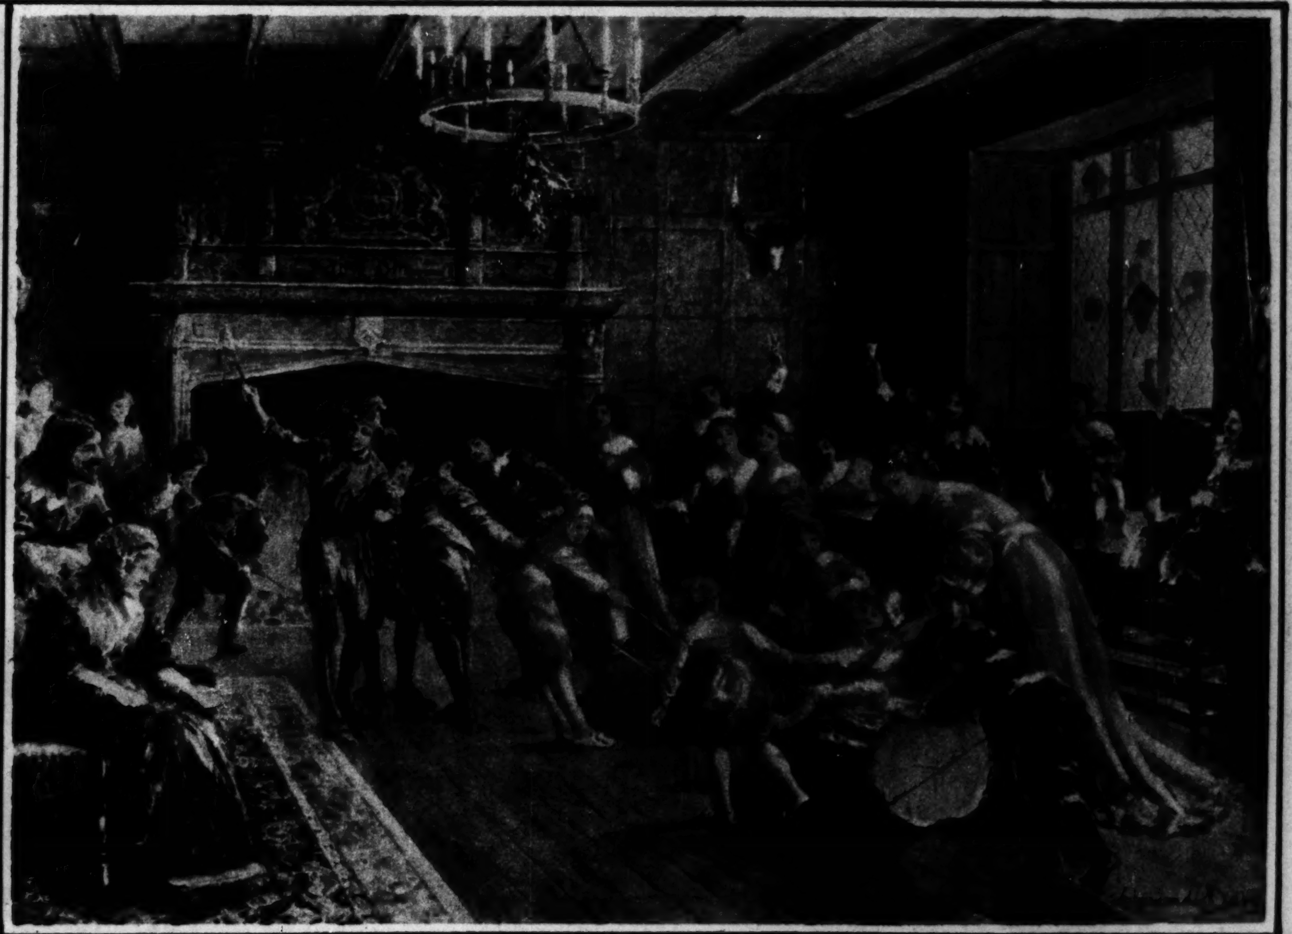
KING GEORGE'S CARD



PRINCESS MARY'S CARD

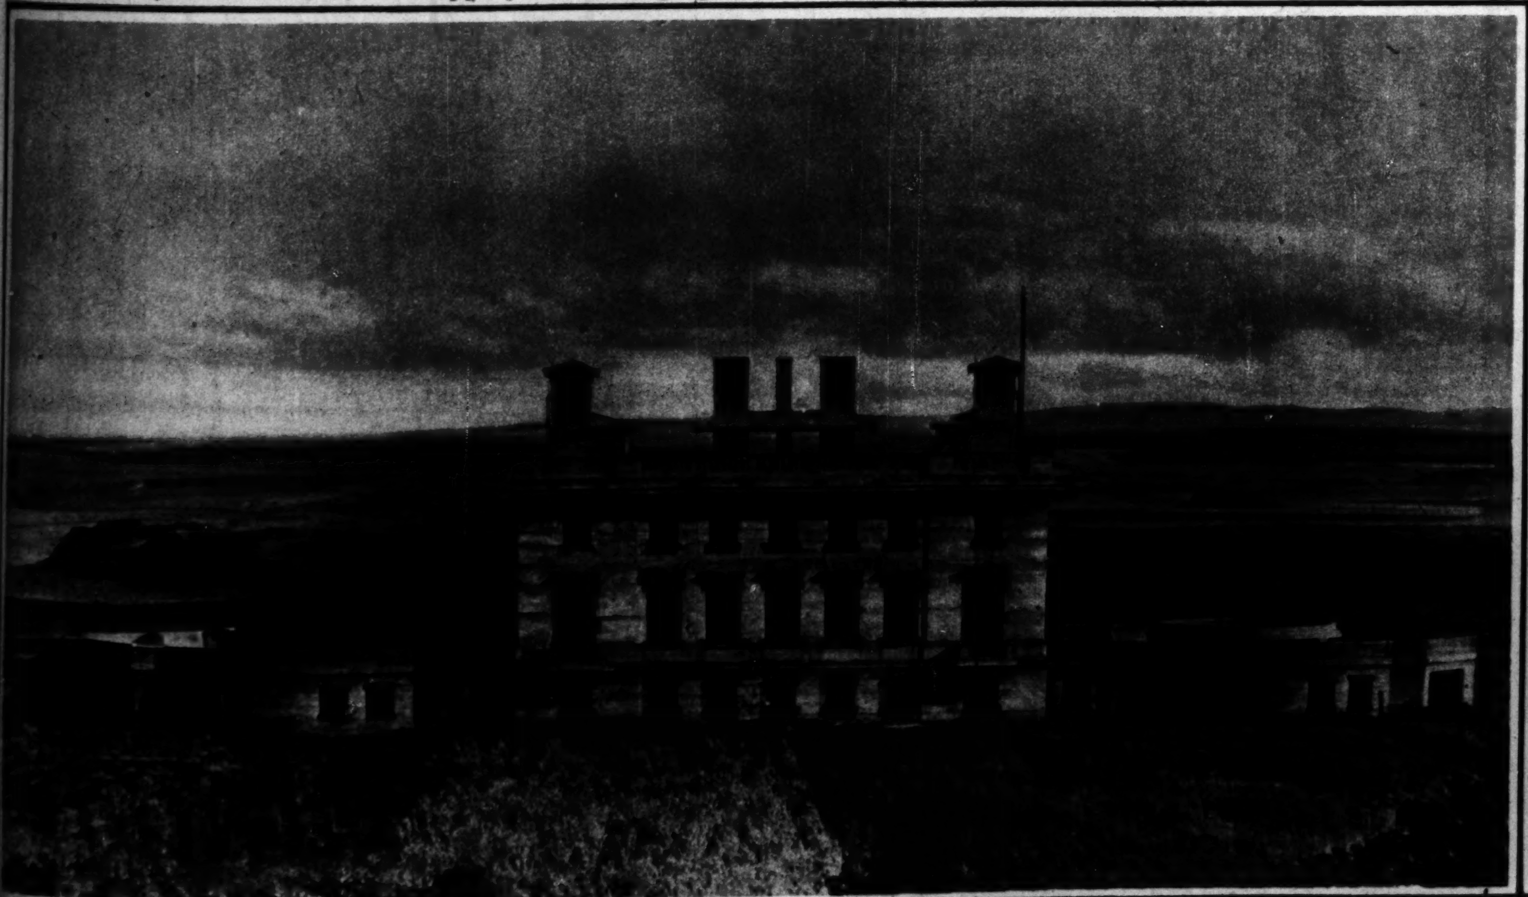


THE PRINCE OF WALES' CARD



THE CARD OF THE DUKE AND DUCHESS OF YORK

BRITISH ROYALTY HAS DONE ITS CHRISTMAS CARD SHOPPING EARLY, supplying a timely reminder that the holidays are not far away, and above you behold the result. The king's card, from a painting by Howard Davie, portrays King Henry V. and his bride, Catherine of Valois, during the coronation ceremonies for the new queen in 1421. That of the queen is "Bluebell Time," after a canvas by Flora Pilkington. Princess Mary's, "The Time of Flowers," also is by Flora Pilkington. "A Royal Midshipman," painted by Bernard Gribble, is the subject for the Prince of Wales' card. It pictures Prince William Henry, afterward King William IV., in the battle with the Spanish fleet off Cape Vincent in 1780, when the prince received his baptism of fire. And the card of the Duke and Duchess of York, by Howard Davie, is the appropriate "Bringing in the Yule Log." (Reproduced by permission of the crown and by courtesy of Raphael Tuck & Sons, Ltd. direct from the original Christmas cards specially produced by them for the royal family)



SHRINE TO BE DEDICATED BY QUEEN MARIE—Here is the fine arts museum erected by Samuel Hill at Mary Hill, Washington, where Roumania's queen will be the builder's guest during dedicatory services. THE FIRST GRAVEN IMAGE IN ISLAM is this colossal statue of Mustapha Kemal Pasha, president of the Turkish republic, just dedicated at Constantinople. He detects the slightest trouble

If you go to your dentist at least every six months for a thorough inspection of your mouth he can prevent serious teeth decay and detect the first trace of dangerous gum infections. It is better to see him in time than to suffer needless pain and take chances with your health.

Pyorrhea robs

Forhan's
FOR THE GUMS

According to dental statistics, carelessness lets dread pyorrhea steal into the mouths of four out of five men and women, after forty, to menace teeth and health. This malicious mouth infection spreads its poison through the system, raising havoc with the health.

You can tell pyorrhea's approach by tender, bleeding gums. Go to your dentist at once for treatment and be sure to use Forhan's for the Gums night and morning.

If used regularly and in time, Forhan's prevents or checks pyorrhea. It contains Forhan's Pyorrhea Liquid which dentists use in combating pyorrhea's ravages. It firms the gums and keeps them pink and healthy and so does not give pyorrhea a chance.

The entire family should begin to use Forhan's today. Besides safeguarding the health it is a pleasant tasting dentifrice that cleanses the teeth perfectly.

No matter what tooth-paste you now prefer, you owe it to your health to make Forhan's a regular daily habit. At all druggists 35c and 60c in tubes.

DARING DEEDS OF '76 were recalled by this pageant near New Rochelle, New York, in the re-enactment of the Battle of Pell's Neck, in which Americans, although outnumbered ten to one, routed British forces under Gen. Howe. Above is pictured the Colonials' victorious assault; at the right, the Americans on defense.

Pictures of Health . .

They conquered the common ills—found glorious vital health—by eating one simple food

NOT a "cure-all," not a medicine—Fleischmann's Yeast is simply a remarkable fresh food.

The millions of tiny active yeast plants in every cake invigorate the whole system. They aid digestion—clear the skin—banish the poisons of constipation. Where cathartics give only temporary relief, yeast strengthens the intestinal muscles and makes them healthy and active, daily releasing new stores of energy.

Eat two or three cakes regularly every day, one before each meal: on crackers, in fruit juices, water or milk—or just plain, in small pieces. For constipation dissolve one cake in hot water (not scalding) before meals and at bedtime. Dangerous habit-forming cathartics will gradually become unnecessary. All grocers have Fleischmann's Yeast. Buy several cakes at a time—they will keep fresh in a cool dry place for two or three days.

And let us send you a free copy of our latest booklet on Yeast for Health. Health Research Dept. N-771, The Fleischmann Company, 701 Washington St., New York.

Tom Thorp (center), well-known football referee

"WHILE HEAD COACH AT A LARGE UNIVERSITY the members of the football squad were taken down with boils. I tried every known remedy—no results. A trainer of another university team recommended Fleischmann's Yeast. Soon after giving my players Yeast the boils began to disappear. The team was able to make a splendid record."

THIS FAMOUS FOOD tones up the entire system—aids digestion, clears the skin, banishes constipation.

"CONSTIPATION WAS MAKING ME ILL. I suffered from intestinal pains at all times. One of my friends suggested that I take Fleischmann's Yeast. Now the pains are gone and I feel one hundred per cent better."

Julius C. Andrews, Hopewell, Va.

"SINCE MY LITTLE BOY HAD PNEUMONIA I have given him Yeast to build him up. He has improved rapidly. I find too that I never have to give him a laxative. With Yeast he is absolutely regular."

Mrs. Felix Griffin, Baltimore, Md.

"MY ENERGY BEGAN TO FLAG. I became nervous and irritable. Then I discovered Fleischmann's Yeast. I ate three cakes a day and in six weeks, marvel of marvels, I found I was not so tired. I was no longer nervous and irritable."

Ethel Y. Gins, Indianapolis, Ind.

Health may become a shadow unless you guard The ——— Danger Line

Keep health playing on your side

Safeguard the brimming vigor of youth

LIFE is such a wonderful game—if you keep health always on your side.

On health depends the youthful freshness, the vitality, the eagerness to do, which mark those we call "popular" and "successful."

For you, this new knowledge of The Danger Line may be the secret of health. Both medical and dental authorities tell us that thousands are constantly losing stamina, alertness, "pep," because of decayed teeth and infected gums! That many, too, are stricken with serious disorders for the same reasons.

Think of it! Attacked by heart disease, kidney disorders, neuritis—and perhaps needlessly! For so often care of the teeth and gums would have avoided them altogether.

This is the danger

No tooth-brush can reach into the pits on the grinding surface of your teeth, or between your teeth along The Danger Line—the tiny V-shaped crevices where teeth and gums meet. As a result food particles collect there. They ferment. Acids are formed. Unless these acids are neutralized, they cause decay or dangerous gum infections such as Pyorrhea.

Since your tooth-brush alone cannot protect you fully, your dentifrice must by containing a trustworthy antacid—an antacid that will be safe for all—even for children.

It is as a safeguard from dangerous mouth acids that Squibb's Dental Cream was developed.

Squibb's truly protects

Squibb's Dental Cream contains more than 50 per cent of Squibb's Milk of Magnesia, long recognized as a most effective means of neutralizing mouth acids. Every time you use Squibb's Dental Cream, tiny particles of Squibb's Milk of Magnesia lodge in the crevices on your teeth and at The Danger Line—bringing safety and affording protection afterwards.

Thousands have found protection in Squibb's Dental Cream. Use it every night and morning. It not only cleans beautifully, but keeps your breath sweet. Contains no abrasives or astringents. Eases sensitive teeth and soothes irritated gum tissues. On sale at all druggists—only 40 cents for a large tube.

In almost any drug store you will find 20, 30, even 40, different kinds of dentifrices. Many people buy these dentifrices . . . changing from one to another. They seem disappointed. They brush their teeth regularly . . . yet they still have decay and gum diseases . . . WHY?

Because teeth need more than brushing. They must be protected at The Danger Line. Try this simple test: Tonight, just before going to bed, take a tablespoonful of Squibb's Milk of Magnesia in water, swallow a part of it—and use the rest to swish about the mouth and as a gargle. You will be surprised in the morning to find how clean and sweet your mouth feels. The Milk of Magnesia will not only have neutralized the acids in your mouth, but sweetened your stomach also. The same result may be obtained using Squibb's Dental Cream—it contains over 50 per cent Squibb's Milk of Magnesia. At all druggists. © 1926

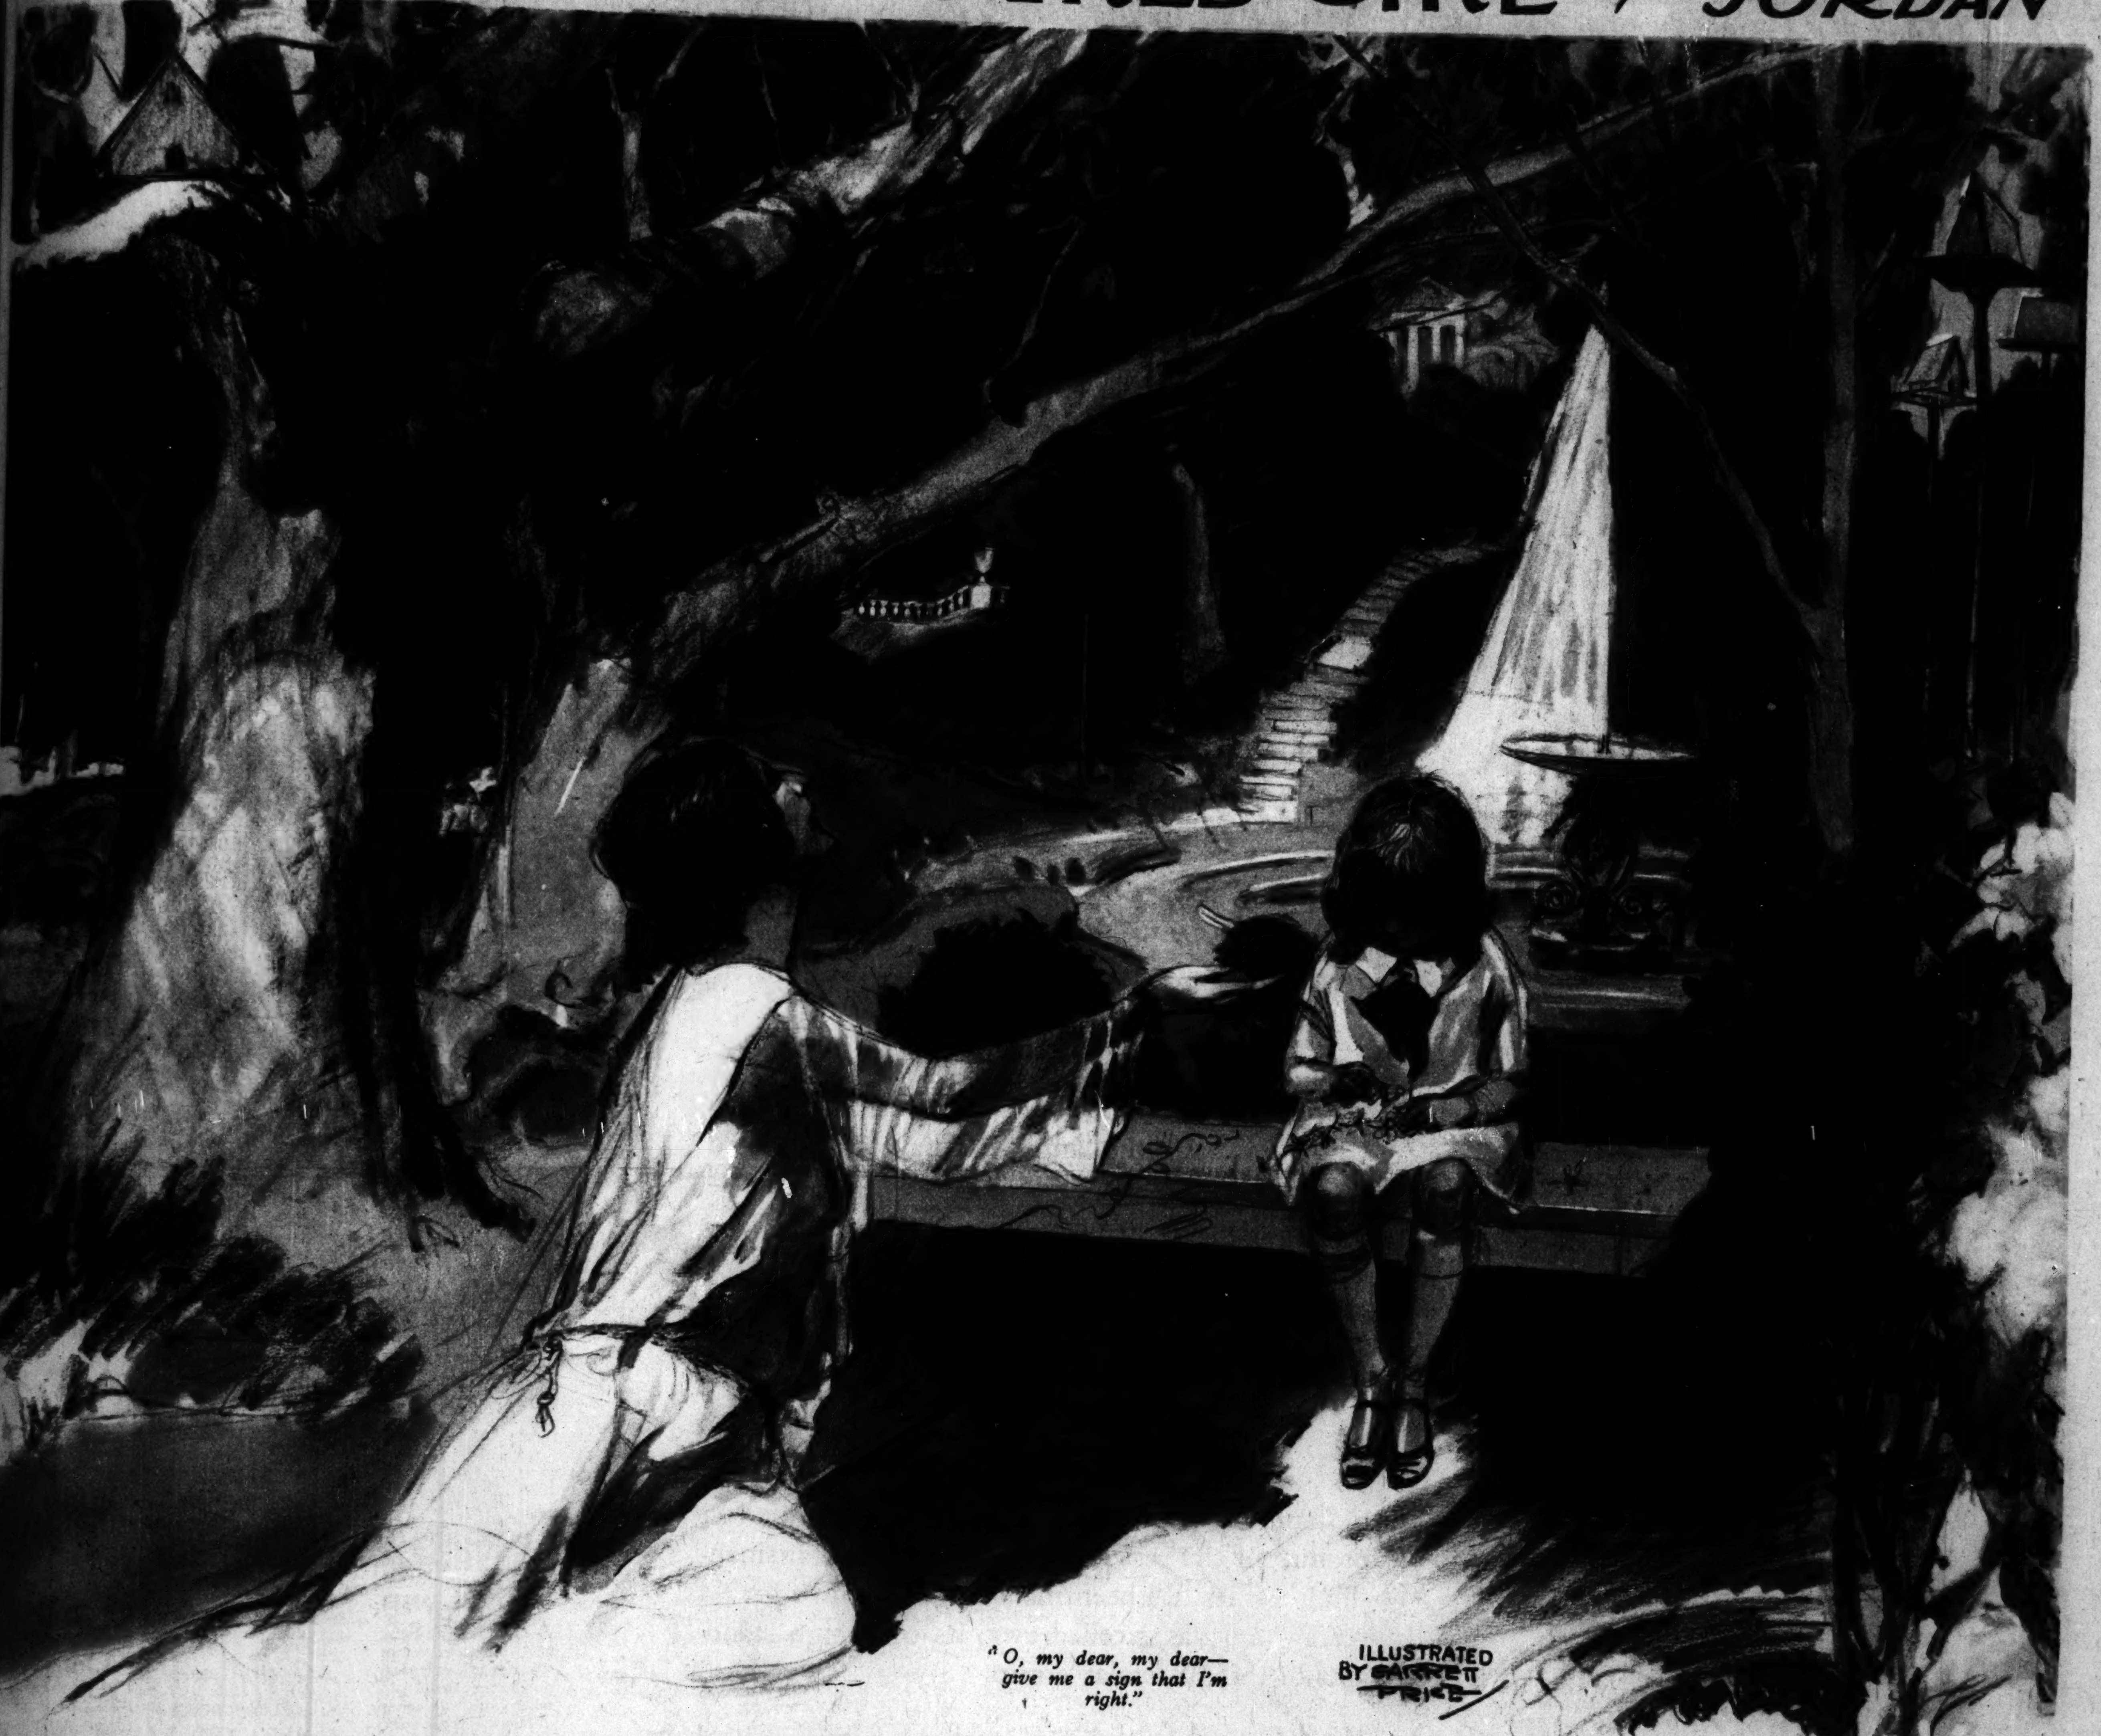
The LITTLE RED HAIRED GIRL

By ELIZABETH JORDAN



"O, my dear, my dear—give me a sign that I'm right."

ILLUSTRATED BY GARRETT PRICE

A Fantastically Beautiful Tale of Friendship in Which Not Even Death Could Intervene

THE chief orator at the dedication services of the memorial to Margaret Hartley Leigh, philanthropist, was running true to the form of such occasions. His rounded periods filled he air.

"So those of us who were nearest to our dear parted friend and her work, and who have re- lved that the memory of her beautiful spirit must ver pass from among us, have chosen this me- orial to her," he was saying. "It is a peculiarly ting memorial, the kind she herself would have lected; for it is designed for the use and happiness f others, and from start to finish of her beautiful e Margaret Leigh's first thought was for her fel- w men and women. More than anything else, she sired to make them safe and happy, and to share th them the great gifts God had given her.

"You know how generously she shared her lth; but that was the least of her offerings. She ve herself, as well. She gave love and sympathy d understanding to all created things. No one s too low—or too high—to win her interest and r help if interest or help were needed. That is y we have here today the unique gathering we e around us. That is why the rich and the poor f our city, the fortunate and the unfortunate, the d and the young, the standard-bearers and, yes, the so-called outcasts, too, have gathered this morning to do honor to the memory of our friend and theirs. And among us all, I venture to say, there is not a heart that is not aching."

Anne Kimball, chairman of the committee which had raised the memorial fund, and throughout Margaret Leigh's life her closest friend and counselor, fixed her eyes on the speaker with more approval in them than those rather critical eyes often held. The Reverend William Strong was doing better than usual, she reflected, probably because he could be wholly sincere. Margaret was one he could praise almost fulsomely, as he loved to praise, and yet remain well within the limits of truth.

One simply couldn't say too much about the beauty of Margaret's character; it almost defied criticism. Probably there had never been any one like her before; certainly, to Anne Kimball, at least, there could never be any one like her again; and at the thought the heart of Margaret Leigh's best friend swelled afresh under the intolerable sense of loss and loneliness she had felt so constantly during the last year. The memorial work, her thought ran on, had been a solace to her. Her associates had been surprised by the passion she put into it, by the speed with which she labored and the swiftness of the results she had obtained. Yet the work, as work, had been amazingly easy. Every one the committee approached had shown an eager desire to help it along, to do something toward establishing a permanent memorial to the wonderful spirit that had passed.

Her own haste had been the result of a kind of frenzy to keep busy, to keep her mind filled with details, to avoid facing the emptiness of the long years ahead—the years she must live on without Margaret. The relation between them had been wonderfully close and understanding, yet even Margaret, she knew, would have been surprised by the depth and force of her friend's grief for her. Margaret had always assumed, had often said, that Anne Kimball was less dependent on other humans than any one else she had ever known. It must have amazed Margaret to learn in that new world in which, presumably, one learns all things, how dependent Anne had been on her in this world. And how it must hurt Margaret not to be able to comfort her! Their friendship had lasted for more than forty years—since they were little children together. They had been trundled side by side in their baby carriages, had grabbed for each other's rattles. They had gone away to school together, had spent their vacations together—for Anne Kimball had been a rich but homeless waif, left after her parents' death in the care of her father's lawyer, who was her legal guardian. She and Margaret had entered college together, had gone through it together.

Margaret, too, was motherless—that was another bond—and her father had indiscriminately fathered both girls. They had borne together the anguish of his death the summer of their graduation, and together they had gone around the world in the two years following to recapture the peace and happiness he seemed to have taken with him. It was on the other side of the world that Margaret had met the man she fell in love with and had married. Anne had been her bridesmaid. And Anne had taken Margaret abroad again after John Leigh's tragic death in a motor accident, and had helped her to reconstruct her life. But it was the new interest of their philanthropic and war work together that had really made it possible for Margaret to carry on.

A UNIQUE friendship, truly, and like no other Anne had ever seen. Looking back over it now, she reflected that she would never form another. She was too old. She reminded herself that one doesn't often form new ties after forty. Now that this year of work was over—now that there was nothing to be done for Margaret—what could she do? She had never let the question take definite form before, but today it filled her mind. She had been able to keep it at bay because each day had been so full of work for Margaret. Now—now—with nothing left in this world, and, pagan that she was, with no hope of a future life—how could she go forward?

The voice of the orator rolled on:

"And so we have chosen this quiet acre on the broad summit of the hill overlooking the city and the country she loved, as a place sacred to her memory. We have made it a garden because she loved beauty. We have made it a sanctuary for birds and children and men and women because she loved birds and children and men and women. We shall come here, very often, to sit and think of her. We hope you will all come here very often, for an hour of rest and peace, and to put yourselves in touch with her wonderful spirit. For we know—those of us who realize how this project would appeal to her big and generous heart—how gladly she will welcome us. Only a short distance away, on that nearby hill, we can see where her body lies. But she is not there. Her spirit will be here—always here—to greet her friends in this garden which, more than any other place on the earth, is now her home."

Yes, on the whole, the Reverend William had done very well. Already many of those in the throng were pressing around him to tell him so, while others walked about the memorial garden looking at its bird baths and feeding stations, its fountains and benches, the flowers and trees and shrubs that shut it in, giving it its effect of solitude and remoteness.

Anne Kimball, receiving her share of tributes to the committee's work, touched rather absently the hands stretched out to greet her, smiled rather absently in response to the smiles of others. She was glad the memorial was an assured success. To have had it anything else was unthinkable to her, as well as unlikely from the first to those who knew that Anne Kimball's brain had always been back of the Leigh benefactions. Despite the crowd around her, she felt a deepening of her desolating sense of isolation. If only she could die! Not with any hope of reunion, of course, but to end everything! The cumulative loneliness of the years to come pressed upon her like a weight.

It was when the sense of this was strongest that she first saw the child. She herself was standing by a sun dial, for the moment a little away from the human eddies near her, and the child was so close to her that their garments must have touched. She

By Elizabeth Jordan

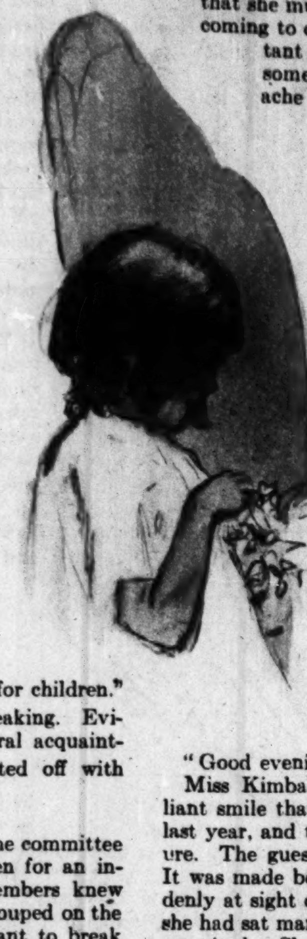
as a little girl about six years old, and now she moved directly in front of the chairman, smiling up at her shyly but with something of the manner of one who expects to be recognized. Anne looked down at her without interest. She was not especially fond of children and she could not remember having seen this child before, though—now that she looked a second time—there was something reminiscent about her. Her clothes, however, were more striking than this resemblance, and Anne's attention focused on them. They were clean and well made, but they seemed of the fashion of many years ago. Miss Kimball had a fleeting suspicion that they had been taken out of some attic trunk by a mother who had to count her pennies, but she was plainly a mother of breeding—for this human mite, shy as she was, had an air. The child had short curls of a deep burnished red-brown, with a blue hood around them, and the red-brown eyes that matched the hair still looked up at the chairman with something mischievous, almost elfish, in the glance.



Anne smiled kindly into the little face. Even though she was not especially fond of children, her years of experience as a lady bountiful and coworker of the great Lady Bountiful of the community had taught her how to treat them.

"Do you like the garden?" she asked, gently.

The child nodded.

"That's nice. I hope you will come here often. You know this garden is for children."

The child nodded again, without speaking. Evidently she was very shy. Then several acquaintances approached Anne and she drifted off with them, forgetting the little girl.

WHEN the crowd had gone home the committee lingered in the memorial garden for an informal meeting, which the members knew would be a final one, and as they sat grouped on the marble benches, each individual reluctant to break the spell of the moment by uttering the farewell words that meant disbandment, Anne caught another glimpse of "the little red-headed girl," as she mentally called her, playing happily under a tree. Odd that the child seemed alone. It was getting late, too. The sun was sinking into a flamboyant bed—the very sky seemed to be doing honor to Margaret tonight. Of course, there must be some one somewhere around to look after that youngster.

"Old Michael will be a caretaker we can all depend on," Miss Kimball assured her fellow members, as they rose at last to separate. "He's one of the few gardeners who were born, not made, and the fact that he worked so long for Mrs. Leigh gives him a special interest here. Of course, it's a Godsend, too, for him to be assured of such easy and pleasant work in his old age, since he doesn't seem willing to settle down and rest on the pension she left him. However, there's one thing to remember. We must all keep an eye on the garden and uphold his authority. He can't be here every minute, and we know that the little darlings we've made the garden for would wreck it in a week if we let them. For a time, until the children have learned that it must be preserved, some of us ought to come here every day or two. I will do it during the first month."

A few days later Michael himself made her a confidence which strengthened the natural apprehension she had expressed. She found him in the memorial garden late one afternoon, regarding with dismay a chipped rim on the marble bird bath.

"The kids don't mean no harm," he said tenderly —the old Irishman loved children almost as much as he loved flowers—"but they sure need watchin'."

"Do many of them come? After all, we're a mile from the town, you know."

"But we're only a block from the trolley," Michael reminded her, "an' 'tis a grand place for picnics. Rafts of thim come, miss, an' I'm tellin' you 'tis a wonder they don't destroy the place entirely in their play. If I as much as turn me back, they're up to somethin'. They're fillin' the fountain with dirt, or they're hammerin' the carvin' with bricks, or they're pullin' up the flowers by the roots. I ain't speakin' of the dirt they make, but I give you me word I haul out barrels of apple cores an' orange peels an' banana skins every day of me life, not to mention the newspaper scraps they're sailin' in the fountain for boats."

"Well, that was expected," Anne absently contributed, her eyes on the sunset. "When you find children and a fountain in the same place, you can look for a mess. It's all right. We want them to enjoy themselves. That's part of the plan."

"I know, miss, I know. It's got to be that way. But 'tis a queer thing that only wan child of all thim that comes here knows how to act in a garden. If the rest of thim was like her, we'd have no trouble. Maybe you've seen her, miss—a queer little red-haired tike that looks different from the rest."

"O." Anne was interested. "I think I know the little girl you mean. Does she come often?"

"Every day, miss, rain or shine. She spends most of her time here, and the funny thing about it is that she's always alone. There seems no one to look after her, at all, at all. She pays no attention to the other children, but plays by herself, and they pay no attention to her. But I'll say for her, she knows her way about. She's almost always here at sunset, when you'd think she'd be home eatin' her supper. 'Tis time for her now. Likely you'll soon see her comin' up over the hill."

"I saw her the day of the dedication," Miss Kimball murmured, and suddenly realized that she had often thought of her since. "She seemed alone then. I wonder who she is?"

"Whoever she is, she's the right kind," Michael testified. "You'll not find her pullin' the heads off the flowers or throwin' dirt in the fountain," he ended with an unconscious sigh.

But it was very peaceful now. Anne sat down under one of the oaks that guarded the inclosure and let her eyes drink in the tranquil beauty of the scene before her. How fortunate the members of the committee had been to find this particular spot to develop for their purpose, with its old trees and natural rocks, its broad plateau, its gradually sloping hill, and its wonderful vista. The town was only a mile away, but it was hidden by woods that lay between, and only a few slowly rising columns of smoke, lemon hued against the sunset, told of its presence.

AT the other end of the garden Michael was pruning some bushes. Within hearing, though concealed behind a clump of trees, Anne's chauffeur lounged over the wheel of his car, smoking a cigaret while he waited for her. Aside from the unobtrusive presence of these two, she might have been alone in the universe. She could not leave, yet she had not meant to linger. She reminded herself that she must get back home—a few friends were coming to dinner; but she was increasingly reluctant to go. It was so lovely here, and somehow, in this hour, the savage heartache she carried about with her these days was almost gone.

Turning, she saw she was not as much alone as she thought. Off in a corner, a little behind her, the red-haired child was playing alone. How long she had been there Anne did not know, but she must have come very quietly, for Michael had not turned and Miss Kimball herself had not heard the crunch of footsteps on the gravel paths or the snapping of twigs. The child looked and acted as if she had been there for hours. She was kneeling before a bench on which she had spread an array of small objects, and she was moving these about with an expression of serious intentness.

Anne rose and walked over to her, bending to look down at the game she was playing. Evidently a tea party was in progress. The bench had become a table, spread with tiny plates and cups made of leaves, in whose hollows white pebbles represented food.

"Good evening. May I have a cup of tea?"

Miss Kimball asked the question with the brilliant smile that had so rarely touched her lips this last year, and the child smiled back with shy pleasure. The guest was surprised by her own request. It was made because old memories had stirred suddenly at sight of the table, so like play tables where she had sat many years ago. The child did not seem surprised. She did not speak, but she sedately filled a leaf cup with imaginary tea, poured with a capable little hand from a round teapot made of an especially large leaf, and held it out to her caller. Miss Kimball sat down on the end of the bench and put her lips to the leaf cup. She knew every move of this game, for she had played it a thousand times in her own childhood, with just such plates and cups, made from just such leaves. The coincidence interested her. She had not happened to see children of today making leaf cups and plates. She was glad to know they still did it. And, of course, a lonely child in this garden had to make her own toys with what she found there.

For a moment the chairman's mind dallied with the thought that there really should be something here for children to play with. As it was, there was nothing save what they brought themselves. Two or more together could run about and play tag. On the other hand, the toys one made were much more fascinating than any other kind. In their childhood she and Margaret had made hundreds of sets of leaf and flower dishes——

The chairman's thoughts returned to the fact that she had a companion—that, indeed, she was at a party. Almost mechanically she proceeded with the game of forty years ago.

"May I have another cup, dear Mrs. Demorest?" she asked. "This was so very good. I'm so glad I dropped in to call. But I can't stay long, for my twins are very sick——"

She stopped and smiled at herself. Those "twins" had been the choicest mental possessions of her extreme youth, and from the time she was four till she was ten recitals of their vicissitudes had enlivened the tea tables where she as Mrs. Montmorency and Margaret as Mrs. Demorest played together by the hour. Since then, till this sudden resurrection, those twins had been lost sight of, but their reappearance did not startle Mrs. Demorest. She poured more tea with a willing hand. It was an interesting example of unconscious cerebration that had given the twins life again, Anne reflected. The thing that made her catch her breath was the child's smile and the look in the red-brown eyes which suddenly met her own. For an instant the earth rocked. Then Anne shook her head with a choked laugh. If her nerves were going back on her to this extent she'd better do something about it.

"So I promised Georgina I'd be back soon," she added lightly as she accepted a pebble biscuit. "How delicious your biscuits are, Mrs. Demorest!"

But she didn't leave as early as she expected to. The game proved too absorbing, and the way details came back to her was nothing short of amazing. She described the sufferings of Georgie—Georgina's twin brother. Anne had always talked much more than Margaret at their little teas, but usually it was Margaret who devised the characters and the new incidents. Today's hostess was like Margaret in the matter of silence. Indeed, Anne afterwards recalled that she had not talked at all, though she had not observed this during the game. It had been a fascinating game. At the memory of it the next morning Anne smiled again, wondering what her friends of today would have thought if they had seen her. They would hardly have recognized the eminently practical Miss Kimball in the eager playmate of the red-haired child. It was the quaintness of the little thing that interested her—her quaintness and a tugging memory and an odd resemblance from which the chairman's consciousness shied like a frightened horse.

The wonderful time had ended abruptly. With the informality of a long time protégé Michael had called over his shoulder a fervent request to Miss Kimball to come here and see what them aphis was doin' already to the Harriot roses, and Miss Kimball had flown to the afflicted plants. When she returned after a ten minute discussion of aphis and spraying, her small playmate was gone. It was as well, for Anne was late for her dinner. Nevertheless, she was disappointed. She had planned to take "Mrs. Demorest" home in her car and learn who her people were and why she was so much alone.

The garden tea was the first of many to which Anne Kimball found herself looking forward with amazing and growing zest. It was incredible that she should take such a fancy to a strange child, but she rejoiced that she could do it. In certain moods she even told herself it was one of the consolations God offers the lonely. Amazing, too, was the child's continued remoteness. Days, even weeks, passed and Miss Kimball was no nearer knowledge of her playmate's home and family than she had been in the first hour of their meeting, though she saw her a dozen times over their teacups and related with increasing gusto the experiences of Georgie and Georgina. Often she spoke of taking the child home, of giving her a ride, but always at the last moment, when the time came to go, the shy little creature had disappeared.

"Where do you suppose she lives?" Anne demanded of the old gardener; and Michael, his thoughts busy with his roses, answered briefly that, as far as he could see, she lived mostly in that garden, though, to be sure, she kept away from it during the crowded hours when the town folks and children were there.

"She's here early in the mornings," Michael said, "and again around sunset, and lately I've seen her in the long twilights when I stayed to work. 'Tis clear no one's givin' her much thought. I'll lay a bet, miss, her mother's dead; and perhaps," he darkly added, "she has a stepmother!"

Anne, too, formed a habit of driving or walking up to the garden during the lingering twilight of the long summer days. It was a perfect time to come. Usually, not always, she found the child there; and, though she learned nothing of the little girl's home or family, she learned something about the characteristics of the child herself. Her silence, for example. She was not dumb, for she kept up a soft singing that hummed reminiscently down the long avenue of the years. Thus had Margaret hummed in the play days of their childhood, but the habit was not unique. In later life Anne had heard many other children hum as they played, and always the sound had carried her back.

THE neatness of her companion was also reminiscent. With "Mrs. Demorest" everything must be just so—the plates and cups rightly made, the table rightly set, all things done properly and in order. There was a quiet authority and decision in the manner of Mrs. Demorest which Mrs. Montmorency recognized and accepted. Thus, too, it had been in those faraway days. On one occasion the guest committed the faux pas of bringing some dishes with her—a tea set which should have delighted any small heart. But it was not used, and after the little red-haired girl had gone Anne found it tucked out of sight under a lilac bush. She bent and picked it up with a forgiving smile.

"That's the way Margaret always quietly got rid of anything she didn't like," she told the listening garden. "That infant not only looks like Margaret but she acts like Margaret. Of course that's why I'm so interested." To Michael she added, almost fiercely, "I must get in touch with that child's people! I want to know who she is."

"She don't come as often as she used to," Michael contributed, absently. He was still fighting "thim aphis."

Miss Kimball frowned. She had observed this. In the last week she had seen the child only once, though she herself had come several times to the trysting place and had vainly waited for the approach of the quaint figure.

"I suppose I'm getting foolish about her," she confided to Michael the last time this happened, when she realized with amazement the extent of her own disappointment. "But I may as well admit that I'm awfully fond of the little thing. I can't help feeling that it must mean something —that perhaps she has been sent to help me—— I've never believed in adopting other people's children," she went on soberly, "but if I can learn something about her, and if she's all right, I really believe——"

Tonight, as usual, she had heard no sound of approach, but suddenly she knew the child was near her, and, with a leap of the heart, she spoke without turning.

"Good evening, Mrs. Demorest," she called gayly. She had learned that gayety was always the right note with this new friend, as it had always been the right note with little Margaret and with the mature Margaret as well. Any approach to seriousness, even to any sort of affectionate advance, made her small companion shrink away and brought an odd cloud to the red-brown eyes. Thus, too, it had been with Margaret. How well she could recall the inevitable shrinking from too serious topics, too serious situations, which always characterized Margaret Leigh. It was held by her critics—and even she had critics—to be her one serious fault. She would, they maintained, have made life a fairy tale if she could. So far as was humanly possible, she made her own life just that. She preferred to shut her eyes and ears to anything unpleasant. Yet those critics had admitted that when life led her face to face with tragedy, as it so often did, she invariably accepted the experience like the thoroughbred she was.

Anne could see yet the look Margaret's eyes took on at such times—the look of eyes gazing into depths from which they shrank. She seemed, for a shaking instant, to be seeing it again now, but it was only into the eyes of the child she was looking, as the latter stood beside her, silently glancing up. Anne caught her lower lip between her teeth—a trick she had in moments of deep thought—and looked back. There was something very unusual in the little thing's manner this evening.

But Mrs. Montmorency went on buoyantly.

"You're quite late, so I think I'll have to be the hostess and give you tea. Sit down, dear Mrs. Demorest. I'll have it ready in a moment."

But obviously it was not to be that way. Quietly and firmly the child made her preparations. The bench became a table. The table was set. The white pebbles shone forth against their background of leaf dishes. There were more dishes than usual. There was even an imposing centerpiece of field daisies which, Anne now remembered, the little girl had brought with her when she came. She must have picked them in a neighboring meadow. Obviously, this was to be a very special function, a banquet. Obviously, too, it was to be their last. Anne did not know why she knew this, or just when she had taken in the knowledge, but she had it now and it settled down upon her like a coffin lid. Possibly that odd look in the red-brown eyes had conveyed it.

The child was going away—where to or for what length of time Anne did not know. She only knew that she was going.

MRS. DEMOREST and Mrs. Montmorency had tea. They had it very elegantly, as was their admirable habit, and Mrs. Montmorency drank a great many cups of tea and told a great many stories about the twins. The twins, it appeared, had been particularly bad that day.

As she talked, the eyes of Mrs. Montmorency were steadily on her hostess. There must be no slipping away unseen this time. The child must be followed home and the little mystery of her parentage cleared up. In the meantime Mrs. Montmorency's eyes held to their cynosure. The mite had such an uncanny way of disappearing if one even turned one's head.

But tonight the mite seemed in no haste to disappear. After tea she put the dishes away under the rhododendrons, and, sitting quietly beside her guest, began to make a daisy chain. For a moment or two Anne watched her in silence. She herself had not made a daisy chain for forty years, but she caught the trick again after watching the child's hands, and they worked together.

When all the daisies had been used Mrs. Montmorency had an inspiration. They would make a wreath of the daisy chain. But they had nothing with which to tie it. She looked around, then rose, and with a quick, defiant gesture ripped a long piece of ivy from the base of the sun dial. All wrong, of course! Nothing in the garden must be plucked or pulled, and only this week Michael had proudly pointed out to the ex-chairman of the memorial committee how wonderfully the ivy, so newly planted, was growing. But for some reason it was very important that the daisy wreath should be exactly right.

Anne went back to the bench with the dangling piece of ivy in her hand. When she reached it her eyes met those of the child. For the first time they held hers long and deeply. They were really wonderful eyes—radiant eyes—eyes like no other eyes left in the world; and they revealed now the flickering lights of delight which had illumined so many mischievous and childish escapades forty years ago —and so many happy moments in later years.

Anne Kimball dropped on her knees before the small figure on the bench and held out shaking arms.

"O, my dear, my dear," she cried. "I know now who you are! I think I've known from the first moment, but I couldn't let myself believe. I know. I know! Yet when you are gone I shall doubt. O, my dear, my dear—give me a sign that I'm right!"

She stopped, set her teeth, and pulled herself together. Then, very slowly, she rose to her feet and stood still, staring down at the child. The child was no longer looking at her. She had taken the daisy chain and the ivy into her small hands and was finishing the wreath, her gaze on her work and her mouth tightly pursed in the concentration of her efforts.

A WEEK later Anne Kimball stood in the memorial garden at sunset saying good-by to Michael.

"Yes, I'm sailing in the morning," she said, dully. "I shall be gone at least a year, probably two."

"Yes, miss, so I've heard. We'll miss you sorely," Michael told her, his faded eyes wistful. "No one else loves the garden, miss, as you do."

"You'll take care of it, I know." Anne's gaze fixed itself on the red ball of the sun, sinking slowly over the distant woods. "But the truth is I've got to get away. I've been working too hard, I suppose. Anyhow, my nerves are in a frightful state. I don't know what would happen if I stayed on. Michael!" Her eyes returned to his face. "You're perfectly sure you've seen nothing of the little girl this week—you know the one I mean?"

"The one you played with? Not a sign of her, miss. Not even a flutter of her little dress among the trees."

"Michael"—the woman before him brought out the question with difficulty, her eyes again on the sunset—"no one but you and me ever seems to have seen that child. But—you did see us playing together, didn't you?"

Michael stared. Miss Kimball must be in a bad way when she could ask such a question. Then he thought he understood.

"I did that, miss, a dozen times," he said heartily, "an' believe me, Miss Kimball, 'tis nothin' you or me said or done frightened the little thing away. 'Tis only that her folks has moved."

"Why do you say that? Have you found out anything about her?"

Michael recoiled a step. Miss Kimball was edgy these days, for a fact!

"No, no," he said soothingly. "But sure, miss, don't it seem the reasonable explanation?"

Anne walked slowly over to the mausoleum on the adjacent hill, which held the body of her friend. She had never felt that Margaret was there, and she had visited the place only once since the funeral. The second visit had been made on the day of the memorial dedication.

The tomb itself was a lovely thing, in the form of a Greek temple. The wrought iron entrance door had been sealed, but through its open grill work one plainly saw the somber outline of the receptacle which held the temple's tenant. At the funeral Anne had realized with regret that after the sealing of the tomb there could be no flowers there.

She pressed her face against the grill work and looked in. Flowers were there tonight. On the top of the coffin, just over her friend's heart, lay a faded wreath of field daisies, from which hung a piece of ivy.

"Only wan child that comes here knows how to act in a garden."

The MAGIC MAN By Hallie Erminie Rives

IN THE OPENING CHAPTERS:

DR. KARL ROSELIUS, "the wizard of Melton Park," discovers a process by which, for a few cents, he can make synthetic pearls that cannot be distinguished from the finest orientals. Representatives of the foreign pearl barons, who fear destruction of their trade, propose that Roselius join them in selling his fabrications to the public as genuine. The chemist refuses, announcing that for reasons of sentiment he will destroy the formula. Mitchell Schuyler, scion of a ruined society family, hopes to repair his fortunes by marrying Rose, Roselius' daughter, though the chemist refuses to approve his suit. He keeps himself in funds by pawning the family silver at the shop of a woman fence, Meg Huchard, who lives at the back of the place with Canuck, her son. Canuck's lack of nerve and bungles in crime have brought him the contempt of Denny, Meg's handy man, and the rest of the ship's coterie. Roselius exhibits his synthetic pearls and the safe in which he keeps the formula to his friend, Dr. Florian, eminent Belgian surgeon; to the Baroness von Strohm, Florian's sister; to Miss Thorp, the wizard's assistant, and to Schuyler. Schuyler engages Canuck and Tug Holloway, the safe cracker, to steal the pearl formula. Rose shoots Canuck when he resists her attempt to capture him at the safe. Florian pronounces the youth dead, but with a new invention Roselius coaxes back life. The surgeon predicts amnesia, and the chemist plans an experiment of regeneration.

INSTALLMENT VI.

Canuck Beats Back.

AT the foot of the stair Tug Holloway let himself out of the door, from whose panel a neat disc had been cut, made his way to the denser gloom of the shrubbery, and sat down on the grass to wait.

As clean a job as he had ever pulled! The Great Dane that prowled the grounds had been dispatched to the vet's the day before, following the surreptitious dropping in his path of a biscuit by a nondescript boy who had solicited a job as a gardener's helper—that had been easy. The cutting of the wire of the burglar alarm had presented small difficulty to a worker of Tug's experience. Once inside, he had found the details of Schuyler's diagram perfectly accurate. All had gone as per schedule. He had now only to wait for the kid and see that his exit was clear.

Holloway flicked his head around like a buck that has caught a scent down-wind. A sound had come to his keen hearing, dull and smothered, but a sound. He cocked an ear toward the sunken railroad cutting, but there was no rumble of a freight. Thunder? Not with those stars! Could it have come from inside the house? The room in which Canuck was working was on the other side, overlooking the garden. Most likely it was nothing but the thud of a horse's hoof against his stall. There were the stables—it was a sure thing there would be saddle horses there.

The sound was not repeated and he waited ten minutes more, timing by turning the beam of his electric torch on his wrist watch under cover of his cap. A long time the kid was taking! He ought to have been able to copy a whole chemistry book by now.

Holloway rose to his feet. He could walk over dry leaves and make no more noise than a tiger, and he employed all his caution now as he made a swift circuit of the wing, keeping to the gloom of the heavier shadows. Rounding the southernmost angle, he stopped short in his tracks. The lofty mullioned window of the room which held the safe, where he had left Canuck with his tiny spark of a candle-end to do his part of the job, was ablaze with electric light and held shadows of moving figures.

He whispered a curse as savage as it was silent. The house was roused. The kid had been discovered! The muffled sound he had heard had been a pistol shot!

If it had been Canuck's, they would both be well away by this time!

What had they done to him? Drilled him good, or only winged him? If only he had stayed there with him—Tug had perfect confidence in his own skill and quickness—but then, who would have made sure of the way out? He had played the game according to the rules. It was just the kid's bad luck. His hoodoo had stuck to him to the end! Meg had been right. Too late to help him. To try would be to put his own foot into the trap. Whatever had happened had happened. Presently there would be the sounds of alarm, opening doors, shouts of servants, armed watchmen beating the shrubbery. It was up to him to make his own getaway while he could.

He turned and ran for it, toward the welcome concealment of the railroad cut and its route to safety.

A mile above he struck inland by a roundabout way, waited a long hour at a crossroads for a crawling night trolley, and reached New York by a lower ferry. He came to the downtown square just as a rainy dawn was breaking over the housetops.

He had no need to ring. As he approached the door under the three gilt balls, it opened and he saw Meg's strained face. He knew by her pallor that she had not slept.

She closed and barred the door, her eyes searching his. "Washout?"

"Yes."

Meg cleared her throat. She seemed to find difficulty in speaking.

"Tug, have—have they got Canuck?"

He sat down heavily.

"By God, Meg," he said, "that's what they have!"

IN the paper next morning appeared the following:

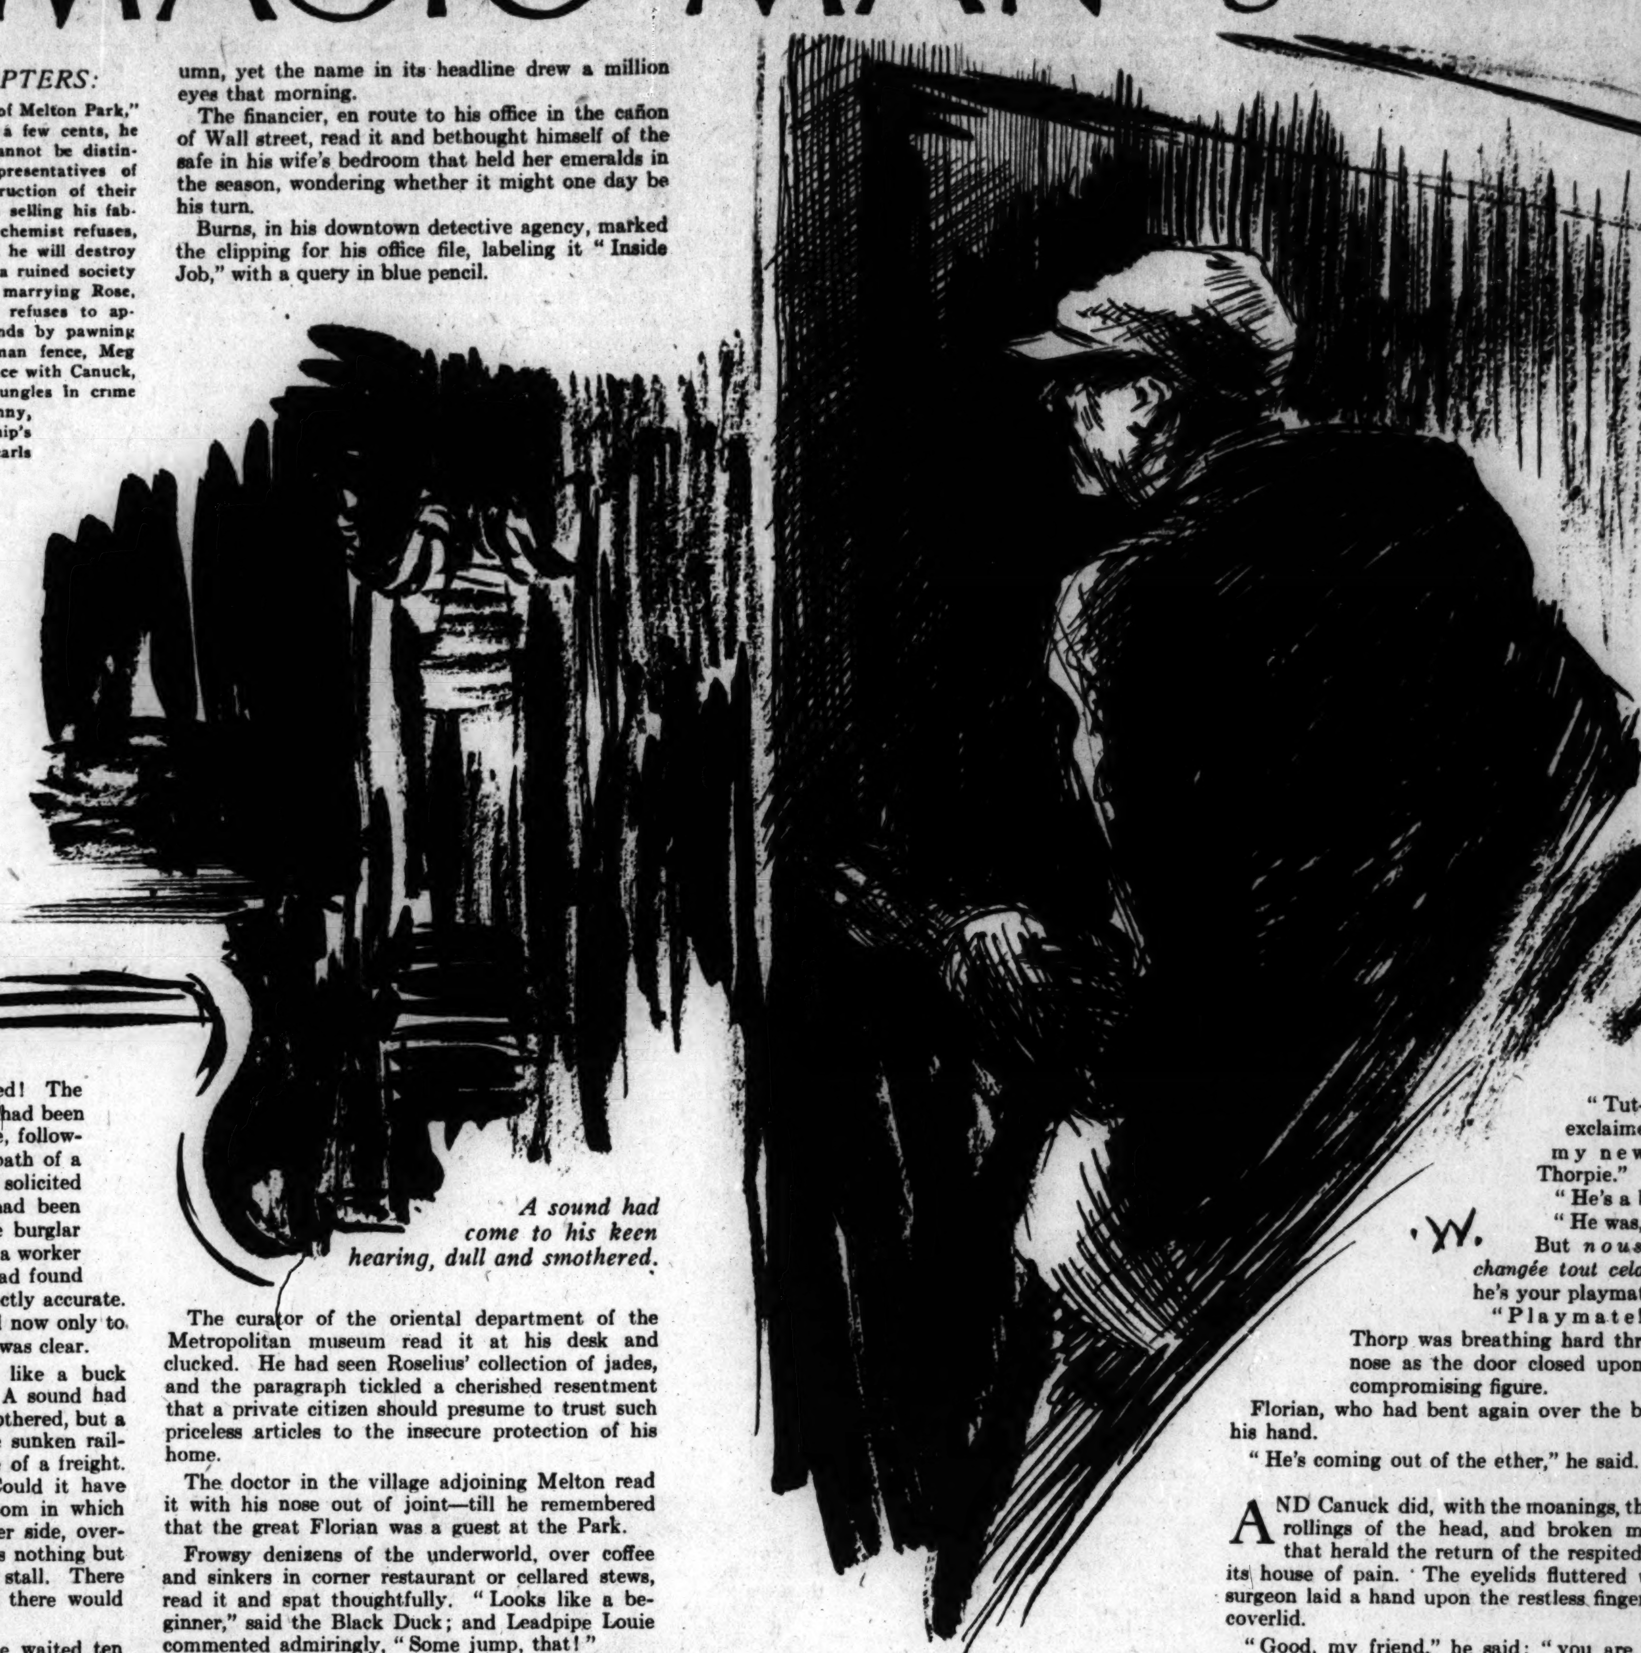
ATTEMPT TO ROB MELTON PARK.

An attempt last night to rob the Roselius mansion at Melton Park, Long Island, was frustrated by the vigilance of one of the chemist's staff. The thief, who had gained access by forcing a lower door, shot and slightly wounded an assistant who had surprised him at his work, and made his escape by leaping from a window fifteen feet above the ground.

The item had been received by telephone so close to the hour of going to press that it achieved no elaboration and was tucked away in an inside column, yet the name in its headline drew a million eyes that morning.

The financier, en route to his office in the cañon of Wall street, read it and bethought himself of the safe in his wife's bedroom that held her emeralds in the season, wondering whether it might one day be his turn.

Burns, in his downtown detective agency, marked the clipping for his office file, labeling it "Inside Job," with a query in blue pencil.



A sound had come to his keen hearing, dull and smothered.

The curator of the oriental department of the Metropolitan museum read it at his desk and clucked. He had seen Roselius' collection of jades, and the paragraph tickled a cherished resentment that a private citizen should presume to trust such priceless articles to the insecure protection of his home.

The doctor in the village adjoining Melton read it with his nose out of joint—till he remembered that the great Florian was a guest at the Park.

Frowsy denizens of the underworld, over coffee and sinkers in corner restaurant or cellared stews, read it and spat thoughtfully. "Looks like a beginner," said the Black Duck; and Leadpipe Louie commented admiringly, "Some jump, that!"

There was a man in a club on the avenue, dawdling over his grapefruit. His eyes, that had acquired a furtive look of late, told of a restless night. He was arduously killing time till noon—and a downtown rendezvous with one Tug Holloway, in a room back of a pawnshop. He saw the headline with a repressed start and read it with a feeling that the waiter's eyes were boring through the small of his back, and a sick realization of the failure in the pit of his stomach. Mitch did not go to the meeting place that day.

In that rear room Margot Huchard, as heavy eyed as he, read it with a quick, gasping breath and turned away, so that Denny, her helper, who had brought her the paper from the news stand under the "L" station, should not see the revulsion of gladness in her secret-keeping face.

"Didn't I tell you, Meg?" said Tug Holloway, as they two sat there together that night. "The kid has nerve, whatever they say. I couldn't 'a done it any slicker myself. He'll lay low somewheres now till he knows for certain how bad hurt that fellow is."

He touched her, with awkward kindness, on the arm. "Don't worry, Meg"—for she had shivered; "The guy he plugged ain't going to croak. And if he does, the kid's cleared and he didn't leave no tracks, either, you can lay to that."

Thus, by route of rotary press and printer's ink, clattering distribution van, corner store and carrier, that bit of news, telephoned by the quick wit of Roselius, in the dead of night, the while Florian fitted a temporary dressing to a shattered skull, carried to far frontiers its freightage of conjecture, of warning, of angered disappointment, of hidden relief.

And while it sped, in its ever widening circle, telling what Roselius wanted told and hiding what he wanted hidden, the experiment to which he had set his hand was going forward at Melton Park.

Florian, spick and span in white surgeon's apron, his mustachios more spikily aggressive than ever, did his work next day with the delicate precision that had made him famous in Europe, aided by Roselius and Rose. Under the deep sleep of the anesthetic the wounded man neither stirred nor moaned, lying sword straight under the white sheet, his face waxen and effigy-like. The room, through whose opened windows the air came freely, freshly damp with rain, was full of the sickish sweet halitus of ether.

Rose had never witnessed an operation, let alone assisted at one—a stiff job for the tyro—and she had need to keep a rigid grip on herself. Added to this, she had not slept for thirty-six hours. During the long hours of the night before, after Roselius had carried the wounded man in his burly arms to the room she had herself hastily prepared for his reception, and all needful had been brought for Florian's vigil, she had lain down in her room, but sleep had fled from her.

With the stirring household she had got up again, without having closed her eyes. She had not had exclamatory servants to deal with — Roselius, after a succinct statement made to Wrenn, had issued through that perfect butler and through Mrs. Spinet, the housekeeper, an absolute injunction against conversation on the subject—but she had been through enough to make her jumpy. However, her natural balance and the woman's instinct for the relief of pain, allied with her fierce anxiety that the man she had shot should not die, brought her through with flying colors.

When all was finished and every sign of the operation removed from the spotless room, Florian sat for a long time by the bed on which the insensible form lay, watching, feeling the pulse and temperature, disposing hot water bags and blankets to guard against the chill which may undo the cunningest surgery. At last he looked up and nodded self-satisfiedly.

"Tiens!" he said. "So, Charles! The first step of your experiment has been taken. Here is your raw material. Whether he has lost his memory, as I believe will prove to be the case, we'll soon know. By the way, did his pockets yield anything?"

"Nothing," said Roselius, "except this." He spread out a crumpled half-sheet of note paper on which was drawn a rough diagram.

The surgeon bent over it. "A plan of the house?"

"Yes. See—'driveway,' 'servants' entrance,' 'corridor,' all marked and labeled. The man who drew this knew the place."

"You suspect some servant?"

"I don't know," said Roselius. "I'll have Thorpie go over the records and see if she can find a crack anywhere. But I shan't make myself unhappy about it. Life's too short. And I can't go 'round mistrusting everybody."

A tap came at the door and he opened it. Miss Thorp stood there, grim and gray gowned as ever, and wearing her most unmistakable I-wash-my-hands-of-it expression.

"Well," said Roselius, "what's the row now, Thorpie?"

"The afternoon newspapers are calling up. Three in the last ten minutes. They want further particulars."

"They won't get any!" he snapped. "The message I sent to the Times is all there'll be. And tell 'em not to send reporters out here; they won't get past the lodge gate. Tell 'em the house is empty. Tell 'em I've gone to Nairobi to shoot chipmunks. Tell 'em anything!"

"The papers know?" queried Florian. Roselius drew a clipping from his pocket and handed it to Miss Thorp.

"Read it, Thorpie," he said, "so the doctor, if he ever has to, can swear to the truth, the whole truth, and nothing like the truth."

She read it.

"Rather neat, eh?" said Roselius, rubbing his hands. "That ought to fix things for a while, anyway, till I can get around to it. Now his pal won't think he's here in the house, and I've accounted for the wounded man, too."

"But the servants!" exclaimed Florian. "They know you had no assistant here."

"There's where you're wrong," Roselius spoke triumphantly. "While you were patching him up down there last night I called up Wrenn's room and told him a new assistant of mine had arrived in New York unexpectedly, that he had phoned me from the station, and was coming out to Melton at once. I said I would let him in and take care of him myself. I called up the lodge, too, and ordered the gate left unlocked. I flatter myself I did the job thoroughly. However, as the only one besides ourselves who is in the secret, Thorpie wants it distinctly understood that she doesn't approve of the whole business one bit. Don't you, Thorpie?"

Miss Thorp's chin took a slight elevation.

"I'm not particularly interested in burglars," she said, with a side glance at the bed.

"Tut-tut!" he exclaimed. "He's my new analyst, Thorpie."

"He's a burglar!"

"He was, Thorpie. But nous avons changée tout cela. Now he's your playmate."

"Playmate!" Miss Thorp was breathing hard through her nose as the door closed upon her uncompromising figure.

Florian, who had bent again over the bed, lifted his hand.

"He's coming out of the ether," he said.

AND Canuck did, with the moanings, the piteous rollings of the head, and broken mutterings that herald the return of the respited spirit to its house of pain. The eyelids fluttered up. The surgeon laid a hand upon the restless fingers on the coverlid.

"Good, my friend," he said; "you are all right now."

The sick man looked at him at first vacantly, then perplexedly. He spoke, stumblingly, but coherently —words in French.

A look of surprise glanced across Florian's face. He took up a glass and held it to the muttering lips.

"Drink this now," he said, "and don't talk."

Obediently Canuck did so, and almost immediately a saturating sleep came down upon the bed and steeped the racked body in wholesome rest. Canuck's bandaged head turned upon the pillow, his hands lay still, and he breathed evenly.

"And now," said Florian, "I must go and tell Hélène. She is tremendously diverted by your experiment, Charles, and she won't take her nap till she knows whether you're going to have your chance. Then I shall come down to your room and smoke one of your good cigars." He nodded toward the bed. "He will be a good case. He won't wake again for a good many hours. Rose, you must go and get some sleep. If you will, you can come back at midnight. Charles, I was right about the amnesia."

"How'd you know?" demanded Roselius.

"Didn't you hear him? He spoke in French—not readily, but haltingly, and with an imperfect accent. An old tongue, Charles. Probably his cradle tongue was French. His mind instinctively turns backward. It is a sign that the memory of the immediate past has lapsed."

Rose took a hot bath, rolled into bed, and slept dreamlessly for half the round of the clock. When she came back at midnight, wearing a white linen dress and a spotless apron of Cecile's, with a strip of white organdie around her coppery hair, she found her father and Florian sitting there together.

"He waked an hour ago," said the surgeon in a low voice. "I've given him some broth and sent him off to sleep for another round. For brain injuries that is the thing. Another forty-eight hours and you shall see a convalescent."

Her father kissed her and he and Florian went off together to take their rest.

Alone with the unconscious man, Rose drew her chair close to the bed. It was the first time she had contemplated him from a standpoint uncolored by personal anxiety.

Her eyes roved over his countenance. She had seen it at first furtive and dingy, scowling at her across the muzzle of the automatic, then drawn and distorted in the paralysis of his injury. But now it was curiously different. The sprouting beard that showed dark against its pallor served only to accentuate its youthful contour. It was strangely smooth and unlined, with a kind of peace in it which fought against all her notions. His hands were well shaped, though the nails were broken and ill kept and the fingers bore the stain of the cigaret. Rose found herself looking at him with the eyes of the modeler, noting the set of the neck on the shoulders, the close knit wrist, and under the molding counterpane the clean, long lines of arms and legs.

What had been his life? He was twenty-five, perhaps, just at the beginning of things for a man, and already a criminal, taken in an act which the law punished by a dozen years in prison. A life of violence —for while Florian had been operating she had seen a long white knife scar from his shoulder to his breast, and the sight had brought a swift suggestion of savage and desperate affrays.

She felt a sudden pang of pity for the lithe, strong youth of him, smutched and coarsened by crime and outlawry. What had brought about this piteous thing? Was it, as her father argued, the fault no more of inherent weakness or defect of character than of mischance of birth and vicious environment? Where had he lived? Was he alone in the world, except for other criminals—such as the man who had been with him, who no doubt had fled at the report of the pistol and left him to his fate? Cowardly! She felt a thrill of indignation and instantly flushed to realize what she had been thinking.

So she let her thought wing whither it would, while the long night ticked away, and a little before dawn drowse caught her and she fell asleep in her chair.

For a while there was utter quiet in the room, where the faint dawn gleam was beginning to mingle with the rosy light of the shaded luster, threaded only by her own faint respiration. Canuck seemed not to be breathing at all. Suddenly in the snug silence a bird fluttered in the vine beyond the open window.

Canuck awoke. He did not stir, but his brown eyes opened and stared straight up at the softly tinted ceiling. Clear, liquid, unvexed they looked, free from pain and perplexity. But slowly there grew in them a troubled question. He moved his head and his gaze flitted down to the swaying silk curtains, the inlaid writing desk with the bowl of purple pansies upon it, the hearth, the framed prints on the walls.

An instant more and he was looking at the sleep-

Question:

"I never can seem to get Liquid Polish on evenly. What would you suggest?" —Elsie G.

Answer: Many girls complain of the difficulty of getting Liquid Polish to go on smoothly. I have seen instances myself where it looked as if one layer had been put right on top of another. Usually I find that their difficulty comes from one of three things—either they have left old polish on the nails, the nails themselves have become roughened, or they have put on Liquid Polish while the nails were still damp.

Have the nails clean, smooth and dry. Liquid Polish is apt to wear off unevenly, so any previous application should be removed with Liquid Polish Remover. Also the Liquid Polish will not adhere well to a damp or roughened surface. To make the nails perfectly smooth and dry, many women first buff them with cake or powder polish.

Brush the polish on from the base of the nail toward the tip—keeping it a trifle away from the cuticle as bits of polish clinging to the cuticle look very untidy. Don't have too much polish on the brush!

Try this way of applying Cutex Liquid Polish. It is very carefully made to spread thin and go on evenly. Send 10c for a trial bottle.

THE OTHER DAY - -

Our Hero Starts on His Honeymoon - -

By Donald Ogden Stewart

THE other day I got married in a church, and started across America toward New York. As the train was pulling out of Los Angeles I went back to the observation platform. A gentleman in a shiny silk suit was sitting there, smoking a long cigar. Beside him was a middle aged lady with a magazine.

"A wonderful country," remarked the gentleman.

The lady did not reply.

"It certainly is a wonderful country," repeated the man.

The lady turned and looked at him.

"Are you a native?" she asked.

The man shook his head.

"No," he replied, and then he added, somewhat sadly, "I really am a native of no country."

The lady edged away a little.

"Would you like to hear my story?" asked the gentleman.

"No," replied the lady.

"I was born on shipboard," began the man.

The lady took up her magazine, and began to read. The man regarded her sorrowfully for a moment, and then turned to me.

"Would you like to hear my story?" he asked.

"Yes," I replied.

"I was born in Java," began the man.

"On shipboard?" I interrupted.

"Partly," said the man, and after a pause he continued. "My parents were planters."

"What did they plant?" I asked.

"O, the usual things," he replied, with a wave of his hand, and then he added: "Have you ever been to Java?"

"No," I replied.

"A wonderful country," he said, and then he repeated, "a wonderful country. You can't imagine."

"No," I said, "I can't."

"When my parents first went there," he continued, "they didn't know a soul. That was partly due," he added, "to the fact that they were washed up on Java after a shipwreck."

"A bad shipwreck?" I asked.

"They were the only ones saved," he replied, "with the exception of a parrot and myself."

"You?" I asked.

"I had just been born," he replied, "and none of us could speak a word of Java except the parrot, who knew a few phrases like, 'Can you direct me to a good second hand book store?' or 'At what time, sir, does the train leave for Fontainebleau?'"

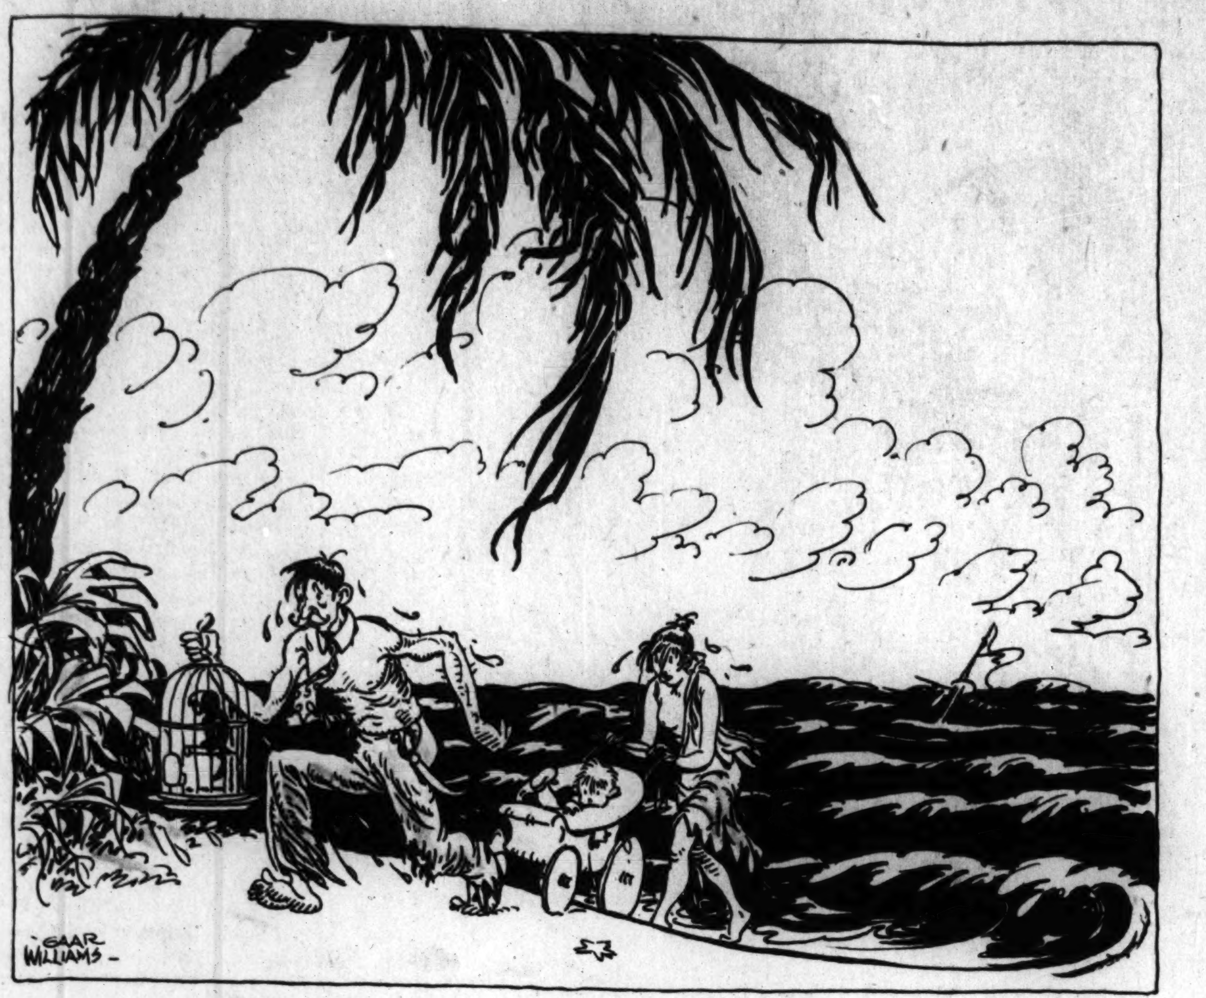
"That probably did not help you much," I said.

"No," he replied. "At first we had quite a lot of trouble. There was above everything," he continued, "the problem of food."

"Didn't the parrot know any good restaurants?" I asked.

"Ah," he replied, with a shake of his head, "but there were no restaurants. Nothing. Absolutely nothing. Just us—and the sea—and a few back numbers of Hooper's Bazaar which my mother had brought along in case anybody wanted to read."

"And did anybody want to read?" I asked.



"They were the only ones saved with the exception of a parrot and myself."

"Not right away," he replied. "You see, we were very busy providing ourselves with the necessities. Everything was very scarce. For the first three days we lived on nothing but a little rice which my father found under his collar. My father and mother," he added, "were on their honeymoon."

"Wait a minute," I said.

"Certainly," he replied with a polite bow.

"Something is wrong," I continued.

"Yes?" he said.

"Because either your father didn't change his collar for at least nine months," I said, "or——"

"I'm coming to that," said the stranger patiently.

"Good," I said, somewhat relieved.

"My father, as I should have explained," he went on, "was somewhat eccentric—or, as you would probably say, he was a little off center."

"They both mean the same thing," I objected.

"Precisely," said the stranger, "but in sending telegrams I always try to select the shortest words."

"So do I."

"Will you have a cigar?"

"Thank you."

We lighted our cigars, and I waited.

"On the fourth day," he continued at last, "the supply of rice gave out and we thought that perhaps we should have to eat the parrot, of which we had all, needless to say, become very fond. Here was a dilemma—or, as you would probably say, a tight fix."

"You took the words out of my mouth," I said.

"Precisely," he continued, "and you can imagine how the parrot felt, too." He stopped. "Did you ever eat raw parrot?"

I shook my head.

"Do you know New Orleans?" he asked.

Once more I replied in the negative.

"Well," he said, "there used to be a restaurant in New Orleans where you could get what corresponded to raw parrot. It has since," he added, "been destroyed."

"I should think it would have been," I remarked.

"New Orleans isn't what it used to be," he said, somewhat sadly.

"So few things are these days."

"Will you have a cigar?"

"Thank you," I replied, "I think I will finish this one first."

We sat gazing out over the hot California landscape. Then we went into a tunnel.

"Where was I?" he asked when we had emerged.

"In Java," I replied, "about to eat the parrot."

"Ethel," he said.

"What?" asked the lady sitting next to him.

"Nothing," replied the gentleman, "I was just repeating the name of our parrot."

The lady resumed her reading.

"On the fifth day," said the stranger, "my father found a footprint. Imagine our joy! But imagine our despair when we discovered that the footprint was one which had just been made by my mother."

"That must have been a shock," I said.

"Father was very angry," he replied, "and began to sulk. He refused to eat anything."

"But," I objected, "there wasn't anything to eat."

"That was partly the reason," replied the stranger. "You see, father knew that the footprint business wasn't mother's fault—and yet he just couldn't help himself. He always used to get that way when he was hungry—or when dinner was a little late. And here dinner was five days late. I don't blame him. Do you?"

"No," I replied. "Five days is a long time to wait for dinner."

"We always used to eat at six o'clock sharp," said the stranger, "at home."

"So did we," I said, "except on Sunday."

"On Sunday nights," said he, "we went down to the Athletic club."

"We didn't belong," I said.

"Indeed," said the gentleman. "What a pity."

"We could have belonged," I stated.

"I'm sure you could," said the stranger. "I'm sure you could."

THERE was a moment of sympathetic silence.

"My father," he said, "was very athletic. He practically founded the first athletic club in northern Ohio."

"I'm from Columbus myself," I said.

"Indeed," remarked the stranger. "Do you know Eddie Ferguson there?"

"No," I replied. "Are you sure it wasn't Harry Gorman?"

"Maybe it was," admitted the stranger. "I haven't been back there in years."

"It's changed a lot," I said.

"And what hasn't?" asked the gentleman. "Look at California."

I looked.

"It's changing every minute," he said.

"That's partly because we are on a moving train," I remarked.

"Well, then, look at Java," said he. "Golly, how that's changed!"

He whistled. The engine answered him. He looked at me.

"Did you hear anything?" he asked.

He whistled again. Once more the engine responded.

"That's funny," he said.

"What's funny?" I asked.

"Nothing," he replied. Then he got up and walked to the other side of the observation platform. After a minute he leaned over the side and whistled again. There was no answer. He tried once more. No result.

"H'mm," he said, and returned to his seat.

"I guess you think I'm crazy," he remarked.

"Not at all," I said, with a reassuring smile.

"Yes, you do," he said.

"No, I don't," I replied.

"Well, anyway, I'm not," he said. After a while he turned to me and asked, "Are you married?"

"Yes," I replied.

"Long?"

I looked at my watch.

"Twenty-one hours, 11 minutes, and 41 seconds," I replied.

He smiled. "Well, well," he said, "I congratulate you."

"Thank you," I answered.

"You know," he continued, "I'm married, too."

"It's the only natural condition," I remarked.

He took a photograph out of his pocket.

"Ethel," he said.

"What?" asked the lady next him.

"Nothing," he replied. "I was just showing this gentleman a picture of my wife. Her name is Ethel."

The lady returned to her reading. I examined the photograph.

"You haven't by any chance seen her anywhere, have you?" he asked, anxiously.

"Why, no," I replied. "Don't you know where she is?"

He shook his head.

"That was why I whistled just then," he said. "She and I used to whistle back and forth quite a lot."

"O," I said.

"I guess it was just the engine," he added.

I said nothing.

He took a cigar from his pocket and started to light it.

"O, I beg your pardon," he said, and reached for another cigar.

"No, thanks—honestly," I replied. "One a day is enough for me."

He bit the end off and lighted it.

"I never smoke more than three," he remarked, and then he added, "sometimes four on Sundays."

We sat there for a short while, saying nothing. Then I got up.

"I think I'll go back," I said, "and see what my wi——" I hesitated. "I think I'll go back," I repeated, "and get something to eat."

He nodded.

"See you later," he said.

As I opened the door into the car I heard him ask the lady if she minded cigar smoke.

"Yes," she replied.

I closed the door.

He whistled again.

THE MAGIC MAN - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - By Hallie Erminie Rives

ing girl sitting in the deep chintz covered chair at his bedside.

This room, this house, this girl! Where was he? What was he doing there? How did he come to be in that bed? Canuck lifted himself on his elbow, dazed and staring. Who was he?

A chilly fear was darting along his nerves. Why—he actually couldn't remember his own name! And his head. God, but it twinged! If this was a drunk, it was a peach! He put up his hand and touched the bandage. He sank back, suddenly dizzy.

The movement awakened Rose. She sprang up and came to him.

"You must lie quite still," she told him. "You're weak."

"I'm all snarled up," he said, somewhat vaguely, for a corps of boiler riveters had begun work inside his head. "Have I been sick?"

"You've had an accident."

An accident! That accounted for his having forgotten everything. It would all come back presently, he supposed.

"What's this place? A hospital?"

"A kind of one."

He looked at her white garb, her glorious crown of bronze. "Are you a—nurse?"

"Yes. But you're not to talk." She laid her hand on his forehead, damp with weakness.

There was an odd thrill in her fingers that went all through him—or was it faintness that was making him touchy all over? He wished he hadn't stuck his head up like that! Was he going to flop over, like a kid, right before her? He fought back the giddiness doggedly, hanging desperately to her look.

It was a long minute before he could beat it out—before he tried to speak.

"Say," he gasped, "I'm scared—of hospitals. But if I'm your job, I hope I'm—sick as hell."

AS Canuck tossed in the first days of pain and nausea and delirium, he beat and beat with his naked fists at the closed door of memory, only to fall back baffled and defeated. The mystery fretted him. Who was he? He wanted to know. It was surely his business. By God, he had to know!

He asked it of Roselius, whose eagle gray eyes and big, jocular face beamed upon him a dozen times a day, sometimes in a tattered smock and sometimes in a marvelous purple silk tasseled dressing gown and red slippers—a puzzling variety of costume.

He demanded it of Florian, who visited him mornings and evenings, took his temperature, and changed the dressing on his damaged head.

He questioned the solemn Wrenn when he woke in the still watches of the night to find him on duty by his bed.

He besought it of placid Mrs. Spinet and of Rose, who sat long hours beside him and who gave him his medicine, slipping her strong young arm under his head when he trembled with weakness and feeding him like a little child from a spoon.

To no purpose. He had been in an accident, had been badly hurt, but was doing well. His memory would come back to him in good time. Meanwhile it was better for him to ask few questions, think as little as he could, and worry not at all. This was all that was vouchsafed him.

While he lay, fumbling always for the latch of the door that had so unaccountably slammed to, the Roselius household was going through its own varied reactions.

From that first moment when Canuck's eyes, clear, limpid, and brown, and as washed of baleful knowledge as a baby's, had looked into hers from the pillow, Rose's interest in the experiment had deepened every hour. To lift a human being from the turgid silt of crime, to give him the wider range of a decent, honest life amongst his fellows! All the woman in her went out to the thought with outstretched hands.

Miss Thorp maintained a haughty silence and turned up her nose when the subject was mentioned, but behind the scenes she perjured her soul—which she would have done with cheerfulness every day in the year—to carry out Roselius' program, with the result that the laboratory staff sent a huge box of dahlias to the new assistant, so unhappily put hors de combat.

Florian went about with a supercilious smile and occasional cryptic allusions to spoons, varied with gibes at Roselius, who gave him Rolands for his Olivers in vast content.

As for the baroness, the affair had acutely piqued her curiosity. But that Florian forbade it, she would have brought her tapestry square and her French novel and camped by the bedside. As it was, she haunted the corridor and could often have been discovered peering around the lintel of the door.

Meanwhile, Canuck was absorbed in his own battle to dig from the hold-all of his sick mind some clew to the facts whose sharp facets pricked him from every side. Restlessness, the urge to do something, he didn't know what—to hurry somewhere, he didn't know where—teased and irked him.

There came a time on the fourth day when the blue sky went black, when the murmurous air outside crackled with sneering gibes. When the storm of meaningless rage against something he could not see or name or fancy shook him till he was exhausted. When everything about him—the hands that held him in bed, the glittering eyeglasses of the doctor, even the benign face of Roselius—spelled unreasoning terror. He only knew that he was broken, strapped down on his back to go crazy and yell.

It was in the night, heavy and clinging and shot through with lights and disturbed faces like yellow crystal bubbles, that he came slowly back from the hell of hysteria, as though rising from cozy sea depths to the light. He lay panting, sweating, looking for a face that was not there. His body sagged and trembled. Tears were pouring down his cheeks. He spoke—the merest whisper. "I—want her. I—want the nurse."

A hurried movement about him. Reassuring voices, and then—she was here, in white, with her crown of bronze hair, ruddy in the shaded light.

The rigidity of fear died out of Canuck's face and, relaxing in utter dependence, with his hand in Rose's, his head fell sideways against her arms. The storm was past and he was asleep.

The mental tempest cleared the air. He woke in the morning, steadied and controlled. When Florian came in, seeing his hand fumbling his rough cheek, he asked:

"Would you feel better for a shave?"

"Yes," he said. "Could I do it?"

"I'll see about it," was the answer, and presently he was propped on the pillows, with a bath towel tucked under his chin, and Petersen, the footman, was shaving him with a skillful hand, while Roselius looked on, sitting on the edge of the window sill telling his Chinese rosary, with the breeze tossing the ends of his flowing tie and rumpling his shock of iron gray hair, and now and then erupting in whimsical nonsense that always, as the baroness had once observed, "had a laugh or a sting curled up in the tail of it."

"Fancy the time mankind wastes in lathering its chin and scraping off what nature intended to be there!" Roselius commented. "Prinking vanity, that's what it is—and imitation. Every man doing what the rest do, like the women and their bobbed hair. I'm satisfied to look the way God made me."

"Why don't you go without clothes, then?" demanded Florian.

"I would," he retorted, "if my fool ancestors hadn't been silly enough to adopt saber-toothed tiger skins a million years or so ago. And a sight more comfortable I'd be, too, on a day like this. The orientals are sensible enough to keep clothes in their proper place. They wear 'em only when they need 'em to keep warm."

At the sally Canuck laughed—for the first time.

"I'll be damn glad when I can put mine on!" he said.

Roselius nodded to himself wisely as he went down the stair a little later. The sound of the laugh had pleased him. It had been clear and clean, with a ring of youth and fun in it.

He entered the lib-lab, where Florian, with Miss Thorp's aid, was going over some laboratory records, walking like a king who has humbled his enemy.

"It's all working out beautifully!" he said, rubbing his hands together. "Beautifully!"

Miss Thorp was more snappy and glary that day than usual, having slept poorly, and she reacted to his complacency with a sniff.

"Governor," she exclaimed, "I can't believe you realize what you're doing!"

"The idea, Thorpie!" He shook his head at her like a scalawag Jove. "Why, I spent half the night last night thinking it out!"

She appealed to the surgeon. "Are you going to let it go on?"

"Dieu!" Florian protested. "How can I help it? I wish I thought I was being consulted!"

"That's right, Prosper," smiled Roselius, "you're not. This is my party."

He went swaggering into the workroom.

. . . .

Rose set down the tray she was carrying and looked at her patient with quick new approval. His clean shaven face was sensitively alert, the skin pink from the rub of the towel and smooth from bay rum and talc. His hair, springing high above his forehead, had a wave in it, and his lips had lost their paleness. Under the silken sleeve of her father's pajamas his white arm was firm and rounded. She remembered how in the night his face had turned to her and his hand clung to hers in that strange little-boy terror, and a faint color tinged her cheeks.

She brought the tray to the edge of the bed. "Here's your luncheon. You look as if you could eat it."

"I could eat a thick alligator steak," he said, "with fried whetstones on the side."

"How about poached eggs?"

"Fine. Don't give me more than nine, though. I'm reducing."

She lifted a cover, and he looked gloomily at the single egg the action revealed.

"See here," he pleaded as she turned away. "Don't ankle along so fast. Stay and talk to me some, won't you?"

"All right," she answered, drawing up a chair, "but I must go in a minute or two. I've got other work to do."

"How many people do you have to take care of?" he asked.

"You're the only patient I have just now."

He poured his tea—somewhat awkwardly, for numbness still dragged at his arm. "Let me help," she said, and took the cream jug from his hand.

"It's still on the blink," he said, "that wing. The doc says it's from the accident. It's funny I can't remember any accident."

"You must have patience," she said, encouragingly.

He was looking at her fixedly, at her deep blue eyes, her hair shiny and wavy, like gold and copper melting into one. No come-on business in that smile of hers, or flirty side glance from under lampblacked eyelids.

"Do I know you?" he asked. "What's your name?"

"Rose."

"That's a pretty name. What's mine?"

She shook her head and put a finger on her lips. "No questions about yourself!"

"But aren't you ever going to tell me anything? What would you do if some morning you crawled out of the hay and didn't even know your own name? Faint away or something fierce, I'll bet."

"Not a word till the doctor says so. Do you want me to lose my job?"

"No, sirree!" he said, with emphasis. "But it's mighty hard to talk if I don't ask questions. There's an old lady who peeks in here when she thinks I'm asleep. I've doped it out that she's the wife of the Great What Ho."

"Of what?"

"The old man that everybody stands around for."

"O!" she said. "You mean Mr. Roselius. No, she's the doctor's sister."

"I suppose Mr. Roselius is the one that runs the place," said Canuck, munching his toast. "I like him."

Rose smiled. "I'm glad of that."

"Why?"

"Because I like him, too."

"He's a queer duck," he said. "He was telling me this morning about the man that painted that picture." He pointed to the landscape set into the wall above the mantel. "An Italian, he was. How he had his right hand cut off for being in a conspiracy when he was young, and learned to paint again better still with his left. Does Mr. Roselius ever talk to you?"

"Sometimes."

"Don't you like to hear him?"

"Yes, tremendously."

"Queer!" he said, musingly. "But I sort of wish everybody was queer like he is."

She took up the tray and was going out when his voice recalled her. "I'm wondering where I've seen you before."

"Perhaps I remind you of some one else."

He shook his head. "No, you yourself. There's something about your voice—the way you speak. When I shut my eyes. I don't feel that way about the doctor or Mr. Roselius—only about you."

Again the conscious flush stole into her cheek at thought of that tragic meeting he was struggling to recall.

"Look here!" she said. "You've got to stop wondering about things. It's the doctor's orders, and it's up to me to see that you do it. If you don't, I'll let some one else take you on and I'll do a fade-out."

"O, I'll take it back!" he cried in real dismay. "I'm only a weakminded goop with a 'Please Find My Past' sign tied around my neck! You wouldn't leave me flat like that, would you?"

She laughed at his look.

"All right. I'll come back after awhile—to see if you mean it."

She went out, closing the door.

When Rose came downstairs, Dr. Florian, the baroness, and Miss Thorp were at tea in the green drawing room.

The baroness turned a piercing eye on her over the edge of her lifted teacup.

"How well you look, Rose!" she said. "You have quite a color in your cheeks. Or maybe it's the white dress. How is your patient progressing?"

"Splendidly," said Rose, helping herself to thimble biscuits and cherry preserves. "He wants to sit up."

"He may," said Florian. "It won't hurt him. Where's your father, by the way? I haven't seen him since luncheon."

Rose turned to the butler, hovering in the background. "Where has father gone, Wrenn?"

"He went out in the motor, miss," was the reply. "But he said he'd be back at five. He particularly ordered the crumpets."

"It's past five now," said the baroness. "Ah! I hear him."

Her ears had not deceived her. A resonant bass was to be heard in the hall, threaded with Petersen's reedy treble. Wrenn went out.

Roselius came in rubbing his hands, with an eye for the teapot.

"Afternoon, everybody," he said as he sat down. "Three cups, Rose. I'm wolfish. The air's wonderful."

TEMPTING MENUS FOR THE WEEK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

The First Aid Soups

SOUP is a mere convention, say some people. Others agree that it is a good appetizer. Another idea is that it is a light and pleasant thing, which allays the first pangs of hunger so that eating a good dinner will not become a gormandizing act.

As far as food is concerned, a meat broth is but a slight thing. Well filled with vegetables, it is more of a viand. If it happens to be a heavy vegetable puree, perhaps but slightly thinned with a meat stock or milk, it is yet another thing, especially if it contains a nice lump of butter. In fact, a soup may be so full of all the food broths that a bowl of it makes a good meal.

The milk and cream soups are something else again. First, they get milk into the menu, and milk is one of the most influential of the protective foods and should be eaten daily.

And, besides, milk or cream soups have a true medicinal value or are curative. They afford nourishment of the best sort, for people with mucous membrane troubles, whether respiratory or intestinal. In other words, they are a great remedy for colds when taken in time, and are always ameliorative. That they are imperatively required in ptomaine attacks, as soon as any food can be taken, can be demonstrated. They are the best answer to the S O S call the body sends out for liquids to restore losses. The body's water balance has been violently disturbed. Liquids are then first aids, and liquid nourishment becomes doctor and nurse in one, and builds.

If you are fatigued, take a milk soup. You will not then be likely to take cold under such a provocation as fatigue. Milk soups are not a universal panacea, but are nearly so. They are always good when digestive powers are not strong—if well cooked. There's the rub. Poor milk soups are hateful.

At this season, when the throat feels strawy, or nose stuffy, take milk soups. But at any time there is health assurance and insurance in them.

THE MAGIC MAN

By Hallie Erminie Rives

"Roselius," said the baroness, "it isn't the air. There is wickedness in your eye. You have been doing something again."

He winked at her, twisting his grizzling tawny beard, with a scapegrace grin.

"Hélène, you're always picking on me. It's outrageous. Thorpie is the only one in the house who appreciates me at all, and she's stingy with it."

"Confess! Tell us at once what you've been up to."

"Well, if you will have it, I've just killed that poor boy upstairs."

"Come, Charles!" said Florian. "For one moment—if you find it possible—will you talk sense?"

"I will, Prosper. In considering the situation of the subject of our experiment——"

"Not 'our,' if you please," interrupted the surgeon, irritably. "I have nothing to do with it!"

"My experiment," Roselius amended, amiably, "it recently occurred to me that it might be advantageous to have the man he used to be presumptively dead. I have therefore arranged it."

"Amazing country!" muttered the baroness. "Is there nothing one can't do in America? How did you 'arrange' it, pray?"

"Well," Roselius continued, imperturbably, "it appears that when he jumped from the window——"

"What!" Florian exclaimed.

"Prosper," mocked Roselius, "I'm surprised at your forgetfulness. Don't you remember what the newspapers said?"

The surgeon subsided hopelessly in his chair, but the baroness leaned forward, keenly appreciative, her old eyes twinkling.

"Yes, yes. Go on!"

"When he jumped, he made for the railroad cut, where he boarded a freight train. He had ridden only a half mile, however, when fate intervened. He lost his hold, fell between the trucks, and—cr-runch!—it was all over with him. His body was found next morning and taken to the morgue, and a day or two ago it was buried, unidentified, in the potter's field."

"But I don't see——" began Florian.

Roselius held up a gold cigar case with a large R set in diamonds. "This was in the coat pocket. Mine. It was on my desk that night."

He paused, turning on the baroness a waggish eye. "Doesn't it dovetail beautifully, Hélène?"

"How are you supposed to know all this? I presume the coroner, your accomplice, is a friend of yours!"

"Exactly!" he bellowed. "I got him his job. To complete my little tale, he had heard of our burglary here and, noting the initial on the cigar case, phoned me about it. This morning I drove to his office and officially identified the bauble. The evidence seems fairly conclusive that the unknown man killed on the railroad near here that night was the man who broke into this house. I have a statement in my pocket from the coroner. He gave me the man's coat and hat, too. I've just stowed 'em away in the commode in the living room."

The baroness laughed till she shook.

"Roselius," she said, "you're as big a scoundrel as he is! Saddling a poor devil of a vagabond with a crime he never committed!"

"Pooh! He's nameless, and he's dead, anyway. I can't see how it hurts him."

"I'm beginning to wish we weren't leaving for Belgium so soon. Your experiment is getting terribly interesting."

"It'll be more so, Hélène," he promised, wagging his rugged head. "And even before you leave, I shouldn't wonder——"

He broke off. The door had opened and Wrenn's voice spoke behind them.

"Mr. Mitchell Schuyler," he announced.

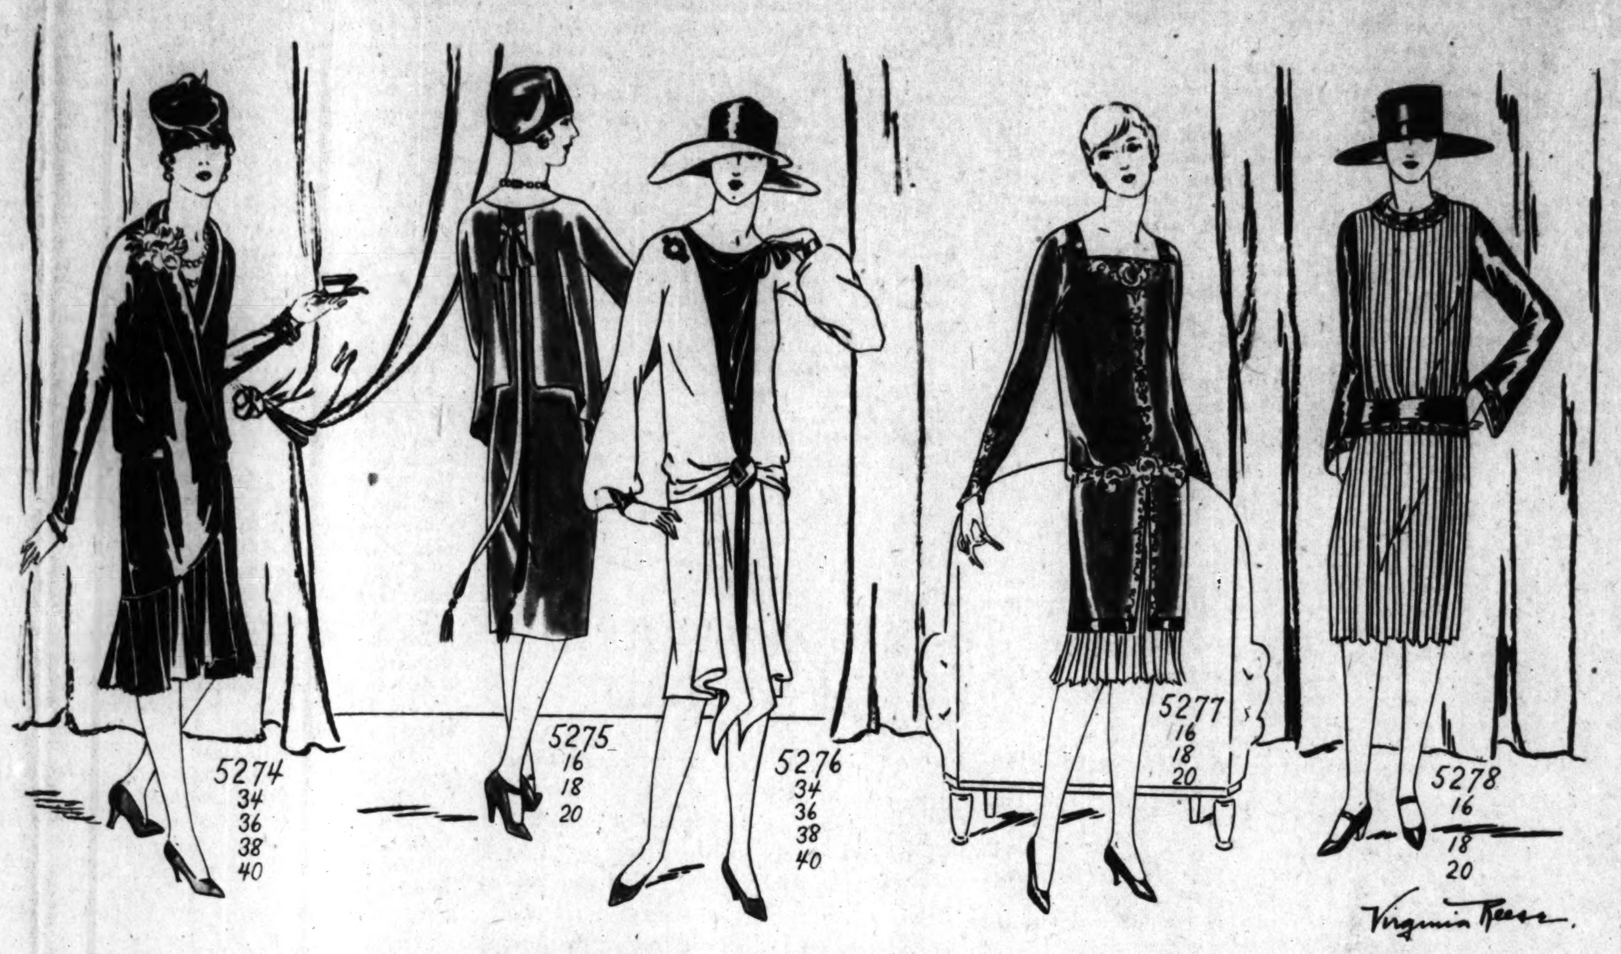
FROCKS TO FLAVOR THE AFTERNOON TEA

by Corinne Lowe



That the last citadel of formality capitulates to coat-dress tactics is established by an afernoon model of black satin with roll collar, surplice closing, bias flounce, and a white chiffon chrysanthemum. Sketched at the extreme left.

Next, satin-back crepe in Chanel red makes another afternoon model with original conception of the bolero assisted by ties and band of self-fabric.

An original draped and tied vestee of darker green than its light green background is the leading point scored by the satin model in the center.

Next, a tunic model in Valencia blue poplin exploits accordion plaited foundation of matching crepe and employs black satin bands together with embroidery of scarlet and black. At the extreme right, plaited white crepe slip is draped over black satin and trimmed with silver kid upon which is appliqued white kid motifs held down by black buttons.

THE TRIBUNE MAY MANTON FASHION
BUREAU, BOX 416, GRAND CENTRAL STATION, NEW YORK CITY.

NEW YORK.—(Special Correspondence.)—As one walks up Park avenue these autumn days one has a strong impression that the old fable of the fox and the grapes is being universally enacted by fashionable New York. One means, of course, the fox scarf, and one means with equal favor all those tones of purplish blue and purplish red which pass under the general classification of grape tints. It will be seen that the modern version of the fable takes liberties with Æsop, for today the fox scarf has no difficulty in reaching the grape colored costume. The two are, in fact, in close and constant communion.

The costly and perishable silver fox is just as smart now as ever before. Yet this is not the only quarry of the fox hunt. Some of the most fashionable among us come in at the brush—of the red fox. The latter pelt has indeed scored a tremendous social triumph this year. As to its relative, the pointed fox, this is another favorite. Among the various manifestations of its triumph is that in connection with black broadcloth coats, where the whole animal of the pointed fox is draped, scarf fashion, about the throat.

So far as other accessories are concerned, let us take up first the matter of shoes. The shoe last that shall probably be first is just the plain opera pump. No, one doesn't mean the comic opera pump, for although this model of shoe shares sometimes in the day of decoration launched by other types, the smartest versions are of black patent leather or some other unbedizened material. It is really strange how this simple opera pump persists among the smartest of us. I think there were at least four women out of every seven sauntering on upper Park avenue the other day who had chosen footwear of this conventional type.

The single strap with great open spaces at the sides is another favorite. This model with the tiny thong of leather encircling the ankle encourages all sorts of combinations, and some of the smartest of these are developed in the brown and tan tones. For example, brown suede with heels and trimmings of matching patent leather, or beige suede with brown patent leather. Nor must it be surmised for a minute that the reptilian age is over, so far as shoes are concerned. These alligator and lizard and snake skin types are with us just as much as ever before.

As to hats, I think the three types one sees most are the felt with the rounded and higher crown, supplemented by a narrow drooping brim, frequently in the ripple effect beloved by Rose Descat; the extremely high crown with the backward drape which Agnes attributes to African inspiration, and some form of the beret. Incidental to the last, however, let us say quickly that the casquette or visor brim which often used to complete such berets has receded almost completely from the shore of fashionable millinery.

There is something newer than any of these experiments, however. A friend of mine just come back from Paris brought with her to complement a beige sports frock a brimless beige felt with a draped crown and a band of the inevitable grosgrain—this in brown—wound about its base. It is a first cousin to the beret, but it doesn't go under this name. No, the French call this brimless affair a toque, and they say that such felt models—abysses removed from the toques that we associate with plump dowagers—are coming back for wear with sports clothes.

Provided that her accessories represent an outlay of four or five hundred dollars, the most sensitive woman can face with perfect equanimity the necessity of wearing a thirty-nine fifty frock. And if she add to this normal equipment a two thousand dollar string of pearls she can be even more guarded in her dress expenditure. She may top off with a little rag of a frock that cost only fifteen ninety-five. Many and many lights of the fashionable world cherish this idea of balance. I have seen them at it.

On the other hand, some women in this funny old New York of ours are old fashioned and like to live up to their accessories. Their frocks represent some advantage to the fashion writer in search of news. It is to such conservative temperaments that we appeal today in a group of afternoon frocks designed for tea, or wedding, or concert guest.

Provided you are sufficiently simple about it, you may wear the elaborate textures of a formal afternoon. Satin and satin back crêpe are two of the prime favorites. And after these we find a processional of velvets, crêpes, ribbed silks, and moires.

Taking satin as a subject of foremost importance, we draw your attention first to the fact that some of the afternoon models cling to the coat-dress tradition. Evidence of this fact is encountered in the first sketch at our left. In this case the black satin, which is seen in such quantities wherever the chic are gathered together, strikes its note of smartness from a simple coat-dress line. This is carried out with the aid of a roll collar terminating in revers and of a bias flounce sloping upward at the side front. The set in belt stops at the front and provides justification in the back for that approved blouse. A white chiffon chrysanthemum proclaims, "Here we are—another of those black and white affairs," and a black satin hat draped backward and dimpled according to the latest thought affords the final recommendation of successful simplicity. The same model is excellent in black panne velvet.

There has lately been such an outbreak of lacing as never was except in an Elizabethan drink. No, it's not the corset that is the offender nowadays. It's our frocks themselves. It would seem as if the designer were never so happy as when he could lace together the sides of a girdle, or the front of a corsage, or the lateral part of a skirt.

Hand in hand with lacing goes the impulse to put something into a slot and draw out—chic. This latter passion is illustrated in our second model, one which is obviously of Paris inspiration. This is made of the Chanel red which is so widely exploited this autumn, and it occurs in satin back crêpe. The effectiveness of the model is dependent entirely upon a bolero which departs from all traditions of this detail. It is slit in the back, and the schism is bridged by two long streamers of self-material which terminate in tassels. Similarly, in front the opening of the bolero is marked by the passing of a narrow strip of self-material through two slits.

These tassels! How they do sway our mood nowadays! We have found so many places on frocks where they give just the right accent that a certain friend of mine calls this the belle-pull age. O, yes, you remember, of course, those days when we summoned James, the butler, with a cord ornamented by a great obese tassel?

Now for another satin model! This one is in a light, misty green, and it captures your immediate attention largely through the behavior of a vestee of self-material in deeper green. Really and truly, in all my long years of contact with vestees I have never yet seen one with such independent ideas of a career. For it is draped, and what is left after the draping ties in a bow at the left side front. This vestee extends into a narrow straight panel for the skirt, and its influence is seen in the V-shaped yoke of the back. A buckle of silver and black enamel emphasizes the upward movement of the corsage and rivets your attention to two graceful folds of drapery cut in one with the skirt.

Here is an exceedingly graceful and effective model, from which we turn to a suggestion of totally different character. Our fourth frock is in poplin in the lovely shade known as Valencia blue, and it is consecrated to the popular creed of underskirt and tunic effect. The underskirt is of matching chiffon and is accordion plaited. As for the tunic, trimmed with bands of black satin and embroidered in scarlet and black, this establishes a precedent by being all in one in the back as opposed to a definite seaming of upper and lower sections in the front.

A member of the growing faction of black and white costumes is our final offering. Black satin forms the foundation, and over this is dropped a sleeveless tunic of plaited white crêpe. Silver kid forms the boyish collar, the edge of the sleeves, and the band under the satin girdle, and all these are treated to white kid appliques set on with black buttons. A stunning new Reboux sailor completes this frock, one of outstanding interest because of its unusual trimming touches.

THE ASTROLOGICAL BLUES

by SAMSON HORN

AFTER all, it was Landor's own fault. After all, neither the stars nor their earthly ally, the Booth washing machine account, could have come between Landor and Cordelia Wrenn if he hadn't thought of the luck idea for Evans chocolates.

Of course, the old man was responsible, too, in a way.

"All I need to land the Evans account is an idea, Landor," the old man jerked out, smoothing his thick gray hair nervously. "See if you can think of something in the next couple of days," he ordered his young copy chief.

Landor nodded, and strolled out, whistling. An hour later he strolled in again, and said, "Evans chocolates are lucky chocolates. Send them to your girl, and you'll be lucky."

The old man jabbed a buzzer. When Cordelia stepped in, he cleared his throat modestly, and said: "I've just thought of an idea for Evans. Here it is: 'Evans chocolates are lucky chocolates. Send them to your girl, and you'll be lucky.' Miss Wrenn, will you write about five pieces of copy based on that?"

He blushed under her glance of admiration at his ingenuity. But he didn't like what she wrote. To him her copy seemed thin, weak, insipid.

"I knew what was the matter—she didn't have her heart in it; she didn't believe in luck," the old man told Landor later. "Now, the Evans chocolates are lucky just because they're good; give 'em to your girl, and you'll be lucky. But that wouldn't be enough to inspire Cordelia. So when we were getting ready to leave for Boston I sent out for half a dozen books on astrology and occultism. On the train I dipped into one of the prefaces, and spouted some of the phrases at that girl. She gobbled it." The old man smoothed his hair complacently. "I sold her on luck! I sold her on some sort of astrology called Flackism! She sat right down in old Evans' office and dashed off a couple of pieces of copy that left old Evans goggle-eyed."

When the old man and Cordelia returned from Boston they brought the Evans account and young Ray Evans, who said he had some business in town. It seemed to Landor that young Evans, with his cameo profile and his after shaving complexion, was altogether more handsome than was proper for a youth with such a wealthy father.

Cordelia was a missionary for Flackism.

"It is a twentieth century synthesized modification of numerology and the heliocentric system of astrology," she painstakingly explained to Landor, knitting her brows prettily and brushing back the single dark curl that always broke loose.

He laughed. But when her blaze of anger had convinced him of her ardor he duly apologized. Forthwith she relented, and invited him to dinner that night. Her cousin, Doris, would be there, and so would Mr. Evans. They would have a Flackistic séance.

"I've taken my own Flackoscope already, Gene," she informed him, the enthusiasm glowing from the dark eyes in her vivid face. "I was born under Jupiter in the second house, with the trine to Mars and the sextile to Venus. That means I'll be moderately fortunate until marriage."

"And after?" he asked, quickly.

Her smile was unnaturally bright. "Then I'll be a chameleon. I will partake of my husband's success or lack of it."

Because he was certain of her sincerity, he came away, troubled, from the séance. The process of casting a Flackoscope had turned out to be prosaic enough. Informed of the dates and hours of their births, Cordelia had elicited from a thick, musty volume the prophecies that Evans would be "fortunate in health, wealth, and marriage," whereas Landor's health would "grow exceedingly poor within several years," he would become "dependent on the charity of others," and his marriage would "end in separation and divorce."

He sighed. "She believes she'd be hoodooed with me, whereas with Ray Evans——"

YES, it was Landor's own fault, but J. K. Booth had a hand in it, too. Upon him, in this drama of the stars, devolved the important function of dying.

He died. And thereupon control of the Booth Washing Machine company of Dubuque, Ia., passed into the hands of his brother, Leonidas, who for many years had lived in the orient. What had his business been? No one seemed to know. What was his temperament? Ah, no secret about that. Domineering, beyond a doubt. Domineering.

It was all wrong. Here, for a year or more, Cordelia had been writing copy that sold the washer steadily, and Booth had become the agency's biggest account.

Then why should Leonidas Booth, in the three weeks since he had arrived from Asia, have immediately rejected the first piece of Cordelia's copy that was submitted to him, and have immediately demanded a new idea? And why should he have turned down every idea that Landor had forwarded since then?

It was all wrong. The only right thing about it was that Leonidas Booth at last arrived from Dubuque to explain himself. And even the rightness of that didn't last long.

He came unexpectedly, on the day after Cordelia's Flackistic séance. There was nothing important on Landor's schedule that day except the dancing party he was to take Cordelia to in the evening. Mr. Booth's arrival was unscheduled, and so was Landor's mishap to his ankle as he was returning from lunch.

Cordelia was with him, and they were hastening toward a waiting elevator in their office building when Landor slipped and went down to one hand and one knee.

"Are you hurt?" asked Cordelia, suddenly white to the lips.

Erect again, he looked annoyed.

"I think I twisted that ankle a bit," he admitted.

"That's the beginning of your bad luck," she cried, almost tearfully.

Now what could a man say when a girl went up into the air like that about nothing? Landor shook his head, helplessly, and lit a cigaret, and trod lightly on the injured foot until they reached the office.

The switchboard girl greeted them.

"Mr. Sharp is waiting for both of you. He is in conference with Mr. Booth."

Landor grinned happily at Cordelia.

"So Leonidas is here! Ha! Now we'll be able to have it out at last."

"What do you think it's going to be—a fight?" Cordelia demanded. But she was joyous, too. The Booth account had begun to get on her nerves.

In his sanctum they found the old man performing the function which he most loved—that of presiding at a conference where weighty matters were to be decided. At such moments he seemed to incarnate the spirit of the two wall cards above his desk. "The client is always right," said one. And its companion homily curtly warned: "Results!"

It was a warning, Landor knew. The old man judged him by results and held him responsible for all the creative work in the office. Well, it was fair enough. The old man was judging others as he judged himself. Despite all his pomposities, the old man got results.

How impressive the room looked now as the mighty conclave began! Through the broad windows the sunlight poured on the deep carpet, and glistened on the long glass top of the conference table, and gave a miraculous radiance to the high wing collar, the red, hawklike face, and the ivory cigaret holder of Leonidas Booth.

The old man led off.

"Mr. Booth," he pronounced, in the tone of one making an address to the throne, "you bring to this business a fresh eye. It is one of the greatest gifts in the advertising world, and the Sharp agency is grateful for your fresh eye. It lets you see some things in our work which you consider defects, doesn't it?" he finished generously.

"It does," declared Mr. Booth severely. "It enables me to see that your advertising is all wrong."

Landor felt himself reddening, but his voice was very quiet.

"Why do you think that?"

Mr. Booth aimed a frown at his questioner.

"It is wrong," he stated, tilting the ivory holder to an acute angle, "because it is based on the fundamental presumption that people will buy a washing machine if they think it washes well. That presumption is untrue. People buy simply because they feel an unaccountable impulse to buy.

"All advertising should be directed to capture that unaccountable impulse," continued Mr. Booth austerely to the circle of awed faces. "Tradition is to blame for all present advertising, which asks the reader to buy something because he needs it. What could be more stupid? Indeed, what could be more stupid than all present business, which sets up as something difficult, something abstruse?"

What on earth could Mr. Booth's occupation have been? Landor asked himself the question, and adroitly sought the answer from Mr. Booth.

"I understand you made a great success in the orient?"

Mr. Booth nodded sternly.

"The Leonidas Booth Players," he declared, "are known from New Zealand to Manchuria. Delhi makes gay when I arrive. The foreign colony in Yokohama greets me with open arms, and I have the entree everywhere. There, after all, in the theaters of Asia, is my home. It pains me to think I have exiled myself. For, after all, I do not care for money; and nothing could induce me to soil my hands with trade were I not determined to show that I can make my late lamented brother's enterprise, the Booth Washing Machine company, grow and grow and grow."

THE old man nodded sympathetically. They all nodded sympathetically, and Cordelia asked: "You managed the dramatic company?"

Mr. Booth shook his head, and twin streams of smoke issued disdainfully from his thin nostrils.

"No, I left such stupid details to a hireling," he answered coldly. "I was owner, artistic director, and star. And I succeeded mainly by breaking traditions in the drama, as I now intend to break traditions in business. What, think you, is the greatest of the Shakespearean plays? Hamlet? Ah, there speaks tradition. But I knew that Othello is the greatest play ever written, and in the rôle of the Moor I became famous from Melbourne to Vladivostok. Many a man today sheds a tear as he recalls my delivery of the sublimest words ever joined together—'The pity of it, Iago. O, Iago, the pity of it, Iago.'"

Deeply moved, Mr. Booth paused. In a reverent voice the old man inquired:

"What means would you use to capture the reader's unaccountable impulse to buy?"

"Instinct," Mr. Booth stated promptly. "If one is sensitive, one knows how to get one's lines across the footlights. If one is insensitive, one is doomed."

"Acting upon your instinct," ventured Landor, in a hushed voice, "what appeal do you think should be used in our next copy?"

"I cannot tell, on the spur of the moment. One must sit in tranquillity and keep one's mind attuned to the minds of the millions. Sometimes the answer comes in a minute; sometimes not for a week. I have not the time to devote my instinct to so small a matter as our advertising. I leave that to you. Remember, the mood of the crowd is agilely fluid, and we must change our advertising policy from month to month, from week to week. I am going to Chicago now to seek fresh capital. And when I have returned to Dubuque I expect you to send me some advertising that is thoroughly in mental tune."

What a large measure of deference Mr. Booth received! The old man shook his hand heartily and assured him that the client was always right. Cordelia shook his hand enthusiastically and assured him that the words fallen from his lips had been most illuminating. Landor shook his hand gravely and vowed in a quietly fervid tone to prove himself worthy of Mr. Booth's expectations.

At the door Mr. Booth paused to throw a bombshell. They did not know he was going to throw a bombshell, but they knew something solemn was going to happen; for Mr. Booth removed from his mouth the ivory holder and held it over his heart, while he threw back his head to deliver his farewell.

"Mr. Sharp," he began, in a full, rolling tones, "instinct is a gift. It cannot be acquired. If it should develop that neither you nor any of your staff possesses instinct, then it would follow, as the night the day, that neither you nor any of your staff can hope to meet the standard I have set. And in that case, regrettable as I may deem it, I shall be compelled to deprive you of the custody of the Booth advertising and to transfer it to some one with a soul above ordinary American dry as dust business methods."

With a deep bow Mr. Booth took his exit.

"Damn it!" said the old man.

"The grandstander!" breathed Landor. "He was saving that speech for the last, just like the actor he is."

"It's just bad luck," moaned Cordelia.

The old man snorted. "It isn't bad luck—it's a natural catastrophe. I never knew there was anybody in the world like Booth—anybody with notions like that."

"There are plenty," Landor told him gloomily. "There are plenty of actors, orators, singers, sculptors, and professors of entomology who have notions like that on business, but they never get a chance to practice what they think they think. But here at last a man of that type inherits control of a $6,000,000 corporation. I guess old J. K. Booth hadn't seen his brother for a long time.

"It's what's meant in insurance policies by the phrase, 'Act of God,'" he went on drearily. "Well, I'm through. I don't know how to think by instinct."

The old man eyed him for a moment and then made a decision.

"You will be through if we lose the account!" he announced firmly.

Landon sprang up, tall and straight. He could feel himself reddening, but then the rich color receded and his face was left a deathly white. When he spoke his voice was cool.

"Does it seem reasonable to you to hold me responsible because we have Othello for a client?"

The old man answered with formality.

"Yes, Mr. Landor. It is reasonable, because, while I am no idea man or copy writer, you are both. And we lose our biggest account unless you get an idea that I can sell Booth on."

The admission surprised Landor. Never until this emergency had the old man confessed that he was not an idea man—that he was not, in fact, the idea man of the agency.

"But I can't understand what Booth is talking about, so it's impossible to satisfy him," Landor pointed out, still quietly.

"It's not impossible. It's just next door to it. It can be done, and it must be done, because we can't afford to lose the Booth account."

For a full minute Landor stared straight before him, stared straight at the wall card with the ominous word "Results!" For a full minute he considered his new predicament.

"Very well," he answered quietly at last.

The old man relaxed in his big chair.

"Now run along," he said more easily. "Get out and see all the instinct specialists in town, if there are any, and find out what Booth means. Miss Wrenn, you work on this, too. If we ever find the idea you're going to write the campaign."

"First thing, I'm going to have a doctor look at my ankle," Landor said shortly. "It's begun to hurt."

WHEN he returned to Cordelia from the physician's office he limped, and his right ankle was thickly swathed.

"You'll have to let somebody else take you to the dance tonight," he told Cordelia sourly.

"No, I won't go," she decided.

Worry showed in her eyes.

"Gene, I'm afraid you'll have some more bad luck."

"More?" he echoed. "What bad luck have I had so far?"

"Your ankle, for one thing. It hurts. And it keeps you away from the dance. And it—it shows your health is going to break down!" she finished, with a little break in her voice.

Landor sighed. Life had become too complex in the last couple of days. Flackism and Booth had appeared, dazzling him like twin facets of insanity. But worst of all was the change in Cordelia. Yes, the stars had cast an evil magic on Cordelia's pretty head.

Seating himself on her desk, he swung his long legs in little circles, and began puzzling over his Flackoscope and hers. The absurdity of it! And suddenly he decided to risk everything and confront her frankly at this, the worst possible, moment.

When he spoke his voice was strained.

"Cordelia, will you marry me?"

The single insurgent curl had again rebelled, and her hands performed a swift, slim gesture as she brushed it back. A moment passed before she looked up at him and answered gently:

"No, Gene."

He had expected it, but it was a shock just the same. Presently he persisted:

"Why? Because of my Flackoscope?"

With her fountain pen she drew an aimless pattern on a pad of paper before she met his eyes again.

"Yes," she whispered, and then burst into a lively defense of herself.

"You're going to have the most terrible luck, and I can't do anything to stop it, so what's the use of two having it instead of one? Can't you see, if I marry you I'm bound to have it, too? My own Flackoscope warned me I would share my—my husband's luck."

"There's something more to this than impersonal devotion to a fake science," Landor flared. "You must have fallen in love with a picture of Swami Flack, or Yogi Scope, or whoever is the author of this organized imbecility."

Tears of anger started in Cordelia's eyes.

"And to think," she exclaimed, "that on account of you I was going to miss that dance!"

Snatching the receiver, she spoke to the switchboard.

"Get me Mr. Evans at his hotel."

"As for you, Mr. Landor," she announced icily, "hereafter we converse only on office business. If I had your hat I'd hand it to you."

Some of the life seemed to have gone from Landor after that. The switchboard girl noticed that his good-morning smile was not so ample, and even the most hero worshiping of the office boys conceded that he was haggard and drooped and didn't seem so tall.

Mr. Booth's philosophy of instinct continued to elude Landor and Cordelia as they worked together politely and coldly. In her eyes he could see a smoldering resentment, and occasionaly an "I told you so" flash, as day after day they toiled and they failed.

Hunting wearily through scores of volumes at the public library, they could find nothing that touched on the agilely fluid momentary mood of the millions. They attended meetings of various cults and interviewed many a bland and profuse Hindu postgraduate student at Columbia, but all in vain. In an indigestible pudding of philosophy and metaphysics they found nothing to resemble Mr. Booth's inimitable shining plum—instinctive advertising and salesmanship. Nothing could they discover so free and so illogical.

The prospect of losing his job troubled Landor for more than one reason. He could get another easily, but only as copywriter, not as copy chief. He was too young to receive from strangers a position equal to his present one. He knew they would think he had been promoted too rapidly at the Sharp agency, and had failed to make good. Yes, all he could get would be a copywriting job, at a lower salary.

Loss of the Booth account would mean much more to Landor than being fired. It would prove to Cordelia that Flackism was truth and, even if they should make up their quarrel, he could never induce her to marry him. While triumphant Flackism veiled a denial, how could he hope to persuade Cordelia that their love would live forever?

"She will be a chameleon," he groaned, "partaking of her husband's success or lack of it. And to think that my luck idea for the Evans campaign got her started on all this."

And now he was dismayed at the stark contrast between his Flackoscope and that of Ray Evans. Him he had not seen since the night they both were scooped. A carefully casual inquiry addressed to the old man had elicited the information that Ray Evans had established himself in his father's New York sales office.

"He's hanging around town, making hay while the sun shines, and I'm down and out," Landor told himself gloomily.

Ten days had passed, and unless copy were submitted to Mr. Booth and O.K.'d soon it would be too late for insertion of the next scheduled advertisements in the magazines and the newspaper rotogravure sections. Just as Landor and Cordelia were assembling into final shape the ecstatic incoherencies which they hoped would impress Mr. Booth, a telegram arrived from Dubuque.

The old man read it, and thumped his buzzer. The old man's features were twisted and his hands were rumpling his hair as Landor entered.

"Look at this!" he cried.

Landor read the telegram:

"I drove this morning into the country. Rain had fallen during the night, and the smell of the wet, warm soil was grateful to my nostrils. Birds chirped their gentle joy, and it came over me like a sweet perfume that spring was again in the air.

"Ah, spring the revivifying! Here in a motor car, surveying Iowa fields on a golden spring morning, I minded me of other springs I have seen.

"In Manila in a carametta in spring! In a rickshaw in Tokio in spring! In a droshky in Harbin in spring!

"How alike they all are! Is it not wonderful to perceive, suddenly and with full force, that spring is the same the wide world over?

"And not only spring, but people in spring! Are they buying washing machines today in Manila? Or in Tokio? Or in Harbin?

"No! Spring fever is upon them. And it is also upon the people of America. It were useless to try to sell them anything. Will they read the publications which are to contain our advertisements? Assuredly not, while spring does her magic!

"Therefore, I beg to inform you that I wish all our advertising canceled for the next month. My activities will be directed toward production and toward purchase of supplies for vast extensions. You will have new advertising ideas, in conformity with the month's difference in the popular mood, prepared for submission to me a month from now. That will be the test. If they are unsatisfactory, the Booth account will change hands.

"LEONIDAS BOOTH."

The two stared at each other.

"Can you beat it?" demanded the old man. "Heavens knows what that telegram cost. Do people read magazines and newspapers in spring? Do they? If this doesn't put the campaign flooey I don't know what will."

Landor went his way, grateful for the month's reprieve. But quickly enough it was offset by a new misfortune.

One morning, just after the last soreness had disappeared from his ankle, he became aware of a slight swelling in the palm of his right hand. By evening the palm was bloated. His physician made a small incision, but could not discover the cause of the visitation. Happily, the pain was slight, but the expanded hand was an awkward thing to carry around, especially for a man whose work required frequent writing. Two weeks later the swelling suddenly began to ebb, and vanished as mysteriously as it had appeared.

Meanwhile, he perceived that Cordelia regarded his swollen hand as another inescapable blow of fate. Remembering her prophecy that his health would be wrecked, he cursed the infallible Flackoscope.

"Still mad?" he smiled faintly one morning.

"Still a copy writer and one of your subordinates, Mr. Landor."

"Hm. How many pieces of copy have you written on Booth?"

"Twenty-seven."

"You beat me by one. I have twenty-six. Twenty-six separate pseudo ideas not remotely connected with the washer—twenty-six pieces of copy dealing with thought transference, tranquillity of the soul, the immortality of a smile. Ugh!" he shuddered. "What's your latest?"

"A short quotation from one of Emerson's essays—I haven't decided which one. It will be inclosed in a simple rule border. The name of the Booth company will be in the lower right corner, in severe Roman lettering."

"Fine. Here! I have a new one, with the mystic glamor of the orient."

He scribbled for a minute and looked up, smiling. She read:

HYPOTHETICAL QUESTION CONCERNING A CHINESE SAGE

> What would Confucius have said of a civilization where a man who loses an advertising account also loses his job and loses his girl?

Her eyes flashed as she crumpled the sheet.

"Come back!" he called when she had reached the door. "This is business. I just got a genuine idea."

Slowly, cautiously, she returned.

"We'll use Booth's spring fever telegram as a piece of copy," he cried excitedly. "Just the first part of it—cutting it off when he begins referring to the impossibility of selling washing machines. We'll entitle it 'Spring—by Leonidas Booth.' It ought to tickle his vanity. By the time it appears in the magazines and roto sections it will be a little late for a panegyric of early spring; but that won't hurt its value, because it hasn't any."

So the new advertisement was prepared, and all fifty-four would have been mailed to Dubuque had not Mr. Booth unexpectedly stalked into the office.

The old man was out, and his absence made his private office seem strangely empty and resounding with echoes as Mr. Booth seated himself at the glass topped conference table and crisply stated his mission to Landor and Cordelia.

"I am in a hurry." Pausing to let this momentous news sink in, he tilted his ivory cigaret holder to an acute angle. His long, red face seemed more than ever hawklike.

"I must catch a train to Chicago—important conference on financial operations," he continued. "I will take along whatever you have to submit."

"All ready," replied Landor, "but some of the sketches are too big for you to carry."

"Then I shall take the copy only. Has the labor been difficult? Has it been a strain on your reserve fund of instinct?"

Landor nodded gravely and spoke as a disciple unto his master.

"Yes, the labor has been difficult, but I have sat in tranquillity, endeavoring to keep my mind attuned to the minds of the millions."

"Not your endeavors, but your results, interest me," Mr. Booth retorted acidly, although he had just been inquiring about the endeavors. "The operations of the Booth company have already been expanded phenomenally and will soon be world-wide," he continued. "I will then be unable to devote my time to such a detail as advertising and I must see that it gets into competent hands."

He paused, and they knew he was preparing a peroration, for Mr. Booth removed the ivory holder and held it over his heart, while he threw back his head grandiosely.

"If these ideas that you have now submitted to me fail to meet my standard——"

His voice trailed off on a high, menacing note. And, with a courtly yet menacing bow, he was gone.

Their work was over. All they could do now was wait.

As the days passed and nothing was heard from Mr. Booth in Chicago, the tension steadily increased in Landor's mind. He busied himself furiously in other work, and at night tried to tire himself in long walks so that he might sleep.

No longer, he found, could he read. His sleep was troubled by feverish dreams in which he seemed always to engage in deadly combat with Ray Evans.

"If I lose Booth I lose Cordelia," was the refrain that ran through his mind. And he would find himself whistling a lugubrious something that he could not remember ever hearing before. Recognizing it grimly as the wail of his harassed soul, he named it "The Astrological Blues."

And still no word came from Mr. Booth. The thirty day non-advertising period ordered in the spring fever telegram was nearly over. April 19, which was a week away, was the last day for insertion of a scheduled advertisement in one of the magazines to be used, and unless Mr. Booth sent his approval the advertisement would fail to appear. And the week after that contained the similar closing dates of all the other publications on the list.

"Send him a wire," ordered the old man on April 15.

The telegram elicited this answer:

"I have not had time to look at the copy yet."

"Damn fool," grunted the old man. "Eleven words, too, because he has to say 'I.' Keep after him. I'm going to New Orleans to try to land that mattress account."

Uncertainty changed into despair. Telegrams sent to Mr. Booth on the seventeenth and the eighteenth remained unanswered. The closing date for the first publication came and went, and then, in swift order, the others began to pass. Concerning these, Landor sent more telegrams, which also brought no response. He wired to Dubuque and was informed that Mr. Booth was still in Chicago.

Finally, late on the twenty-sixth, came a telegram:

"Until now modesty has forbidden my answering you, for I must confess that not in any idea of yours did I find a taste of sweetness or a gleam of light, but only in that copy, headed 'Spring,' which is an extract from a telegram I sent you last month. Modesty, however, must not further delay my answer. Use the copy entitled 'Spring.'"

LANDOR laughed sardonically.

"Missed all the closing dates, but I satisfied him with his own stuff," he told himself. "I almost wish he'd turned everything down. Then I'd know what to expect from the old man and all the worry would be over."

He sent a curt answer:

"All publications missed."

Next morning came another telegram:

"I cannot fathom your stupidity. I chance to recall that April 28 is the closing date for Revere's monthly. Nor have the dates for the other magazines and newspapers on our list passed yet, though I cannot recall the exact times for closing. See to it that we miss none of these publications."

Landor showed the telegram to Cordelia.

"The idiot!" he snapped. "All the dates have passed."

After sending an answer, naming the closing date for each publication on the list, Landor placed Mr. Booth's telegram on the old man's glass topped table, on top of the yellow pile of the other messages in the series. The old man was expected back from New Orleans that morning.

THE UNDERGROUND RAILROAD

Braving death, and worse than death, for love and liberty! The girl slave who was shipped in a box is a dramatic figure in the story of "The Underground Railroad," that mysterious organization of brave souls who endured ignominy, suffered in prisons, and laid down their lives willingly to battle the iniquity of slavery and the tyranny of unjust laws. As told by Oney Fred Sweet, its episodes will set your pulses racing. Read it in the Rotogravure Magazine

Next Sunday

An hour later a messenger boy, going out, nearly collided with the old man, rushing in. He carried a bag, and a smile shone on his furrowed face.

"Good morning, Miss Wrenn," he cried to the passing Cordelia.

"Good morning, Mr. Sharp. How did you come out?"

"Fine. Got the account. Come in; I'll tell you about it." He led the way to his office.

Behind him and Cordelia sauntered the switchboard girl, carrying the yellow envelope that the messenger boy had brought. Suddenly the board buzzed, and she tossed the telegram hastily on a corner of the long, glass topped table.

"It's not a big account, but I got it," complacently continued the old man, reaching for the pile of telegrams. "I—what's this?"

For he had begun to read the telegram from Mr. Booth insisting that the closing dates had not passed.

The old man thumped his buzzer, and he rumpled his hair impatiently until Landor strode in.

"What's this—what's this?" spluttered the old man. "Missed the closing dates?"

"Missed 'em all."

"But Booth says they haven't passed yet."

"He's dead wrong. They've passed. He didn't send an O. K. on a piece of copy until yesterday. I wired him every day, warning him of the dates."

"O, I ought to have known; I ought to have known you'd get everything balled up! Missed $80,000 worth of advertising. That means a loss of $12,000 profits for us. And it breaks up the sequence of the campaign and will make Booth raving mad. Great Scott, what a fine piece of work! Did you try to get Booth on long distance?"

"Why—no." Landor felt himself reddening. Why did Cordelia have to be there?

"No! No! Of course not! If you'd got him on the phone and talked to him you could have pushed him into giving you an answer. Didn't put in a long distance call and missed $12,000 clear. Missed—what's this?"

Reaching over, he seized the newest telegram, lying at the end of the table, where the switchboard girl had tossed it.

The old man's fingers tore it open feverishly, while Landor flashed a quick glance at Cordelia. He wondered if she suspected, as he suddenly did, that something worse was yet to come.

The old man gasped, and his eyes bulged as he read in a cracked, trembling voice:

"I hereby withdraw the Booth advertising account from your hands."

In the startling silence that followed, Landor heard the swift intake of Cordelia's breath. It occurred to him, absurdly, that Booth at last had contrived to write a telegram in ten words.

The veins shone on the old man's temples like streaks of fresh blue paint.

"Lost the Booth account," he said, in a low, despairing tone. "Lost our biggest account, with a million a year billing, and netting us $150,000."

For a few seconds he sat with his hands to his brow.

"Are you sure," he asked suddenly, "that Booth isn't right—are you sure the closing dates have passed? Maybe we can still make 'em and save the account."

Landor shook his head.

"I'm sure," he answered hopelessly.

"Maybe you're wrong. Maybe—O, Goggs!" cried the old man as the office man passed the door. But Goggs, unhearing, marched out of sight.

"Goggs ought to know!" And the old man was up and out of the door. But in an instant he had thrust his head in again.

"You!" he cried, pointing a trembling finger at Landor. "You! You're fired!"

And he turned again and dashed after Goggs.

For a moment Landor stared after them, and then he swung himself upon the glass topped table. Looking down, he saw that Cordelia's face was tense and that her fingers were pressing hard upon the table, as if to penetrate the glass.

"Well, you win," he conceded quietly. "You predicted we would lose the account and I would lose my job, and you were right. And that convinces you Flackism is the truth," he continued, oddly gentle, "and that if you marry me you'll be unlucky, and so you won't marry me. And it happens that was all I cared about."

He glanced down again and noticed that her fingers, pressed on the glass, were quivering. The sight distressed him, and he looked away.

"Queer, isn't it," he went on hoarsely, "that a snobbish Shakespearean actor, with an allegedly new interpretation of a single line in Othello, can come over here from the orient and make me lose my job and, worst of all, lose you!"

He broke off, for Cordelia had suddenly thrown her head on her arms and was sobbing violently.

"Booth—Booth isn't to blame!"

"O!" he comprehended. "You mean if it weren't Booth it would be some one else, some other agent of the stars. Flackism—dea

She nodded her sobbing head.

"But even Flackism can't do it," she burst o

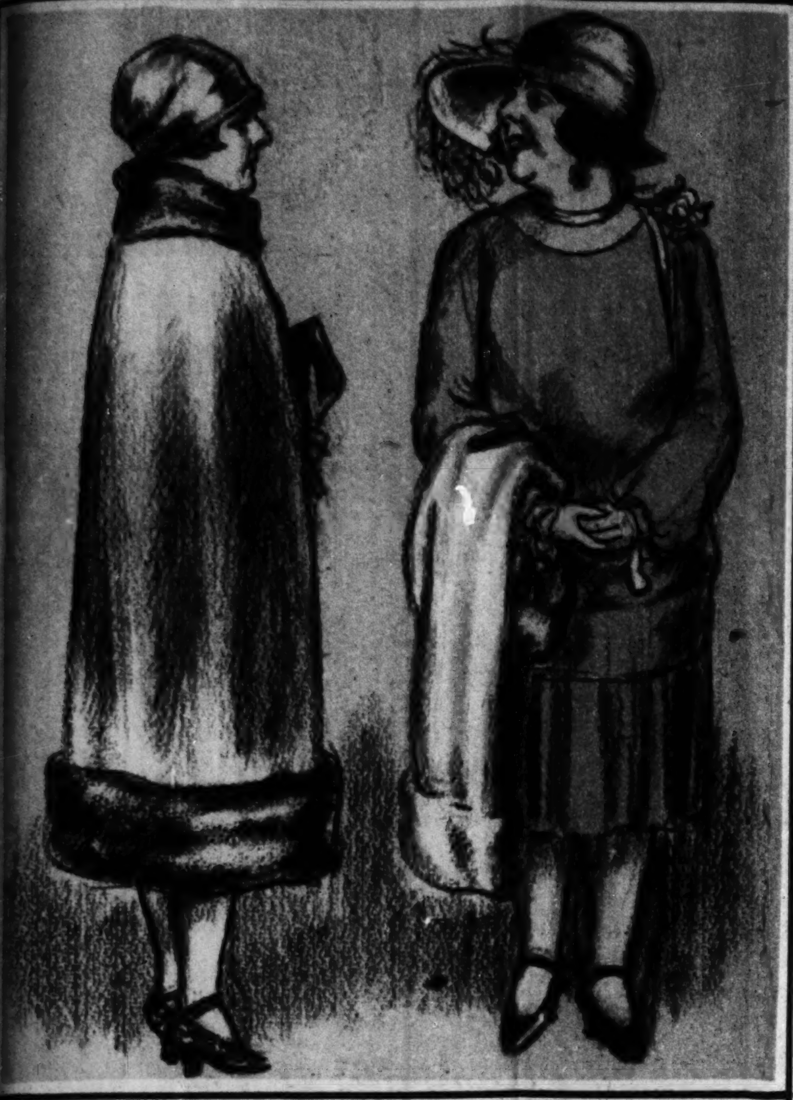
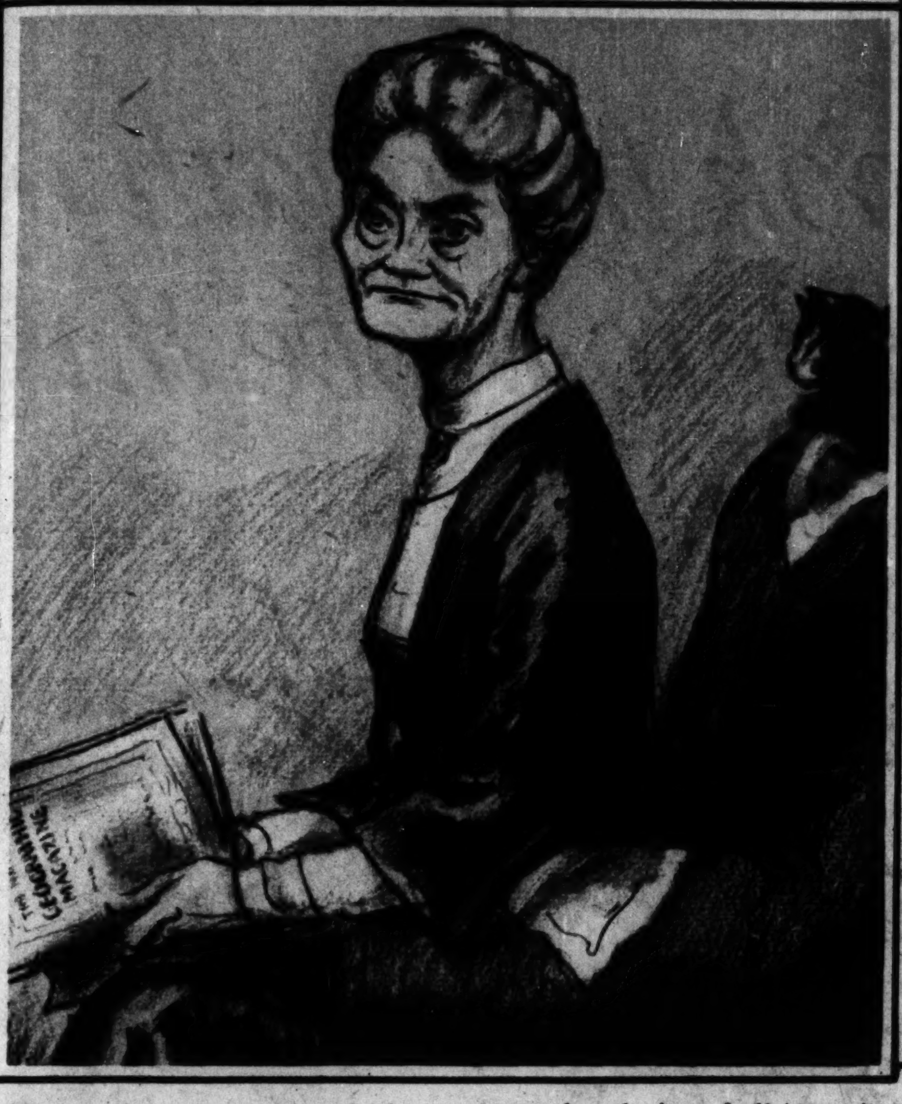
Travel Broadens One

By W. E. Hill



Of course, for artists and musicians, there's nothing so educational as a trip abroad. Meet Marilynne Quinn and Desire Schutyberger, both "studying" in Paris. As Marilynne is telling Desire, it isn't so much what you learn abroad as it is the perfectly wonderful contacts one makes. "Why, only this very morning," Marilynne is telling Desire, "I was introduced to a man who is a friend of a man who knows some one way up in the business end of the Chicago Opera company, and, my dear, you know how much that means to a girl in getting an audition." (The sweet young thing on the left is Marilynne.)



Then again, some say that the best and most broadening of all is to sit right in the privacy of one's own home and read a geographical magazine from cover to cover. Maybe they're right.

"We did have such an interesting time in Paris. We met some perfectly charming Americans from the boat, who knew just where to go, and we went to Ciro's—I think it was—and saw Pearl White and the Dolly Sisters, and loads of interesting people. My dear, there wasn't a day we didn't meet some one we knew from home!"

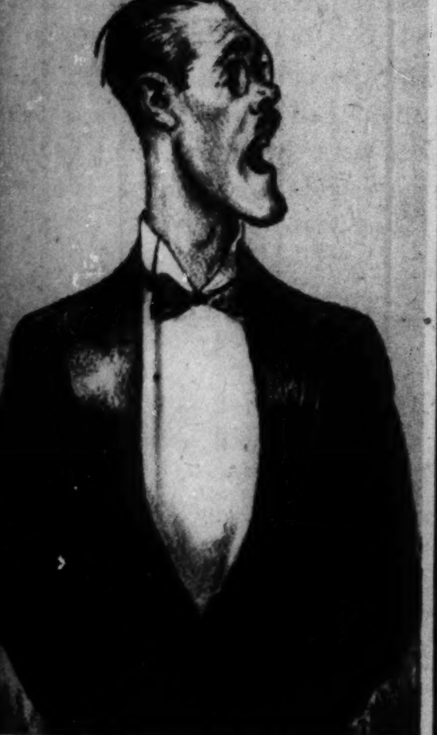
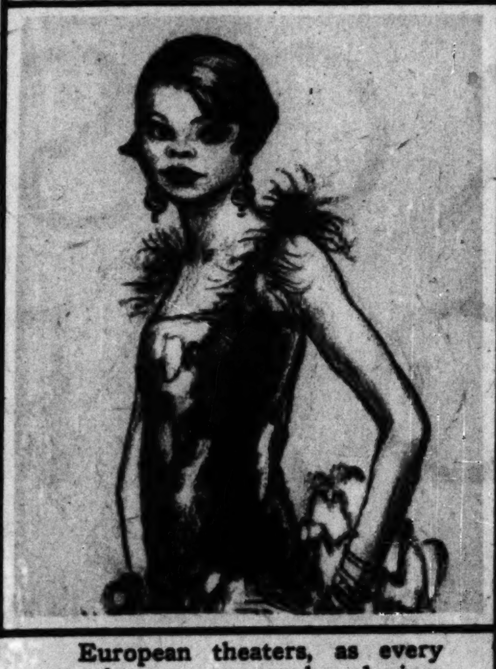
Some people prefer to stay right here in our own United States and see America first. They do their traveling along broad highways replete with invitations to stop by at the Chummy Tearoom, the Dew Drop Inn, and Ye Olde Time Antique Shoppe, where the prices are just as broadening as the tourist rates on the Continent. Much more so, in fact, as many a motorist who has come home laden with hook rugs and pressed glass will tell you.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Crunch-Smith are very fond of their food. They have eaten largely at the best hotels and cafes in London, Paris, Vienna and Berlin. They gave up the Scottish Lakes trip because a friend on the boat going over told them the food around the Trossachs was simply impossible. Both Mr. and Mrs. Crunch-Smith have come home very much broadened by their trip.

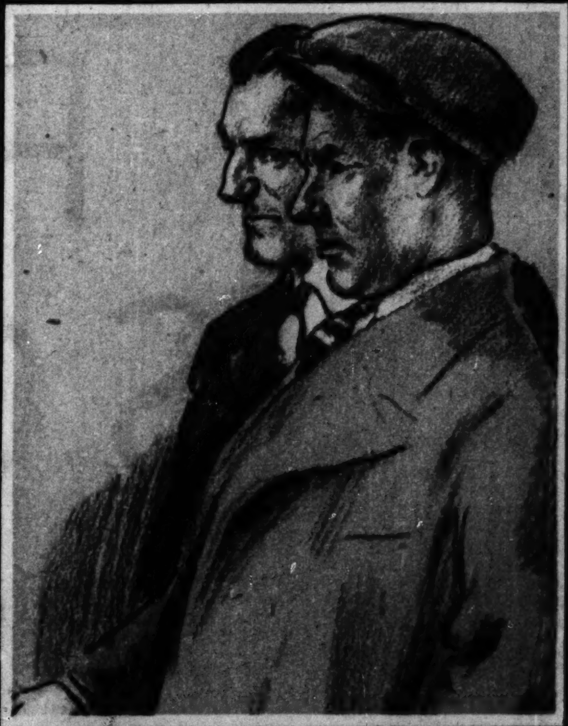


To music lovers, a trip abroad means a treat for the ear from the moment the ship's concert gets under way. Here, if you please, is J. J. Boom, serio-comic baritone, who is going to sing at the concert aboard the good ship Acne of the Royal Glue Line. Mr. Boom's selected piece will be a simple little ballad about a fickle, fickle sunbeam and a red, red rose. The sunbeam, naughty rascal, never came back and the red rose died for want of attention. Very sad. If there is an encore, and O, let's hope there will be, J. J. will render "Come Away, Death," with his own setting.

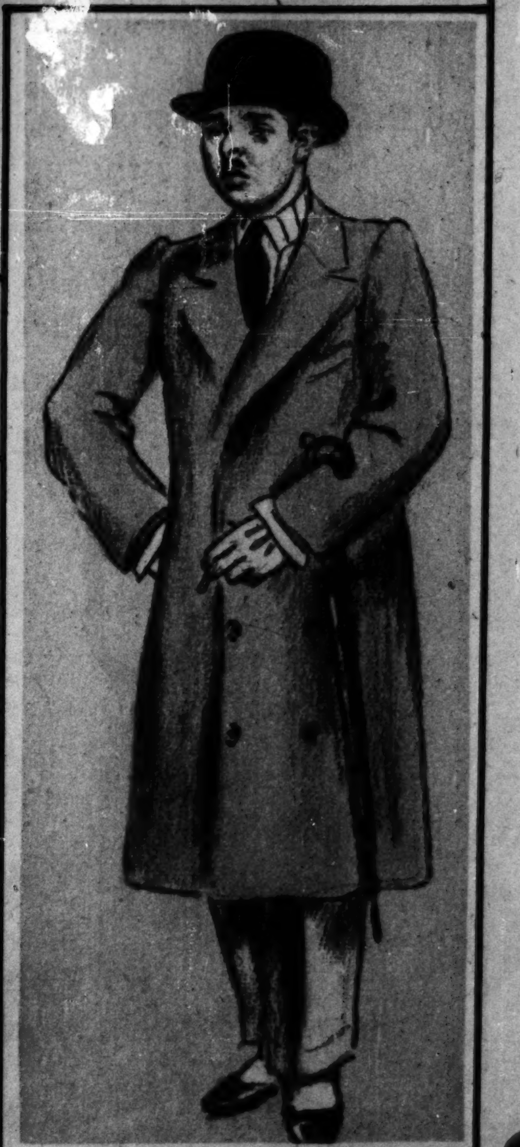
(Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune)



European theaters, as every one knows, are very broadening. In case you missed them in the U. S. A., you can see a lot of American shows in London. And in Paris you can make up for never having seen a colored revue by spending an evening at a "Revue Negre." (Meet Miss Babe Johnson of Paris and Lenox avenue, New York City.)



Poor Roscoe is three days out on the S. S. Pandemonia. Drink has done it! At the moment he is being helped by a friend to go from the bar to his stateroom on C deck, a very rough journey. Yes, siree, a life on the ocean wave, away from prohibition, is very broadening to some of the boys.



Look at what the London tailors have done to our home town Herman! Every now and then he will come right out with a big, broad "a," as only the folks at home will let him get away with it. A trip abroad does do so much for one sartorially.

It took the death of a beautiful dancer to prove this beauty secret

Only Clear Soap Cleanses Pores to Their Very Roots and Brings Clear Skin

A GREAT stage—a receptive audience—a daring young dancer, her body painted brilliantly in many colors—and then her sudden collapse at the height of her performance.

This is the dramatic case stage history reveals—and every woman can profit by its lesson.

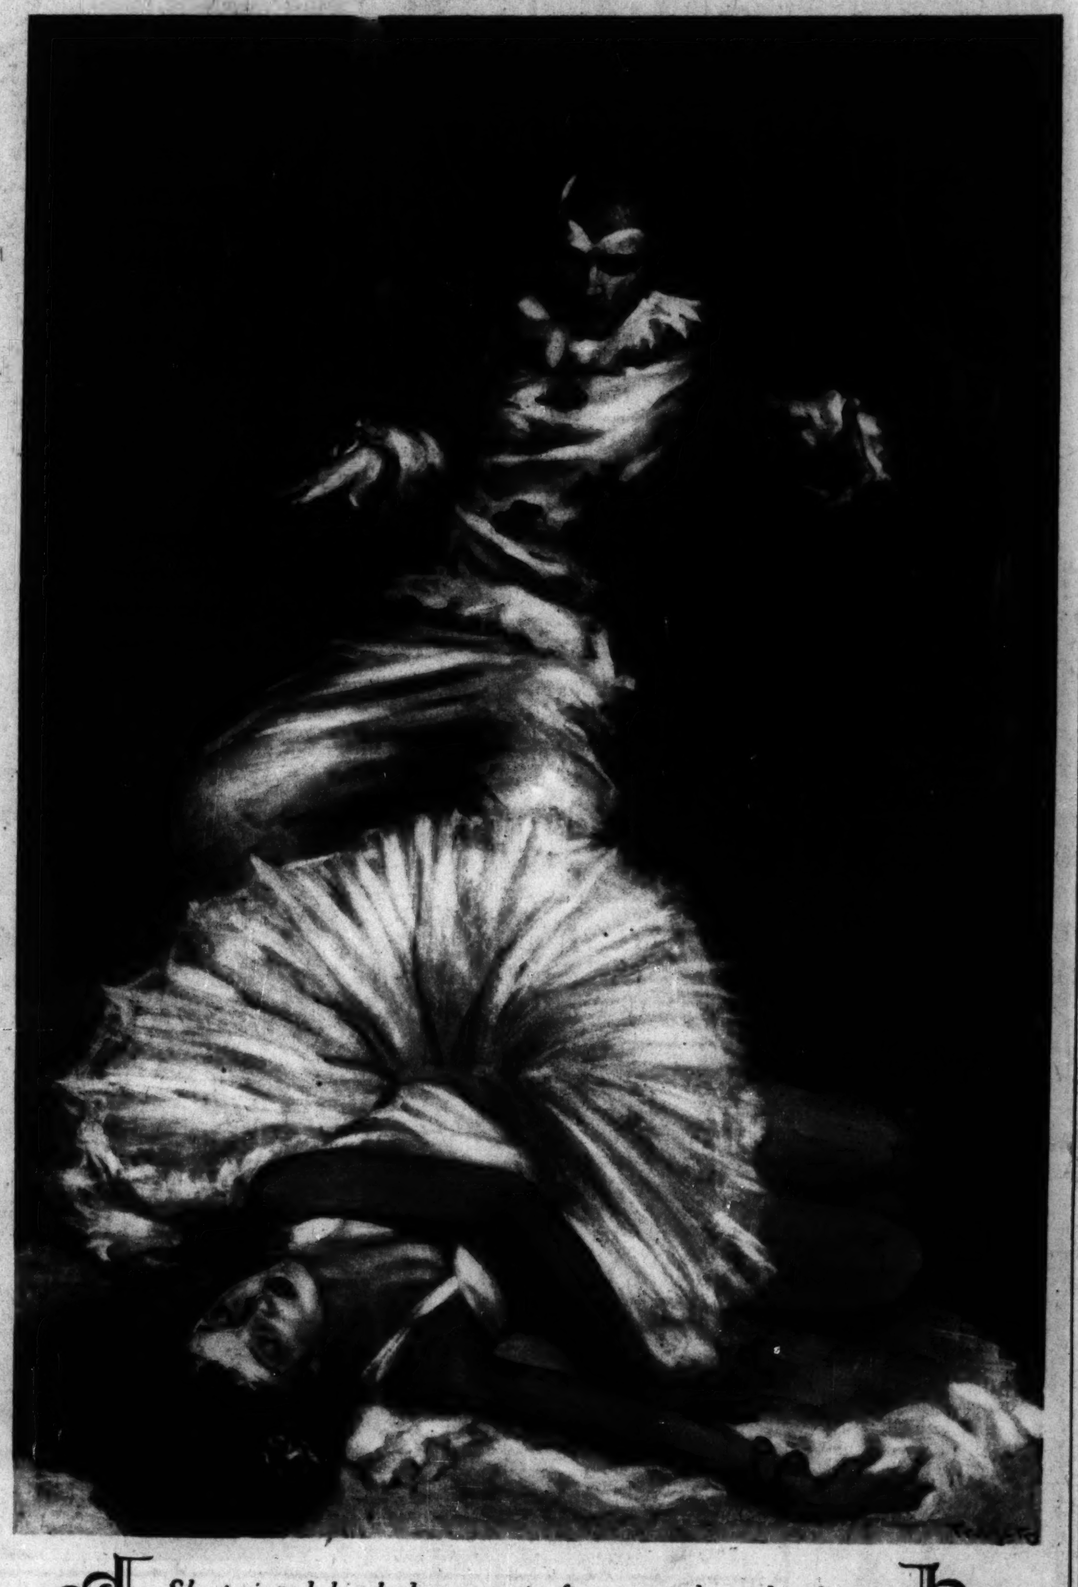
For the dancer died simply because her pores were so completely clogged by paint that functions of the entire body were impaired.

Certainly beauty, and health itself depend largely on keeping pores cleansed.

Yet very few toilet soaps do this. They are too coarse, too grainy. They merely clog pores, enlarge them, and blemishes follow.

But Jap Rose cleanses pores to their very roots!

You know that merely to look at it; so pure you can see through it. And, of course, since the ingredients are so pure they dissolve perfectly in water. No wonder they can enter the tiniest pores, cleanse them and pass on without clogging.



She painted her body to attain fame—and paid a dreadful price for it. For clogged pores speedily caused her death.

Jap Rose is truly the clear soap for a clear skin. And women who know the truth about pore cleanliness use it constantly. Why not you?

Be Thankful if Your Skin Tingles

After you first use Jap Rose you will probably experience a tingling sensation of your skin. That is evidence that pores that were never really clean before are at last clean, that your skin is on the way to improvement, that you have said good-bye to blackheads and blemishes.

Try Jap Rose and feel its tonic ingredients cleanse and stimulate the five miles of tiny pores in your body.

LET US SEEK DAY LIGHT WITH UNCLOSING EYES-
